GENERAL LEARD AGAIN.

Major-General Leard evidently relishes the roll of a martinet, shaded with the asperity of a dyspeptic and the spice of a cynic. At each recurring inspection he leaves behind a stream of dissatisfaction and strong sense of injustice, and as the symptoms are increasing rather than diminishing, it is apparent that he enjoys both the indulgence, the writhing of its subjects and the notoriety afforded. A voice from Cobourg Camp says that the language he used on Inspection Day (Thursday) at the review was ungentlemanly, spiteful, and so provoking in its deliverance that in spite of the restraints of discipline officers felt like resenting it. It is a cowardly indulgence at best to overlook a performance, share none of the risks of mistake, and abuse the actors when they err. The Canadian militia is crude in its drill; it knows it and will accept patient chiding and improve under it. But General Leard's style takes all the heart out of voluntary service, and injures it greatly.

SACRIFICING LIFE.

It seems that that Riverdale explosion—the horrifying disaster at New York—was the result of criminal recklessness. A passenger declares in an interview, that he heard a conversation between the fireman and the engineer before the steamer left the pier that would indicate the most remarkable daring. The fireman said, "She has blown a hole in her boiler," and the engineer asked, "Is it the old hole or a new one?" "It is a new one," replied the fireman. In spite of this conversation, the passenger not appreciating its importance, the vessel put out. The escaping steam began to pour out of the fire hatch in a great volume and the captain ordered the hatch closed. Four minutes afterward the explosion occurred. Here seems to be a clear chance for an indictment and there will be a strong interest in learning how the long continued investigation would end. It does not make the traveller comfortable to learn from the sworn evidence of a boiler maker that there are a dozen or more boats, named, in a dangerous state from defective and worn out boilers. Canadian waters have their tragedies but they are not the result of such utter disregard of the commonest precautions for safety—of blindly rushing into danger and death. Our inspection laws are efficiently carried out, and in this respect are a contrast to those of the United States.

CONVICTED.

The public have an opportunity of judging of the truthfulness of the News statements in the case of Sergt.-Major Bell's uneasiness, by an extract we make from its columns of last evening. Nor only did it fail to give the slightest evidence of the "private quarrel" it alleged and to which charge we gave the flattest contradiction, but it has added another falsehood to the long record it has been laying up for itself with unproved industry for a year or two past:

"He[Bell]does precisely as much work and performs as responsible duties now as he did then, and yet at time, when Mr. Penne was actually one of the Commissioners, we heard nothing that would lead one to suppose that the public interest imperatively demanded his decapitation. Why the change?"

In December, 1881, when changes in the police force were being made, Mr. Penne proposed the placing of Sergeant Major Bell upon night duty; the view was adopted by the Board and the order made on December 12th, 1881, to take effect early in 1882. This is the only step of the kind we have ever heard of having been taken. It still remained upon the books a week ago unrescinded, and one of the present Commissioners acknowledges having relieved the Sergeant Major from its requirement. This resolution was duly reported in the News at the time and was repeated in these columns a few days ago. It can therefore have no possible excuse for misstatement, even apart from the fact that it has access to the records. What we have contended for is this change or the abatement of the useless office, if the Commissioners are not agreeable to the first proposal.

"BLOODLIKE MARKS."

A Teacher in the Model School Charged with Outrageously Beating a Son of Mrs. Swan's of Elm St.

Mrs. Swan, of Elm street, has had a complaint before Inspector Kidd and Chairman Waldron of the Board of Education, in which she charges Miss Givens, teacher in the Model School, with having unmercifully beaten her son, aged eight years. The child, she claims, bears several marks upon the back from the effects of the punishment he received. Inspector Kidd said that he had been in the Model School yesterday afternoon up to 3:30 o'clock and had heard of no disturbance. Some time after reaching his office Mrs. Swan appeared leading her lad. She stated her case fairly and frankly and exposed the back of her lad for inspection. There were several long red and bloodlike marks visible. "Although I have only heard one side of the affair," said the Inspector, "it is bad enough, I do not know of any excuse that would warrant a child being so punished. No teacher is warranted in punishing a child unduly."

