SECOND EDITION. A MAD MAN'S REVENGE.

He is Goaded on by Ill-Treatment-Kills a Whole Vessel's Crew. BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 8.—The Sun translates from a Russian paper an account of the crime for which a St. Petersburg, Russia, court sentenced Jan Umb, a sailor, to ten years' penal servitude. The Russian schooner Johannes had hardly left Riga in November, 1887, when Umb denied an accusation of having stolen clothing. Induced alternately by flogging and Captain Harboe's promises, a confession was extorted which was followed by further whipping and confinement in a dark cell for several days without food or water. When released he was abused by the crew and jumped overboard. The captain promised better treatment if he would allow himself to be rescued, and he was brought back. While changing his wet clothes he received a brutal kicking about the head and naked body, and was again put below. Next night, Dec. 7, 1887, he was ordered to take the wheel, and unable through weakness to perform that duty, the captain struck him in the face and ordered him to follow, seemingly for further punishment. As the captain was picking up a piece of rope, Umb, now a perfect maniac, seized a handspike and killed the captain. He then killed in a like manner the two sailors on deck. Procuring a sheath knife he stabbed the mate, and proceeding forward killed two more sailors in their sleep. The cabin-boy was killed next. A Danish steamer sighted the schooner, which it towed to Copenhagen, where Jan Umb was delivered to the Russian authorities.

SELF-IMPOSED STARVATION.

This is How An Insane Millionaire Courted Death in the Auburn Asylum. MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Jan. 9. - There arrived an insane man named C. S. Palmer, of Auburn, N. Y. Mr. Palmer is a millionaire. He became insane at an early age, and for a time was a patient in the lunatic asylum in Providence, R. I. Coming to New York, he took up quarters at the Metropolitan hotel. Here it became necessary to place him under restraint. Three policemen threw themselves upon him when he answered a knock at his door, but Palmer drew a pistol and killed one. The others fled. At the inquest Palmer's insanity was established, and he was sentenced to life imprisonment at Auburn. Driven to desperation, he notified the officials that unless he was set at liberty or transferred to another asylum he would kill himself. As neither liberty nor change of place came to him, Palmer set about his task of self-destruction by starving. For two years the spark of life was kept aglow in Palmer's body by resort to the tube process of conveying liquid food into the stomach. These extraordinary features of Palmer's case attrac:ed attention and led to successful efforts in his behalf to procure a quashing of the indictment under which he was held prisoner at Auburn.

A HOWL OF THE WIND.

A BOISTEROUS NIGHT-OLD BOREAS WHOOPS IT UP.

There Was General Disaster Wherever the Wind Got a Chance to Make Itself Felt -The Gable End of a House Blown Out -The Worst For Years.

Old Boreas whooped it up in fine order last night. There was a howling time from midnight onward. This morning the wind still whistled over the city, and quite as loudly as during the night.

After midnight there was intense darkness, and then to many came dread and fear. There was the howling of the gale, the swaying of branches, the rattling of windows, the slamming of doors, the smashing of shutters, and a hundred and one disturbing things to make sleep impossible. And how fearfully all these did alarm people in the darkness. But many had cause for consternation last night. The wind swept over the city at a rate of seventy or eighty miles per hour, and there was a propelling force about it that was almost irresistable. With it came soft snow that splattered about the houses and stores and gave them the appearance of having had a severe conflict with the elements. The oldest inhabitant had no knowledge of such a severe gale before. Others say that the present is the equal of that some years ago when the schooner Norway was lost with all hands. The sailors are drawing the comparison. Probably the most serious damage was done by the falling of the gable of the brick terrace, on Clarence street, owned by f. C. Wilson. The house was adjoining the livery stable and occupied by Mrs. Hooper. Along about three o'clock the side from the second story to the roof was knocked out, falling upon the roof of the livery office. The gable stones fell outward, one of them dropping upon the sidewalk. The bricks crashed through the roof into the workshop of Mr. Wilson. The workshop is half full of bricks, mortar and galvanized iron. A fancy cab sleigh, valued at several hundred dellars, was in the workshop. It was speedily wrecked beyond repair. The bricks smashed the supports of the floor upon which they fell. The appearance of the brick building shows that the gable had not been built in a workmanlike manner. The support was altogether too meagre. The damage will total five or six hundred dollars. The Hooper tamily were not sufferers beyond the inconvenience that will be caused by the accident.

