Re-Peg's Prohibition.

Strong winds to moderate gales from south west, and cloudy to rainy weather this morning, followed by clearing and cooler weather.

Robbing the Mails.

This morning a young man, aged 18, named Francis Anthony Hart, was found in the police cells awaiting transference to the Penitentiary for six years for robbing the mails. He hails from Barrie.

We Have a Piece.

There is at present in town, says the Belleville Ontario, a young man canvassing as agent for a Kingston silver-plating establishment who, just at this time, is taken for a daylight advance guard of the industrious burglar and viewed with distrust by all to whom he puts the question. "Have you any silver-ware?"

Lecture on Physiology.

The weekly lecture on Physiology and Hygiene, to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Collegiate Institute Building, will be by Dr. Phelan. He will as usual illustrate the subject by diagrams and by crayon drawings on the blackboard, thus making the information he imparts perfectly clear to every one and at the same time most interesting to his audience.

Burning Engine Houses.

On Sunday three engine houses were burned at the Rapt Caldwell iron mine, Levant mine and the North Levant mine. The buildings were not very large, and the destruction of them will not entail an interruption of more than ten days at the most. The Bethlehem mine will not be affected, as the Company have a second engine by which the work can be carried on. The fires were evidently the work of an incendiary.

Football on Thanksgiving Day.

We are certain now to have a football match on Thanksgiving Day. The Brockville club will visit Kingston, leaving home at 6 a.m. by Ex-Mayor Cornbick's steam yacht Albani. The team will consist of Messrs. Clouston, Freer, W. Turner, A. Turner, Wood, Smart, Macpherson, Sturgs, Fairbairn, Worsley, Taylor, Comstock, McLean, Stevenson and Porter; Christie and Chaffey as spares.

The Bishop's Tour.

The Lord Bishop of Ontario will return from Birmingham this evening and to-morrow visit Sydenham to hold confirmation. On Thursday he leaves for Portsmouth, remains there over night and on Friday will consecrate St. John's Church, Oldsmar, then drive to St. Paul's, Cataraqui, and consecrate it. Confirmation services will be held in each place. On Saturday Kingston will be again reached.

Service of Song.

The Thanksgiving service in St. George's Cathedral will be held this year at eight o'clock on Thursday evening next, and will consist of a fine selection of sacred music, interspersed with appropriate bible readings. Mrs. Bates will sing "Consider the Lilies," Mrs. S. G. Mowat and Mrs. S. D. Mills the duet, "The Reaper," Mrs. Bates, Miss Baker, Mr. Sherlock and Mr. Cochrane the quartette, "Then visiteth the earth," with solo by Miss Baker and the full choir a number of fine choruses. During the offertory Mr. J. B. Cochrane will sing "The Lord is my Shepherd."

A Sheriff Captured.

The Berlin News says Sheriff Sprague has just returned from Kingston, where he has been on official business. While in the Limestone City, like the gallant Premier of the Dominion, he could not resist going to see its present greatest attraction—the Salvation Army Barracks, and the beautiful Captain Abbie. He says the new building is an immense structure and looks as though there would some big business be done there. Moses was very favorably impressed with the Army and looks quite serious, having evidently been wrought upon for good by the influences prevailing at the barracks.

The Police Calls Again.

The Magistrate's memory seems to have been most treacherous on Saturday when he could not remember the harsh things he said about the police calls in a discussion with Ald. McCulloch. He also forgot, we presume, about the letter which went from the Police Department to the Council complaining of the same "horrible noise." The Mayor, too, appears to have lost sight of the time—and before Miss Bates' death—when he wouldn't care about inviting a jury to inspect the calls. They are no doubt clear now to what they have been, but we question, with all their "comforts," if any man, however poor, would like to adopt them for a permanent residence.

Captain Abbie Now Receiving Visitors—Capt. Nellie Eyerson "Sleeping With Jesus"—Barrack Opening.

Captain Abbie is now able to receive her friends. She looks pale but is quite lively.

The Salvation Army barracks on Queen Street will be opened on the 18th inst., and it will be either a happy or unfortunate event according as the visitors conduct themselves. The Major and his wife will be here. There will be a banquet and other interesting proceedings.

