GRAND RE-UNION SOCIAL AND CONCERT.—The 3rd anniversary of re union social will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church on Monday evening, June 18th, 1883, commencing at 7 o'clock. Tickets only 25c. for admittance and tea. All are invited to attend.

SHORTHORN CATTLE.—This afternoon the steamer Maud carried to Cape Vincent about 60 head of cattle. About 3 head of these were for Mr. Dorr, of Jefferson County, New York, who places them on his farm where he will prepare them for the Fall. He purchased the cattle at from $25 to $30 apiece.

BROKE THE CROCK.—On Saturday evening several young men fought on Princess Street, near Mr. Runians'. One of them seized a large earthen crock and smashed it over an opponent's head. The person struck was no doubt greatly injured. We could not ascertain the names of the fighters.

AN IMPROVEMENT NOTICED.—For some days the son of Mr. Cox, Howe Island, who met with a serious injury at a ploughing match, has been in a precarious condition. Death has been very near, but to-day we learn that an improvement has been noticed in his condition. This improvement, we trust, will continue.

MADE AN INSPECTION.—Capt. Villiers, D.A.G., and Major King inspected the 15th Batt. of Belleville, on Friday afternoon last. The Colonel, in addressing the volunteers, said they had passed an excellent inspection. He trusted the batallion would maintain its present efficiency. In the evening the visiting officers were entertained at a complimentary dinner in the Dafoe House.

A CASE SETTLED.—The suit of Mrs. John Brennan, sister and one of the heirs of the late Andrew Brophy, of Gananoque, against Dennis Brophy, to recover her share of Andrew's estate, was settled by Mr. Brophy paying Mrs. Brennan $300 and all the costs. The costs up to the time of settlement amounted to $1,800. Kingston lawyers were interested in the case.

THE GANANOQUE RAILWAY.—The Branch Railway is now an assured fact. Messrs. Rathbun's engineer, Mr. Butler, has commenced the survey, and is now running lines and calculating levels. The road will be constructed under the direction of Mr. Anderson, who built the Deseronto Railway. The work of grading will be done simultaneously at different points along the line.

ARBITRATION ON LAND.—On Saturday afternoon the arbitrators appointed to value the James property, to be purchased by the city in view of the extension of Bagot Street, met and heard the evidence of Messrs. W. S. Gordon-M. James, G. McMillan, P. Delaney and the Mayor. Half of Mr. James' lot will be taken. The award of the arbitrators will probably be handed to the city this evening.

ASKING FOR CONTRIBUTIONS.—The ladies of the Methodist Missionary Society in this city, having become impressed with the idea that much good could be accomplished by the dissemination of Christian literature to the people in the new settlements along the line of the K & P.P.RR., ask for the contribution of books, papers, and magazines. These, if left at J. G. Rudd's, will be handed over to the proper persons for distribution.

NOT FAST HERE.—On Thursday a tramp named James Cleary made music in Gananoque. He smashed and damaged various windows, and when arrested said he was from Kingston. He lied. He told the Magistrate here, when before him charged with drunkenness, that he hailed from Montreal. He was discharged and afterwards stole a $20 watch. He was then re-arrested, and on Saturday went from the village to Brockville for trial.

ROBBERY AT SHARBOTT LAKE.

On Thursday, the 14th inst, Stewart Bros', general store, at Sharbott Lake, was burglarized. Four watches, a revolver and some ready-made clothing were taken, but what else is not yet known. The member of the firm at the store at the time retired to rest at the usual hour. He was awakened in the night by a noise, but supposing it to be that of a blast that had been put in the rock near by in the evening before and not gone off until late, did not rise. He was again disturbed by a noise. Finally he got up about 3:30 and found the shop door open. The glass in the door had been broken and the lock opened, as the key had been left in it. The thieves were followed up the railroad. About one-third of a mile from the village the till, which they had taken, was found. The orders which it contained were left as they were. They were of no use to any person but the members of the firm; but the small change was missing. The firm made every effort to gain a clue to the perpetrators of the deed, but so far they have failed. Officer J. Nesbitt has the case in hand.

DIDN'T LIKE THE WAGGON.

An old man, wearing the badge of the Salvation Army, and evidently intensely earnest in what he had to say, spoke at the meeting yesterday afternoon. He likes music and bands in their places, but objects to the things which have a tendency to disturb him in his spiritual communings. He especially objected to the song about the waggon. A brother suggested that their's was the gospel chariot, but still he was dissatisfied, and was proceeding to criticise one thing and another in his own peculiar way when the corps sang him down. He retired, silenced of course, but with the determination to renew the discussion at some other time.

