CANADA'S POSITION.

An Article Which Merits More Than Passing Interest Material for Serious ! hough!.

> The Atlantic Monthly, for December. contains an excellent article upon Canadian affairs. It is from the pen of Mr. Stanwood, a gent eman who seems to usderstand the situation thoroughly and to draw so he very sensible conclusions. He says :

What a Canadian may not do without torfeiting something as a penalty of his temeraty, an American may do. Of course it is permitted to the people of the Dominion to believe that the motive that prompts a writer on this side of the line to present the argument of territorial cupidity. But annexation, or union, which is the better term, is no longer considered as a probable event of the future by our most flighty orators. There would inevitably be a strong opposition to the acquisition of day.
