M'QUAIG AS A BIGAMIST.

THE CHECKERED CAREER OF A FORMER KINGSTONIAN.

He is Now in Peterboro Gaol for Passing 8 a Worthless Cheque-He Has Spasical Wives Living-The Kingstop One Not

Anxious to Prosecute Him. John McQuaig, who years ago kept store on Ontario and Princess streets, is now in gaol at Peterboro on a charge of issuing a worthless cheque for $28. The merchant upon whom he played the game cornered the fraud at his boarding house and offered to let him off if he returned the goods, but his landlady put in her claim for a boardbill that was due. According to reports McQuaig beat his way ever since he went to Peterboro, and owed board and whiskey bills at other hotels. He also carried a number of checks similar to the one presented McQuaig told the police that he had wife in Belleville and respectable relatives near Picton, but he forgot to mention that he was a bigamist also. About twenty years ago he was married at Cape Vincent to Mary Campbell, then of this city. They resided in Kingston for a half dozen years, but the conduct of McQuaig was so scandal ous and his beating propensities so patent that Mrs. McQuaig decided to leave him, and with her four children secured the pro tection of her friends. This was over twelve years ago. Since that time McQuaig has been wandering about, beating his way and continually appearing before the courts for misdemeanors and felonies. He has travelled over much of the states and Canada since he left Kingston.

Last summer he reached Belleville, where he passed himself off as a widower, and winning the affection of Miss Lizzie Brown, was married to her last July. The chief of police in Belleville became informed of Mc-Quaig's bigamous conduct, but before he could secure his arrest he had disappeared. He was heard of in Prince Edward county, where he has various relations, but the trail was lost, only to be recovered by his arrest in Peterboro.

Mrs. Rosa Thompson, of Belleville, was seen by an Ontario reporter and she said that McQuaig had rented rooms from her about three months ago and taken wife No. 2 to them. They lived together about two months when he suddenly lit out and left his wife penniless. His second wife's name was Lizzie Brown, and she has two sisters living on College hill. I think the poor woman is dying for she looks awfully pale this morning. She is continually enquiring about her runaway husband, and has nothing left to live on. She was a member of the Congregational church here, and was married by Mr. Maine here in July against the wishes of her friends, The girl has never been right in her mind and I think this has completely upset her. McQuaig came to me about five weeks ago and wanted me to let him have the rooms again, as he had turned over a new leaf he said, and wanted to live with and support his wife again. I refused to have anything to do with him, and I wanted him to pay me the eight dollers he owed me for rent, but he said he didn't have a cent, but would pay me if I gave him a chance. I thought had given him enough chances already, and told hinr to leave and not come back to bother his poor wife. She (his wife) had been helping Mrs. Schuster as a domestic, but is now unable to do work of any kind The day he left in September last a butcher called here with a warrant for his arrest."

A Mary Cole volunteered the statement that she knew McQuaig well, but didn't know anything good about him. "He rented a house on Pinnacle street and gave me and my children rooms if I would cook for him. He worked at the carpenter trade, which he learned while serving a five years' term in the penitentiary at Kingst in eight years ago." He was her cousin, she said. The Cole woman said that McQuaig came home drunk one night and struck her a blow on the face which nearly fractured

Mrs. McQuaig, the first wife, is now living in Toronto with a son and daughter. Two of the daughters are living in Kingston and are married to respectable citizens. They have not seen their father in twelve years, and would disown him if they did. They have frequently heard of his bad conduct elsewhere. Mrs. McQuaig was asked to prosecute him for bigamy, but having left him she desired no further communication with him. One of Mrs. McQuaig's brothers was seen to-day and he said that he never knew anything good of McQuaig. He was a dead beat, and the sooner he was placed under restraint for life the better it would be for the public.

A FANCY STORE ROBBED.

Admission Secured Through a Third Story Window-Many Things Taken.

