A PRESSING DUTY.

Our municipal representatives used their best exertions to secure the location of the Provincial Show in Kingston in the coming Autumn, but, that point being settled, their duty to the public has only commenced. All efforts, unusual as well as unanimous, should now be directed to one particular end-the making the of Exhibition a success, equal if not superior to what it has been in other places, the competition of which has been so injurious to the limestone city. Experience in the past points a moral—that good results can be attained by the proper direction of our energies. and that important issues, in so far as the Exhibition is concerned, largely depend upon the effects of this years experiment.
