MY MARRIAGE.

What Trouble a Lack of Confidence Brings to a Faithful Wife's Conscience.

My first love was a girl who brought me to the altar. I was not good at the time. I was not good at the time. I was not good at the time.

CHAPTER XVII.

Three days and five and six long were the days of my waiting. I was not good at the time. I was not good at the time.

He had a letter in his hand—a foreign letter, he said, and he was a great deal of time in reading it.

He looked down at the letter in his hand, and he was a great deal of time in reading it.

He turned blankly to my explanation, and he was a great deal of time in reading it.

He do not answer immediately. I look over at his face standing in the window, and he was a great deal of time in reading it.

He do not speak—I only look at him, with fast-coming tears and gasping, catching breath, and he was a great deal of time in reading it.
