KINGSTON GERRYMANDER. Mr. J. H. Metcalfe, local member for Kingston, has, in an address before the Young Conservatives of Toronto, attacked the gerrymander of the township of Kingston into the city for provincial electoral purposes. He claims that it was done to make the constituency absolutely safe for Reform candidates. It such be the case it is utterly unknown to the Reformers of Kingston, for they never asked for the change, and so far from being consulted about it, did not, so far as was ever heard, know of it until the plan appeared in the daily papers after introduction to parliament. Being entirely innocent of any knowledge or design they are not obligated to defend it, but yet distinctly repudiate the idea that they had not the courage and strength within themselves as a city organization to win the constituency back to the Reform principles it proudly carried for eight years, after a quarter city. of a century of blind and profitless support of clique rule which left Kingston poorer, duller and more despised year by year. The government, in increasing the size of the constituency, have most assuredly equalized the represeutation, while disturbing old electoral lines as little as possible. What more can be desired in the public interest? The gerrymander is defensible, not so the hiving scheme of the Dominion premier. While the representative politicians of this section had a right to be consulted, and were for the third con-

THE LABOUR MOVEMENT. All eyes are turned these days to the news of strikes and labour difficulties, the records of which are filling columns in the papers. Labor appears to be gotting the best of it, and must in time assume a power which the capitalists cannot insult or ignore. And it is this thought which puts man to philosophia ing upon the possibilities of the future. "The time must come," says the Chicago Inter Chean, the special friend of the workingmen, "when stubbornness and prejudice on either side will count for less than they do bow. It is not a question of the personal triumph of this man or that, of this class or that, but of the welfare of people who are striving to make this country what it should be. As there is a chance that the workingman of this day may become the employers of the next generation, hope for fair settlement is based on that chance on that possibility or probability. If representative workingmen of this generation achieve such measures of success as will make them the employers in the next, their experience and their sympathy ought to do much toward bringing about better relations between employer and employee. There is certainly more disposition pow among cor-considerately than there was twenty or thirty years ago. This progressive movement will continue unless under bad advice the labor associations make so rays a mistake as to produce a reac tion. This, we believe, the intelligent workingmen will prevent." There is no doubt of this fact, that at the present moment the espitalists are filled with anxiety quite as much as the men they employ, and there are indiscreet ones among all classes of people. No one can dispute the unwisdom of Hon. Frank Smith's action in discharg ing the drivers and conductors of the nent is now at the navy yard, Washing-Toronto street railway simply because they joined the Knights of Labour. The men made no demands upon the company, they had done nothing to offend, and the effort to crush out their hopes and aspirations, to grind them under the heels of a merciless monopoly because they banded together for mutual his leg. He remained suspended till his benefit, has not and will not win the applause of the Toronto people.
