THE HERO'S HAND

Boulanger's Palm Mapped by a Professor of Palmistry.

WHAT THE LINES ON IT SHOW.

His Line of Life Indicates That He Can Inhabit This Planet Just Thirteen Years More—It is the Sun That Has Shaped His Career.

A professor of "the science of palmistry" has mapped Boulanger's hand and told what it indicates; the papers have pictured it, and now The New York Herald devotes two columns to it.

This does not refer to his "hand" at poker, or his hand in public affairs, but his every day physical hand and its lines and indications as palmistry explains them.

Boulanger's line of life gives him thirteen years more, at least, according to Professor Bue, who adds that the hand is small, the grasp fine and the fingers flexible, indicating good adaptation to circumstances.

rapidly. Now, therefore, we all know why Floquet's sword through Boulanger's neck, in their duel, did not kill him.

But it is not all smooth sailing with Boulanger after all, for the line Saturnienne, one of the minor lines and correlative with chance, wobbles around in a most reprehensible manner, indicating great perils this year, out of which the general will come in triumph.

Points About Tramps. A hanging in a country town brings together all the tramps in the vicinity; the occasion has a sort of fascination for them, though the execution is nowadays in an inclosure and witnessed by but a few.

An Old Marriage Notice. At Herculaneum, Mo., May 23, 1891, John W. Honey, Esq., to Miss Mary S. Austen: From sweet flowers the busy bee Can scarce a drop of honey gather; How sweet a flower is she Who comes to Honey altogether.

A NOTED EDUCATOR GONE.

Death of Ex-President Barnard, of Columbia College.

Education has lost no brighter light in many a year than the late President Barnard, of Columbia college; and few have maintained so prominent a position as a teacher for so long a period.

Frederick Augustus Porter Barnard, D. D., LL. D., Ph. D., was born in Sheffield, Mass., in 1809, and was consequently 80 years old at the time of his death.

In 1854 Professor Barnard entered the ministry of the Episcopal church, and in the same year became professor of mathematics, astronomy and civil engineering in the University of Mississippi, becoming its president in 1856, and chancellor in 1858.

the civil war came on he resigned from the university and came north. He had been engaged in writing for publication for many years, and by this time was very well known.

President Barnard's writings began while he was a teacher of deaf mutes, when he published a number of papers on the subject of their instruction and an "Analytic Grammar, with Symbolic Illustrations," which is still in use by them.

The broader scope of education in American colleges today is largely due to President Barnard. He constantly advocated adding to the scientific departments and a substitution of the practical for the obsolete, and, as will be noticed from the subjects of his essays mentioned above, was constantly suggesting changes.

Robert Adams, Jr., appointed by President Harrison United States minister to Brazil, was born in Philadelphia in 1849. He was graduated at the University of Pennsylvania in 1869, after which he spent a year traveling in Europe.

Money Under the Mast. That masts of vessels are set on pieces of gold or silver sounds absurd and Ananias-like. One day, however, while attending a launch at an East Boston shipyard, said a Massachusetts man, I stopped for a moment to watch workmen taking the stumps out of a vessel that had been dismantled.
