Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS.—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish; to calm and energize the every activity of protracted disease, to regulate the nervous machine, and regain the strength-giving quietness of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. Collis Browne, late Army Medical Staff, to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE and which is admitted by the profession to be the most valuable and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis and Asthma

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout Cancer, Toothache Neuralgia, &c.

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall Simla, January 5, 1866. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We consider it due to Dr. Collis Browne to certify that the wide-spread reputation this justly celebrated medicine has attained in India is fully borne out by its extraordinary virtues. It has entered for itself with only its Blackmore, but all over the East, and we most unanimously declare that it is deserved under the name, and we shall be glad to hear of its introduction in every Anglo-Indian home. The other hospitals we are happy to say are now relegated to the limbo of forgotten things, and we believe that their sources there will be but evanescent. We could multiply testimonials to the above effect, but they are unnecessary. Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is Diarrhœa, and is a specific for Cholera, Dysentery, Spasmodic Cholera, Hysteria, Palpitation, and as a general sedative, has never been excelled. Our medical officers are using it in Cholera, Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its marvellous controlling influence. We have never found any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's in a condition that is to be relied on, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, we do one of the opinion that it is unsafe to employ any other than Collis Browne's in a case in which the name of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne is engraved on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony to surrounding each bottle.

CAUTION.—The Chancellor the Privy Wood stated that that Dr. J. Collis Browne was undoubtedly the inventor of Chlorodyne, that the sole of the Government Stamp was fraudulently obtained, which, he regretted to say, had to be used in Court. Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 10s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony to surrounding each bottle.

CAUTION.—Beware of Piracy and Imitation.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

FOR DISEASES OF THROAT AND LUNGS, SUCH AS COUGHS, COLDS, WHOOPING COUGH, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA AND CONSUMPTION.

The wonderful cures which have been effected by this medicine, in all parts of the country, of obstinate coughs, severe colds, and other diseases of the throat and lungs, have made it known wherever these fearful complaints prevail. Indeed, there are few communities in which some person is not living who has been restored to health by its use, after suffering from one of the above-named diseases, in what seemed to be the last stages. Hence, it has become unnecessary to recommend it to the people of this vicinity. While it may be relied on to do for others what it has done for those around us, it is but reasonable to expect that it will cure us when we are similarly afflicted. Nothing but the best medicine we can obtain is deemed good enough for our own families, and this is what we give to our neighbors and friends.

GOOD BYE SCENE.

General Sherman's last Visit to West Point Academy as the Commander of the Army.

There was a most interesting if not affecting scene at West Point recently when Gen. Sherman addressed the graduating class of the military academy for the last time as commander-in-chief of the Army. Gen. Terry delivered the oration to the class, in the course of which he paid a very tender and beautiful compliment to the General, and addressed when Rogers and Secretary Lincoln had spoken. When Gen. Sherman rose to speak he was received with a storm of applause. In looking at this class and he, even from this distance, they look very much like the class of last year. There was a ripple of laughter, for everyone but expected that the General was about to pay the young gentlemen a compliment. And of the year before that, he continued, and the year before that and so back forty three years to the time when I was a graduate. I can almost see myself sitting there now and around me. I can see old Blankshire who came here in the Spring of 1836. He was a big stout fellow, weighing 200 lbs., and was 6 feet 3 inches high. In 1840 Joe's father died and he went home wearing his cadet uniform, for he was too poor to buy citizen's clothing. That was in the campaign days of Tippecanoe and Tyler too. And while Joe was home he went to a political meeting, when the orator spoke of the tyranny of the Government, of the President living in a great white palace and feasting off a gold spoon, and of a place called West Point, where wasp-waisted vampires were educated at the expense of the people. "I'm one of those wasp waisted vampires," said he, and he stepped upon the platform. You could hardly have spanned Joe's waist with a horse's girth, and when the people saw him they laughed and said "If this is a sample we want more of them." This incident was passed around and for we were in a very precarious condition in those days. Poor Blankshire, he was struck by lightning in Florida and lies buried amid the shadows of the everglades. I always love a cadet that looks like Blankshire. Then there was Bryan P. Tilden, of Boston, who served in the Mexican War. And so, one by one, the speaker looked back over 43 years of stormy life and called around him the memories of his dead companions. He spoke in a low tone and with the great est earnestness. In his endeavor to one spoke or hardly moved. "I come here for the last time in my official capacity," continued he, "for in two months I lay down my command cheerfully and willingly. Perhaps I shall never be here more at all, but if I can I shall come if not on occasions like this to be with you. I hope you will think of me kindly." Then raising his right hand to the cloudless sky he said "Accept this evening day as a symbol of what you may attain. Good bye, one and all."

ALL MY OLD COMPANIONS

Then from the band came the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," and after the chaplain pronounced the benediction.

Burdock's Acid Phosphate.

A SATISFACTORY PROOF.

