TROUBADOURS IN TOWN.

THEY APPEAR AT THE ROYAL MILITARY COLLEGE.

An Audience of Fashion and Wealth-The Cadets Give a Show That Rivalled Haverly's Ministrels-The Jokes Were Fresh, the Songs New and the Acting Up to Snua.

"A little nonsense, now and then, Is relished by the wisest men."

By permission of the commandant of the Royal military college, Major-General Cameron, the Ethiopian troubadours, composed of gentlemen cadets, gave, on Saturday evening, an entertainment sof rare excellence. The troupe appeared in gymnasium. It was packed with the elite of the city, Young ladies, representing the flower of the population, and young gentlemen of the highest rank in society composed part of the large assemblage. Carriages and bandwagons carried the people to and from the place of amusement. Before eight o'clock had arrived all the chairs were taken, and although additional seats were placed in the building, many people had to stand during the performance.

The stage was tastily decorated, The fittings attractive and well arranged. When the pretty drop curtain was lifted the troubadours were foundattired in appropriate as well as grotesque costumes. The suits were cut in true minstrel fashion, and made of expensive material. The performers were composed of the following young men :

Tenors-Cadets Matheson, Middleton, Kenny, Cooke, Houliston, R. Morris, Holmes, and P. Rogers,

First bass-Cadets Williams, Kerr, Kennedy, Weatherbee, Douglas, Duffus and Morrison.

Second bass-Cadets Fraser, H. Rogers, Branscombe, Scarth, Campbell and Scad

The and men on the right were Whitehead and Ritchie, and on the left Williams and herr. The company was in charge of Rose, as interlocutor.

Humorous jokes, fresh and crisp, and stories most ludicrous, were told in a merry way, causing the auditors to break into loud laughter. The end men were particularly funny, carrying out their parts in real professional style. Their tambourine playing was as good, if not a little better, than has been accomplished by professional minstrels visiting the city.

The vocalism of Mr. Matheson in the satchy song "Angelina," was much admired. He has a voice of sweetness and power. H. Williams, as "Pollutius," was a happy actor. He sang the solo part in the chorus, "In the Sunrise, in the Morning." He can also boast of a well-cultured voice. W. A. H. Kerr, as "Pat Snowball," was brimfull of humour. He told his stories in a way that called forth immense applause. He sang several selections in a taking style.

"Kiss me Quick and Go, my Honey," by Mr. Middleton, was a bright solo given in a pleasing way. Messrs. Mathewson, Scadding, Middleton and Branscombe sang with fine effect "My Old Kentucky Home." Mr. Branscombe contributed a solo in excellent voice entitled, "Pretty Things Young Lovers Say. "Hush Little Baby, Don't You Cry, You'll be an Angel By and bye," was presented in a lively manner by the entire band. C. Middleton took the solo and rendered it well. Nearing the end of the shorus the interlocuter exhibited a doll wearing a cadet's uniform and a pair of wings. When the performers saw the doll they turned and sang the chorus, facing the interlocutor. When the last verse was finished it took its flight, aided by a cord and weight.

The second part of the programme con tained a number of brilliant features. A slog dance by Messrs. Fraser, Williams, and R. Norris, was performed in a graceful manper. The movements of the cloggists were precise and easy. The "Measles Parade" was perhaps the most popular item. It was taken part in by the following cadets, in charge of Major Whitehead: Messrs. Hampson, Rose, Domville, Anderson, Duffus, Cooke, R Morris, Houlistin, Emery, Burstall, Campbell, Wilson, Scadding, Brown, Leckie, Vantuyle, Weatherbee, Pauet, Matheson, Taylor, Morrison, Kenny, Allen and Scarth. They were dressed in variegated sostumes, representing Zulus, farmers, offi sers, fat men, Queen's university students and professors, convicts, Yankees, West Point callets, negro caders, and other characters. The wheeling and marching was ac arate, and showed that the regiment had spent a great deal of time in training. Their time movements consisted of company backward wheeling, fours right, star and snake formations, open order marching, half company backward wheeling, changing places by lours and the figure eight. The drill was so well performed that the force was called back to repeat it. Mr. Whitehead made a "model major-gineral." The banjo playing of Messrs. Fraser, Kennedy, Kerr and Rogers was particularly pleasing. Dr. Whitehead and his assistant Kerr, burlesqued in a clever and happy way the tricks of a wizard. The legerdemain was not very deceptive and in consequence a great deal of amusement was caused. Cadet H. H. Williams was a talented ventriloquist and made a figure, sing and talk for the entertainment of the guests. A ridiculous farce entitled, "The Joke in Squinin," concluded the entertainment. It was a rare comedy and presented in a first- class way. Jaughter was universal. The farce fittingly closed a first class performance. The cast was:

Mr. Squinin-Mr. G. Rose. Mrs. Squinin-Mr. Thatcher. Betsy Squinin-Mr. Whitehead. Mr. Posey-Mr. E. Morris. Jake-Mr. Fraser.

