THE RAILWAY QUESTION.

The motion of Ald. Gaskin concerning the Napanee, Tamworth & Quebec railway bills, now before parliament, came as a surprise to the city council last night. It should not have done so. The questions with which it deals were known to some members of that honourable body; they should have been known to all the aldermen, since the Whig contained a reference to them, and every one is supposed to read this paper. A great deal of feeling has been worked up against the members of the recent civic delegation visiting Toronto on public business. It is said that these gentlemen should have done more than protest against the practical abandonment of certain provisions of the bonus by-law, that they should have taken the council into their confidence, and stated the case, and had the city's member instructed as to the manner in which he should act in so far as this particular bill was concerned. True a council meeting was not held in the meantime, but delay was dangerous; a special meeting should, it is contended, have been held, and such a course pursued as would have relieved the deputation of all suspicion of an attempt to deceive. The delegates disclaim all intention of concealing anything, but the fact that they did not speak out until Ald. Gaskin forced the issue tells against them.

The principle of interfering with a public by-law is not a safe one, and for this reason: The people vote for a certain thing, conditionally, and if there is to be any change in the scheme the people who are voting their money should know all about it and be consenting parties. The departure, in so far as it relates to the location of the Yarker station and the running powers over the K. & P. railway, may not be detrimental to Kingston's interests, but that matter cannot be disposed of at once, and certainly not without consideration. Let the facts be calmly debated. The public interests must, of course, be guarded, but this can be done without precipitate action, or action calculated to retard the railway service in whose behalf the bonuses were granted. The matter will stand ventilation, and to secure this the council did well to adjourn and take counsel before they voted upon the motion submitted by Ald. Gaskin.
Meanwhile the mayor, learning that the bill has only passed its second reading in the legislature, has telegraphed Mr. Metcalfe to see that the city's requests are respected, and the council meets to-night and make these requests fully known.
Appended we submit the correspondence of a cautious man.

Treat the Case Calmly.

KINGSTON, March 19.—(To the Editor): I have had a description given me of the discussion in the city council last night on Ald. Gaskin's resolution on the clauses introduced in the Napanee & Tamworth bill, enabling the city council to consent that the Kingston and Pembroke engines may haul the Napanee and Tamworth trains between Harrowsmith and Kingston, and also that the connection at Yarker may be made by means of a Y.

The clauses in the by-law, which the bill says may be changed by the council, were intended for the benefit of the city. If it can be shown that more benefit will accrue by the changes than by holding to the terms of the by-law it will be the duty of the council to consent, just as it would be their duty to petition for an act authorizing the changes if they had no power to make them otherwise.
The real question is, Which will benefit the city most? The Napanee and Tamworth people say their obligation is to give one train a day into the city in the morning and out in the afternoon, but if allowed to send their trains between Yarker and Harrowsmith with the K. & P. trains, they can give more trains and a better service than they otherwise would at the same locomotive expense. The matter could have been dealt with at another session, which would have involved another act. And it seems the city's representatives objected to the clause before the committee on private bills, but the chairman did not consider the city required to be protected against itself.

The mode of making the connection at Yarker is another matter. That part of the line has to be completed in fifteen months, and everybody wants it finished this summer. If any change was to be made it had to be done this session. As the company represented that their survey made, since the by-law was passed, showed that the connection would have to be made so far from Yarker as to injure the trade with that village and other places, the railway committee of the council considered it would bear further investigation, and I think they were right in giving the opportunity for the fullest enquiries.
The object of my letter is to impress the fact that heated discussions, such as seem to have taken place on the spur of the moment, are not the way to settle matters involving careful consideration of details. Both the changes are good if they will increase the trade of the city; otherwise not. They cannot be made without the consent of the council, and the public will look to that body, which has shown considerable ability of late years in looking after the city's interests, for full information with reports from competent persons in order that the best results may be reached.—CAUTION.

THE "THE COLLEEN BAWN."

The Performance in the Opera House—A Great Audience is Present.

