MISREPRESENTING DR. GRANT... The friends of University College, having a poor cause, are getting angry and personal. As a matter of course Dr. Grant has aroused their anger.

Another statement is that "less than two years ago, when he attended a University dinner in Toronto, in a good natured way he rallied Hon. Adam Crooks (who sat at his left) for not giving the Provincial University a larger grant—all the money, in fact, that she wanted."

We have Dr. Grant's authority for saying that this is not only a misrepresentation but a very stupid misrepresentation. At the dinner in question the Minister of Education had referred to "the magnificent endowment" of Toronto University.

There is no limit to the amount that a College may spend. That is the reason why the state should have the indefinite extension of a College to private and voluntary institutions. John Hopkins left millions to endow a college. We shall rejoice when a Toronto John Hopkins does likewise.

On Wednesday a deputation of ladies and gentlemen waited upon the Ontario Government and urged the extension of the franchise to women. Mrs. M. E. Ewen, President of the Canadian Women's Suffrage Society, led off in the interview, showing that women were about equally interested with the men in municipal matters.

WOMEN AS VOTERS... On Wednesday a deputation of ladies and gentlemen waited upon the Ontario Government and urged the extension of the franchise to women.

WANTED—Ten Cents to destroy coal in the city. Apply to James Scott.

A good speech on the occasion. He said that the legislation passed by the Local Legislature as well as the House of Commons to a large extent affected women, that they were interested in the question of liberty, the rights of property and the protection of life and limb. Good results would therefore follow the adoption of a system by which women, who compose one half the community, would be represented in Parliament.

A FEMALE ADVENTURESS... Mrs. Annie Murphy, the widow of one of the victims of the London disaster by the screwing of the steam Victoria on the Thames, May 10th, 1882, has just appeared at an advertisement in this City, but has attempted at blackmail has been a failure.

Her story was that about the 1st of October she was in the cabin alone, while the vessel was lying in the harbor. The Captain approached her and criminally assaulted her twice: in the morning he repeated the offence. She struggled, but her strength was too weak to cope with the determined man.

The woman appears to be a person of debased habits and dangerous. The Captain after the trial at once had information to have the girl prosecuted for perjury.