The Belleville Ontario reports that on Sunday afternoon Capt. Nellie Eyerson had a fit which caused considerable alarm. She was standing on a chair during the beginning of the prayer-meeting when, seized with a faint, she fell to the floor. Parties ran to her assistance and were about throwing water in her face when she bid them stop as she said she was "only sleeping in Jesus."

A "Fad" on View.

Yesterday a portrait was placed in the window of Nisbet, bookseller, which has attracted great attention. The picture is intended to be that of Capt. Abbie, but it is about as like the original as the last Globe cut of Lasalle was. The painter did not secure enough inspiration when he outlined the face. If Abbie were to see it she would smile, perhaps become indignant. Her eyes in this great masterpiece have a terrible, shall we say villainous, cast, while our would think she had taken the scrapes and had thinned down her chin and ears. Abbie's admirers feel outraged and talk of mob-clubbing the artist wherever he may be.

VOICE FROM JAPAN!

DR. MEACHAM TELLS ABOUT THE JAP'S AND THEIR SOCIAL CONDITION AND THEIR RELIGIOUS NOTIONS.

Dr. Douglass "Surveying the Landscape Over"—What Christianity Has Done for the World—A Pretty Piece of Word Painting—Dr. Grant Warns the Wealthy to be Careful How They Use Their Means.

The annual missionary meeting in connection with the Sydenham Street Church occurred last evening, and in attendance and results was regarded as one of the most successful in recent years. Dr. Lavell occupied the chair, and on the platform were the pastors of the Methodist churches, Drs. Meacham, Douglass and Grant, and Rev. Mr. Warner, of Cape Vincent.

A FINANCIAL REVIEW.

The Chairman opened the meeting with a short speech, in which he referred to the importance of the cause which brought them together, and of the manner in which it commanded public sympathy. He made mention of the important fact that the people had never been appealed to in vain, and that no place needing a missionary was left long in want. The missionary work was worthy of the confidence and sympathy which it elicited.

Rev. Mr. Hooker said it was yet too early to quote from the report of the current year, but he believed it was encouraging in every respect. The income of the past year had been $168,000, and when the printed figures were before them it would be found that about $180,000 had been appropriated. The Committee had been relieved of the encumbering debt which had oppressed the Society for so many years. The statistics of the old report have been already printed; it is, therefore, unnecessary to repeat them. The total amount collected by Kingston first was $1,536.02. This total included collections in the Sydenham Street Sabbath School of $226.93; in Williamsville school, $24.93; and in the Depot school, $11.90. On the Sunday when the anniversary sermons were preached last year the collections amounted to $30.19; last Sunday's receipts were $74.17. The report was adopted and the Missionary Committee and lady collectors re-appointed.

Rev. Mr. Hooker also announced that the Auxiliary of the Woman's Missionary Society had decided to unite with the general Society in its annual celebration. He stated the object of the Society, read the names of its office bearers and a statement of what had been accomplished during the past year, chiefly in aiding the Crosby Home and Macdougall Orphanage.

A TALK ABOUT JAPAN.

Dr. Meacham, returned missionary from Japan, then addressed the audience and at the outset joined issue with those who said that certain classes were well enough, that they should not be troubled with religious nostrums, that that they should be left alone to develop as best they can and that by and by they will emerge into noblest manhood. Travellers told them, and they quoted Japan, that the people of heathen countries live lives of moral purity. Japan's condition, socially and religiously, was not pure, and his one leading statement—that two-thirds of the population are suffering from disease, the direct cause of their own misconduct—is a complete correction of the fiction to which he had alluded. Such, indeed, was the wretched condition of the race that the marvel was that it had not perished long ago, and it would have perished but for the blessed spirit of the living God which acts independently of Christianity. He made reference to the leading religions—Shintoism, Confucianism and Buddhism—all bereft of the higher influences which the religions of the missionaries exercised. He referred to the spread of Atheism, to the avidity with which the young men read the remarks of the free thinkers, and to the demoralizing examples set the natives by bad men of foreign countries, even of America and Canada. His personal experience was exceedingly interesting. He had

PASSED THROUGH THREE STAGES.

