Daily British Whig

"The sudden winding up of the Riel rebellion has surprised many. The idea that Canadians didn't know how to fight has received a powerful set back, and certain people won't fool with them quite so much hereafter." Such is the exclamation of the Detroit Free Press. Surely history must be strangled in United States books, as regards incursions across the line into Canada, when the credit of our countrymen for valor and fighting qualities is to be built up on the deeds at Batoche, Fish Creek and Cut Knife Creek. Have the memories of 1779, of 1812-14, and of 1837-8 been quite so soon obliterated?

Tory papers rave and storm because the Liberals have referred to the number of Conservatives that are appointed judges; thereby "insinuating" that these gentlemen allow politics to interfere with the discharge of their judicial duties. A far-fetched inference to be sure! But is the displeasure of the Tories not a matter of affectation? Have they the confidence in the judiciary which they profess to have? An answer in the affirmative is to be doubted, and why? They refuse to follow British precedent in the matter of appointing persons to revise the voters' list. In England the judges appoint the revising barristers; in Canada the government are to do it. There is a reason for this departure, but the Tories dare not state it candidly without reflecting upon the judiciary as no Liberal has ever done.

GOOD STAYING QUALITIES.

One of the best recommendations the city engineer had to the appointment was his solidity and firmness. He was not likely to be easily swayed by improper aldermanic influences, or captured by crude theories on the management or construction of public works. Events have fully justified the trust imposed in him,—at any rate he affords one good element of conservative management and will not ruthlessly remove the city's landmarks, no matter how furiously citizens of taste and progress may banter at him. A case in point: A number of dead trees, fifty at least, some of them twenty feet high, have stood for two years as spectacles of slovenly city government, and during all this time $75 a year has been paid out of the city treasury for the trimming of trees. It would bother the engineer to point out how $5 each year has been devoted to the trees out of this amount. It is a gross misappropriation in one of the branches of the engineer's department, of course, but meanwhile some one is having an easy job and the city's ancient character is being happily preserved. The summer visitors from Canadian cities and the Thousand Islands have the homelike feeling each year of noting the old familiar landmarks of the year before, the trees being a little blacker only by reason of added years since they passed through the sere and yellow leaf for the last time. Without its dead trees, its cow bells on the street cars, the old Molson house, and its ill-cared for park, Kingston would be relegated to the mediocrity and tame character of appearance.

CENTRAL PRISON AFFAIRS.

For a long time the Mail has been attacking the management of the Central Prison, and in such a way as to give foundation for the assumption that political considerations have had something to do with its hostility. Some days ago the assault of our contemporary upon Mr. Massie, warden of the prison, was so serious that he was forced to take notice of it, and a writ of libel was issued and served upon the publisher of the Mail. But while the papers were yet in process of preparation a second article was being put in type. It appeared on Saturday, and its chief accusation was thus set forth:

"Putting aside the cases of three prisoners, and the dreadful allegations concerning the practices to which certain prisoners are sometimes compelled to resort, owing to the neglect or cruelty of the guards in not providing them with buckets, it is alleged that Mr. Massie starved a prisoner named O'Neill until he became insane, then falsified the prison records to hide the tragedy. The story is that O'Neill was confined in a dark cell for 72 hours, wearing irons for 48 of them, and that he was then placed in his own cell and kept there without a bed, and on a diet of bread and water for 103 days. It is added that while the prison books show the amount of dark cell punishment which O'Neill suffered, they contain no reference whatever to the three months' torture which destroyed his reason, and further that Mr. Massie took no steps, as required by law, to have the prisoner formally declared insane by a county judge, the inference being that he was afraid to produce his victim in court."

It is to be regretted that the Mail and its correspondents could not await the result of the judicial investigation into prison affairs which the Legislature ordered and which would have brought out all the facts as fully as any action for libel can do. The second suit, the one taken by the warden in defence of his reputation and prison government, will, however, serve a useful purpose in securing a verdict the costliness of which, in any case, will convey a severe and never-to-be-forgotten lesson.

DOOLAN DEMANDS AN APOLOGY.

