SECOND EDITION.

HE WOULD LIKE IT.

The Prince of Wales Not Unwilling to Go to Ireland.

NEW YORK, May 14.—Edmund Yates, in his London letter to the Tribune, says: "There is a very general impression that Mr. Howarth's letter to the Times, on the Irish vice-royalty, was intended as a feeler to see in what direction opinion as regards it is going. The only member of the royal family who could go to Ireland would be the Prince of Wales.

"It is no secret that the Prince of Wales has always had strong feelings about a royal residence in Ireland, and many years ago one of his most confidential and trusted advisers, empowered by him, made known his opinions to the Queen with a view to his going to Ireland in some capacity as her representative, if she felt she would be unable to do so herself.

"The Queen was much displeased and expressed her feelings strongly as well as her desire that the subject should never be mentioned again and the prince not wishing to put himself into opposition to the crown, let the matter rest. The difficulty in finding a successor to Lord Londonderry has brought the question up again and I believe the prince would gladly accept the position and undertake its duties if the country wished it.

"His position then would be different from that of a lord-lieutenant who must reside in Ireland the greater part of the year, whereas were the prince to go to Ireland a residence of a few weeks, during the Dublin season from January to March, would be all he would be asked to do which arrangement would not clash with his English engagements."

A Place to Move To.

NORFOLK, Va., May 14.—A northern syndicate has purchased 30,000 acres of land in Norfolk county, Va., and Currituck and Camden counties, North Carolina. Eleven thousand acres of the land will be divided into farms of fifty acres each. This land is all cleared and is as fertile as any in Virginia or North Carolina. All of the farms will be disposed of to settlers from Canada and Western New York, who will pay for them on the instalment plan. The company will lay off a town of three hundred acres above Moyock, where it is proposed to erect cotton, furniture, shingle and mattress factories, and build brick kilns and saw mills.

They Will Both Fall.

PARIS, May 14.—The Nineteenth Century, in an apparently inspired article, says the senatorial court finds difficulty in framing a specific charge against Gen. Boulanger. Some senators propose that a noite prosequi be offered, others that he be tried at the assizes, and still others that he be court-martialed. It is believed, the paper says, that the proceedings against Gen. Boulanger will fail, and that the prosecution of M. Rochefort will be abandoned.

A Dangerous Measure.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 14.—In the senate to-day, Laughlin's bill to incorporate the River Bridge company (to give the Canadian Pacific Railway Co., a bridge over Niagara river) was opposed by Linson, who characterized it as a dangerous measure and asked that the bill be recommitted to the railroad committee. Laughlin defended the bill, but Linson's motion was carried 20 to 1.

They Fought in Paris.

NEW YORK, May 14.—A Paris despatch to the World says the Rue Scribe was enveloped yesterday afternoon by a street fight between Clinton Ferry, the Tacoma millionaire, and Hippolyte LeCleve, the salesman whom he charged with having been on terms of great intimacy with Mrs. Ferry. Ferry blackened LeCleve's eyes and made his nose bleed, but had a rib broken. Both were taken to the police station but were released.

LORD LONSDALE'S JAUNT.

A NATURALIST'S TRIP TO THE FAR NORTH—SOME EXPERIENCES.

The Alaska Gold Really Exists on Canadian Soil—Hay River Falls—Narrative of Remarkable Adventures—Observations on the Northern Country. Winnipeg Free Press.

Lord Lonsdale, Sir Hugh Cecil Lowther, is here from his celebrated northern trip. He went north in the interests of the Scottish Naturalist society to find out how far north animal life extends, and that the limit of animal life would be the limit of his travels. To this purpose he adhered strictly, and he says that he has collected over 300 specimens of birds and skeletons of all sorts of animals. He went as far north as the 75th parallel, because he found animal life existing there. It was not true that he had broken his arm, and he had never had a day's illness. As to the reported letter from a Moravian missionary stating that he had experienced temperature of 110 below zero, his lordship says that the coldest weather he experienced was 64 below zero. As to another apparent exaggeration that he had travelled 200 miles a day by dog train he observed that the longest distance made in one day was, on glare ice, sixty-four miles. He kept an accurate record of every yard he had travelled, and he considered thirty-five miles a day a good average; though some days in the mountains he had worked hard all day without travelling much over ten miles. As to his having discovered a fall 200 feet high and 2½ miles long, he declared it to be perfectly ridiculous. He had seen the falls of the Hay river, which, in two falls, was probably the most beautiful cataract in the world.

Besides his study of animal life Lord Lonsdale observed closely everything relating to the soil, climate and productions, minerals, etc., of the districts through which he has passed. He carries away with him boxes of minerals, specimens of gold, silver, copper, coal, etc. He says he found no anthracite or bituminous coal; he found a certain amount of lignite, but not enough in one place to pay for working. Mackenzie river district he considered unfavorable for mining industries, and unsuited to agriculture. At the mouth of the Mackenzie he was detained all through June and up to July 10th stuck between two icebergs; and at the latter date there was not a bud out. A certain portion of the Peace river district he considered good for cattle ranching but absolutely useless for grain on account of the early frosts.