(1) Of exultation and extreme happiness during the reign of which he would have refused the highest gift in the keeping of the Canadian Church;

(2) Of great depression following the relapse of the converts to their old ways, the persecution of the native priests and the contemplated abandonment of the mission by the Church;

(3) Of settled calm, of a disregard for startling conversions, of devotion to duty and a feeling of satisfaction which banished the desire for change, for any position in the Church which in the second stage possessed him.

FIRED BY THE SPIRIT.

Dr. Meacham spoke of the great revivals in Japan, of the manner in which one missionary and another was fired by the spirit, of how they met in conference forgot their differences and became as one in sentiment and purpose, of how the Japanese were enlightened, and how they wept and shouted in prayer and embraced each other after the manner of the Western brethren. In Japan, he said, the missionaries worked together. Methodist Presbyterian, Baptist and Congregational ministers combined to work in harmony, and the best feeling prevailed. Practically they were one in the work, but with separate organizations. Dr. Meacham found during the past few years that while all other missions were increasing in numbers, that of the Methodists, was rather declining, and he assigned as a reason for this that the Methodists were the only ones who had no educational institution. The Japanese were ambitious for knowledge and apt to learn; so one of the readiest means of securing their interest in religion was, to first offer them facilities for obtaining education, and then lead them on. He hoped that it would not be long till a Methodist College would be opened in Tokio, and appealed to the meeting to assist in this object with their means. The first convert, he said, cost $10,000 each; a little later they cost $1,000 each; now the cost is $400. They don't cost the Methodists the amount, but the other churches with their educational advantages were gaining upon them. The future of Japan was bright, it could be made brighter by the liberality of the Western Church, and by and bye the Churches of the east would be self-supporting.

A WORD FROM DR. GRANT.

Dr. Grant, who received a warm introduction from the Chairman, discussed (1) how much had been done and (2) how little had been done. Twenty or thirty years ago there was hardly a heathen country open to the gospel except upon sufferance. Now there was not a corner of the globe that was not accessible. The door was ajar, but it was not expected to remain open if they did not enter. The Churches were listening more than they did to the voices from the mission fields, and they were responding as they never responded before. Much had been done, but it was little in comparison with what had still to be accomplished. A missionary in the Presbyterian Church wrote that he had at last got an assistant for an important station after bombarding the Committee for seven years. In that time many had died, and many had been hopelessly lost in sin. The appointment cost only $2,000 per annum, and it couldn't be raised, while he had read that a pair of mess, at an exhibition of fisticuffs in an American city, divided the proceeds which amounted to $10,000. Another appeal was made for $2,500, with which to build little churches in ten different places. The money was not yet forthcoming, and there was no telling when it would be forthcoming, though the sum had often been spent by some in big and fashionable parties. What was $1,500—Kingston First's whole contribution—after all? A few could spare it and have plenty of rice for Sunday. If he had their cheque books he would pay it without hesitation. Unfortunately he had not these cheque books, but there was one who controlled, if he did not hold, them and the speaker warned the wealthy ones not to offend Him by an ungenerous distribution of their gifts.

AN ELOQUENT CLOSING SPEECH.

Dr. Douglass came last and made a great speech. He expatiated upon the comprehensive character of the missionary platform, and gave an illustration of Christianity's merits by contemplating what is really implied in its gift to any people. To give Christianity, he said, is to give dominion over the forces of nature. It is to give the fiery flame that, evoked from heaven, sweeps as an angelic messenger across the continent. It is to give the palatial car that on rails of steel flies with the rush of the storm over the mountains and along the valley. It is to give the stately steamer every stroke of whose propeller welds the chain of intercourse between races and nations. In a word it gives a thousand things which redeem the world from barbarism. To give Christianity is to wake up the slumbering intelligence of millions, to give the school and academy and college and later on the science of Newton, the deeper political philosophies of Burke, the historic wealth of Macaulay, and the seraphic conceptions of Milton. To give Christianity is to uplift the genius of liberty, to proclaim the magna charta of human rights, to fearlessly assert that whosoever wears upon his brow the stamp of God-given intellect has the inalienable birth-right of

CIVIL AND RELIGIOUS LIBERTY.

