

Daily British Whig.

MEMORANDA. The Parliamentary and General Election at 120. The late success of the French in Asia was but temporary, and the defeat of the Black Flag anything but a signal one.

THE FEMALE COLLEGES. The Globe does itself credit in generally relieving itself from the apparently ungenerous slur upon the Kingston Women's Medical College, the endorsement of which, in the face of so many expressions and assumed doubts upon its success or propriety, has been a great credit to this city.

THE FEMALE COLLEGES. The evidence of leading men in Montreal respecting the future of the Exchange Bank concerns in these points, that it was expected, as the institution was doing too large a business for a small capital, and that the suspension is no indication of any general weakness in trade, as the bank stood absolutely alone with regard to its position and its business.

THE SALVATION ARMY. Some talk, says the Globe, has been caused by the course of an Episcopalian clergyman in Kingston in countenancing the Salvation Army. What of it? It is not settled that those Salvationists are of the devil or that they are doing a bad, injurious work. It may be that they are, but it is just as likely that they are not.

THE SALVATION ARMY. The late success of the French in Asia was but temporary, and the defeat of the Black Flag anything but a signal one. The French are learning what a mistake it is to go to war without sufficient material, as each refreshment would the difficulty of dealing with half-civilized enemies.