Last night the store of W. J. Mahood, fancy goods dealer, Princess street, was entered by a youthful burglar and a great haul made. Entrance was secured through the alleyway, off Wellington street, and by means of a fire ladder the roof of the back store was reached. A pane of glass in a window on the third flat was broken and the stick holding the window down removed. Passing down stairs the store was reached. The tills were visited and the coppers and small change in them amounting to $12 or $15 removed. The safe was opened, not being locked, and the papers disarranged, but none were removed. Rings worth from $1 to $2 were absorbed as was also cuff buttons, knives, pocketbooks and other things. The thief was undoubtedly a boy, who stuffed his pockets full and fled. The police are investigating.

The Hungarian Gypay Band,

Kingston is to have a musical treat on Thursday next in the visit of this fine band. It was one of the great attractions of the Toronto fair. The Globe says it is a magnificent organization; the music is harmonious, wierd, and touching, and is frequently applauded. Never in Toronto had a finer band been heard. The Mail says the fire and abandon of their playing and bizarre effects had a strangely exciting fascination. The real gypsy music of this band goes to the heart. It is distinctive and quaint. They have no mechanical motions, but play with an enthusiasm of love for the melodies and with a power greater than that obtained by an American orchestra of double the number of instruments.

SECOND TERM ENDORSED.

MAYOR THOMPSON AGAIN TO BE CHIEF MAGISTRATE.

The Results in the Different Wards-Only Seyon New Men to Go Into Harness-The Mayor Addresses the Electors in the City Hall.

Mayor Thompson has been re-elected for a second term by a majority of 151.

Only one alderman who offered for reelection was defeated, Ald. W. Dunlop, of Victoria ward. He was replaced by J. McLeod, the temperance candidate, who led him by 25 votes Fourteen old aldermen will be in their former places about the council board. Of the new blood four have been in the council before. These are Messrs. W. Robinson, G. Creeggan, W. M. Drennan, F.

S. Rees. The other three, Donald McIntyre, W. Carson, and J. McLeod are untried men. Carson was previously defeated when he essayed to get a seat.

The mayoralty contest was quite keen, but the heavy majority secured in Frontenac ward, the borough that can be counted on all occasions to support Mr. Thompson, swamped the chances for Mr. Redden. Added to this was a very great support for the mayor from Cataraqui ward. It was claimed by the friends of the candidate for a second term that the workingmen were largely in his favour, and this conclusion would seem to have been correct. In the outside wards the only one that backed Mr. Redden was Rideau, which gave him a small majority. In Sydenham and St. Lawrence he had the strong support of the business men as the figures show.

The returns came in slowly. The large number of ballots to be counted for the aldermanic candidates, as well as for the. school trustees, made it almost seven o'clock before it was definitely known how things stood. The down town wards cane in first, but the majorities were so small for Mr. Redden, and in the case of Ontario ward, not favourable to him, that the friends of Mr. Redden were satisfied that he had lost the day and the only excitement created was to know the majority by which he was defeated. The returns from Frontenac and Cataraqui wards came in a bunch and soon extras were on the streets giving the full particulars thus

Work in the Wards.

During the day there was some lively work in the wards. Every man was for himself and very many were down on the temperance element. In Sydenham ward there were all sorts of cries afloat, but the voters were true to the old workers, and, as a result, placed them again at the council board. Each of the successful candidates had plumpers, while Mr. Crothers was not far behind them in this respect. It had been generally conceded that as the three old men were the leaders of public opinion and action in the council it would be a bad experiment to change the position of any one of them.

In St. Lawrence ward a quiet day was spent. W. Robinson, ex-M.P.P., had so well canvassed the ward that he had no fears, and in the afternoon went into the country to help a friend there. He got back in time to hear of his success. He did not lead the poll, but came in behind James Minnes. Ald. Polson, who had had his doubts and fears, was a good third. Mr. Middleton, the temperance candidate, was not downcast. He considered his a respectable vote for the temperance cause Mr. Curtis has sent out his "ninety and nine" to hunt up the stray vote. St. Lawrence ward will have a vigorous delegation at the board for 1889.