Pete-Mr. Williams. The musical accompaniments were played by Mr. Gubb in an artistic manner. The stage managers were Messrs. McLennan, Rose and Hampson. After the entertainment Major-General Cameron and a number of the guests complimented the performers on the clever way in which they carried out the programme. If the cadets were to repeat the performance in the opera house for a local charity the would a bumper house.

THEY WON THE CASE.

The Kingston Oddfellows' Relief Association Sued at St. Thomas.

At the St. Thomas chancery sittings, on Thursday, the case of Ponsford, vs. Oddfel lows' relief association was heard. It was an action brought by Mrs. George Ponsford, sen., against the association to recover $1,-500 insurance on the life of her son, Herman Ponsford, who died from burns received on the occasion of the railway wreck in that city on July 15th, 1887. The insurance money was paid over by the association to surrounded the remains of their departed Mrs. H. Ponsford, the widow of the deceased. Plaintiff claimed that the certificates were made payable to her before her son's marriage; that they were never changed; and that the association paid the money to the wrong person. The association claimed that the change was made at the request of the deceased shortly after his marriage, and was properly made. Chancellor Boyd dismissed the action with costs, holding that the deceased had authorized the association to change the pelicy from his mother to his wife. This is the first case the association has had in fourteen years.

GETTING READY TO RACE.

The Fair Ground Course Nearly Completed For the Speeding of Trotters.

A visit was paid to the fair grounds on Saturday afternoon. All the sheds and stables are in good condition and need no repairs. As it was decided to hold the summer races on the track of the new grounds it was found necessary to have the course put in good condition. The sum of $1,100 was appropriated by the fair association for this purpose. Work was commenced some time ago and was progressing fairly when the wet weather interfered with further work. The course is being properly graded. As the track was injurious to the horses feet it is proposed to cover the whole course with six inches of loam which will not harden like clay. About a hundred yards north of the judges stand a part of the track sank considerably, but this has been filled in and levelled up. Another part, composed of nothing but stone, has been covered over.

When the loam is spread the course will be one of the best in Ontario. The accommodation for horses in training is excellent. If a lence were built around the course it would be of service to drivers. It is expected by Thursday the track will be finish. ed. Already there are a number of fine horses in the stables waiting to begin work. John Doddridge has seven in charge. As yet they have not had their speed tested. They are all fine looking animals.

The stables were visited and were found to be as neat and clean as any well managed house. Everything is necessary for the comfort of the horses was found. "Joe Brewn," colt, owned by John Lemon, was the first an mal seen. It is clean limbed and promises to be speedy. In the next stall is "Lucy Groof." She will be three years old in July. "Billy B," owned by W. Burns, is also being put into racing form. "John A," the property of H. Hunter, is quite a speedy animal, and makes a good show when on the road. "Little Black Oak," of Quebec, and owned by John Dod dridge, is getting down to work.

C. Browning's bay mare is in good condition for trotting. M. Dorland has his four year old horse, "Dexter," under the care of Mr. Doddridge. A fine animal is W. Priest's mare. It arrived last week from Stanbridge, Que. She is under the supervision of H. Seeley. The animal is as pretty as a picture, with an elegant pair of feet and legs. She is six years old but has never yet made a record.

IT WAS A HORRID SELL.

A Last of April Joke Played on Unsuspecting Sydenhamites.

General relief and satisfaction was felt at Sydenham, last week, when a communication was received from the Kingston & Pembroke RR. officials extending a cordial invitation to the reeve and others of Sydenham to meet at Murvale station to assist in selecting a suitable point for the proposed branch railway to connect with the Kingston & Pembroke RR. At the appointed time (noon next day) a jubilant crowd of twenty, with the reeve as manager, left the village amid much cheering to meet the gentlemen from the city. Arriving at the station they had not long to wait as the express soon appeared, but it carried no officials The conduc tor and other Kingstonians had heard nothing of the arrangements, and then the villagers looked suspiciously at one another. However, they were informed that a special train was following the express and this "stilled the troubled waters" for a time, but when the special arrived it proved to be an engine drawing a number of flat cars. Then the truth could no longer be concealed. They were the victims of a joke.

They had arranged to have some stimulants come on the express, but these were carried north. Of course the train hands never suspected that an innocent tea ehest contained consolation for a disappointed crowd. Some of the delegates proposed staying until darkness would hide their faces from the cruel gaze of those who were fortunate enough to remain at home, but cold, hunger and thirst drove them Sydenham-ward with drooping colours ere the sun went down.

POLICE COURT INCIDENTS.

Various Preminent Persons are Taken'in Hand by the Judge.

This morning John Larkin, who threaten ed to shoot his wife and do her grievous bodily harm, was bound over to keep the peace. When the magistrate asked Mrs. Larkin if she was satisfied to have her husband bound over she said, "Yes, I don't want John sent away from me if he will only give up liquor." Turning to her husband in the dock she said, "John, do you think you can give up liquor." He said : "Yes, I think I can." The magistrate allow ed him to go.

An alderman was fined $2 and costs for assaulting a young man. J. Murphy; for drunkenness, was fined $2 and costs.

