THE CURIOSITY SHOP.

Curious Superstitions About Insects-Flies,

Spiders, Grasshoppers, Bees. The Koran says all flies shall perish save one-the bee fly. It is regarded as a death warning in Germany to hear a cricket's cry. The Tapuya Indians in South America say the devil assumes the form of a fly. Rain is, in some parts of the country, expected to follow unusually loud chirping of crickets. Flies are regarded as furnishing prognostications of the weather, and even of other events. Spaniards, in the Sixteenth century, believed that spiders indicated gold when they were found in abundance. Although a sacred insect among the Egyptians, the beetle receives but little notice in folklore. It is unlucky in England to kill one. In Germany bad luck when he rises towards you.

The grasshopper is a sufficiently unwelcome visitant of himself in this country, but in Germany his presence is further said to announce strange guests. A Welsh tradition says bees came from paradise, leaving the garden when man fell, but with God's blessing, so that wax is necessary in the celebration of the mass. The ancients generally maintained that there was a close connection between bees and the soul. Porphyry speaks of "those souls which the ancients called bees." It is said that upon the backs of the seven year locusts there sometimes appear marks like a letter of the alphabet. When this looks like a W it is thought that war is imminent. German tribes regard stag beetles as diabolic, and all beetles are detested in Ireland, more especially a bronze variety known as "gooldie." It is also believed that to see a beetle will bring on rain the next day.

A Latin Mixture.

The nox was lit by the lux of Luna

And 'twas a nox most opportuna To catch a possum or a coona, For nix was scattered o'er the mundus, A shallow nix et non profundus. On sic a night, with canis unus, Two boys went out to hunt for coonus. The corpus of this bonus canis -Was twice as long as octo span is, But brevis legs had canis never Quam had hie dog bonus clever; Some used to say in stultum jocum Quod a field was too small locum, For sic a dog to make a turnus Circumself from stem to sternus. On this nixy moonlit night, This old canis did just right; Nunquam chased a hungry rattus, Nonquam treed a starving cattus, But cucurritt on intentus On the track and on the scentus, Till he treed a possum strongum In a hollow trunkum longum. Loud he barked in horrid bellum, Seemed in terra venit hellum; Quickly ran the duo puer Mors of possum to secure. Quam veniret, one began To chop away like quisque man.

pcorrect. It is not correct to say "Mrs. Presidentelect Harrison." One might as well write "Mrs. Paster-elect Smith," or "Mrs. Defaulter well known to be chosen president or minister of a church, he doesn't need to be called "president elect," "pastor elect." To the country or to the congregation he becomes sufficiently the center of interest to make compound titles useless. Mr. Harrison, or Gen. Harrison, to the country, means the man elected to become President; Mrs. Harrison is that man's wife. It is the same with the church congregation; the Rev. Mr. Blank is the newly chosen minister, and Mrs. Blank is his wife; it makes no difference if there are a dozen Blanks; Mrs. Blank to that congregation is the wife of the new parson, and out of that congregation all the "Mrs. Pastor elects" in the world wouldn't identify her. The expression is twice bad, because it is condemned by good writers and because it is useless.

Sweaters.

The term sweaters is not in use in this country. In England the word defines employers who take advantage of the necessities of the working people to get work done at starvation wages. It was also applied to a class of rogues who made a practice of "swearing" gold coin, this being done by shaking it in bags, a portion of the metal, representing the profit to the swindlers, being worn off by Cooling a Hot Journal.

An ingenious way of cooling a journal that cannot be stopped, according to Popular Science News, is to hang a short endless belt on the shaft next to the box, and let the lower part of it run in cold water. The turning of the shaft carries the belt slowly around, bringing fresh cold water continually in contact with the heated shaft, and without spilling or spattering a drop of the

On the Mountain Top.

The reason it is more difficult to breathe on a mountain top than at its foot is because of the rarified condition of the air at great heights. The lungs expand, as fully as ever, but when in the rare atmosphere only onehalf of the amount of air is breathed, and the act becomes oppressive and often painful.

SPECIAL NOTICES. The Blending of Life.

And death is one of the mysterious functions of the human organism. They are constantly battling two rival elements; the one throwing off waste and effete matterdeath, the other to supply living atoms to build up and sustain-life. It is when the system grows sluggish, when the effete and dead particles, are not eliminated and remain to clog life's channels, that Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut render greatest service. They cleanse the system, restore the liver to a healthy action, correct morbid secretions, renew the springs of life by making digestion more perfect, and proved by use the most perfect family medicine in existence.
