KIDNAPPING AT BROCKVILLE.

Willie French, a Salvationist, Has Suffered Much For His Religion.

BROCKVILLE, March 12.—William French claims to have been kidnapped some days ago. He has been attending the Salvation army, and threatening letters were sent him to quit or he would suffer violence. He did not do so, but a few days ago, as he was going home from an army meeting, he was suddenly pounced upon by some person wearing a mask, who attempted to stab him. He showed where the knife blade had penetrated his coat, and where his mitten had been cut when he caught the knife. He was then knocked down and the desperado beat a hasty retreat. French was unable to identify his assailant. After the occurrence members of the army were in the habit of escorting him to and from their meetings, but on Friday night he started for the barracks alone never, however, reaching it. He was discovered on Saturday at Prescott. He says: "When I reached Healey's corner, on Friday night, en route to the barracks, I was chloroformed, tied hand and foot, put into a sleigh, and taken to Prescott. When I came to I untied my hands with my teeth and then untied my feet. I then jumped out of the sleigh, and being light the ice crust held me up. The fellow driving being heavy went through the crust, and by that means I got the start of him. He followed me across a field for some distance. I then think that the horses started up and the ruffian had to return to them. Then I took to the woods, and wandered about some time before I found the road. My toes were frozen. I went to several houses and they would not let me in, but I finally got into a house at 12 o'clock. I stopped in this house, which is three miles below Prescott, until morning. Then the people brought me part way to Prescott. The whole party of kidnapers belong to Brockville."

THE PARNELL COMMISSION.

Sir Charles Russell's Great Effort—Unable to Trace the Parties.

NEW YORK, March 12.—The Times London despatch says: "Sir Charles Russell's speech in behalf of the Parnellites will be the most important address delivered in this generation on the Irish question. His friends say it will take at least a week to deliver it. On Monday next the big attack on the attorney-general will be made in the house. It will arise on the vote for general supply."

The Parnell commission resumed its sittings to-day. An accountant testified to having examined the books of the Hibernian bank, but was unable to trace the persons to whom the money on checks was paid, or whence the checks came. Between November 1879 and September 1882 the league received £261,269, and paid out £261,276. The bank refused to allow witness to examine its judgment slips. The league paid to the ladies' league £12,306, and to the relief fund £2,025, and disbursed £10,000 in the defence of prisoners.

DESPERATE PRIZE FIGHT.

The Most Brutal of Which There is Any Record—McCann's Wreck.

SEATTLE, W. T., March 12.—Tom Cleary, ex-champion middle weight of the Pacific coast, and James McCann, of Nanaimo, B.C., yesterday fought nine rounds for $100. The fight was awarded to Cleary, as McCann, who was being punished terribly, slipped down to avoid further punishment. In the seventh round McCann went down eleven times. The fight was the most brutal ever seen on the coast. One of McCann's eyes being torn out and the other so seriously injured that he may lose his sight entirely.

NEW ORLEANS, March 12.—The Times-Democrat states that the Mexican government recently amended the concession granted to Captain Eads, for a ship railway, by guaranteeing 5 per cent. interest on $60,000,000, the estimated cost of the railway. Captain E. L. Carthel says the work of construction will begin soon.

FASTING FORTY DAYS.

AN ILLINOIS NEGRO WOMAN AND HER WONDERFUL FEAT.

She Claimed to Have Had a Divine Revelation, in Pursuance of Which She Ate Nothing For Forty Days, Grew Stronger Night Along, and Finally Broke Her Fast With a Great Big Meal.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 12.—"The period of my fast will be up promptly at 4 o'clock the same hour as the Saviour's, and then I will feast." Mrs. Pauline King, a coloured woman spoke in the supervisor's room in the Sangamon county court house. She has been living in Springfield seven years. She has been a regular attendant upon the faith cure meetings by Mrs. Woodworth, and was given to going into trances, as was also her little ten year old daughter. She claims to have had visions years ago, and since the faith cure band began operations here she has had a vision from the Lord commanding her to fast forty nights. In compliance with the divine order Mrs. King began her fast on Jan. 27th, at which time her weight, now 89, was 113 lbs. The first seven days she drank no water, but from that time to Feb. 27th she accepted this nourishment, the Lord having signified that she should do so to relieve the dryness in her throat.