Regarding the gold excitement in Alaska Lord Lonsdale says that the gold is entirely in Canadian soil, and that on the Yukon there are no diggings worth anything.

At Green Bay he procured four Hudson Bay sleds and dogs; and from there he went to Isle la Crosse, where the game of lacrosse originated. It was now April, and he had to travel mostly at night, when there was a good crust on the snow. He went on to Buffalo Lake, where a terrible storm was encountered. For the last twenty miles down the Peace river there were eighteen inches of water on top of the ice. The ice did not break until the 4th of May.

At Fort Smith an ice jam was encountered and the boat narrowly escaped being sucked under. Athabasca lake was crossed through a fissure in the ice, which afterwards closed, cracking the stern of the boat in doing so. The ice remained solid for fourteen days. On going down Peace River to Smith's Rapids his lordship started to walk across, and becoming separated from the others was obliged to spend three days without food. Farther down the Peace River he saw a very remarkable formation of salt. From it the Hudson's Bay company get their supply. He also found mines of mica, the mica in some of them existing in blocks eight to twelve feet square.

On June 5th he tried to sail around Buffalo lake, but was prevented by ice. He found here a great many very fine sulphur springs, but no good land, and hardly any timber. The party reached Hay river about July 11th near where the Mackenzie river rises. Here was the water fall referred to. Bishop Bompas has named it the Alexandra Falls after the Princess of Wales.

His lordship had a very lively time in visiting the Mackenzie river Esquimaux, who were described to him as very savage and hating white people. He found them to be almost a veritable race of giants; one man measured 6 feet 4 inches and another 6 feet and 1½ inches, and almost all of them were larger men than himself. (His lordship is six feet in height.) In the course of a dance they yelled and ran at him with knives to frighten him. He got to be on very friendly terms with the chief, who made him a present of a very handsome suit.

She Elope With a Negro.

WINCHESTER, Ky., May 14.—Yesterday Milton Richmond, a burly negro, started to elope with Lida Strong, the sixteen year old granddaughter of Judge Strong. Strong, with a band of officers, pursued. When they overtook Richmond he fired, sending a bullet through Strong's hand. The party returned the fire, killing Richmond. The girl escaped unhurt. When they returned home her father, Pearl Strong, who had been absent, had got back. He fired at his daughter, and missing her, tried to shoot himself. He inflicted a bad flesh wound. His pistol was then taken away.

A Lord's Debts.

LONDON, May 14.—Lord Mandeville has arranged a scheme to satisfy his creditors. It comprises an execution to a trustee on behalf of the creditors of the mortgage on fee of the entailed estates in Ireland of the Duke of Manchester for an amount which will permit payment to the creditors within a few years after the decease of the present Duke of 20 shillings on the pound.

A Cousin the Purchaser.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., May 14.—The property of Charles G. Fracklyn, at Elberon, was sold yesterday afternoon. The hotel and furniture brought $50,000 and the Garfield cottage and furniture $25,000. They were purchased by W. D. Guthrie, on behalf of Mrs. Gosling, of England, Fracklyn's cousin. She held upon the property a mortgage of $100,000.

The Way It Ended.

MASON CITY, Iowa, May 14.—John Forester and William Nolan, of New Hampton, became drunk Saturday. The former in his drunken stupor laid on the railroad track and was killed. Nolan drove off a bridge and broke his neck.

The trustees of the Brooklyn bridge have decided to double the track facilities of the structure. Half a million dollars will be expended for the improvement.

THE ENGLISH MARRIAGE LAWS.

History of the Agitation to Legalize Marriage With a Deceased Wife's Sister.

LONDON, May 14.—The bill which seeks to legalize the marriage with a deceased wife's sister made its annual appearance in the house of lords and was duly rejected, this time by a majority of 27, the bishops as usual assembling in full force and voting en masse against it. The Prince of Wales also, as usual, did his best to induce the peers to support the bill, and recorded his own vote in its favour. The history of the bill is curious.

Years ago some wealthy men, who had contracted illegal unions with their sisters-in-law, met and agreed to subsidize an agitation in favour of the change of the marriage laws by means of this bill. The agitation has since kept going, entirely by the money of the rich people personally interested in seeing the law changed. There is little popular interest in the question.

The Prince of Wales originally championed the bill for family reasons, the Queen being desirous that the Princess Beatrice should marry her brother-in-law, the Grand Duke of Hesse. Ultimately she got tired of waiting and married young Battenberg, but the Prince of Wales has remained faithful to the cause. The house of commons has frequently passed the bill and on occasions its promoters have caught the bishops napping and rushed the second reading by a small majority, but at a later stage the Lord's spiritual, mustered in overwhelming force, and threw out the bill.

It is probable the bill would pass if the promoters would drop the clause making its operation retroactive, but this would not suit the noble and wealthy patrons who want their irregular unions legalized and their offspring legitimized at the same time, nor the few hundred humbler couples, who every year defy the law and marry within the prohibited degree. The discussion recalls the remark of an American that Englishmen seem to always marry the wrong sister first.

TREATMENT OF LUNATICS.

