LAST DAY AND NIGHT.

After the departure of his mother and brother yesterday, Vankoughnst was in a very sad state of mind. The turnkey | says her presence had more effect upon bim than anything during his confine. ment. He was attended yesterday afternoon and evening by Mr. Jack, City Missionary, and Rev. Mr. Hall. Prayers ward, and at 6 o'clock he retired to his thrilling click the bolt underneath cell. He went directly to bed and apparently slept.

We may add that yesterday, Martha, Vankoughnet's eldest daughter, visited him and had quite a long interview with bim. He arranged to send her his Tes. tament, marked at John III. Scaling the Prisoner's Doom.

This morning all without the gaol, as well as within it, was gloomy and in | keeping with the fearful ceremony, the performance of which was repulsive to | all participating in it. Rain fell at intervals during the two preceding hours, the sky was clouded, and so much as even a glint of sunshine was denied the unhappy man as he traversed from his | . cell to the gallows, in an upper and dimly lighted apartment.