This morning, while John Dixon, one of the engineers of the steamer St. Lawrence, was building a fire in his house on O'Kill street the chimney tumbled over, creating

The harbor at an early hour was angrily storm-tossed. The gale churned its surface into foam, and the waves rolled very high. The water rolled over the wharves at the front of the harbor. The effect of the storm on the boats in the harbor was not very serious. They were well watched by their owners, and saved from arifting away. The strength of the chains and ropes holding them were most severely taxed. Some of the chains slipped many times and had to be put back. Capt. Dandy said that he had not watched the schr. Queen of the Lakes she would have left the slip at the foot of Princess street. He remained with her from 3 o'clock until 7 o'clock this morning.

Of all the boats in the harbor only two got away, and they are now in a bad position pounding upon the beach at Barriefield. They are the steambarge Van Allen, owned by the Rathbun company, and the tug Walker, the property of the M. T. company. The Van Allen got away from Moore's dock and the Walker from the Queen street slip. They broke their ropes and chains between 2 and 3 o'clock and met in the channel. Then they rolled about in the turbulent waters and drifted side by side to the beach. The Walker was inside, and consequently ran high and dry upon the rocks. The Van Allen pounded against her and only her nose is on the rock. She is making matters bad for the Walker by pounding her badly. It is thought that before the boats can be rescued the Walker will be damaged to the extent of several thousand. The watchman did not miss the tug until she had been adrift for some time. Captain Gaskin, the outside manager for the company, is in Toronto, attending a meeting of the Canadian marine association.

The wind got into the lumber piles in Rathbun's dock, foot of Queen street during the night and disturbed them badly. Thousands of boards were lifted and carried away. They fell in the lake near by, and were afterwards rescued.

A big gate leading into the yard at the rear of the Globe hotel was torn from its hinges and smashed into many pieces Gates and fences on Sergeant Carson's property, Gordon street, were destroyed.

Fences and trees are levelled on Upper Bagot street. The velocity of the wind was just as bad at 9 o'clock as it was at three o'clock this morning. The str. H. A. Calvin started twice to come to the city from Garden Island but had to turn back on each occasion. The fence in front of Hales' cottages, King street, went down under the fury of the wind, and a pole carrying the electric lamp, situated at the corner of Stuart and Barrie streets, was broken. Another pole on Montreal street, belonging to the electric light company, will need considerable repairing. Trees and fences are scattered about Wil-A window in John Wright's house, King on Princess street were torn away. On Ordinance street several trees belonging to Mr. Hatch were torn up by the roots. Many fences are down. Window shutters where scattered here and there.

Repairers on the telegraph lines had to quit work because of the storm. Several men who climbed poles to string wires had hard work to save themselves from being | kins, 64; Robert Gamel, 22; William Ger blown off. Part of the smoke stack at the knitting mill was brought to the ground, and the roof of Gleason's ice house, near the mill, was removed. A yacht, owned by Officer A. Snodden, was injured at Barriefield. Light lumber, which was piled near Mc-

Leod's sash and door factory, haymarket, was lifted and carried some distance from the mill.

The large plate glass window in La-Chance's store on Montreal street was blown in and smashed to atoms.

A chimney on the house occupied by J. R. Rattenbury was blown off, and a window in Mr. Medley blown in. While D. Hubbard was sweeping the plankwalk in front of his house this morning a fence was blown on him. Barges belonging to the K. & M. forwarding company broke from their moorings at Portsmouth and reached penitentiary dock.

The fence about the Cataraqui driving park is flattened in many places. The fence about the rink of Joseph Dix, in the Regiopolis college grounds, is also laid low. Fences in the country are overturned, and many trees are down. The blow was terri bly severe where it had a clean sweep across the country. A side window in the tower of the Third Methodist church was blown in. The windows in many houses in the upper wards were damaged, panes of glass being com-pletely knocked out. The front windows in Sexton Nolan's house, Brock street, were wrecked. Various new houses were somewhat twisted; shingles, boards and rafters, in some instances, were carried away.

