Daily British Whig.

Quarter per Annum, Dollar.

MONDAY EVENING, MARCH 26, 1883.

Mrs. Mackenzie, wife of Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, was waited upon on Thursday last by a number of the wives and friends of Liberal members of Parliament and presented her with a nicely worded address and an elegant bracelet, the occasion being the anniversary of her birthday.

A telegram this afternoon says that the residence of Sir Charles Tupper, Ottawa, has been purchased by Allen Gilmour, jr., for $18,000. The greater part of Sir Charles' furniture has been shipped to England. Sir Charles has not yet sent in his resignation, but it is said he will do so after he has made his explanations in the House on the progress of the Canada Pacific Railway. The names of Messrs. Ritchie and Daly, of Halifax, are mentioned as his probable successor in the Cabinet.

We have it on very good authority that it is the intention of the Conservatives to have protested every seat won by the Liberals in the late election, which, with the same tactics pursued in connection with the Muskoka campaign, they can have a chance of "redeeming." The news is not surprising, and our friends should not be caught off their guard. The situation seems to be a sort of diamond cut diamond, and backed by a majority of the people of the Province, the Government's prospects are not regarded with despair.

The Quebec Government have been adopting the tactics of the Dominion machine in holding protracted sessions in order to shut off the amendments of the Opposition to the Estimates. The House last week sat from Wednesday until Friday morning and forced "the enemy" to capitulate, but not before Mr. Mercier and those who have been dubbed "the gallant little band" had placed their opinions if not their resolutions upon record. The Times do not like criticism. The Quebec Government at any rate do not want the public to have their extravagance exposed, especially at a time when every method is being taken to add to the deficient revenue of the Province.

Mr. Gillies, of North Bruce, has given an uncertain sound as to the position he will occupy in the next Parliament. The Mail having classed him as an Oppositionist, he writes: "With regard to this affair I need only say that had a representative of the Mail been at Port Elgin at the nomination of candidates, on the 20th ult., and reported the facts in relation thereto, it would have been found that I stated on the hustings that day that I had always been a Liberal in politics and would continue to be so and if elected to represent North Bruce in the next Ontario Parliament I should accord the Mowat Government a general support. I may here say that nothing has since transpired, truthfully, in word or deed, to bar as I am concerned, that would justify anything being said to the contrary, by the Mail or through any other source."

A TRIBUTE TO THE WORK

The following from an article on "The Religious Future of the World," in the Contemporary Review for February, is an eloquent tribute to the work of the Salvation Army. It suggests more than it expresses. The method of these people is one with a vengance in it. On Sunday afternoon Capt. Wass read the verse, "Cry aloud, spare not, lift up thy voice like a trumpet, and show my people their transgression, and the house of Jacob their sins." "Cry aloud?" said he; "that's what the Salvation Army is doing. 'Lift up thy voice like a trumpet,' make a noise. That's why we have tambourines. If we would make no more noise than the Churches you would take no notice of us." The writer of the paper from which our extract is taken urges the value of Christianity as a gospel for the poor. "In proposing the Cross of Jesus Christ as the measure of the world it offers the highest and noblest solution of the great enigma," the utter vanity and illusiveness of human existence "which the world has ever received."

"An accomplished contemporary writer has spoken, with reason, of the 'unpleasant telepathy of the prosperous as an ensemble emotion.' More susceptible still is the full-fed optimism of the materialist—

'As eye well practised in nature, a spirit discerning to the pale mechanic of the device of 'a scientific creed' which takes from him every motive for contentment in life or hope in death; which kills for him the one thing that can awaken and redeem his existence of dull monotonous toil. Rough the notes would will always be for him. What matter if, by one effectual fervent prayer, he may pass from the haggardy ailments of physical pinemores to the great First Cause—Causa Causarum; if by one act of faith, hope or charity he may in a moment transport himself beyond the veil, where the spirits of the just made perfect, and Jesus, the Mediator of the new Covenant, are his companions; a true Garden of Eden, where after his dreary day is done, he may walk with God in the cool of the evening. Naturalism driven him out from that Paradise, and shuts against him that upward path which leads to God. And the one thing which remains for him to render life endurable is to drown in his Sunday's drunkenness the remembrance of his week of treadmill existence. As I write, the rollicking tones of the Salvationists fall upon my ears—happily from a distance. I do not greatly admire or willingly encounter those street enthusiasts. The viewer's relation to the two pages, 'God be with you, and God mend your manners,' accurately represents my personal feelings about them, although, indeed, I could well desire that their religious encouragement should be marked too. But when I think of what life actually is to those whom 'General' Booth and his 'Army' go forth to seek and to save, I am forced to own that those ignorant and disconsolate fanatics are doing a better, nobler and a more practically useful work than all the petitioners of prayers in the world put together."