Dr. Jackson Makes a Remark About the Restaurant Keeper Which he Resents.

Yesterday morning Rev. Dr. Jackson, of the First Congregational Church, in the course of his sermon, explained to his hearers where rest could be found, and where it could not be found. He said that rest could not be found in riches or in pleasures. It could not be found in the opera house or in Tim Doolan's restaurant, or words to that effect. When the reverend gentleman mentioned Mr. Doolan many in the audience smiled. To-day Mr. Doolan got wind of the remark. He hired a cab and drove to the clergyman's residence and demanded an apology. Hot words are said to have passed between the restaurant keeper and the clergyman. The doctor is understood to have refused to comply with Mr. Doolan's demand, and he left the clergyman's residence in contemplation of an action for slander.

NO PRIVILEGED ORDER.

REV. B. F. BLAND CLAIMS THAT ALL LOVERS OF CHRIST ARE PATENTS.

Paragraphs From a Discourse Given Last Night—The Docket at the County Court—Very Little Crime—An Exciting Church Incident.

In Queen Street Methodist Church yesterday Rev. H. F. Bland made some interesting observations in the course of his discourses. One paragraph was to the effect that "the personal Christianity of the present day has too little melody it it. Worldly engagement and conformity mar the music. The lives of the first Christians and the first Methodists sang with praise. The full and strong piety of the latter found expression in that peculiar but fitting metre of our hymnology:

"Come let us ascend, my companion and friend.
To a taste of the banquet above;
If your heart be as mine, if for Jesus you pine.
Come up into the chariot of love."

"O come the day when the lives and tongues of the church on earth shall be a counterpart of those in heaven, when the doxology of one shall roll upward and that of the other downward, filling the universe with music and making the narrow stream of death the only dividing line between the church militant and triumphant."

The ordination ceremonies of the Methodist Church having been attacked during the week incidental reference was made to the matter. Mr. Bland said: "Under the Christian dispensation there is no privileged order of men that can claim the exclusive designation of priest simply by virtue of any ecclesiastical arrangement. Since our Great High Priest offered himself without spot to you, the distinctions of a former dispensation in this respect have been abolished, and the veil of its temple significantly rent in twain. Now, the great sacrifice being offered, and the only sacrifice remaining to be made being a personal one, all who believe in Jesus are priests and fulfil a nobler priesthood than did the chief officer of the Jewish dispensation, with his glittering breastplate, imposing sacerdotal robes and typical ceremonial observances. Indeed the latter was only a symbol of the former. The breastplate, the linen ephod, the bell, and the pomegranate on the fringe of the robe, music alternating with beauty, all find their highest embodiment in the moral and spiritual symmetry of the Christian, and as for privileged admission into the holy place, the inner sanctuary, while the one went and only was allowed to go once a year, the other by the blood of Jesus can go and bathe himself with the glory of the Shekinah any day of the year and any moment of the day. 'Hath made us priests unto God.'

THE OLD MAN ELOQUENT.

Dr. Douglass Before the Western Conference—The Scott Act Amendments.

Rev. Dr. Douglass, at the Hamilton Conference, said he would that his tongue could utter his thoughts. He said at Kingston that though he was a loyal man he entered his solemn protest that the Senate was an anachronism in this age and on this American continent. The oldest member of the Senate had told him that he never had seen such a scene of outrage as occurred in connection with the passing of this Bill. The ballot-box was our only hope. He had a tremendous conviction that the entire labor of men who had put their intellects, moral manhood and energies for the good of this country would be lost unless the church at the ballot-box saved the country from the dodging and palauering of those opposed to the temperance movement. (Applause.) Men would have to sacrifice partyism. In Hastings they had not done this. (Voices, "To true.") It was for them to say that victory would crown the movement from the Atlantic to the Pacific. (Tremendous applause.)

OPERATING FOR CANCER.

A Man's Cheek Dessected and the Deceased Parts Completely Rooted Out.

