Daily British Whig.

The retirement of Hon. James Young was forced by illness. He will remain here until the Legislature convenes, however. Col. A. M. Ross has had twenty-five years experience as a banker and County Treasurer, and in Parliament has proved himself a blunt and forcible debater.

Matthew Arnold, the apostle of sweet reason and light, has commenced his lecturing tour. He appeared in New York before one of the largest literary audiences that has assembled in Chipping Hall. But it was disappointing, not in his subject matter just in his instance of delivery. He read slowly, holding his manuscript near his eyes, and spoke in a voice so low that his language was intelligible at the lower end of the hall.

The revolution must be advancing apace when on the day of Youngman's burial the arrest occurs at Waterloo of a schoolmaster and eight of his pupil pals on a charge of nihilism. The Nihilists have not made much noise lately, but nihilism is progressing. The school is one specially patronized by aristocrats for families. It is one of the notable points in Russian nihilism that though recruited from all classes, a large number of its pretenders and auxiliaries are aristocrats. In other countries the lower born and the poverty stricken are the chief revolutionaries.

We have it on the authority of the Mar. that there is no dissatisfaction among the employees of the cotton mill which shut down the other day, that they were anxious for a holiday. If so they compose the first body of working people who, with no means to spare, wanted a month's idleness upon the verge of winter. The Mar. knows better than that, but it will not admit anything which has a tendency to reflect upon the N. F. The created panacea for all kinds of business ills is growing and seemed to be as cotton-making is concerned. It has only aggravated the dis-order.

The Corporation have decided to ask the Legislature of Ontario to make some amendments to the present assessment law with a view to more equitable assessment of personal property and income throughout the Province. Ottawa has failed to get any revenue from the income taxation of that very unprofitable class, the civil servants, though they enjoy all the nominal blessings which belong to the ordinary citizen. Government officials above all people in Canada should be in a position to contribute their taxes, but if they won't pay that can not be made so as the law now stands. Ottawa wants an amendment and if it succeeds other places will be benefited.

The Young Canadian, P. Butler's paper, comes to be the organ of a church and national party, and such an announcement has produced a change of writers. The Mar. commented about the thing, and editorially observed: "It is, therefore, with deep regret that we now see the Canadian, in defiance of all its former professions, and in utter disregard for principle, basely desert the ranks and go over to the enemy. Better to have died an honorable death than live to be scorned and repudiated by its former friends and patrons. The Young Canadian does not want to die, and hence its desire to become the newspaper of all in all parties rather than one."

SALUTARY TO CANADA.

The Marquis of Lorne gave some of force, because, on the eve of his retirement from office, he did not accept of the tendered evolution of a national security. The Marquis meant no disrespect to the Montrealers; he gave no indication that those who were first to welcome him to Canada had failed in his estimation. He was the friend of all the people and desired his farewell to be general, to be free of class distinctions, and above all to be Canadian. Such is really the fairest position for a Governor-General to take, and that such a Lord Lansdowne's position we judge from the following extract from a speech delivered by him at Ottawa recently. It was made in reply to an address from one of the local societies:

The Abortion Election Troubles.

Michael Kinsella Tried for Slashing—Jury's Verdict.

London, Nov. 2.—The Government offers rewards of £2000 for information as to the identity of the perpetrator of the underground dynamite explosion at the Bank of Montreal. The Government find that the transports memorandum of persons are required which can only be submitted to the detonation of dynamite. It is evident that the explosive was similar to that employed by Dr. McCullough and his confederates.

UNARMED AND UNARMED AGAINST.

This vast engineering feat manual ways strike a weaker with wonder, especially if he considers the difficulty of the difficulties that lay in the way of the construction.

The enormous amount of labour and skill required to construct the underground railway was not the least of the difficulties.

Witnesses called and examined.

There was a great array of them.

It would seem as though most of the residents of the village where the alleged offence occurred had been summoned. The prisoner is a large man and browned by exposure to the sun. John

McCullough, the first witness, was the man who had been injured. He, too, is a handsomely looking fellow, his most attractive feature being his bushy

dark whiskers.

ACCIDENT OR DYNAMITE?

Witnesses related at length the circumstances that led up to the difficulty. He was visited 13 times, three of the officers being very serious. The explosion occurred at the time of the detonation of dynamite. It is evident that the explosion was similar to that employed by Dr. McCullough and his confederates.

THE EXPLOSION.

London, Nov. 2.—The explosion which occurred at the time of the detonation of dynamite.

It was a great explosion.

It was a great explosion.
