Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne

THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE.

ADVICE TO INVALIDS—If you wish to obtain quiet, refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and anguish; to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, to regulate the nervous media, and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by Dr. J. Collis Browne (late Army Medical Staff) to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis and Asthma

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout Cancer, Toothache Meningitis, &c

From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5, 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33 Great Russell Street, Bloomsbury, London. Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the well deserved reputation this justly celebrated medicine by J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan, but all over the East. As a remedy of general utility we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other hospitals we are happy to say are now relegated to their native haunts, and judging from those with which we have had to do, we have little doubt but that ere long they will be entirely abandoned. We would multiply testimony in confirmation of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa, and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy and as a general sedative, that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Cholera, Diarrhœa, and Fever in the more terrible forms of Cholera, limit to 30 minims, repeating every hour if necessary, or other forms of this medicine than Collis Browne's, from a firm conviction that it is decidedly the best, and glad from a sense of duty we are in the profession and to the public, as we are of the opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's CHLORODYNE is a GRAVE BREACH OF FAITH on the PART OF THE CHEMIST TO PRESCRIBER and PATIENT ALIKE. We are, Sir, Faithfully yours, (Signed) SYMES & CO. Members of the Pharmacy Society of Great Britain, 1868. Examiners in the Viceroy's Chem ists.

CAUTION.—The Chancellor Sir Fitz Wood stated that that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was entitled only the Inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the story of the discovery of the remedy was fabricated by another, which, he regretted to say, had to be sworn to.—See Times, July 13, 1864.

Sold in bottles at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government Stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.

CAUTION—Beware of Piracy and Imitation.

A BURMESE EXECUTION

David Black Hook not to be Sired—Nerve to the Way Old Death on the Cross.

(Columbia Letter.)

According to the Burmese law regicidal blood must not be shed. This injunction is literally obeyed, for while the women are clubbed across the throat and the men across the neck no blood is spilt. The common people may be executed in any way. On the morning of which I speak the common people were hacked by a Burmese with a short sword until their heads rolled off. It was a terrible spectacle, but I saw no sign of horror among the spectators. Executions in independent Burmah are too common, and they have been for many centuries, to excite much feeling. Everybody knows that his turn may come next, just as he happens to encounter the displeasure of some high official. On my return from Amarapoora, and when near Mandalay, I observed a crowd of people surrounding somebody with more than ordinary attention. Approaching, I beheld a horrible spectacle—a man writing on a crucifix, with bleeding, outstretched hands, a ghastly distorted face, a foam and blood-covered mouth, and bursting eyes nearly falling from their sockets. The wretch was moaning for water. "Water," "water," he moaned, but no one offered him even a mouthful. I would have tried to get some water for the miserable man, but my companion warned me not to do it, as the action would imperil both our lives. The people themselves dared not assist him if they would. But they do so none one would move them, carry them before a Burmese "Magistrate"—horrible mockery of the term—and their fate would be crucifixion also. How long the wretch lingered I do not know, but as I rode off I saw the kites and vultures wheeling or hovering on outspread wings in expectation of the ghoulish banquet. My companion said that such spectacles were not uncommon in the public thoroughfares—that they were thus made public in order to inspire the people with a fearful dread of the authority of the reigning tyrant and his myrmidons, and that, as a rule, a man did not linger on the cross more than two days.

A SEA SIDE ROMANCE.

Miss Millie Combs is an heiress, worth $100,000, and in that interesting social equation, an orphan. She was in the surf at Long Branch the other day and got beyond her distance. She screamed with more vigor than is the elemental quantity of an heiress. The lifeboat was launched and was heading towards her when she disappeared in the cruel waves. An athletic young swimmer, William Whittlesey was some distance beyond where Miss Combs had been swimming, but he moved towards her with such rapidity that he caught her from the under-tow and held her aloft awaiting the boat's arrival. The two were taken in, and Miss Combs, on recovering, expressed great joy at having had life-long wish gratified in figuring as the heroine of a romance. Everything looked particularly hopeful, and rosy until it was learned that Whittlesey was already engaged to a young lady in some City. She, however, made the young man accept a watch and chain as a testimonial. Miss Combs will also stand as bridesmaid at his wedding.

VENNOR'S LAST.

In my opinion August will be a comparatively dry month, with rainfall considerably below the mean. There will be brief periods of intense heat all over the continent, and between these cold terms, with night frosts and possibly local snow flurries. I expect the "cross wave" condition to be in full force during August, with some very great ranges of the mercury, from 100° and over to frost point, within a comparatively few hours. The month then will be very variable in the weather conditions, and in certain to give both heat and cold and a falling-off in rainfall in the majority of sections. The cool relapse will probably occur about the 15th. The "continued cool weather and precipitation for the summer of 1882" has certainly been a remarkably verified forecast.