New York, June 8.—A remarkable case of cancer is being treated at the hospital here. L. G. Fairchild, Westchester county, farmer, three months ago, noticed a small red swelling upon the upper lip and supposed it was a pimple. It became gradually more painful and grew until the cheek was six inches thick. A week ago the doctors dissected the whole cheek and tore the cancer out by the roots. The patient is improving and it is believed will recover.

Both Gatling guns are being used in conjunction with the mounted force now in pursuit of Big Bear.

Coughs and Colds that we so frequently neglect, and which so often prove the seeds sown for a harvest of consumption, should have immediate and through treatment. A teaspoonful of Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion, taken whenever the cough is troublesome, will relieve the patient; and, prosecuted in, will effect a cure in the most obstinate cases.

KILLED AND WOUNDED.

A RATHER TARDY SUMMING UP OF THE REBEL LIFE LOSSES.

Those who Fell at the Different Fights—And Those who Surrendered to the General—Recovery of Some of Big Bear's Prisoners—Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Gowanlock Safe After All.

Le Manitoba publishes an exact list of the rebels killed in the four days' fighting at Batoche's. They were:—Elzear Touron, Calixte Touron, Damase Carrier, Donald Ross, Joseph Ouellette, père; Joseph Ouellette, fils; Jack Swam Joseph Delorme, Joseph Van Dale, Michael Trottier, Andre Lenondre.

There were five killed at Fish Creek, and four at Duck Lake, making twenty Metis killed since the commencement of the trouble; but a letter dated Batoche's, May 24, gives the total number of killed as 23. So that three of the wounded have died. Those killed at Fish Creek were: Joseph Vermette, St. Pierre Parenteau, Joseph Boyer, and a man named Desjarlois, as well as two Indians. The wounded were: Joseph Delorme (who is since reported dead,) Ambrose Jobin (who died a few days ago at Saskatoon,) Baptiste Boucher, Lejune Charles Lavallee, Daniel Gariepy, Romuld Gariepy, Maurice Henry, William Swain and E. Pierre.

The same journal also gives the following as the names of the rebels who surrendered themselves to Gen. Middleton at the same time as Riel: Maxime Lepine, Emmanuel Champage, Baptiste Rochleau, Jos. Pilon, Alexis Sabornarde, Pierriecho Parrenteau, Dolphice Nolin, Andrew Sauvage, Maxime Dubois, Baptiste Van Dale, Pierre Van Dale, Moise Ouilette, Phillippe Garnot, Patrick Touron, Francis Touron, Alex. Fisher, Albert Monkman, Wm. Jackson, Pierre Henry, Ignace Poitras and one of his sons, Joseph Arcand, and a Sioux Indian. Charles Nolin, Thomas Scott, James Isbister, and Henry Monkman have been released.

Word has been received here by mail giving details of great suffering and privation among the half-breeds, also stories of ill-usage by the troops.

A VERY WELCOME MESSAGE.

Some of Big Bear's Prisoners Released—Returning of Scouts to the Camp.

Winnipeg, June 8.—A dispatch from Battleford announces the arrival of another courier from Fort Pitt with the news of date June 6th. It brings the agreeable intelligence of the return of the Rev. Canon MacKay, who, with a party of eight scouts left Gen. Strange's camp some ten days ago, to intercede for the release of prisoners with Big Bear. They came across the camp of friendly Wood Cree Indians who surrendered to them Mrs. Delaney, Mrs. Gowanlock, and several half-breed prisoners. They were isolated from the main camp and therefore away from direct surveillance of Big Bear and his braves. Many other prisoners made their escape and have also arrived safely in camp. Two women relatives leave at once on their return to Ontario.

Winnipeg, June 8.—The latest despatch from the West indicates the break up of Big Bear's braves into several bands and their retirement north, with General Middleton in pursuit with 200 mounted men. Another correspondent gives the names of the prisoners who escaped June 2nd, as Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dufresne, Francois Dufresne and wife, and William Cameron. Dufresne has offered to go into the Indian camp with a message from Middleton. It is likely the offer will be taken advantage of. Cameron has deposed as to the names of the Indians who committed the atrocities at Frog Lake.

