Tilden has written a letter in which he distinctly, clearly and finally declines nomination as presidential candidate of the Democratic party. It must have flattered the old gentleman to find that the party was so unanimous in their choice and admiration of him, but he is now more desirons of peace and comfort than an honor which is not empty but carries with it innumerable anxieties and cares. There are, of course, many ambitious of office, but the names now beomed most are those of Bayard, Randall and Cleveland. The latter is regarded as Tilden's favorite, and it would not be surprising if he were the popular standard bearer.

A ofthe Pail Mull Gazette gives a longthy sketch of the home in London for the training of the hallelujah lasses of the Salvation Army. At the hall or congress there is a rigorous system of discipline tesy. maintained; and something of an educa tion impatted. The course of training lasts about six months, and at the end the soldiers go out into the world to fight their rough religious battle. It is the intention to provide a little cottage for the remaining days of those who grow too old and infirm for the continuance in active service, where they can drink tea and in imagination "fight their battles o'er again." It is a trying life, and will tend more quickly to fit its fol-DEDICATION SERVICE. Addresses will be delivered by Reva. Dr. Stevenson, H. Ped. rowers for the "little cottage" than any lev. Jno. In spite of the general repugnance to this peculiar cru sade, there is a great deal, after all, to excite, admiration, for many of these women are as much heroines as though they were ventable Joan d'Arc.

The organ question has been debated with considerable warmth in the annual assembly of the Free Church of Scotland. Last year, it seems, a motion was put and carried to the effect that there was nothing in the scriptures or in the constitution of the church which forbad the use of the kist o' whistles in connection with public worship. Prior to this time certain churches had adopt ed instrumental music, but the highremoval of old prejudices and the reconciliation of the people to the new warts in the assembly, and they stoutly est ecclesiastical court had not made any deliverance upon the much desubject. The resolution of the assembly was supported by a majority which indicated the rapid order of things. But there were staldefended their position, and in their parishes organized and conducted an agitation the significance of which was made apparent, when, against the resolution a year ago, a protest was sent in, and an appeal "to return to and abide by the good old way," signed by 82,000 members of the Free Church. The discussion which followed was participated in by some of the most eminent men on both sides, and when a vote was reached the champions of the organ

John Ashley, caretaker of the Court House, was one of these who witnessed the hanging of Hightower, in Picton, in 1838. Hightower was a stout fellow. with wobull dog head. He had been found guilty of rape, was hanged during Sheriff McMahon's term of office. The hanging was done in public, the scaffold being crected outside of one of the front windows of the Court House. The space in front of the scaffold was crowded with spectators. Men and women stood side by side anxious to see the fall of the criminal. When this did occur many of the women fainted. When Hightower came out on the scaffold he was asked if he had anything to say. He shrugged his shoulders, opened his mouth wide, showing a set of pearly teeth, and remarked: "Oh no! you can kiss all the ladies for me." The drop was made, Hightower flew thro' space and when he came to the end of the tether he bounded up over a foot. His death was very rapid. THUESDAY MORNING'S SESSION.

The Council resumed at 10:30 o'clock Mayor McCammon, Hon. G. A. Kirk patrick, M. P., Sheriff Ferguson and J B. Walkem, appeared and asked for grant towards the Midland Central Fair. The deputation solicited $1,000 in order to make the show an efficient one. Sheriff Ferguson made the opening address. He had thus been begging for farmers for forty years. The prizes in horses and cattle, he said, had been doubled, and so the country would be earnings for the past fiscal year are benefitted by the money.

Mayor McCammon pointed out that the city had given $1,250 to the show last year, though it had derived very little benefit from the expenditure. He nreed the council to double their contribution to the society, as the fair materially benefitted the farmers. Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick differed with