To give Christianity is to proclaim the sanctity of the family, to lay broad and deep the foundations of moral and spiritual institutions, to bring divinity itself into alliance with man through the blood of Christ. The benefit of Christianity was not better illustrated than in connection with that branch of the Teutonic race to which those whom he addressed belonged. He sketched their rise in centuries agone, said they possessed the best blood of the kings of the north seas and of the Normans, and pointed to the rapidity with which they secured the ascendancy in the new world. The touching prayer of Rev. Mr. Warner had reminded him of the united national power of Britain and Columbia. The Saxons ruled the wave, their influence was felt the world over, their march everywhere was triumphant and all pervading. In passing he commented upon the expression of an eminent author that civilization had reached an altitude which defied despoiling again. It did not occur to him that civilization without Christianity had within it the elements which might work its own destruction, and the time is not long past when European capitals were disturbed, their civilizing forces menaced with the rapine and murder of the Infidel Commune. Such circumstances justify the declaration that civilization without Christ, without God, has not conservative forces to

LEAD HER TO TRIUMPHANT VICTORY.

He said this in the interest of a too much neglected department of the Church—Home Missions. The very principle of self preservation suggested the sending of missionary agents into the outlying settlements. He lamented that the literature of the day was so largely calculated to destroy the confidence of the young men in Christianity. It was but a short time since a sceptical lecturer, in Montreal, had the insolence to fling in the face of the people the insulting statement that only fools and fanatics could hope to cure the body politic of its ills by the sugar-coated pills of emasculated Christianity. It was their duty to stand upon that platform and say that the fools and fanatics are not the Christians but the Underwoods, the Ingersolls, the Harrisons, the Huxleys, the Tyndalls, who would ask them to renounce the hope they have, to abandon the light of the gospel for their flickering tapers, to turn aside from the rolling tide of waters and accept of the muddy drops that are squeezed, wrung out of their miserable philosophies. Their name shall perish, but the name of Jesus shall live forever. Their philosophies shall be flung aside like worn out vestments that wrap a dead personality, but Christianity is like the maid in the morning who, climbing the hills and skipping over the mountains, is ever stooping to lift poor humanity, to clasp them to her breast of love. Then when the people heard the calls of the prophetic Meacham from Japan, the calls from the great North-West, the calls from the most powerfully Romanized province on the face of the earth (Quebec), he trusted the Christian Methodists of good old Kingston would respond generously and to the glory of God.

Poor Relief Society and House of Industry.

A meeting of the working Committee of the Poor Relief Society was held on Saturday afternoon to arrange for the general annual meeting, to be held three weeks hence, and to consider the winter's work. Much concern was expressed concerning the insufficient support of the House of Industry, which so much lightens the work of the Society in sheltering so many of the helpless and aged poor who would have to be otherwise provided for if this refuge were not open to them. An earnest hope was unanimously expressed that the public would come liberally forward to its support, and that the churches would, either by giving their Thanksgiving collections or some better equivalent, show their appreciation of any institution which has so strong a claim on the sympathies of all denominations.

Pushing the Line Through.

Mr. R. Freeman and his staff of men have completed the telephone line connections at Trenton and in a short time now there will be direct communication between Kingston and London. The Company will pay Belleville as the Council will not allow the erection of poles on Front street.

AMONG THE JAPS.

Dr. Meacham Adapting Himself to Japanese Customs and Life—The Cost of Living.

Privately Dr. Meacham relates many entertaining stories in connection with his life in Japan. At first he had difficulty in making himself understood and in understanding the people until he had mastered the language. He had a fine building erected at Numadzu for a school and had full classes for five months. Then the building was set fire to and destroyed, evidently with the intention of burning the inmates, but they escaped. The food consists of fish, rice, and a few vegetables, most of which is unpleasant to the taste of foreigners. At first Dr. Meacham had to go without food while away from Tokio, or suffer great distress from the food provided; but after a time he got so far habituated to the native cookery as to be able to exist, but with very little comfort. He was so long without butter that he forgot what it tasted like; no sugar, bread, fruit, nor fresh meats were obtainable. In Tokio and other resports all these things can be bought, as they are imported from California and Europe. But the prices are so high that economy has to be used. Beefsteak 50c. a pound; potatoes $2 a bushel; apples 25c. a pound; butter 80c. a pound; and canned goods in proportion. One method of eating in use among the carriers is a preparation of buckwheat made into round pieces the size of a lead pencil and two feet long; several of these pieces are twisted together like a rope of wire cable. The ends are introduced into the eater's mouth and the whole rope shoved slowly down the throat without any attempt at chewing or biting off pieces.