The "Colleen Bawn," a beautiful three-act drama, was presented in the opera house last evening, under the auspices of the Y.I.C.B.A. The building was crowded, all the seats on the ground floor and those in the balcony being reserved days ago. Those who turned out to see the performance did not expect to have such a rich treat as they received. Knowing that the piece was to be put on by amateurs they went with the determination of making a good deal of allowance on that account, but from the start they saw that the performers were well up in their parts, and some of them eclipsed many who make a stage life a profession. As "Myles na-Coppaleen" H. Fitzgibbon showed himself to good advantage. He has a fine stage appearance and he carried himself and spoke in the style of a full-fledged Irish comedian. "Hardress O'Keegan" was taken by P. H. McGuire, and his haunchback servant, "Danny Mann," was E. W. Mallen. Both these young men showed great cleverness. The part of the haunchback was very difficult, but Mr. Mullen was equal to the emergency. In the absence of P. J. Howland, who is very ill, W. P. Killealey took the part of "Kylie Daley." J. Coady as "Father Tom," was a complete success. But "Mr. Corrigan," J. Guthrie, being a magistrate, was determined to see and know everything that would cause unpleasantness, and he did so. Where he was not wanted he was always on hand. A better substitute for that part could not be secured in the city. His face make up and dress made him a terror with those who were under his thumb, while he drove his villainous mouth music right to the heart every time. "Bertie O'Moore," and "Hyland O'Keegan," were taken by M. E. Brennan and D. McGuire, respectively, while P. J. Scanlan made a capital servant, and "Corporal" D. Mullaly put his company of black coats through their facings in proper order. Of the ladies too much cannot be said. The "Colleen Bawn," Miss S. Roney, was as free and as much at home on the stage as any professional actress. She has a sweet voice and a completely captivated the audience. Her songs, "Cruisickin' Linn," and "The Pretty Girl Milking the Cow," were received with rounds of applause. Miss M. Murray and Miss M. Sangster when they made their appearance on the stage became favourites with the audience. They spoke their lines clearly and distinctly, and no fault whatever could be found. In the ballroom scene these two ladies and Miss M. Frizzell wore gorgeous costumes, and added enchantment to their beautiful faces. "Sheelah" came in for her rounds of applause. Many were surprised when they learned that this roll was filled by James Brennan.
Mr. J. Guthrie was stage manager, and Henry T. Redmond prompter.
A large streamer, "Home Rule for Ireland," was displayed in the background as the curtain dropped after the last act.

HE WOULDN'T DO IT.

Ald. Polson Pointedly Refused to do What the Mayor Desired Him.

Ald. Polson considers himself a persecuted man. Last night he brought in the report of the city property committee recommending that, as heretofore, the council grant the free use of the city hall to the Ontario medical council for holding its examinations in. The mayor refused to allow the report to pass unless an iron clad resolution, which demanded payment of rent from every occupant of the hall, was reconsidered. Ald. Polson refused to do as the mayor requested. He claimed that he was continually balked, that the mayor was partial in his rulings. There were cries of order. Ald. Polson declared that he could prove what he said. He refused to move a reconsideration. If the report were thrown out the result could be reached in some other way. Ald. Gildersleeve denied that the mayor had been partial. If there was anything to Ald. Polson that looked like it he should state the reasons for so thinking at the time and not afterwards. The mayor denied partiality. He knew no one about the council board. It was only at the last meeting that Ald. Polson took refuge behind the ruling that he now refused to enforce. If he ever ruled wrong he was open to correction at the time, but in was in bad taste for an alderman to sit silent and not object, and get up afterwards and declare that there was partiality shown. He was present to rule in all quarters, and he desired to do so strictly. He could not attribute any cause for the charge, save on account of the temperament of the alderman making it. To settle the dispute Ald. Robinson moved a reconsideration, and the report was adopted, and by the opening made Ald. Swift had rebates granted to the firemen and Children of Mary who some time ago used the hall. Ald. McLeod wanted the Social Five club given a rebate, and Ald. Robinson didn't know what these religious and temperance men were coming to to endorse dancing. It was thought advisable to allow the hall to be used for educational purposes free of cost.