A Princess street merchant who said to another that men like him should be in the penitentiary, and that he was mean and dishonest, was taxed $2 and costs. The plaintiff said defendant called him an infernal rogue and a robber, and that he would have him expelled from the Ancient Order of United Workmen. The defendant explained that he asked plaintiff for the amount of an account and was refused it. He told plaintiff he was a dishonest man, and that men of his principle should be in the penitentiary and not allowed to defraud the public. He would repeat the words

The witness then spoke directly to the magistrate: "Why should a man, wearing good clothes, high collars and fancy cuff battons, while doing business be allowed to defraud a poor man like me who works fourteen hours a day for my money. Why should I and the public be asked to work for such men. There are too many men of that stamp in the world."

The magistrate said defendant had no right to abuse any man in his place of business, and fined him. The defendant contended that he was being treated unfairly. This morning H. H. Curtis, J. Theobald, J. Stratford, and H. Switzer were summoned as interested in a cock fight. None of them appeared. They were represented by W. Mundell. He asked that the trial be adjourned as he wanted to find out particulars. "Why," said the magistrate, "!

thought the young men interested were coming to court this morning to plead guilty to the charge." Mr. Mundell was of a dif ferent opinion. The case was adjourned until Friday, when a host of witnesses will be examined.

"Your honor," said the old man, "I am not incane, but sick and weak, and my sons cruel treatment has made me so. They have beaten me and turned my wife from the house." "Yes," continued his wife, "and we want to go back to Canada. We will get some money out of a lawsuit there pretty sure, and that's why this charge is made. I am my husband's second wife, and his sons want to get their father's money.' The case was continued and Friday's Inter-Ocean says . "John Smith, whose son, John Smith, jr., an employee of Armour & Co., wants to support him at Jefferson asylum, was sent there temporarily. His wife, an Englishwoman, who charges that it was the cruelty of his son which affected her husband's mind, was anxious to take him back with her to Kingston, Canada, where he was once a wealthy citizen, and where she had many friends who would help her take care of him. The judge granted her a week to see if she could make arrangements for her husband's reception at some Canadian hospital, and she thanked him effusively.

BLESSED ARE THE DEAD.

THEY FORMERLY WORSHIPPED IN QUEEN STREET CHURCH.

Those Gathered to Rest Who Were Promi. pent in Church Work - Some Aged Mothers Who Lived Holy Lives-Brief Sketches of the Deceased Members.

Rev. Richard Whiting, pastor of Queen street Methodist church, delivered an impressive sermon last evening at the memorial service. Suitable hymns were sung and the choir rendered, finely, two selections of a mournful character. Mr. Whiting said that during the past three years some fifty funerals had been attended by himself and colleague. Five little girls had been transplanted from the Sabbath school, but not one boy was removed. God had wonderfully preserved them for some wise and good purpose Then brief obituary notices were read of thirteen members prominent in church work. These were Thomas Farrelly, a good old soldier of Queen Victoria. James Burgess, a true follower of Christ, quiet, obtrusive in life, peaceful and tranquil in death. Robert Forsyth, full of years, went to join his numerous friends in heaven. Annie English, a mother in Israel, (mother of Mrs. W. Ford) was a woman of more than ordinary intelligence and retentive memory. She was a perfect magazine of information in reference to early Methodism in Canada. She feared the Lord from her youth, and adorned her Christian profession by a holy life and Godly consecration. As she lived so she died. John Bryant, who would rather be a doorkeeper in the house of God than dwell in the tents of wickedness, was a pattern of quiet, manly piety. His wife, Sarah Bryant, who preceded him, was a woman of a lovely spirit, one who lived in constant fellow ship with Christ, who passed through much affliction, patiently enduring her heavenly Father's will. John Johnston, who loved the house of God so well, went joyously to "dwell in the house of the Lord forever. His daughter, Miss Annie Johnson, a bright, cheerful Christian, ever ready to do or to suffer, in her Master's cause, was possessed of a sympathetic nature and feeble constitution, which gave way while waiting on her dying father. She lingered long before going home to rest, leaving to all the legacy and benediction of a holy life. Margaret Walsh was taken from the midst of an in teresting family after terrible suffering. Her faith never faltered. Hugh Peters bid fair to be a useful member of the church below, but he was soon removed to the church in heaven. John Wood, a member of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor, lived a life of suffering, and died peacefully and joyously. Maria Warwick, a follower of Christ from her youth, saw her seven children, left fatherless eighteen years before, comfortably settled in life and then with good old Simeon she said : "Now Lord lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, and on January 6th, 1889, at a moment's call, she was "absent from the body and present with the Lord. Margaret Patton, aged 96 years, was converted to God in early life. She sat under the ministry of Gideon Ouseley and other noted Methodist preachers of that day. Having lived through nearly a century most of her associates and acquaintances passed over to the other side before her. Through all the changing scenes of life she cleaved to Christ with true purpose of heart. On Tuesday last she fell asleep in Jesus.