St. Andrew's Society.

At the regular meeting of the St. Andrew's Society, held last night in the Council Chamber, the following office-bearers were appointed for next year:

President—Mr. Jas. Craig.
First Vice-President—Mr. A. Milne.
Second Vice-President—Mr. N. C. Polson.
Sec.-Treas.—Mr. R. Thomson.
Chaplains—Rev. Donald Ross and Rev. Finlay McQuaig.
Physician—Dr. Strange.
Auditors—Messrs. J. Murray and G. W. Maxwell.
Standard Bearers—Messrs. N. McNeil and A. McDonald.
Bard—Mr. Evan McColl.
General Charity Committee—Messrs. A. McDonald, W. G. Craig, J. Richardson, W. R. McRae, J. Massie, D. McKinnon, A. J. Flett, D. Spence, J. Galloway, J. Middlesex.

Building Operations.

The season opened with very poor prospects in the building line, but the latter part of the season has seen a great activity. Residences are going up in several quarters, from the neat brick home to the tasteful wooden cottage. The supply next year of houses will be fully equal to the demand. The new buildings, also, show a decided improvement in styles and appearances.

R. Waldron has bought Kennedy's lot on the corner of Arch and Stuart streets, thus taking in three properties as a site for his new residence at a cost of $7,450. The house that follows will probably be a stylish one and a vast improvement in that quarter. With the College lawn on one side and the City Park on the other the situation is all that can be desired. Mr. Flanagan will probably build two houses on his remaining lots in the spring also.

Your Skin Cure is superexcellent; it is fast curing my daughter's ring worm, which had spread all over her body." Mrs. R. L. D. Merriam, Blue Hill, Mass. Druggists keep it; $1 per package.

Charlottetown, P.E.I. Nov. 11, 1878.
Mr. J. H. Robinson, St. John, N.B.
Dear Sir,—By, I may say, almost an accident, early this spring, being confined to my room for nearly three months, and during this time I was under the combined care of three of the most eminent physicians of Charlottetown, and by them and my friends given up as beyond all power to help me, Dr. Baxter, of Moncton, having occasion to call upon me on business, very naturally observed my state of health, and after fully describing my trouble, which by the doctors attending me was pronounced Dyspepsia or Indigestion, in fact I was so bad I could only eat brown bread, and that after being made at least three days, while tea, coffee or milk I dare not touch, and a slice of dry toast would invariably give me the utmost distress. Dr. Baxter recommended "Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion," and I feel that I owe the public a debt which can only be paid by saying to all similarly afflicted, "Go thou and do likewise;" try "Robinson's Phosphorized Emulsion." To-day I am hearty and strong, and can, without fear, indulge in all the luxuries of a first-class hotel.

Yours, etc.,
(Signed) J. McKECHNIE.

A SURPRISE!

The rapidity with which we obtained a large share of the Boot and Shoe trade of Kingston was a surprise to a great many. We heard of all sorts ejaculations by knowing ones when we announced our opening, such as "Two more candidates for the Bankrupt Court," "The fools are not all dead yet," &c., at all of which we quietly smiled.

WHAT A STRANGER SAW:

Before we had been open six months a stranger in the city, seeing the store literally packed with customers one Saturday evening, enquired of a merchant opposite if we were having an Auction. Were we selling off or What was the cause of such a great rush? He was told that it was nothing unusual but just the result of selling A GOOD ARTICLE AT A LOW PRICE.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS:

Our rapidly increasing trade does not at all surprise us. Knowing the inducements we could offer the public over ordinary dealers, we expected to do a large and steadily increasing business in Kingston as we have done in Belleville and Trenton. For a good article, for a large variety, for LOWEST PRICES AND NEWEST STYLES GO TO
