HIS TOUR OF TRIUMPH.

OVATION IS TENDERED TO GLAD STONE EN ROUTE TO SCOTLAND.

The Old Man Quite Hopeful of Success-What Eise Boes the People's Enthusiasm

London, June 17 .-- At Luton and Bed ford crowds were at the station and beered Mr. Gladstone as his train sped by en route to Scotland. No stop was made until Leicester was reached. Here there was an enormous gathering which gave the premier an enthusiastic greeting. A few groans were heard from the outside of the crowd. A committee presented Mr. Gladstone with an address expressing confidence in him and his Irish scheme, and the premier made a brief reply. After thanking the peo-ple for their reception he said: "Time is not allowed me to dwell fully upon the

Mr. Gladstone's speech was received with wild enthusiasm by the

Here, as at the other places, there were huge crowds, composed of not only the inhabitants of Trent, but of people from Nottingham, Ilkestones, and every other place near by. Addresses and bouquets were thrust in through the window of the premier's coach and the enthusiasm of the people was unbounded. Railway employees lined the route for a distance of half a mile. Gladstone bowed and smiled, but did not speak.

A crowd of immense proportions awaited the train at Galashiels. On its arrival Mr. Gladstone was conducted to a platform to receive the following address : "As a committee, appointed by a crowled meeting of Liberals of Galashiels, which with only three dissenters, resolved to support the government and not to vote for any candidate who refused to grant to Ireland a legis. lature for the management of her domestic affairs, we herewith express our unswerving confidence in you and the government of which you are so illustrious a head. We trust that God will grant you strength to embody in our legislation the greatest of all Liberal principles, self-government."

THE PEOPLE ARE EXCITED. There is great excitement at Galashiels over the approaching elections. The opinions of the people on the Irish question are about equally divided. Mr. Gladstone will speak at Glasgow on Tuesday. The meeting which he will address will be held in Hengler's circus, which will hold 5,000 persons.

At Trent, in reply to an address from the Primitive Methodist conference, which is now sitting at Derby, Mr. Gladstone said he saw that they were deliberately set upon complying with the reasonable, determined and traditional desires of their fellow subjects in Ireland. If the nation performed its part at the polls, of which he had the strongest expectations, they should see the matter brought to a happy and speedy termination. PROPLE NEARLY RUN OVER.

At Normantown he received vociferous cheers of welcome from the large crowds The train employees had the utmost difficulty in preventing the people from falling under the wheels of the cars. There was a repetition of the reckless struggle to get near the carriage, of the eagerness to shake Mr. Gladstone's bands, and of the anxiety to entice him | 88 minutes and 26 seconds. to speak manifested at other points. Those in front of the crowd only were dresses from the Normautown and taken in the last elections. The conditoward, because the Irish vote, by Bremner & Hart's wharf fifteen years ago tactics now perhaps regretted, was not right prior to 1800. He believed the deceive. government would be successful in the coming elections.