The G. N. W. telegraph company is again in trouble. The company had five wices in use yesterday, but all are down to day. The last was broken at midnight. The C. P. R. company had one wire through to day. This morning, in driving to the city the covered market waggon of Joseph Nicol was caught by the gale and shoved about on the road.

At 3 o'clock this morning Capt. Taylor, sr., saved his schooner, A. Falconer, from drifting away from Swift's wharf. He arrived in time to be of service. One of the ship's chains had snapped, and the ropes holding her were wearing fast.

The gable walls of the brick house recent ly burned on the corner of Union and Arch streets, owned by Mr. Tait, were blown

THE ONTARIO DAIRYMEN.

Gather in Convention at Smith's Falls-

Some Points for the Farmers. SMITH'S FALLS, Jan. 9.—The twelfth an nual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's association commenced in the opera house here. The president introduced Prof. Robertson who spoke of the objects of the convention. He urged that the members should keep in view the one object of obtaining knowledge. This should be attained by full, free and frank discussion and deliberation thereon. He spoke of the desirability of establishing experimental cheese factories for the purpose of instruction. The establishment of such would doubtless be favourably received by the Ontario government. The establishment of winter schools for dairy instruction was almost a necessity. The dairymen should also endeavour to secure a portion of the present government grant of the provincial exhibition, to be used under the direction of the agricultural and arts association for the benefit of dairying industries.

An interesting discussion arose on some points mentioned by the speaker, at the end of which the standing committee, were appointed. At the afternoon session a number of questions were asked and much valuable information offered. Prof. Robertson's subject was, "Why do we feed our cows?" The professor pointed out that to get the best results the best food must be given to cattle. As the race of man improves it requires better food. Fathers of to day should provide their children with better food, clothing and educational advantages than they themselves had, so that the new gen eration might be a better one than the present. To obtain the best food the cow should have the best. The object of feeding the cows should not be the acquisition of money, but the improvement of stock that man may be improved thereby.

The evening session was taken up with an address by Prof. Robertson on the past, present and future of dairying in Ontario. The industry in the past had done much for the province in increasing the food supply per acre, in making it possible to support a larger population and giving employment to an increased number. It had increased the earning power of land, and added to its value. It had also advertised extensively the resources of the province. The present status of industry showed that improvement was necessary. Retter stock with better and cheaper food and better modes of treat ment were essential. There should be a better yield of milk from our cows, and the land should be made to to give more sustenance than it does. The business of dairying could be largely increased within a short period if farmers would become embued with a spirit of enterprise and improve their opportunities. In future, with better men, better cows, better and cheaper feed and better makers, a finer quality of cheese would be made, and the prospects of the industry in Ontario would be of the brightest. After the address was concluded Prof. Robertson replied to a few questions put to him by members of the convention, and then an adjournment was made until tomorrow morning.

The Week of Prayer.

The service in the First Congregational church last evening in connection with the week of prayer was largely attended. Rev. Dr. Jackson presided and most eloquent and instructive addresses were delivered by Revs. M. Macgillivray and W. Timberlake on the subject : "Families and schools, that husbands and wives, parents and children, masters and servants, may, in their mutual relations, observe the law of Christ, that family worship may be more generally observed, and that domestic life may be sweetened and hallowed by godliness. For Sunday school and week day schools, for university and colleges, for all associations which promote the intellectual, moral and religious welfare of young men and young women, for the preservation of young minds from the current acepticism and auperati tion." An interesting service was also held in Williamsville, addressed by Revs. Eldridge and Hooper.

NO BEER NO WORK.

The Terms Under Which Many New York Employees Have to be Hired. New York, Jan. 9. -It is perhaps not generally known that in many establishments in the city workingmen demand the privilege of bringing beer into the factories for consumption at the noon hour, and in at least one establishment beer is paid for by the proprietors. In this connection few are aware that in all the lithographic establishments in this country, where the work is mainly done by German workmen, a stipulation requires the proprietors to furnish beer as a part of the employees wages.

In the mamoth lithographic department of the Judge, at New York, for instance, where 600 men are employed, each one receives, under the terms of his contract with his employers, three pints of beer a day. The beverage is lager beer, and over seven barrels are thus consumed daily. An effort was made at one time to see if a reform could not be instituted in this matter, but such serious trouble was threatened that it had to be abandoned. No lager, no work.