Dr. C. O. Files, Portland, Me., says "After prescribing freely, when cold water has utterly failed to satisfy my thirst, it has accomplished the purpose with the most perfect success."

HUMANUS AS LUNATICUS.

A woman writes to the Boston editor as follows: Take my own case. I am milliner and I have made between $1,500 and $2,500 a year in my business for some time past. I married four years ago. My husband is kind and good looking, but he never learned any trade, had no profession, and could not average $500 a year. I loved him, however, but I saw that it would not do to depend upon him, so I kept on with my business.

After a time I think he got a little lazy, and as we were away during the day we could not keep house and got sick of boarding. Finally, I proposed that he should keep house and I would run the business and find the money. We have now lived very happily in this way for two years. My husband gets up and builds the fire, gets breakfast and I leave at 7:45 for my place of business. He does the washing and ironing, the cleaning, and I do not know of any woman who can beat him. He is neat as wax and can cook equal to any one in town.

It may be an isolated case, but I think the time has come when women who have husbands to support should make them do the work; otherwise they are baxters we must do without.

Headaches.

Headache is one of those distressing complaints that depends upon nervous irritation, bad circulation, or a disordered state of the stomach, liver, bowels, etc. The origin and perpetuator of the Canada Pruning Cure was cured after years of suffering with headache and now testifies to the virtue of Burdock Blood Bitters.

STRANDING OF A BOAT.

An Exciting Scene on Board—Narrow Escape From Collision With the Belgenland.

(N. Y. Post.)

The City of Rome grounded on the edge of Gedney's Channel on Saturday. The usual Saturday fleet of outgoing steamers went down the bay in the morning, forming a beautiful and romantic spectacle, the City of Rome leading. The weather, which had been foggy cleared up when Sandy Hook was reached, but before going a mile further the fog shut down again, and at 12:40 she grounded. The engines were reversed, but to no effect. Fog whistles were blowing on the landward side of the City of Rome, and her own whistle was kept going at regular intervals. Other steamers were evidently approaching, the City of Rome, as the sound of all whistles grew louder and louder. Presently a great ghostly figure was discovered approaching, but her direction was made out to be astern of the City of Rome, and she slowly steamed by, passing about two cable lengths distant and disappearing in the fog. It was the Egypt, of the National Line. The Egypt was herself out of the channel, but as she drew less water than the City of Rome she ran safely out to sea.

This danger was scarcely over when the fourer of an omega at a smallmeal was discovered through the thin upper stratum of fog, moving at right angles to the line of the Rome's hull, and coming to her at a point a little aft of amidships. The Rome's deck was crowded with passengers, and almost everybody realized on the instant that a huge iron steamer was bearing down upon her in such a manner as to cut her in two if her speed could not be checked or her course be changed in time. Slowly the bank of fog parted from the top downward, disclosing more and more of the great form which the omega was flattering, until the iron prow of the stranger became visible. The appearance of the approaching steamer through the fog, with her four tall masts and imposing body, was unboubtedly the most impressive spectacle that the passengers on the Rome ever beheld. The officers of the Rome shouted to the stranger, "We're aground! Port your helm—hard aport!" An answer came back. "French steamer go ahead"—showing that the Rome's hull was misunderstood. The awful figure increased in size with her form could be made out, but no human figure could be seen on her. The Rome's officers shouted to the passengers, who were now thoroughly alarmed, to go forward, in order to be as far as possible from the point of collision, if it should occur. The injunction was generally obeyed but there was no screaming or fainting.

At this supreme moment, when many hearts were beating faster than they had ever beat before, the prow of the stranger began to turn to the left and her masts slackened at about one cable's length from the Rome. While the passengers' eyes were fixed on the terrible object ahead of them it began to recede. Slowly the fog thickened over her iron bank. The hull disappeared, then the masts grew dim from the bottom upward, the omega alone was visible a few moments later, and before the Rome's passengers had lost the pallor of their cheeks, not a token of the awful presence which had terrified them could be seen. But her whistle could be heard, and from the gradual lessening of the sound it was made out that the stranger had retreated a mile and dropped anchor for the night.

The steamer which came so near cutting down the Rome was the Belgenland, of the Red Star Line. She was evidently very well handled, for although she too was out of the channel she was moving with extreme caution, and as the result proved was able to check her own speed within saving distance of danger, even in the prevailing fog.

Picton, Feb 17. This is to certify that I have used Polson's Nervuline for Rheumatism and have found it a valuable remedy for all internal pain, and would gratly recommend it to the public.—N. T. Kennedy.

Lenox County, Jan. 9.—We are not in the habit of puffing patent medicines, but we cannot withhold our testimony as to the great value of Nervuline as a remedy for pain. We have pleasure in recommending it as a never failing remedy.—Rev. H. J. Adams, Rural Dean, and many others.

P. A. Churchill states—There seems to be no end to the success of Nervuline. I send you a few testimonials, and can send you plenty more if of use to you.
