In the United States there were seven factories; one more would spoil the trade Each of the factories turn out from 1,400 to 1,600 pieces, of 12 yards each, per day. He said he was agreeably disappointed to find that Kingston was such a fine city. In Plainfield, N.J., he heard terrible reports about it. He was told that the snow was mountains high and that the people could not get out of their doors. These reports made him a little timid, but he has found that the climate is not so bad as reports make it