LOST THE SUIT.

At the Belleville County Court the suit brought by Hall against the Collinsby Rafting Company was won by plaintiff. A verdict for $191.83 was recorded. It appears the defendants advanced Robt. Arkins money for lumbering purposes, and alleged that the withes were a part of the proceeds of their advances. The plaintiffs supposing Arkins to be the owner of the withes, advanced him $200 and took a delivery of these in the security of the money advanced. The defendants removed the withes, claiming to be the owners thereof, and the plaintiff brings this action to recover their value.

A boat connecting Kingston with Oswego, and making trips between these places every other day, is badly needed. The Magnet filled this route very acceptably for many years.

Messrs. Rathbun have re-built the steamer Puritan, and will shortly put her on as a ferry between Gananoque and Clayton. Mr. S. Crawford, brother of Capt. Crawford, will be an officer on the new steamer.

The Captain of the H.P. Murray, arrived at Hamilton, reports the schrs. Ella Murton and Huron having left Oswego two days before he did, and he thinks there is something wrong as they are not in yet.

The inquest on the body of G. Gibbs, a deck hand on the prop. Kincardine, exonerated the Captain from all blame. Gibbs was sleeping on the boiler deck and was burned through his own carelessness.

The schr. Manzanilla is being fitted up to go to the scene of the tug Conqueror. An attempt will be made, with the assistance of a schooner, to right the sunken tug. She will be pumped out, patched and taken to Ogdensburg or Montreal for repairs.

The schr. Eliza Quinlan, ashore near the Ducks, will be pulled off in a few days. The coal which she carried has been taken out and placed in a lighter. Cedar will be placed in the hold of the craft, which the str. Hastings will then haul afloat. The vessel will be brought to Kingston for repairs. Her bottom, it is feared, has been greatly injured.

The prop. Canada arrived on Saturday evening. She ran on Grenadier Island 100 yards below the lighthouse. Her fore foot was knocked off and her bow jammed. The Captain stopped the leak, and on the arrival of the str. Hasting a diver patched the hole. The prop. was then pulled off and proceeded to Port Dalhousie, where she will be docked. The cargo in the hold of the prop. Canada consisted of 2,000 boxes of lemons, a large quantity of ginger ale, and a consignment of spring beds, a cargo that would have been easily damaged.

Several Captains endorse our statement as to the great injustice done by the heavy towage charges on the Welland Canal. The charge for vessels is 20 cents per ton. They have no option, as there are no tow paths on the canal. One vessel man paid $130 for the passage up and down. His profit on grain from Chicago at 4c. was completely wiped out. The owner of a tug and her consorts, after making two round trips, finds that the towage charges through the Welland Canal amount to $800. The Government should interfere and regulate a tariff that will not drive trade from the St. Lawrence route.

POLICE COURT—MONDAY.

A charge against a citizen, for neglecting to put up a fence, was ready to be withdrawn when the Magistrate insisted on the defendant paying costs. The case will come up in a week, and if the costs have been met the action will be discontinued.

In regard to Willie Hawley his father said that his son should be punished. He desired to see the boy reformed. He trusted, however, that the Magistrate would not send him away from the city. The lad was repentant and had promised to do better in the future. His father was much affected in addressing the Court. The Magistrate was sorry for Mr. Hawley, but felt it to be his duty to punish his son. He had been accused before of an offence and had been released. There was proof that his last crime had been premeditated, therefore he would have to send the boy away. The father acknowledged the correctness of His Worship's remarks, but, moved by parental love, asked the Magistrate to defer sentence. He wanted to have the boy at home for a few days. His Worship felt keenly for the father, and allowed the boy to be released on bail. On Thursday morning next he will probably be sent to the Reformatory for a number of years. Transgression has brought its reward. The youngsters now-a-days think they are big and cute enough to do as they please, they chafe under parental restraint, ramble around the streets at late hours, get into bad company, in time become Lapervious to all home influence, and wind up before the Magistrate in disgrace. They are penitent then when it is too late. We have seen dozens of boys come in this way to the same end. The fate of young Hawley should be a warning to those who are following in his footsteps.

PASTORS' FAREWELLS.

Rev. Dr. Elliott, Rev. J. M. Hagar and Rev. Mr. Madge Preach their Farewell Sermons.