EASTER DAY.

Services in the Churches — Special Musical Attractions—A Joy ous Festival.

Jesus Christ is risen to-day!
Alleluia.
Our triumphant holiday
Alleluia.

Venner was astray greatly in his prediction of "great storm and blizzard with snow and rain-falls and heavy gales from one end of the Dominion to the other" for Easter Sunday. It was a charming day, as Easter generally is. Providence seems to throw a silver sunlit over it, in happy keeping with its religious character, just as Good Friday is so often noticed to have time for showering skies. This characteristic of the festival probably gave rise to the old tradition that the sun dances on Easter morn. Yesterday old Sol was effulgent enough to have created a sensation greater than Wiggins had he thrown aside his majesty for the glory of a jig.

SERVICE IN THE CHURCHES.

In all of the churches, save the First Congregational, where sad memorial tributes was paid to an honored name, the services partook of the joyous nature of the Festival of Festivals, the day which celebrates events that form the keystone to the arch of Christ's salvation. Without Easter, christianity would be a blank, a meaningless and impotent religion. In the Anglican Churches the number of communicants was very large, communion services being held at 8 and 11 a.m. in all of them. Miss Burton, of the choir of St. Paul's sang an offertory in the evening with excellent voice and expression. The parochial collection for missions was taken up in envelopes at the morning service.

In the reustain alone, and especially in that of the Roman Catholic Church, can the fullest effect be given to the celebration by the Christian world. In St. Mary's Cathedral the white habiliments of the sanctuary were last week, and the services were a succession of joyous praises. His Lordship the Bishop officiated at 6 o'clock Mass and Communion and Father Hartigan at 10:30 Mass.

MASSES BY THE MASTER.

In the evening Father Kelly sang Vespers, and the Bishop preached upon the Resurrection, taking as a text St. Paul's beautiful allusion to the Corinthians which forms a part of nearly every Christian burial service. He eloquently pictured the resurrection from the dead, and the apostolic position of the church upon it from the early ages. The glories of the future were painted in consolation, in glowing terms. His Lordship, however, in his belief that Protestant clergymen do not preach upon the Incarnation, was mistaken. Not only can sermon upon that subject but hundreds have been preached within the last twenty years in Kingston. Neither do the leading Protestant churches make the objections so quoted to the truths of the Resurrection.

His Lordship thanked the people for their attendance in such numbers during the services of Holy Week, and for their generous Easter offerings in support of the clergy, some on the list having doubled their subscriptions. He also announced the mission services.

THE MUSICAL PERFORMANCES.

The choir of the Cathedral was in full strength and rendered the following programme:

Overture—Tranelli ..... Rivarde
Hymn ..... Warner
Gloria ..... Millard
Credo ..... Mercadante
Offertoire—Ave M. B. Pia ..... Marchesi
Sanctus ..... Gounod
Benedictus ..... Farmer
Agnus Dei ..... Gounod
Regina Coeli ..... J. P.

Bandmaster Trenholm of "B" Battery, gave an artistic performance on the clarionet of different selections from Rossini's "Stabat Mater." It had, with the organ accompaniment, a fine effect. Prof. Dunlachere deserves great credit for the arrangement of the service and its great success.

SECOND NOTES.

J. R. Campbell, Chicago, Ill., Mrs. Alex. Starkey and Miss Starkey, St. John, N.B.; are at the Windsor Hotel.

James P. Pagan, late of the Newburg Review, Waterloo, has joined the staff of the Northern New York Republican.