THE TRUSTEES' VIEWS.

Chairman Waldron had also seen the back of the child. He said that the child had been outrageously ill-used. The matter should be taken up by board, as it was a case that he could not sanction. The marks of the weapon used were well defined below and on the shoulder blade. "Much vim must have been thrown into the arm to have produced them," remarked the Chairman.

Trustee Horsey had been shown the lad. He found large welts on the back, such marks that he would not liked to have seen on his own child. If one of his had been so punished he would certainly have taken the matter to the police court. No offence committed could have justified the punishment inflicted.

Trustee Polson remarked that he had viewed the child's back and he could see no justification for the way the child had been beaten. He held peculiar views regarding punishment, and he would be sorry to attempt to support a teacher who would beat a child so. No circumstances would justify any teacher in doing as had been done to Mrs. Swan's boy. He declared that the Board should not act in a mealy-mouthed manner regarding the affair.

GOES TO COMMITTEE.

A number of other trustees spoke on the matter. Trustee Allen said the Board should not tolerate any teacher who beat a boy unmercifully. It should take action and stamp out the severe punishments inflicted by teachers. They should make an example of some one. There was no regulation allowing children to be strapped other than on the bare hands.

The matter was sent to the School Management Committee to carefully consider. The Chairman of the Committee was ordered to view the child's back again before the marks were obliterated. The Committee have the right to suspend any teacher if circumstances warrant such a procedure. The Committee will at once investigate the affair.

THE TEACHER'S STATEMENT.

Miss Givens says that on Monday last the boy came to school for the first time. During the week he persistently refused to do almost any work she gave him. He would read, but nothing else. She kept him in on several occasions at intermission and spoke to him regarding his conduct. On Friday Miss Givens gave a lesson in dictation. The scholars took part in the exercise with the exception of young Swan. He refused to do as requested. Miss Givens went to the desk and took the book out for him. She then asked him to get out his slate, he refused. She got the slate for him but he still refused to do the exercise. She sent for the strap, took him by shoulder and led him to the front of the room. When Miss Givens sent for the strap the boy mumbled that she had better not use it, that he would have her attended to if she whipped him. She got the strap, administered it across the boy's shoulder in a manner not at all harsh in her estimation considering the provocation. Previous teachers who had the lad in their room reported him as a most incorrigible youth. He was persistant in his truancy.

"GOVERNMENT HOUSE."

Kingston, for the first time since 1843, had a "Government House" last night. Though they were stirring times here in the days of Governors Sydenham, Bagot and Metcalfe, there was not nearly as much fun in it nor half so many pretty tableaux as in Baker & Farron's presentment of this piece of Herculon's at the Opera House last evening. The audience was an immense one; at 8 o'clock there was no chance of seeing, let alone getting a seat, in the gallery; the dress circle was completely filled, with some standing, while all but a few front seats of the parquette were occupied. Joe Murphy and Baker & Farron always draw, though not always so well as they did at last night's season opening.

"Government House" as a play has no claim to literary excellence. It was written to fit the two popular comedians' style of free and easy comedy. The object has been to give them just plot enough to make a thread of connection for their happy song and inimitable scenes. The humour throughout is broad, and many a hearty laugh was indulged in. Some of Farron's "hits" were particularly neat. The piece takes fully as well as in "Chris and Lena," not that it is a better one, but that it is a change. Baker is a "German butler" made temporary Governor of Trinidad because the real Governor secrets himself impossibly on account of an impossible love affair. He is brought into all sorts of awkward situations, in receiving the Governor's bride. Farron takes the part of a "Corporal of Marines" and also of a fictitious bride, heightening the difficulties of the situation. The "Governor" and "Capt. Thunderbolt" were both well sustained. Harry Rich as the "Colored Valet" was easy in his role and well alive to his points, and the rest of the support was above the average. This evening there will be another bumper house to see "Chris & Lena."