Yesterday the pastors of the Canada Methodist Churches preached their farewell sermons. These occasions are not pleasant for either the ministers or those with whom they have had church relations. Friendships spring up that make a parting unhappy, and the last services are usually, as they were yesterday, deeply impressive and even sad.

Queen Street Church.

Dr. Elliott was greatly affected at the morning service. He is tender hearted, of a very sensitive and emotional nature, and at frequent intervals his eyes filled with tears and his feelings checked his speech. His sermon was interesting, earnest and eloquent; his theme "When two or three are gathered together in my name there am I in the midst of them." Dr. Elliott was deeply moved while the choir sang, and he could scarcely give utterance to the closing lines of the last hymn.

THE EVENING SERVICE.

Rev. Mr. Hagar officiated in the evening, the congregation being a very large one. Prior to the sermon nine persons were admitted to the membership of the church, seven females and two males. The rev. gentleman, although performing a duty from which he naturally shrunk, although addressing for the last time to those with whom he had laboured most successfully, spoke calmly and with telling effect. His discourse was based upon the appeal of the malefactor on the cross to be remembered by Christ when he entered into His kingdom and the answer of the Saviour, "To-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise."

The last words of departing friends are esteemed the most precious, they are treasures in memory, and he, therefore, quoted the last saying of the chief of friends and desired to make them the subject of his last message to them. He directed attention to the first lesson which the text taught—the soul's pressing need. Suspended upon the cross, between heaven and earth, the malefactor suffered fearful agony, but, in the presence of death the anguish of his soul was deeper, he forgot for a time the acute pain of the body and cried, "Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Sin was the cause of the malefactor's fear and mental distress; and sin to-day, as then, separates man from his Maker; it makes us apprehensive when we meditate, self examine, and be honest with ourselves. Then, (2) we learn of the wonderful compassion of Christ. While the mental anguish of the malefactor was great in deed it was surpassed by the acuter, deeper, suffering of the soul of the Redeemer. He suffered before hand; he sweated blood in Gethsemane, and on the cross he cried "My God, why hast thou forsaken me?" That was a moment when one would expect Him to be excused from listening to the prayer of another, when he was carrying the world's iniquities, and yet he heard. Now that He has ascended will he not listen to the

CRY OF THE DISTRESSED?

Will he not succor and relieve and bless? The third lesson is that the malefactor was saved; but how? Not by baptism, for such an ordinance had not been established; not by the sacrament, because the dying sinner had not either received it or seen it dispensed; not by good works, for such he could not claim; on the contrary he admitted that his suffering was the only reward of his deeds. He (the preacher) did not mean to underestimate the value of the ordinances. If the man could have come down from the cross it would have been necessary for him to remember Christ's death in the sacraments, in baptism, in holiness, in good works and in useful service. He had not the opportunity for these things, and God did not require them at his hands. He required them at the hands of believers, however, and we refuse at the peril of our souls. The malefactor was saved by faith, by trusting in Christ, and there is no other way in which men can have the yearnings of their souls satisfied. He deprecated, the ceremonies, the drapery and millinery which are employed in some churches, and said ritual was insignificant, ineffectual even dangerous, and tended to take the mind off a truth which should be presented in its simplicity. Lastly he dwelt upon the blessedness of a pious death. Death to the Christian was simply an entrance into rest. The Apostle declared, "For me to live is Christ, to die is gain." "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord; yea, saith the spirit, they shall rest from their labours and their works do follow them." Some say that the spirit sleeps until the resurrection, that it does not depart from the body, that what we commit to the grave is all there has been or ever will be of our friend. This is a gloomy view of death, but if it were scriptural he would unhesitatingly accept it. But it was not scriptural. It was not for him to decide the location of Paradise, but Christ told a malefactor that he would be there that day. Christ is in Paradise, and where He is there the soul of the saint would go at death. "Absent from the body, present with the Lord." In conclusion the preacher counselled his congregation to live devout, pious lives, that living or dying they would feel that Christ was theirs and they were His.

ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE.

Next Thursday Mr. Hagar will leave for Montreal. It is possible that he may not go to the Church to which Conference elected him—Rev. Mr. Saunders being left in the East End Church another year—but he will have an appointment befitting his ability and virtues. The same day the Rev. H. F. Bland will arrive and be conducted to his parsonage, and on Sunday he will enter upon his pastoral duties.

Williamsville and Depot.

