Late on Saturday afternoon the str. St. Lawrence, having on board a number of gentlemen, went out for a trial trip. Her course was down the river for about ten miles, and her behaviour on the whole gratified her builders. Of course her machinery was somewhat stiff, and her boiler foamed as all new boilers do, but the results were better than were, under the circumstances, to be expected. The steamer is very sharp and has a beautiful sheer, and she cuts through the water like a knife. There was no commetion at the bow, and the feather wheels revolved with a velocity that indicated great speed as well as power. There is every reason to believe, judging by Saturday's test, that the steamer will make 16 or 18 measur ed miles an hour. Upon this point the wners no longer entertain anxiety. They are perfectly satisfied that they Ottawa postmastership, upotr which he will have not only one of the best looking, in every way the handsomest boat upon the river, but one of the fleetest She may be the fleetest.
