so do their patients. Paine's Celery Compound has permanently cured the worst cases of rheumatism and neuralgia-so say those who

"Having been troubled with rheumatism at the knee and foot for five years, I was almost unable to get around, and was very often confined to my bed for weeks at a time. I used only one bot-OWNER. tle of Paine's Celery Compound, and was perfectly cured. I can now jump around, and feel as lively as FRANK CAROLI, Eureka, Nevada.

After suffering with chronic rheumatism for several years, I was induced to try Paine's Celery Compound, and after using two bottles found myself greatly improved. In fact, after using three bottles, have not felt any rheumatism. Can conscientiously recommend it. Yours very truly. MRS. P. COWAN, COWANSVILLE, P.Q.

A church in southern Illinois is about to have a fair, in which one of the features will be the pigs in clover, with real pigs. A large fac-simile of the toy will be built in the hall, and a prize will be given to the man who pens the porkers.

The consideration for which Bombay Hook, near Wilmington, Del., was transferred by its original owner, an Indian chief, was two barrels of rum, two shot guns and four hornfuls of powder. The land is worth now about $300,000. Quite appropriately, the sign manual of the Indian chief was a goose.

A citizen of the United States recently applied for the position of "American consul" to some foreign place, and was directed by the state department to change his papers so as to make them show that he wanted to be a "United States consul." This is a mistake frequently made even at home, but abroad everybody looks upon "America" as being the United States.

A shoemaker at Ottawa, Ont., seventeen years ago broke off the point of an awl in the hollow of a tooth which was continuously aching. The other day the tooth was extracted, and the little piece of steel found imbedded in it was just as bright as when it first entered. During all those years tooth ache was unknown by the man of leather, who concludes that cold steel is a good antidote for the irritating pain.

The most remarkable kiss upon record is that which was given by Queen Margaret to Alain Chartier more than 400 years ago. He was a poet, but the ughest man in France. During his life time he enjoyed a wonderful reputation, but after his death he was forgotten. He is now chiefly remembered on account of the kiss which the queen pressed upon his dreaming lips one day as she found him sleeping, saying to her maid as she did so: "I kiss not the man; I kiss the soul that sings."

An account of the English pension list, which has been compiled for the London Society of Authors, brings to light the fact that Tennyson forty-three years ago was enrolled on the list "in consideration of his eminence as a poet." It was only three years earlierin November, 4842-says the account, that William Wordsworth, then 72, received a pension from Sir Robert Peel, and two years earlier that, on the death of Southey, he was offered the laureateship. Southey, who became laureate in 1813, had been a pensioner for six years.

In an address to the women's societies of the United States the woman's national council publishes the following clause explanatory of the purposes and objects which inspired its formation: "We, women of the United States, sincerely believing that the best good of our homes and nation will be advanced by our own greater unity of thought, sympathy and purpose, and that an organized movement of women will best conserve the highest good of the family and the state, do hereby band ourselves together in a confederation of workers committed to the overthrow of all forms of ignorance and injustice, and to the application of the golden rule to society, custom and law."

The London Court Journal, when it wants a little variety, dips into American politics.

Here is a specimen:

"The Americans have elected Mr. Robert Lincoln as minister to the court of St. James. Mr. Lincoln is a brother of the famous war president, and is said to be an excellent judge of horse flesh. He took no part in the great struggle presided over by his brother, preferring, he declared, to be merely an on looker. His life, however, has not been wholly uneventful, for several years ago he was secretary of Illinois and Nebraska. He has a wonderful talent for mimicry, and one of our correspondents heard him recite some time ago, before a starparty, in the rooms of the Chicago Press club "We understand that he is now on a lecture tour in Australia, but that he will cancel his engagements in view of the fact that he has been elected to a serious and responsible position. President Harris and Sub-President Morris are thus far giving satisfaction, and it is not likely that there will be a change in the government for some time to come. Mr. Blaine, secretary to President Harris, has succeeded in electing his son to the senate. Mr. Outlaw, who was elected to France, has taken the oath of office. He is said to be a very handsome gentleman, and to his looks more than any qualification can be accredited his election. For a number of

A clergyman, now the vice chancellor of a prominent eastern university, wrote a book a few years ago. He wanted to have the publishing house of the Society of Friends in Philadelphia issue it. With this view he waited upon the screne old broad brim in charge.

"I can't say whether we can take thy MS. or not. Thee must see the committee." "What committee!"

Does thee know the history of our society?" "Only in a general way."

"Well, years ago we were subjected to much suffering and indignity by persecution in all quarters. A central committee was formed here in Philadelphia to aid our persecuted brethren. It was called the committee on sufferings. We live in happier times, The Friends are no longer persecuted. Hence the committee has no more work to do in the way of helping those who are oppressed. But it still exists in connection with our publishing work; and now when authors offer their MS. to us we refer them to the committee on sufferings." The future vice chancellor regarded the name and function as peculiarly apt.-Clergyman in St. Louis Republic,