MEN OF THE HOUR

PATRICK O'DONNELL.
THE SLAYER OF CAREY, THE INFORMER.

Patrick O'Donnell, who killed James Carey, the notorious informer, on the 29th of July last, while he was being conveyed to Port Elizabeth by the steamer Melrose, is a man of whom little can be ascertained. He was born in 1853, in the town of Manaclady, County Donegal, in the north of Ireland, where several of his family now reside. When four years of age, he came with his parents to America, but returned shortly after to his native land. He has been to America several times; took out naturalization papers in the United States on the 6th of November, 1876, and has lived for brief periods in Toronto, Philadelphia, Pa., Cleveland, O., and Denver, Col. He invested in silver mines and Fenian bonds, lost all his money, returned to Ireland last May and frequented the company of Irish Americans in Londonderry. He carried a revolver and was considered a strong Nationalist but opposed to the Invincibles. He went to the Cape to work because he considered America played out. He is a powerfully built man, six feet in height; eyes gray, hair dark.

TAKING A PART ING.

Farewell to Capt. Nellie Eyerson—A Sorrowful Company—Tendering An Address.

Last evening a very large audience assembled in the Salvation tabernacle to participate in the farewell to Capt. Nellie Eyerson, appointed to Belleville station. The meeting was extremely interesting. Dr. Wilson made a pleasing address, in which he dilated on the Christian conduct and actions of the departing lady. She was earnest and active in the Master's cause. She was unflagging in her zeal for the welfare of souls. He regretted her removal. The singing of the evening was very effective, the band ably assisting.

The address of Capt. Abbie was affecting. She spoke sorrowfully of the removal of her friend and adviser. There was every indication that the two ladies were deeply attached to each other. Capt. Nellie replied and for some time addressed the converts and then made a few parting remarks to the Captain and the people. She will be deeply missed. Many retired from the tent with sorrowful faces. This morning an address, signed by the following, was presented to Capt. Nellie: W. J. Moore, J. Stacey, N. Pigeon, J. Pigeon, H. Harriman, J. Fowler, P. Wathers, J. Wright, J. Abernethy, A. Craig, A. Simmons, F. Miller, W. Shea, Minnie Morrison, Sarah Aubrey and many privates.

To Capt. Nellie Eyerson, of the Salvation Army.

We, the Sergeants and Privates of the 5th Canadian corps, desire to tender you our hearty greetings upon your promotion to Captain's rank and your transfer to another station.

We pray and trust that the Master who has found you so faithful in a few things will keep you faithful also in many things, and that you will always be able and willing to go to Him to let Him make you good, and that you will find Him daily, yea every hour, nearer and dearer.

We would bear testimony to your worth, to the meekness and gentleness of your character, but that He who has made you and us wise unto salvation has taught us that in His work we are but the vessels of His grace and that it pleases God to reveal His Son in us. We therefore forbear expressing the language of our hearts in any other way than to pray that you may always walk worthy of the heavenly calling; that you may adorn the doctrine of our Blessed Saviour in all things, and that you may so be kept right during your labors here so as to be presented faultless before the Throne of His Glory with exceeding joy when it shall please Him to summon you to cross the valley of the shadow of death' and so your brothers and sisters in the Lord Jesus mindful of all your love and care for them, will ever pray.

GOSPEL TEMPERANCE MISSION.

Mr. Wm. Forbes, the well-known Gospel Temperance Evangelist, of London, England, will conduct a series of meetings in the City Hall, commencing on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. There will also be services on Sunday and Monday evenings at eight o'clock. Mr. Forbes has conducted many large and successful missions in England, and has completed a series of meetings in the Province of Quebec. The English papers say that he possesses a fluent and brilliant rhetoric, coupled with an inexhaustible supply of anecdote, and completely carries his audience with him. Indeed he is a singularly effective speaker; one scarcely knows which to admire most—his apt and felicitous illustration, his keen sense of humor, his earnestness as a temperance advocate, or the simple, interesting, and telling way in which he presents the Gospel.