Pain Cannot Stay

Where Polson's Nerviline is used. Composed of the most powerful pain subduing remedies known Nerviline cannot fail to give prompt relief in rheumatism, neuralgia, cramps, pain in the back and side, and the host of painful affections, internal or external, arising from inflammatory action. A 10c. sample bottle of Nerviline will give sufficient proof of its superiority over every known remedy. Try Nerviline. Large bottles 25 cents; trial bottles only 10 cents.

Meeting in Australia.

SIDNEY, N.S.W., March 18.—Many large meetings have been held in the various cities of Australia, at which resolutions were adopted congratulating Mr. Parnell on his victory in the matter of the charges against him by the London Times. Large sums of money were raised at the meetings for the benefit of the Irish cause.

Drawing the Line Clearly.

WINDSOR, March 19.—James Perry, plasterer, living in Windsor, went over to Detroit yesterday with his tools to go to work, but was sent back by the customs officers. Over one hundred Poles came from Detroit to Windsor yesterday with spades and picks, and were not refused admittance. The workmen in Windsor are greatly enraged at the conduct of the Detroit officers.

Questions to be Settled.

LONDON, March 19.—In the house of commons to day Sir James Ferguson, parliamentary secretary for the foreign office, announced that certain serious questions between England and the Sultan of Morocco had not been settled, and that a portion of the British channel squadron had consequently gone to Tangier.

JESUITS' ESTATES BILL.

Resolution Passed at the Kingston Presbytery Meeting To-day.

Moved by Rev. Mr. Gallagher, seconded by Rev. Mr. Coulthard: "This presbytery, viewing with alarm not unmixed with indignation, the action, or rather inaction, of the dominion government in declining to veto a bill of the provincial legislature of Quebec by which the Society of Jesus is incorporated and endowed, thus rendering it a standing menace to the civil, political and religious liberties of the people of Canada, and furnishing it with the means of active and injurious aggression, enter their solemn protest against said bill, and express their conviction that the interests of truth and justice require that the supreme court of the Presbytery church in Canada, in behalf of all its members, should demand that the power of veto be even yet exercised to make void legislation so manifestly injurious to the best interests of the community; because the incorporation of said society is in direct opposition to the experience of those who know it best and fear it most, having been suppressed by popes and expelled from even Roman Catholic countries as a menace to the state, and having been productive of evil in every state where it gained a footing for a time we can only expect that it will produce its natural fruit in our midst if it is not only admitted, but cherished. Because, further, the granting of a large sum to such a society out of the funds intended for the higher education of the people, is, in our opinion, a gross perversion of a public trust, misappropriating, as it does, for the purposes of a religious sect, what was intended for the common good, the evil being in no way mitigated, but rather intensified by the insult of a proportionate grant to Protestants, in order to render null all efforts at which their co-religionists might attempt; and because of the referring of the matter in any form, or for any purpose, to the pope is an outrage against the feelings and subversive of the principles of the citizens of this Protestant empire, besides being a practical conceding to Rome of that assumed power which has been the bone of Christendom, involving, as it does, the supreme temporal authority of what is at best but a limited spiritual power, and because their disloyal legislative act of which we complain unconstitutional and incompetent, we hereby resolve to resist the consummation of the illegal procedure, and take this opportunity of urging upon the church and country at large the duty of carrying the whole matter if necessary, through every court, even to the foot of the throne. Resolved, further, that the presbytery appoint a committee to prepare an overture to the assembly on the subject, and that the committee be instructed to submit such overture at the next meeting of presbytery, ordinary or special, with a view to its adoption and transmission."—Adopted by a standing vote.

The Work of Burglars.

Last evening the stores of Cousineau & Co., dry goods, Mr. Oford, boots and shoes, and Mr. Weaver, general merchandise, all situated on Princess street, were burglarized quietly. About six dollars were taken from Cousineau & Co's store. No money was found in the other places, and goods were not disturbed. The men, while trying to get into Waldron's dry goods store, were alarmed by Mr. Keeley and ran away.
