The space for visitors and spectators at the Council Chamber was packed last evening, principally by the merchants their clerks and a few gentlemen of lei sure. They were anxious to hear the Aldermanic eloquence for and against Ald. Shaw's by-law, over which there has been so much agitation. Just after the members of the Council had got comfortably settled the by-law came up for a final reading. Ald. Then the merchant prince drew a comparison. He said that so long as licenses were granted to saloons drunkenness would exist, and that as long as temptation was placed in the way of people, by merchants exposing their goods the sidewalks, on boxes, barrels and bags, there would be pilfering and thiev ing. He remarked upon the feelings provoked by the sight of fruit on the outside stands, and some eved F. Rees' display suspiciously. He said was a great temptation to a man Col. THE OPPOSITION IN TUNE.

Ald, J. Wilson, with a sarcastic smile on his face, and a richly bound copy the consolidated by-laws in his hand, said that the Aldermen were stultifying themselves in wanting to pass such a by law. could wrestle with the question at the present sitting. If the by-law were delayed the Aldermen would be dogged by their constituents for another fortnight. There was certainly no further information to be wormed out of any body by a Committee. They could now decide whether the merchants should occupy two feet of the aidewalk and whether the display of goods on th streets was unsightly. NEW STEAMBOAT LINE ar Lakes and River Service to be Well Provided For-Last Scheme

J. E. Anderson, general passenger and freight agent, general superintendent Childs, division superindendents Lamphere and Canfield and other offi cials of the N. Y. O. W. RR., assembled at Oswego, and met Captain Cornell, of Toronto, owner of the steamer Rupert to arrange for a line of steamboats (two or three) to run on Lake Ontario in con nection with the railroad. The propos ed route is from Toronto to Oswego, via Charlotte, thence down to Alexandria Bay, then to Kingston and Oswego and back to Toronto after calling at Charlotte. This would give about six stops a week at this port. The chief object is to increase the passenger traffic of the road and capture nearly all the New York passengers from Northwestern Camada, as the trip could be made in less time than by other routes and considerably cheaper, besides a large share of the summer travel to the Islands. With this line of steamers running the N.Y.O. & W. road the West Shore, with which it is closely allied, would become strong competitors for this large and rapidly increasing business. It has been decided to shorten up the time between New York and Oswego and put
