Awoke emotions deep in me.

ng on, ring on, sweet dabbath bell, Thy mellow tones I love to hear, was a boy when first they fell n those dear days, long past and gone, When sporting here in boyish glee, The magic of thy Sabbath tone long years have gone and I have strayed Out o'er the world, far, far away, But thy dear tones have round me played, On every lovely Sabbath day. When strolling o'er the mighty plains, Spread widely in the unpeopled West, Each Sabbath morn I've heard thy strains Tolling the welcome day of rest. Upon the rocky mountain crest,

Where Christian feet hath never trod. In the deep bosom of the West I've thought of thee and worshipped God: Ring on, sweet bell! I've come again To hear thy cherished call to prayer, There's less of pleasure now than pain In those dear tones which fill my ear Ring on, ring on, dear bell! ring on!

Once more I've come with whitened head To hear thee toll. The scands are gone And ere this Sabbath day hath sped shall be gone, and may no more Give ear to thee, sweet Sabbath bell Dear church and bell, so loved of yore, And childhood's happy home, farewell - Col. W. H. Sparks.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Claims Some Men Have to Public Of dee-Qualifications of a Legislator. To the Editor of the British Whig. Sir,—In your last issue my attention was arrested by a communication under the above caption, from "J. A. T., Pittsburgh," in which he strongly advocates the claims of Mr. Elijah Joyner to be elected a member of Parliament, but whether he means to put him in Mr. G. Kirkpatrick's place or Mr. Calvin's he does not precisely state. But I should judge by his out-spoken opinion of the man that he considers him well qualified by his long municipal experience for either position. Will you permit me, an elector of the county, to mildly criticise "J. A. T's." effusion. I shall do it as mildly as possible, and without any wish

In the first place, then, I consider the effusion too loud. It would do very well as a gratuitous advertisement, in fact as such it is unique, and far surpasses those relating to St. Jacob's oil. Now, what does in "J. A. T's." opinion qualify this year are likely to prove highly suc-Mr. Joyner to make a good and efficient member of Parliament?