A Horrible Condition of Affairs in the Great Asylum at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ills., May 14.—In the insane asylum investigation yesterday the evidence was to the effect that the patients were fed on pigs' heads for a year with potatoes for vegetables once a week. There was no service and the patients fought for possession of the potatoes with the result that the weak got none and over fifty of the inmates became afflicted with scurvy. This was under a former administration. One of the medical staff testified that in one ward there were twenty eight violent patients with only nine rooms to care for them in, or an average of three in each room. It was absolutely necessary to have only one or two in some of the rooms so that four persons were crowded into others. These rooms are 5½ x 10 feet in size. The beds are 2½ feet wide, but in many cases two patients are forced to sleep in them. Under such circumstances with insufficient attendance, the patients would clamber over the cots and fight and the medical attendant was frequently called up six or eight times in a night to get to patients who were attempting to commit suicide or murder. This state of affairs was reported to the members of the county board but nothing was done to remedy it. Only one and one-half yards of flannel to each patient was furnished last winter. Mrs. Shedd testified that she had heard that some of the male patients had keys to the doors of the female wards.

The board of county commissioners have passed a resolution naming a committee of prominent citizens to recommend a suitable person to be appointed medical superintendent of the asylum to succeed Dr. Kiernan.

A BUILDING CAVED IN.

A Tremendous Storm Causes the Collapse of a Fine Structure.

TACOMA, W. T., May 14.—Shortly before six o'clock last night between fifteen and twenty men were at work in a new building being erected for an hotel. Suddenly a tremendous storm came up and the structure collapsed, burying the workmen in the ruins. The body of Walter Bates, the owner, was first taken out, then two injured workmen, and then a workman named McConnell, who was dead. W. H. Snell, who, one week ago, was elected city attorney, was taken out seriously injured. Three other dead bodies were recovered, but they have not been identified. Stifled moans were heard in the ruins, and others must be buried there. Rev. W. A. Mackay, pastor of the Presbyterian church, who stopped to seek shelter from the rain in the building, was severely injured.

ROASTED TO DEATH.

Suffering Untold Agony He Dictates His Will and Arranges His Funeral.

DENVER, Col., May 14.—A freight engine doing switching near Bailey station ran into a boulder on the track and was ditched. Fireman Charles Lapmao was caught under the red hot fire box. He laid in that position, with his head only out from under the machinery, for over an hour suffering untold agony, no one being able to render assistance. Just before he expired he called a brakeman, and while half of his body was roasting from the heat of the engine, dictated his will, leaving $15,000 to his two brothers in San Francisco. He gave instructions regarding his funeral and who he desired to conduct the services, then he offered prayer and died. The body was brought here to be shipped to San Francisco. Several other train men were injured.

A HORRIBLE STOMACH-FULL.

Cockroaches Creep Down the Throat of a Sleeping Child.

HAMILTON, Ont., May 14.—Mrs. W. Amos, wife of W. Amos, saloon-keeper, was alarmed by the cry of her five-year-old child the other day, and, on going to the rescue, found a live cockroach in the child's mouth. The youngster sickened and vomited two more live cockroaches. A physician was called and administered a mild emetic, when the child vomited several more cockroaches, one of them being nearly an inch in length, and three of them alive. It is thought the cockroaches crawled into the child's stomach while it was asleep.

A Doctor's Experiment on Himself.

CLEFFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., May 14.—Dr. Frank L. Vincent, brother of Bishop Vincent, of the M. E. Church, was found dead in his office at the sanitarium. He had been suffering for a few days from nervous troubles, and was testing the tripod suspension treatment on himself and evidently became helpless in self treatment and died while in the act of testing the remedy.

A MONSTER SERPENT SEEN.

The St. Lawrence Serpent a Little Fish Compared With It.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 14.—Captain Smith, first officer of the steamer British Princess, which arrived yesterday, from Liverpool, reports that on May 4, lat. 44, long. 42 40, he saw an enormous sea serpent. It was at daybreak and Smith and the fourth mate were on the bridge at the time. Smith chanced to look astern and saw something in the water 100 yards away. To the naked eye it appeared as a large black object sticking out of the water in a perpendicular position like a long spar or buoy. Smith seized the glasses to make it out more plainly and saw it was alive. Above the water rose the head and neck of a tremendous monster. The head resembled in size and shape "the top of a beef barrel," as Smith puts it. The body, though completely submerged, could be made out plainly by the disturbance of the water around it, and 300 feet away from where the head and neck stood out of the water the monster's tail was beating and lashing the sea into foam. Smith turned to send for Capt. Freeth, the Princess' commander, but before he could give the order the sea serpent had disappeared. Smith has hitherto been a disbeliever in sea serpent stories.

POWER TO TRY HIM.

Decision in the Case of Dr. King—His Lordship Will Appeal.

LONDON, May 14.—The decision of the Archbishop of Canterbury, claiming the power to try a bishop of the Church of England, practically makes the primacy an Anglican pope. The Bishop of Lincoln was attacked by the Low church party on the score of ritualistic practices. The bishop asked to be tried before a council of bishops. His opponents maintained that the archbishop was competent alone, and the primacy has now decided with them. The Bishop of Lincoln will probably appeal to the privy council.