In Cataraqui ward the contest lay between Drennan and Daly. Gaskin and Rees seemed all along to be strong. Both the other men made a good run, Drennan leading Daly by 35 votes. Ex Ald. Rees made a good showing, redeeming his previous standing in the ward. In Frontenac ward there was some lively skirmishing. The half dozen candidates were alert and active and made it warm for the tardy electors. The result was somewhat surprising. There was all sorts of combinations and from the ballots cast it would seem that Carson was a constituent element in all of them, for he "won in a canter," leading his brethren by a healthy overplus. Ald. McCammon was a good second and "Lord Ragian" a third. The three solid men from this ward will take up considerable chair space in the council room, There were many who thought Mr. Kilpatrick, the temperance candidate, would have been elected, but it would seem that the promises given were unfulfilled. Mr. Bowes and Mr. Sarsfield made a fair beginning for some other day.

But it was Rideau ward that surprised the public. Captain Webster Augustus, with his scheme for the beautification of Victoria park, was considered a sure man. He was confident himself, for hadn't over 600 good and true electors promised to use their franchise in his behalf. But, alas, he was left, only 165 votes having been placed to his eredit when the summing up time came. The problem is a hard one to solve, and Mr. Augustus will now have a chance to meditate on the uncertainties of municipal poli ties." As a "regulator" he will have an opportunity to study why he was relegated to the fifth place. Donald McIntyre's feet just fitted his brother's boots in the estimation of the voters, and the alderman-elect will have the proud satisfaction of going to the council with a heavier backing than any candidate who offered. If his eloquence is as powerful as his brother's Rideau ward will not suffer by the change. C. Robinson and W. Adams, old standbys, are again to the fore. The somewhat quivering feeling that possessed them for some days is gone. They had been told that one or 'tother was to be dispatched so they were on the ragged edge. But it was neither. Mr. Givens was the victim and that, too, after he had come within five votes of victory. 'Twas ever

Up in Victoria ward Ald. Dunlop will be content with school board life. He preferred that, he said, to aldermanic honors, and the electors took him at his word. He did little eanvassing, and the result was against him. Mr. McLeod, the new man, though untried, is a good fellow, and will do good service for his ward. Alds. Hiscock and Shannon are again wondering how the electors generally make their votes tally so evenly.

At the City Hall.

After the returns from the different polling sub-divisions had been received, and the announcement made that Mr. J. D Thompson had been re-elected mayor, the electors were invited to the city hall, where they were addressed by Mr. Haslip and the

Mr. Haslip was the first speaker. He said it gave him great pleasure, as the proposer of the mayor, to congratulate him upon his victory. The workingmen had nobly showed which side they were on, Mr. Thompson had every reason to feel proud that notwithstanding the charges preferred against him by his opponents, he had come out victorious.

The mayor then came forward. His face was flushed, and his general appearance indicated that he had had an exciting time of it during the day. He stated that the only committee room he had during the cam paign was his hat, and his supporters were the workingn en of the city. He was thankful to them for the contidence they had reposed in him. They had hurled into the taces of the people who were once supposed to be his friends the fact that J. D. Thomp. son was neither a boodler nor a thief. He started in the election for the purpose of vindicating whether his cause was a right or wrong one. He said solemnly that any transaction or any business that he had ever done in connection with the position of mayor or alderman, had been as pure and chaste as anything could be. There had been expenses incurred during his travels in connection with city business, which he paid out of his own pocket. He wanted to thank the gentlemen for his victory who were so very particular about his honesty, who secured a letter from the firm of Rousseau & Mathier, Montreal, regarding the city's dealings with them. The workingmen had shown his enemies their powerful influence in any election. They have proven that they can elect any man to office that they choose for it. He charged them to be honest and firm, and to stand up boldly for their rights.

He referred to certain statements which had appeared in the papers regarding him, and said he did not know whether his opponent, Mr. Redden, was responsible for them or not. One of the items he objected to was the following :

"Vote for the man who doesn't want to keep the money voted by the council for public hospitality and the relief of the poor."