Throughout her fast she did her housework, even to washing, and has not been ill a day. Her husband did not believe in the divine injunction at the start, and tried to persuade her from it, as he did not think she could hold out. As the days passed and he saw her strength increasing while her flesh wasted away he became convinced that some great power was sustaining her. While she was undergoing the ordeal two neighbours watched her and quite a number called to see her and note her condition. The faith cure people came shouting and praying. People wanted her when she broke her fast to go to church, she being of the Methodist persuasion, but this would not do, as the Lord in his vision told her to go to the court house. She was ordered to prepare a feast of which all might partake, and the poor woman with her own hands cooked three cakes and furnished a good sized spread of turkey, ham, pickles, oranges, bananas, coffee and tea. After the feast religious exercises were held.

There appeared among the audience none so skeptical as to believe the woman had not fasted, as her features had shrunk so that her lips were so tightly drawn that her teeth could be easily outlined through the skin. When the period of her fast was up Mrs. King stepped down from the platform, after urging all to partake of the feast as it was free, the faster first ate a cracker and declared that she was not hungry, then she bit a pickle in two and put away an oyster stew. While talking to those who jostled her around she picked the meat from the back of a chicken and left it to toy with a large slice of ham. She wanted some water, but as none was handy and it was impossible for the water carrier to get out and back again, she drank a cup of tea with evident relish. She got away with some jelly cake and then wiped her chin with evident satisfaction.

When asked if she was not afraid she had eaten too much, her reply was that there was no danger, as she was in the hands of the Lord.

A WORD TO OFFICE-SEEKERS.

Mr. Harrison Doesn't Like to Dismiss Any Official and for His Politics Only.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 12.—The Leader's Washington correspondent telegraphs his paper the following, with the assurance that the information is correct: "President Harrison has already napped out a policy for his administration to follow respecting civil service reform; and in addition to what he had to say on the subject in his inaugural address, the following points from an interview, had with him by a party of congressmen who called upon him, are significant and interesting. The visitors had presented the claims of certain individuals of their choice for appointments on the subject of removals from the general classified service. The president said: 'I have told some of my mugwump friends that I believe the provision relating to removals should be changed so that a cause would not need to be specified. I would not have a man removed simply because he belonged to one political party or the other, and there should be good and substantial reasons for the dismissal of clerks and officials generally, but I hold that it is not necessary that the cause should be specified or given in all cases. There might be good reasons for following a contrary course and withholding information.' Respecting appointments generally the president said he should follow the suggestions of senators and representatives, the men chosen by the people to represent their wishes, and he expected those gentlemen to be conscientious in the matter and recommend only good men for offices. The president, in conclusion, urged his visitors to go slowly and not press too hard for the removal of the present incumbents of office. He said in effect that he wanted to be sure he was right in every case, then he would go ahead."

THE HORRORS IN COURT.

Chinamen Whose Criminality is Past Understanding—Awful Work.

MILWAUKEE, March 12.—The names of at least twenty victims of the two arrested Chinamen are known, and their ages range from nine to thirteen. Three of them told their stories in court yesterday. The disclosures were revolting. Ten of the little witnesses were in court, accompanied by their mothers. The three who testified stated that the prisoners, after taking liberties with them, bought their silence with small sums of money, candy and other gifts. Two Chinese laundrymen here have closed their places and disappeared.

LABOUR QUESTION AGAIN.

Boston Work Sent to New York to be Done by the Tenement Hands.

BOSTON, March 12.—There are nearly 5,000 tailors in and near Boston out of work, because, as alleged, the local clothing manufacturers send their goods to New York city to be made up by the cheap labour of the tenement house districts. There is much distress among the tailors, arising from a lack of work. A mass meeting will be held on Sunday to consider the matter. The tailors here charge that the clothing made by the New York tenement house-workers is impregnated with the germs of disease.

THEY MET THEIR FATE.

THE FEARFUL DEATH WHICH FIVE FRENCH TRAVELLERS HAD.

The Indians Make an Attack on Them for Plunder—The Shocking Agonies to Which They Were Subjected—A Vengeful Party on the War-path—The Women Are Sufferers.