Rev. Mr. Madge preached his farewell sermons—in the Depot Chapel in the morning and in the evening at Williamsville. He has left a deep impression upon the people. He is a rising preacher, and must have a useful ministry in Montreal, to one of the churches of which city he has been sent.

Sydenham St. Church.

At the morning service in the Sydenham St. Church Rev. Mr. Hagar addressed the congregation on the words, "A friend of publicans and sinners." He commended this Friend to them. He spoke affectionately of their new pastor. The speaker had no doubt that he would be well received. He pointed out the relations that should exist between pastor and people if success are desired.

Rev. Dr. Elliott occupied the pulpit in the evening and addressed the congregation upon the words in Psalm viii, 4: "What is man that thou art mindful of him? and the Son of Man that thou visited him?" He dwelt on the causes that led inspired the Psalmist and then viewed the points worthy of discussion. Man, as regards the body, was spoken of. The perfect finish of the human structure could be found in no other creature. This perfection was due to the fact that the body was to be the shrine of an endless soul. The speaker referred to the wonderful power of speech conferred upon man and also showed the advancement which had been made in civilization since Adam was created. He discussed man in an unconverted state, and he did not wonder that Agnosticism had so many votaries, for people preferred darkness to light because their deeds were evil. Man in a converted state was a new creature. He had the love of God in his heart. There was a desire on his part to help those in distress. One does not find infidels helping the poor and distressed. All the great charitable institutions were the works of Christians, either primarily or secondarily. History attested this fact. The Christian had a solicitude for the souls of others. He concluded by urging those present to lay up treasures for themselves in Heaven. He made no reference to his retirement from the Church. The choir, while the offering was being taken up, sang "Blest be the tie that binds."

ROBBERY AT MONTREAL.

An Old Man En Route to Ireland "Gone Through" by a Gang of Ruffians—Several Arrests.

On Friday night about 10 o'clock, just before the departure of the eastern train from the Bonaventure depot, a man named Samuel Thompson was robbed of five English sovereigns, two $1 bills, a Post Office order for £10 and his ticket to Liverpool, England. The Post says that for some weeks Constables Ingram and McGuire have been on the lookout for thieves who have been in the habit of frequenting the vicinity of the outgoing trains, and last evening Constable Ingram, noticing a man acting suspiciously, and having business at another part of the platform, instructed McGuire to change his uniform for plain clothes and watch the man. Shortly after this McGuire saw Thompson enter a car, and three or four men engage him in conversation and then seized him. The assailed man cried for help, and in an instant Constables Ingram and McGuire were on the spot, and hearing that Thompson had been robbed, arrested a man whom the latter recognized as one of the men who had assaulted him. He was taken to the Charbonlles Square police station where he gave his name as James Wilson, which, however, is thought to be only an alias. He was searched, but none of the stolen money found upon him. Mr Thompson had arrived from Kingston where he had lived for nine years, and was en route to the County Tyrone, Ireland. The prisoner was brought before the Police Magistrate and remanded.

The Star say that as Thompson entered one of the cars of the train which was standing on the track in the depot he encountered a man in the passage engaged in adjusting the bell rope. There were several other men standing close by. The first man placed his hand on Thompson's breast, and, pushing him backward, told him that he could not come in unless he had a lady with him. At the same time another man caught him by the arm and turned him half around. Thompson extricated himself and went on to the platform when he discovered that he had been robbed.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.

On Saturday morning near Richmond Light, just above Lachine, Isaiah Somersale, one of the crew of the barge Mona, was drowned. The vessel was one of a tow of barges of the Kingston & Montreal Forwarding Company, which left Montreal for Kingston, and the accident occurred while she was crossing Lake St. Louis in tow of the Hiram A. Calvin. It is supposed that Somersale, who was a lad of about seventeen years of age, stumbled over some obstructions on the deck and fell overboard.

Consumption.

From H. B. Smith, Esq., a prominent Merchant of Bouctouche, Kent county, N. B., under date June 9th, 1877

Dear Sir,—I have suffered for some years past with Cough from Affection of the Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Weakness of the Chest, and Want of Appetite, and have tried many so called remedies but without any effect whatever until I commenced using Robinson's Pneumonian Emulsion. I have now taken 8 bottles, and find this quite equal to what it is represented to be, for it has worked like a charm, and I can cordially recommend it to all who are affected as I have been, as I feel it is going to make a perfect cure of me. I still continue it, and I must say I never took anything equal to it. If you wish to make any use of this for the benefit of yourself and the world at large you can do so, for I think it should be known. I remain, yours truly,