Hon. J. A. Chapleau, President of the Council, arrived in New York on Friday en route to Ottawa, to take part in the session.

Walters Gray and Henry Marks, of Cape Vincent, when their return from Kingston, don't like too much red pepper on their oysters.

Mr. Walter Ellis, London, Eng.; W. C. Caldwell, Lanark; and J. W. Bennett, Belleville, were at the British American Hotel on Saturday evening.

We regret to learn of the untimely demise in Montreal of the wife of Rev. A. L. McFadyen, the new minister of Bethel Congregational Church.

F. C. Boward, organist of St. James' Cathedral, Toronto, has organized a boy's choir to relieve the regular choir by officiating at afternoon service.

Mr. F. C. Heath is making the musical part of the services in the First Congregational Church quite attractive. Yesterday's choral contributions were highly appreciated.

St. Patrick's Society.—The adjourned annual meeting for election of officers will take place on Wednesday evening.

SHOOTING THE REBELS!

A BUSY WEEK—WOUNDING THE SINNERS—HOT ATTACK OF THE SALVATION ARMY—ARMING ON.

Ammunition Been Issued—Experiences of the Contents—The Charms of Singing Those Who Will Wear a Sharp Crown.

The greatest gathering of the week, and perhaps the most successful meeting, occurred last night. About 400 persons had assembled on the street before the doors were opened, enough to almost fill the hall, and filled, too, half an hour before the proceedings commenced. About a thousand were crushed together, and looked satisfied; hundreds remained outside or went home disappointed. Capts. Abbie and Ware led the procession. Capt. Ware read the lesson from Proverbs x. The tenor of his thoughts was this: that genuine repentance could not come at death; that a man who spent his life in health, recklessly could not expect the Lord to pardon him when hope was gone and he was about to face eternity; that the appeals prompted by fear of punishment and the wrath to come were not such as pleased God, that in life man should serve him, and then in death they could praise Him.

HYMNS TO POPULAR AIRS.

The hymn which followed, "Jesus my King high over all," was sung to the air of "My Grandfather's Clock," with a chorus of "On, on, no surrender Labor on Capt. Ware made another happy hit by singing a sacred piece to the tune of "In the morning," which the vast audience caught up and rendered finely.

The experiences were interesting and numerous. All the converts claimed to have got salvation and recommended their friends to take "a dip." One young man referred to the remark of a citizen when the Salvationists were on parade, "Oh, there goes the Starvation Army." He wanted the people to know that they weren't starved, that they had plenty to eat, but that it was religion not eating that made them happy. Another said he formed the day that the Army came to Kingston, that but for it he would then have been drinking instead of telling of his rescue. Another said he was filled with salvation, was more circumspect in his actions, knew what he was about and when he got in at night, and he also knew enough to blow out the candle when he went to bed. And so the others went.

GOING FOR THE ANTICHRIST.

Knaxe Monday assembly came in for some attention, and one of the Sisters hoped the young men and women who were thinking of joining the Army would not wait until the drums was here. They should not attend the affair, which was so demoralizing in its effects, as he could tell from experience. A companion testified to the same effect and on he was about to renew Capt. Ware remarked:

"Haven't you the one I shocked by turning you out of the hall?"

"No, Captain."

"Weren't you the manager of the dancing party whom I offended by hiring the hall and causing him to look up another place?"

"No, Captain, but I think he's here."

"I hope so, I told him we'd capture him yet. I hope he's here, as he ought to know we're after him."

Now it was Abbie's turn to say something, and she came up smiling. She denounced the dance unsparingly, and made a pressing speech before going into the salvation meeting. A few moved at this point, not many; and for every one that went out two made desperate efforts to get in. A number of persons went forward to the penitent bench.

NEWS FROM THE BARRACKS.

The Army and converts now number 326.

The meeting to-night can only be attended by Salvationists.

Tuesday yesterday the Army paraded, morning and afternoon, headed by Capt. Ware.

Half a hundred boys now wear Salvation badges and at the meetings say they are saved.

Some members of the police force are included among the converts. "Glory hallelujah!"