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATION.

Changing the Location of a Temporary School Room—A Small Amount of Opposition.

Last evening a special meeting of the Board of Education occurred in Wilkinson's block. The following were present: G. R. Waldron, Chairman; Messrs. Robinson, Allen, Wilson, Polson, Savage, Shaw, Horsey, Irving, S. Fee, Anglin, Dunlop and the Inspector.

Mr. Irving intimated the object of the meeting. It was to consider the report of the School Property Committee.

The Committee on School Property reported that they had visited the rooms of J. Savage, proposed to be used temporarily as a school room, and have come to the conclusion that such rooms are unfit for the purpose intended. They now advise that the upper room of the McCutcheon building be fitted up. The said rooms are double the size and much better than those of Savage's. The new rooms are adjacent to the Johnson Street School. The estimate cost for fitting up is $180.

The report of the School Property Committee, passed at the last meeting, was re-considered on the following division.

Yeas—Allen, Anglin, Dunlop, Fee, Horsey, Irving, Polson, Savage, Waldron, Shaw.—10.

Nays—Robinson, Shaw.—2.

It was moved that the report presented be adopted.

OPPOSING THE REPORT.

Mr. Shaw advised caution in the matter. There was no information why the Savage property should be abandoned. He thought it singular that the Committee had made such a mistake, as evidenced by the reports. To fix up the Savage property would entail a cost of $42; to fix the McCutcheon property some $192. He claimed that the McCutcheon property was rickety and might require supports to make it safe for the children. An outside stairway would be required and there would be great danger to the children in passing up and down. The Savage room was on the ground floor. He pointed out where the accommodation was most required. What was wanted was some means to relieve the pressure in the Queen Street School. He did not see how the Board could say that the people must send their children to a school that was certainly rickety enough even on its base.

Mr. Horsey gave reasons why the new room was the most desirable. Queen St. School would be relieved, and no extra teacher employed. The teacher would also be under the Government of an experienced principal. Mr. Horsey said Mr. Shaw's remarks amounted to nothing. He contended that the Committee's report should be endorsed.

Mr. Polson said that the amount required to fit the buildings up seemed to be quite large for a room to be used only for a short time. He thought other means could be adopted to relieve the overcrowding. He moved an amendment that the report be not passed but sent back for reconsideration with instructions to the Committee to rent suitable quarters in the central part of the city.

POINT DELAY.

Mr. Wilson was surprised to hear some men advocating delay. A great change had came over the spirit of their dreams. The amendment was vague for the room in the McCutcheon building could be rented according to it. He hoped the Committee's report would be endorsed. The money expended would be put into a building that certainly would become public school property some day.

Mr. Polson and Mr. Shaw both spoke in objection to the report.

Dr. Fee thought that a portion of of the expense would result beneficially. The building would be a good place as a storeroom in future years.

Mr. Irving pointed out the unfit condition of the Savage property both as regards the rooms, the grounds, conveniences and surroundings. If they used it the public would become impressed with the idea that the Board had gone back to the accommodation of 30 years ago.

The amendment was lost on the following division:

Nays—Messrs. Allen, Anglin, Dunlop, Fee, Horsey, Irving, Robinson, Savage, Waldron, Wilson—10.

Yeas—Polson and Shaw—2.

The report was adopted. R. Shaw voting "nay."

A FEW MINOR MATTERS.

The teachers of McKelvey and Burch for putting up stoves was accepted.

The question of planking several school yards was referred to the School Property Committee as were a few other questions regarding repairs.

