VAPORIC FORCE.

iy Hook on Saturday in presence of about 300 invited spectators who gathered to witness an exhibition of Keely's vaporic force applied to a gun, the same force that has for so long a time failed to make his famous motor souts. On arrival at Sandy Hook the Fort Hamilton band struck up "Some Day," though presumably nothing satirical was meant in the selection of that melody. There was the great John W. heely, who for the first time in his life had been induced to leave his labratory. He is a tall, iron-gray-haired man, with a determined expression of countenance. His fingers are buge and have large lumps like plums at the end, owing to his manual labours. Beside him were the not very formidable looking instruments to be exhibited. A small gen Vanilla, Lemon, Orange, etc., flavor Cahes, Creams, Puddings, &c., as delicately and pat-arally on the fruit from which they are unde. with a 1 i bore, setting upon the wheels; an iron receiver a yard and a half long. containing the mysterious force and connected with the gun by an iron wire tube 3-16 of an inch in diameter; a small intensifier, also connected with the gun : a wooden target 500 yards distant.

> There was so little apparatus that peo ple felt inclined to be disappointed, but Coll John Hamilton looked so busy and Mr. Keely so nervous that they felt quite satisfied. Mr. Keely took a small leaden ball, 4; ounces in weight, and with a wooden stick rammed it down the muzzle of the gun. He then took a hammer and in a necromantic tashion tapped the iron receiver containing the mysterious force. The crowd involuntary stepped back, expecting an explosion. Nothing but a metallic sound was heard. Mr. Keely stated that this action was to stimulate the vibratory force. Then turning a handle, the first experiment was concluded. The ball was projected from the gun with a short, sharp sound. There was no heat, the muzzle of the gun being as cold as it was before the ball had been placed in it. There was no smoke. There was very little recoil. The projectile was sent to a distance of 300 yards, the elevation used having been 2| degrees. "Wonderful " said Col. Hamilton. "Strange!" ejaculated the crowd. The next shot from an elevation of six degrees, struck the target one foot above the centre. The third shot passed to the left above the target. The fourth was attended with a similar resuit. The fifth struck the target at the bottom. The sixth and the seventh went to the left, and other shots were sent in rapid succession to show that the power in the receiver was

BY NO MEANS EXHAUSTED. The time of flight of the second shot was found to be 3; seconds. The velocity was then ascertained by means of Boulanger's initial velocimeter. One shot was found to be projected at the rate of 482 feet per second, the next at 492 feet per second, another at 523 feet per se cond, or at about one-third the velocity obtained by the Springfield rifle. Three three-inch spruce wood planks were then placed before the gun in order to FRADE MARY ENGLISH REMEDV, an unfailing ours 'or

A PLEA FOR LIBERTY

The following is the percration of Mr.

R. D. McGibbon, counsel for Mrs. Lynam, in closing an able speech on the celebrated insanity case in the Montreal practice court: "And now, your honor, I demand the discharge of Rose Lynam. For the past two years and a half she has been condemned to worsethan death. Forced to consert under a false name with furious lunatics, to have her ears greeted, not by the sooth ing comforts of the man who had undertaken before God and the church to love, cherish and protect her. not by the loving affection of the children she had given birth to, but abandoned by her husband to her tate, compelled to have her sanest speeches treated as the maniacal outpourings of a diseased mind, and to have her slumbers startled by the mad cries and horrible yells of her demented associates. And on what account? and on what authority? On the ipse dixit of a chimerical theorist -a mad doctor whose constant association with and life-long study of the lunatic have taught him no better lesson than that the greater portion of God's creatures are fools, and that once the mind of man is beclouded the darkness of madness must forever reign, and the sun of reason be forever dimmed. Vair him, futile the lender ministrations of 9th the saintly sisters, unavailing the pray ers for cure to Almighty God-once mad, always mad. No wonder the lunatics hopelesely sigh when his name is mentioned. But I say, out upon such theories, and pronounce it a disgrace that such fenets should be held. I believe your honor dissents from them. and, in that belief, and in the complete assurance that my client's sanity Las been trium-phantly demonstrated, I will leave the case in the hands of the court." As Mr. McGibbon concluded his eloquent appeal there was a burst of

And Declares That He Could Live Without the Plymouth Churen.

SNURS HIS FLOCK

The Brooklyn Times (rep.) contains an interview with a gentleman, described as a prominent member of the Plymouth church, who states that a conference of leading members of the church was held not long ago at which Mr. Beecher's political attitude was discussed. The ontcome of the meeting, according to the gentleman referred to, was a letter from assistant paster Halliday to Mr. Beecher, expressing the regret of the holders of the meeting at the latter's course, and the outcome of this letter was a somewhat brusque reply from the great preacher to the effect that he tolerated no interference with his political convictions, and that if the members of the church were dissatisfied with anything he did he was always ready to resign the pulpit and that he could live without Plymouth church. The I imes also publishes an interview with city treasurer Wheelock. (rep.) a member of Plymouth church and a warm friend of Mr. Beecher. Mr. Wheelock thought the above statement somewhat overdrawn, but admitted that Mr. Halli-tay and Mr. Beecher had corresponded on the subject, and that Mr. Beecher had used the phrase that he could live without Plymouth church.