The circulation of the War Cry now is between 600 and 700 per week, and on the increase.

The War Cry of last week contained a description of the Army's attack on Kingston from the pen of Rev. Mr. Harris.

Saturday night's free and easy meeting was not unlike that usually held. The tunes was different; only that and nothing more.

Above the platform a motto has been suspended. It is "Vanity or Death," the letters being worked in beads upon a red velvet ground.

Major Moore states that the persons named Moffat, Ogden and Dougherty, holding drawings at Trenton, have no connection with the Salvation Army.

Capt. Ludgate leads the Toronto corps in the absence of Capt. Ware. Capt. Ludgate plays a big drum on parades and vocally makes as much music as a small organ.

The last issue of the War Cry contains the announcement that in the previous week 20 rebels had been shot, that scores had been wounded, that 60 prisoners had been taken for the week.

On Saturday evening, in announcing the collection, Capt. Abbie said: "Now this is Saturday night, and everybody has his wages. Let us have a little of them." The offering was a good one.

At nearly every meeting now Lieut. Wood and Pte. Liddell and Taylor sing solos. That of Saturday night was the hymn dedicated to Lt. Addie Maxwell on the occasion of her departure from Kingston.

Mr. Richardson returns to Belleville to-morrow after completing the framing of St. James' Church, the ceiling and chancel of which do him infinite credit as an artist.

W. E. Gladstone is registered at the British American Hotel, but it is just intended to convey the impression that the British Premier has been spending his Easter vacation in Kingston.

IRISH QUESTIONS.

An Absurd Story—Parnell on the Late Executions—Burial of Several Criminals.

Vienna, March 24.—The Presse asserts that Parnell, in an interview in Paris, gave his word of honor that three of the six men recently hanged in Ireland were innocent of the crimes for which they have been executed. The Presse also states that Parnell said he had no hope that Gladstone would succeed in pacifying Ireland.

London, March 26.—The Daily Telegraph considers preparations for the report the Government has sent a message note to Washington in regard to the utterances and writings of the Irish Dynamite Party in America. It says that the U.S. Government attitude of indifference on the subject of Fenian men is the same as that to which England always adopted toward the exiles taking refuge in this country.

Belfast, March 26.—The trial of some six more members of the Armagh Ammunition Society began to-day. Judge Lawson presides. Mr. Murphy, in opening for the Crown, dwelt strongly upon the circumstance that when Burns arrived in England in the end of 1881, to organize the Assassination Society, he displayed the American flags from his lodgings at Crossmaglehan. The evidence of the informer will be introduced by the prosecution for the purpose of showing that the murders were planned by the Society, and the documents support this charge will be produced.

Dublin, March 26.—The Freeman's Journal states that correspondence between the Home Office and Lowell, United States Minister resulted in the former renouncing all hope of securing the extradition of the person known as No. 1. The Journal declares that "No. 1," whose name is Tyrone, was in Dublin until the first day that Carey was summoned at the hearing of the conspirators. He then managed to reach Liverpool by way of Hull. From Bremen he proceeded to Havre and thence to New York. He was the "No. 1" of the volunteer corps.

ANOTHER RR AMALGAMATION SCHEME.

Now the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Company has designs on the St. Lawrence Steamboat Company, says the Star, and negotiations are at present in progress for an amalgamation of the two companies. The Richelieu Company has, it is known, its terms to the Vice Pres. et of the other concern, and that gentleman has left for New York to lay them before a meeting of the shareholders. The terms proposed are said to be very advantageous to the St. Lawrence Company, and the Richelieu people have no doubt but that they will be accepted. The St. Lawrence Steamboat Company was organized two years ago for operating a tourists' line of steamers between ports on the American side of Lake Ontario and Montreal. The company was organized entirely with American capital, and nearly all of the stock is still held in New York. As none of the ports touched at by the Richelieu Company's steamers were approached by those of the new line no opposition was looked for. The Richelieu Company, however, fitted up the "Cultivator," to "drag" the steamers of the new line, and since then the competition has been hot and heavy. The new company having arrangements with all the railways running to the south side soon "run down" the "Cultivator," and she was withdrawn. To retaliate the new Company included a number of ports on the North of Lake Ontario in their route, and opened for freight traffic and last year the line proved the most formidable opponent of the Richelieu Company on the upper river. The amalgamation will bring three more steamers under the control of Mr. Samuel, the "Rothsay" and "Prince Arthur" owned by the company, and the "F. B. Maxwell" leased. The first named vessel is supposed to be the swiftest steamer on the St. Lawrence.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Howe, member of the U. S. Government, is dead.