There might be a few hundred dollars charged to him in the city treasurer's office. He assured the auditors he was not a rich man, but when he got his money he made as good use of it as ex-Mayor Carson had done. If he had received his salary before the nomination it would have been likely said that he had drawn it to buy votes with. He knew, however, that right would always prevail, and J. D. Thompson could now go to his family and say that the people of the city of Kingston had set him free. He challenged any one of his enemies to show he had done wrong in his business relations with the city.

He referred to the drainage question, and contended that he had always advocated good drainage. He had refused to tell any person which direction proposed drains were going before they were built, and had always warned the city engineer to keep these matters secret. He wanted to benefit the property of poor people. The transaction regarding the purchase of tile pipe in Montreal he alluded to. He stated that he had purchased the tile pipes, and he proved by figures that he had purchased iron pipes for drainage cheaper than tne city of Toronto had been able to get them for. There had been laid in Toronto 54 miles of pipe last year. For nine inch pipe Toronto paid 84c. per yard, and Kingston got it for 65c. per yard. For twelve inch pipe Toronto paid $1.26 per yard, and Kingston 87c. For fifteen inch pipe Toronto paid $1.65, and Kingston $1.24. For eighteen inch pipe Toronto paid $2.18, Kingston $1.74. This evidence was sufficient to prove whether the city lost money by the deal. The business with Mr. A. Gartshore, of Hamilton, was detailed. He pointed out that Gartshore was a conservative of the highest class, but he was in trouble and could not fill his contract with the city. He said he could not buy the pipes in Montreal himself and engaged the speaker to do it for him. The Montreal people had Gartshore in a tight place, and he could not get loose.

A voice-"They let you loose." "Yes," said the mayor, "I have been let loose by the people of Kingston, and I will not be a dangerous man at liberty."

He proceeded to state that he had purchased the pipes for Gartstone, and when he (G.) offered to pay for the service the speaker refused to take compensation.

The contract for the building of the water tower was next touched upon. He went to Montreal in connection with this business also. No person was more anxious for the firm of Rosseau & Mather to get the contract than he. He had papers to show, however, that the sureties the firm offered for the erection of the tower were a blacksmith, getting a salary of $10 per week, and a clerk receiving a salary of $6 per week. He had suggested a change in the tender. He could tell Mr. W. Harty, on the testimony of competent men, that the tower could not have been built for the amount of money which the firm of Rosseau & Mather had offered to do the work for. The lowest tender had been $16,400, made by the proprietors of the Kingston foundry. If Mr. Harty knew that the tower could have been built for $12,800, with a fair profit, how was it that the locomotive works, with which he was connected, asked $23,000 for the job ?

The speaker concluded by stating that he would do his best for the city. He wished his hearers a Lappy New Year and retired, and the crowd dispersed.

School Elections. In Sydenham ward H. B. Savage was elected, the vote standing : Savage, 192; Allen, 56. In Frontenac ward H. Hunter defeated W. Massie by 53 votes. The number polled were: Hunter, 228; Massie, 175.

An Imposter at Large. BISHOP'S PALACE, Jan. 8. — (To the Editor): Permit me to inform the public through you that a person in the garb of a priest, professing to be pastor in the Apostolic Vicariate of Pontiac, with six hundred families for his congregation, is moving about this city and the adjacent country, carrying with him priestly vestments and other requisites for the celebration of mass. The bishop does not know this man, nor is his name or that of the mission to which he says he belongs registered in the ecclesiastical directory for the vicariate of Pontiac. He is believed to be a barber from Montreal.

THOMAS KELLY, Secretary.

Letter From the Missionaries. Miss Sinclair and Miss Scott, the missionaries, who recently left Kingston for India, reached Port Said on Dec. 17th and expected to be at Bombay on Jan. 1st. Mrs. Dr. Sine, sister of Miss Sinclair, received a letter to this effect yesterday. On the str. Arabia on which they sailed were twentytwo Methodist missionaries from various parts of the United States, four of them M. D's., two Zenana workers, and the balance regular missionaries. The whole party suffered severely from mal de mer while cross ing the Bay of Biscay.