The steamer Alberta has returned to Battleford from Fort Pitt with Marcotte and Lemay, of the 56th Battalion, Montreal, and McRae, of Alberta Mounted Rifles, wounded in Gen. Strange's recent fight with Big Bear. Marcotte, reported killed at first and afterwards mortally wounded, will yet recover They go into the hospital at Battleford.

Mrs. Delaney and Mrs. Gowanlock say the Plain Crees wanted to murder them, but the half-breeds prevented it. Mr. McLean has to cut wood and haul water. Rev. Mr. McQuinney refused to work, and after that was never asked to do so.

DUMONT IS INTERVIEWED.

He Gives Circulation to a New Story—Riel a Man of Courage.

Benton Mountain, June 8.—Gabriel Dumont blames Lawrence Clark for precipitating the rebellion. He say he only had 26 men at Duck Lake, four of of whom were killed. He declares that Crozier fired first. Gabriel got a severe scalw wound in the fight at Irish Creek. His force was 47 men. With these he successfully stood off Middleton and his 600 men. Four half-breeds were killed. At Batoche they ran out of ammunition for their Winchesters or they could have gained the victory. Riel was in none of the fights. Dumont said Riel acted with courage, and not a single man was killed by Middleton's cannon or Gatling gun. They shot too high. He has a poor opinion of Middleton's men as fighters.

Mrs. Gowanlock and Mrs. Delaney attributed their protection from Indian ferocity to a friendly half breed named Pritchard. They have roamed about with Indians ever since the Frog Lake horror, but have suffered no indignaties whatever, other than the hardship incident to savage life. The McLean family and other prisons are still with Big Bear, and there is great hope that the Dufresne mission will result in the rescne of the remainder of the prisoners. Mrs. Gowanlock says Augustus Nolan, half breed prisoner at Duck Lake, gave his horses to save the ladies from the Indians.

A HORRIBLE SIGHT PRESENTED.

Finding Bodies at Fort Pitt—The Christian Burial they were Accorded.

Winnipeg, June 8.—A correspondent, writing from Frog Lake, gives a description of the scene upon the arrival of the Winnipeg light infantry on the Queen's birthday. The settlement consisted of the Roman Catholic Mission, mill, and some 8 or 9 settlers' houses. The church, parsonage mill, and every settlers' house was burned, and levelled to the ground, and the contents strewn around in the celler of parsonage. Guided there by the terrible smell one of the most awful sights ever seen was witnessed. Four dead bodies were found huddled together in a corner. Two of the bodies were those of Father Fafard and Father Laflace, and another was that of a lay brother; the fourth of some one unknown. The corpses were horribly mangled. All four heads were charred with the fire beyond recognition, and the four hearts had been torn out. Wide incisions had been made in the lower part of the stomachs, those who know the Indian method of torture well know for what purpose, and the feet and hands of some were missing. Every body was rotten with corruption, and when taken out of the cellar and laid upon the grass the sight was simply horrible. A fatigue party made four coffins and the four corpses were interred next morning. Capt. F. J. Clarke, No. 2 Co., Winnipeg Light Infantry, being the only Roman Catholic officer present, read the litany for the dead, and the bodies of the two priests and lay brother were reverently lowered into their graves. Col. Smith read the Church of England burial service over the body of the unknown man. This letter does not bear out the first report of a female corpse having been found in the well mutilated, and supposed to have been that of Mrs. Gowanlock.

FINANCE—COMMERCE

(Doran & Wright Co., Brokers, Clarence Street. R. J. ELDRICK, MANAGER.

Stock Market.

New York, June 8.—The Woerishoffer-Cammack parties continue very bearish in the market, and since they have covered their shorts they claim that the existing bear interest is not sufficiently large to manipulate higher prices upon, consequently they admitted, if the market opens strong and shows any activity during the forenoon to-day, they will supply the demand. The bull pools, which still exist, believe some arrangements will be made at Wednesday's meeting of the passenger agents which will considerably improve the present condition of affairs.