CHEYENNE, March 11.—A halfbreed hunter who arrived here to-day from the extreme northwest part of the territory reports the massacre of five French tourists in the Yellowstone national park. The messenger heard the story at Canyon City, a new mining town near the park, where Hank Ferry, the guide and sole survivor, reported the slaughter. Ferry said his charges included M. Leclair and wife, J. Vincent and wife, and Paul Gerat, father of Mme. Vincent. He entered the service of the sightseers at Virginia City, Mon., contracting to show them through the park in violation of United States statutes. The strangers were very wealthy, and said they journeyed overland from San Francisco for the express purpose of going through the park during the absence of summer excursionists. The party enjoyed themselves hugely, affiliating with the poachers who were slaughtering game for hides. Their camp was always the headquarters for professional hunters, whom they supplied with luxuries. The guide's story of the murder, which he says was committed by Indians, is graphic. Just before dawn blood curdling cries and a fusillade of shots were heard and roused Ferry. He realized the situation, and, crawling through the brush, took refuge in the mouth of a sleeping geyser. Here he heard the piteous groans and begging of the foreigners, mingled with yells of the redskins. The latter killed old Gerat just as the sun was rising. The slaughter was most brutal, wound after wound being inflicted before the death shot was given. No body contained less than ten balls, and the body of Vincent, who made a desperate struggle for life, was completely riddled. The savages passed the morning in further mutilating the bodies and pillaging the outfit. The women were neatly scalped, and their long tresses matted with blood dangling from the belt of the chief. The heads of the men were backed and the bodies frightfully disfigured. The Indians found the liquors carried by the Frenchmen, but the quantity was not enough to intoxicate them all, else they would doubtless have fought among themselves. The clothes of the victims were donned by the fiends, who, as they run from one waggon to the other, would halt an instant to give one of the bodies a kick or a gash with a knife. Finally the marauders wearied of their bloody feast and packed the effects of the dead people on their ponies, fired the wagons and left. Ferry then emerged from his hiding place and started for Canyon City. He avoided the hunters and must have suffered from hunger and exposure, as he was weak and emaciated and seemed slightly demented when relating the story. The guide was placed in the care of a physician, but disappeared the second night after his arrival and has not been seen since. It is presumed he is crazy. Officers at Canyon have organized a posse to secure the bodies of the murdered people. Ferry is a tough character, but his story is believed, although some of the miners think the hide hunters, who are mostly outlaws, may have murdered the tourists for the purpose of money.

HOW PIGOTT WAS CAUGHT.

Patrick Egan Tells About the First Known Instance of His Treachery.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Patrick Egan has been warmly congratulated on running to earth forger Pigott. Gen. Harrison was much interested in a new story of the infamous suicide. Some years ago Egan and his compatriots were trying to spread the Irish cause in England by the United Ireland. For a time the paper was published in Paris, but the customs authorities promptly suppressed it at Dover, when a change of base was made to Manchester, where the type was set, the paper printed at Dublin and sent out from the former city. All this time the efforts at Paris were continued, but as a feat. Each week 5,000 or 10,000 copies were despatched to London via Dover, and of course were promptly suppressed by the customs authorities. As long as this was continued the government thought it was effectually blocking the game of the Irish publication committee, knowing nothing of the operations from Manchester and Dublin. Finally Randolph Churchill made a speech in the commons in which he declared that Irish nationalists were operating from an English city, and described the plan of operations which had been successfully followed. During the course of his speech he threw down upon his seat behind him a letter from which he had been reading and continued his remarks. It happened that a Parnellite was sitting close by, and, picking up the letter which Churchill had so incautiously dropped, he read the signature "Richard Pigott." This was the first discovery made of Pigott's treachery.

A BLOOMING THIEF.

Oswego Falls Astounded by the Arrest of a Baptist Minister as a Horse Thief.

OSWEGO, March 12.—A sensation was created in Oswego Falls by the arrest of Rev. Joseph Bloom, pastor of the Free Will Baptist church, on a charge of horse stealing. He is a young Englishman with red hair and whiskers, and has been in Oswego falls about a year. On Thursday he came here and sold a black horse to Hiramman Becker for $40. Yesterday an officer from Madison county identified the horse as one stolen from Oneida on Tuesday. When arrested in Oswego Falls Mr. Bloom denied all knowledge of the transaction, and other clergymen and some of the best people of the place went with him to see fair
