Slowly and surely, says the Hob, the meshes of the law are closing around the conspirators. Their desperate devices to delay the trial have one by one failed them. It is to be doubted whether they will attempt further to avail themselves of legal technicalities. The Commission of Judges has found them all guilty of the offences charged against them. The Court of Queen's Bench has decided that the offences house, brick front, 30x40; a good building lot 80 | charged against them are crimes against with small house in rear. There is a right of the common law of the land. There has ings against the law. It is quite evident to all observers that, on the day when the conspirators suddenly changed AMERICAN MEAT MARKET, their tactics—the day on which the grand jury returned a true bill against them, and they in their terror beheld the prison gates unfolding to receive them-the day on which they abandoned their protestations of anxiety for inves tigations and resorted to the tactics of obstruction and delay, they made a terrible mistake. The result of these tactics has been that the case has been cleared of all doubts. One after another the law points in the case have been decided against the conspirators. New evidence has been obtained, and the case against them has been made so
