DOG DAY ITEMS.

The Way the People Attempt to Exclude the Assessor—A Few Laughable Incidents.

This morning Assessor Gordon was met and reported that the work of collecting the returns for 1888-89 was about half completed.

William Webb was caught in a net of his own making. He could not unsway himself and a police officer gathered up the tangled mass and conveyed it to the police station.

Mary Crothers, a happy old lady at 70, is a spotted calico dress and straw hat of jammal gossamer color.

As she went out, like all old ladies, Mary wanted to shake hands with the Sergeant Major.

William Burke and Martin Kennedy, members of "B" Battery, were changed by Henry P. Wall with having missed a horse and vehicle.

The old lady had hardly got through with the fabrication when the animal, having been long enough confined in the damp hole beneath the floor, gave a terrific howl.

At another place the Assessor asked the inmates if they had a dog. They expressed an initial assent in the most positive manner.

There were about 230 or 300 dogs on rolled some years ago, but the number has been increased to about 700, and yet the hall has not been assessed.