Mr. Speaker Kirkpatrick left for Ottawa on Saturday evening.

Father Twohey, who has been ill, was able to be out driving yesterday.

G. W. Hotchkin will remain at the Windsor Hotel until to-morrow evening.

E. E. Horton passed east this afternoon on the G. T. R., en route to Ottawa.

Capt. Abbie Thompson was a Methodist previous to joining the Salvation Army.

R. M. Bethune, Q.C., will conduct the Crown business at the Belleville Assizes.

Senator Dickey will likely succeed Mr. Archibald as Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia.

Rev. Mr. Hill, of Montreal, appeared in the pulpit in full academic robes, an innovation in that way.

Mr. McCaul will be Chief Engineer of the Prop. Cuba, running from Chicago to Montreal this season.

Rev. Mr. Spencer, Clerical Secretary, took the service for Dr. Clark, in Christ Church, Belleville, yesterday.

George Eyrel, of the Standard, spent the Easter holidays with his father-in-law, Mayor James of Napanee.

WAITING ON DUKES.

Queenstown, Pa., March 26.—Dukes arrived last night. This morning a committee of citizens presented him with 1-o resolutions adopted at the recent indignation meeting. They also gave him 24 hours to transact business and leave town. If he allow pts to remain it is thought there will be trouble.

MONTREAL FAILURES.

Montreal, March 26.—S. Marden & Co., retail boot and shoe dealers, Montreal, have suspended. Liabilities unknown.

C. S. Stanton & Co., hardware merchants also failed. Their liabilities are approximately stated at $100,000, and they are expected to pay in full on time.

A PICTURE RUINED.

Chatham, March 26.—The painting of "St. Paul in Chains," by Murville, St. Peter's Cathedral here, valued at $12,000, has been ruined. The sexton, in trying to place a screen over it, fell over the scaffolding and through the picture to the floor.

Capt. Irving and Chief Officer Bennett, of the steamship Republic, was arrested to-day in a suit for $50,000 damages, brought by Dewar, steward, rescued from the last steamer Ghenvegan and detained on the Republic, on suspicion of being implicated in the Phoenix Park murder. The prisoners were bailed in $1,000 each.

MINE DISASTER.

Recovery of the Bodies—An Exciting Scene—Work of the Searchers Dangerous.

Braidwood, Ill., March 26.—The bodies of nine victims of the Diamond Mine disaster were brought to the surface at midnight. From the earliest hour yesterday morning up to the time of the recovery of the bodies the roads leading to the mines were blocked with excited people going to and from the mine. Nearly 2,000 people were around the shaft when the bodies were hoisted. The party which explored the mine yesterday came across the trap door partly imbedded in the caved roof. Burning in the door the party entered the passage, where black damp almost choked them, and discovered, not far ahead, two bodies lying upon their faces. Proceeding further two more lay upon the huge piles of soapstone which dropped from the roof. Without removing the bodies the party retreated before black damp, coming upon them faster and faster, to the main shaft, where they were raised to the surface. The bodies were recovered by another party, which went down after dark. Half of the crowd viewed the first body brought up but were unable to identify it. A small boy, however, recognized it as the body of his father, Paddy Wall. The face was in a horrible condition, the flesh red and white, the scalp crushed. The bodies of two others recovered were identified as those of Wm. Johnson and Johnson Hulber. Two shafts will be in the mine to-day. Working through immense piles of fallen soapstone, the work of the searchers is accounted as dangerous.

Braidwood, March 26.—Each miner engaged in unearthing the victims has a sponge fastened over his mouth and saturated with chemicals to preclude the possibility of being stricken down by the gas. The Coroner of Grundy County has abandoned the contest for the bodies.