Brokers at the hotels yesterday did not believe that Vanderbilt's return from Europe would have any immediate beneficial effect upon the market; in fact persons who are very close to Mr. Vanderbilt say that he is quite out of the market. He has repeatedly expressed the opinion that in view of the general demoralization in business and railroad circles it is not improbable that a lower range of prices for both bonds and stocks will be made prior to any successful bull move being carried through.

New York, June 8.—The Herald of this morning says: "The situation of Wall Street is reflected in every capitol of Europe. The stories of cholera there have damaged the prospects of the railroads. The belief in peace has had no effect. Whether there is to be peace or war the investors are still shy. Improvement is likely to commence here as soon as in Europe."

Philadelphia, June 8.—The West Shore bond holders agreed to do nothing for a time. The bonds will be placed under the control of a committee, who will notify the owners when to join in movement for reorganization.

Chicago, June 8. (12 noon).—Easier. Bloom have sold a large line this morning. New York and Toledo markets weaking. The local crowd are selling out their long stuff.

Morris & Son's Letter.

New York, June 8.—The opening this morning was dull and somewhat heavy, and there was an ardent disposition on the part of the bears to put out fresh lines which, however, was counteracted by supporting orders in all the cliqued stocks, the result, of course, being that the market again settled down into a dull and spiritless condition with fluctuations, like angels visits, few and far between. How long this condition of affairs is to continue it is hard to predict, but it is just as possible that the bulls are preparing to give the market another twist, which temporarily will create a busy market. The future, however, offers little hope. The news from the iron and coal districts continues to be of the most distressing kind, and apart from manipulation there is nothing to encourage buying. Neither are there any legitimate buyers. The room traders incline to bull the side for a turn, but general feeling on the street is that lower prices must eventually prevail. Commission houses are in the meantime doing nothing, and room traders are perfectly satisfied with an ½. A rally is predicted in C. P. and N. W.

Grain Market.

Liverpool, June 8.—Wheat dull, no demand; the supply is good cargoes, off coast not much doing; corn quiet but steady with a poor demand.

London, June 8.—Arrived wheat and corn steady; to arrive wheat steady, corn firm. Markland wheat and corn quiet. English and French country markets quiet.

Chicago, June 8.—The shipments of corn to-day 2,688,215 bushels.

New York, June 8, (12 noon).—Wheat, No. 2, July, 101⅜. Aug., 103⅜ @ ½. Sept., 105½. Corn, No. 2, cash, 53½ bid. June, 53 @ ⅜. July, 53 @ ½. Aug., 53⅜ @ 54. Sept., 54½ @ ⅝.

Chicago, June 8, (1.15 p.m).—The market looks very strong. Men are afraid to play short side wheat any more for the present. Market breaks a little, and then none for sale, and looks to us like the manipulation and we fear will get into a wild speculation and carry wheat much higher. We would buy wheat.—C. C. & Co.

Montreal Stocks and Canal Tolls.

Montreal, June 8.—The stock market quiet to-day. Stocks about half per cent all around. A special meeting of the board of trade, corn exchange, shipping interest and merchants generally was held at noon to-day to receive the report of the committee appointed to draw up a petition to the government with reference to canal tolls. The meeting was well attended, and the committee presented a draft of the petition, which referred to good results which had flown from the emission of one half of the canal tolls on east bound grain last season, it having increased the volume of traffic on the St. Lawrence and stated that the imposition of these canal tolls and widespread stagnation of the general trade had again brought shipping business of the port to the verge of extinction, and it was impossible for the inland carriers of the dominion to revive their business, with heavy weight of taxation presently resting upon them, as they were in active competiton with free canal system of the United States, and the St. Lawrence route to the main line itself, and that unless relief was granted this important branch of commerce of the country would be turned into other and less heavily burdened channels, with injury to the whole dominion. The petitioners pray for relief in this direction. The report of the committee was adopted. After speeches in favour of the abolition by W. Ogilvie, W. C. Munderloh, D. A. P. Watt, John Magar and others Andrew Robertson promised that if the forwarders were ready to reduce the rates on grain from Kingston to Montreal ⅛ of a cent per bushel the harbour commissioners would reduce their harbour dues by one half.