The Chairman reported that the Writing Master had informed him that writing was ignored in some schools except when he was present. Mr. McKay thought writing should be taught every day. The matter was referred to the Inspector.

After considering several other matters the Board adjourned.

FALSE CHARGES OF PIRACY.

Many persons in Prince Edward Co. feel indignant at the wholesale charges of piracy made in connection with the loss of the sch'r. Folger. There has been some crookedness, but by no means to such an extent as reported. For instance, it is reported that the bell of the Folger was found in a farmer's barn ten miles in the country, when the truth is it remained in the coal-house at Salmon Point, together with the sails, etc., ever since the wreck until handed over to the purchaser, Mr. Marsh, of Oswego. Again, a man wrote from Clayton, N.Y., to the lighthouse keeper demanding one of the watches found in the water at Salmon Point, and threatened arrest; but as he produced no proof that he is entitled to receive the watch he cannot get it. Had the lighthouse keeper been a dishonest man the watches could easily have been concealed and disposed of, but he advertised them.—Picton Gazette.

A BROKEN PROMISE.

The Globe says the Hon. Mr. Blanchet abandoned his claims to the Speakership of the Commons in favour of Hon. G. A. Kirkpatrick upon receiving a promise of the appointment to the Collectorship of Customs at Quebec. Sir John Macdonald made his bargain, but he finds it difficult to deliver the goods. Mr. Dejeacomb, the present Collector, declines to make way for Mr. Blanchet, and as he held his first appointment from the British Government Sir John does not feel like forcing him out lest he should have a second Rylands case on his hands. Meanwhile Mr. Blanchet has to wait for his reward.

Having made additions to his staff of workmen he is prepared to manufacture a suit in ten hours' notice—a vest and pants in eight hours, and pants in six hours. Well made and a good fit guaranteed. He is now showing all classes of desirable goods.

One hundred and twenty escaped, but of these fifteen were re-captured the same night.

Special Notices

Nasal Respiration.

We should always breathe through the nostrils, as breathing through the mouth tends to weaken the lungs and produce sore throat and bronchitis. Any one suffering from laryngitis, bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Consumption or Catarrhal Deafness should at once consult the Surgeons of the International Throat and Lung Institute, who make a specialty of the above diseases, and who are the Supreme Counsel by Dr. Sprague, of Paris, ex-sole surgeon of the French army the only instrument by which medicated air can be conveyed to the lungs through the nasal passages. Consultations free. Physicians and sufferers invited to try the Spirometer free. If unable to call personally write for list of questions and copy of International News, published monthly at 173 Church St., Toronto.

A New Principle.

The principle upon which Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor acts is entirely new. It does not sink deep into the flesh, thereby producing soreness, but acts directly upon the external covering of the corn, separates it from the under layer, removes the direct pressure from the part, and at once effects a rational cure without any pain or discomfort. Let those who are suffering from corns, try a sceptical of treatment, try it, and by the completeness of the cure they will be ready to recommend Putnam's Painless Corn Extractor to others.

Well Rewarded.

A liberal reward will be paid to any party who will produce a case of Liver Kidney or Stomach Complaint that Electric Bitters will not speedily cure. Bring them along, it will cost you nothing for the medicine if it fails to cure, and you will be well rewarded for your trouble besides. It is said that among the Chinese, the Larvæ of Insects are used medicinally to give strength to feeble Caterpillar Syrup they consider a specific for Bronchitis; Dead Toads are taken to give tone to the system, while the horns of the rhinoceros, the bones of tigers, the jaws of tigers, and the wings of bats all have a place in the Chinese Pharmacopœia. A simple remedy containing well known ingredients is nothing thought of by a patient, and their doctors seem to be quite of the same mind. How different it is with us outside barbarians in this respect, where the elegant preparation, of pleasant taste, composed of well known and well tried remedies, such as embodied in Robinson's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Lacto-Phosphate of Lime is not only sought after by the patient but is recommended and largely prescribed by the most intelligent physicians.
