REGIONS. The Regular Meeting of the City Lodge will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, 11th Oct., at 120 St. George Street. The next meeting will be on Monday, 15th Nov., at 7:30 p.m. at the same place. The next meeting will be on Monday, 15th Nov., at 7:30 p.m. at the same place.

A.S.E.W. THE REGULAR MEETING OF THE CITY LODGE will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, 11th Oct., at 120 St. George Street. The next meeting will be on Monday, 15th Nov., at 7:30 p.m. at the same place.

REMINDERS. MEETING OF THE KINGSTON CRICKET CLUB at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, 11th Oct., at 120 St. George Street. The next meeting will be on Monday, 15th Nov., at 7:30 p.m. at the same place.

CITY AND VICINITY. BEWARE AND BUY YOUR HOSIERY, GLOVES AND CORSETS from Haidy & Murray, where it is no trouble to show goods.

LADIES' ulsters, jackets and all military goods selling greatly at reduced prices at E. Delaney's, 288 Princess Street.

PARVOS, having been awarded three first prizes for tweed suitings he had at the fair, has been obliged to re-order the goods. They are now in his store on exhibition.

The Sisters of the Hotel Dieu return thanks to Mr. Wm. Irwin, Superintendent of Construction of the K.P.R., for the sum of $50, collected by him for the hospital. They also thank the men employed for their generosity on the occasion.

TONNAGE.—The Mexico Insurance Co. says that a dog belonging to Capt. Fred E. Johnson, of the schooner Excelsior, jumped into an elevator leg at Kingston and was lifted to the top of the shaft and deposited on the ceiling, not much hurt.

MR. J. C. JONES.—This scientific journal, the editor of the Hamilton Daily News, a paper in the interest of his race, is catching it from Professor Grant, who concludes a long letter by saying that Jones far surpassed the sun do more. Johnson in features and intellect.

DOMINION ALLIANCE.—The Secretary of the Dominion Alliance, Mr. W. G. Fox, has arranged for organizing an auxiliary branch of the Alliance for this city during the month of November. Such an auxiliary will prove a source of strength to the temperance workers of Kingston.

RESULT OF INVESTIGATION.—The Medical Board of the Staffsfordshire regiments, for one of which Lord Rathburn was slated to be member, is represented by anybody of that name. Mr. Rathburn, the nearest approach to the name on the House of Commons list, is member for Carnarvon.

CAPTURED LUNATIC.—The lunatic Chatterton, captured at Brantford, had escaped from the Lunatic Asylum, London. A communication from the Medical Superintendent of the Lunatic Asylum, Kingston, states that Chatterton had at one time been an inmate of that institution, but had been transferred to London.

MORG L.A.W.—The City Council having refused W. T. Norris' account for work on the Brock street boulevard, and ignored his claim for damages through a plankwalk accident, he has brought two suits against the corporation. The Mayor has been served with writs. Some Assize suits for unsettled contracts are pronounced by Norris.

A HAND ENGINE.—The fire engine (hand) purchased for "B" Battery through McKelvey & Birch, is a real beauty and capable of doing wonderful service. It was manufactured in Seneca Falls, and was assessed for duty, notwithstanding that it was destined for Government service. It is a pity a serviceable article could not be obtained in Canada.

HIS BIRTHDAY.—Five hundred persons paid their respects to President Arthur during his reception at Alexandria Bay yesterday. He shook hands cordially with all, and if he has not a tired arm it is because he is now in practice. The Thousand Island House was well illuminated last night. To-morrow the President will return to New York, and the project of a reception at Oswego must drop.

METROPOLITAN TELEGRAPH COMPANY.—As soon as the office of the Mutual Telegraph Company is opened at Watertown it will be connected with over 600 offices from Maine to Omaha and New Orleans. The line will then be continued from Watertown to Cape Vincent and Ogdensburg as soon as possible and thence to Canada. Kingston was to have been reached in June, but unforeseen circumstances caused vexatious delays.

FREE DEPARTMENT.—The probability is that the selection of a successor to Chief Horsey will be amicably made, that the candidate will abide by the vote of the brigade. It is to be hoped that the new Chief will have better success than Capt. Horsey in obtaining favours from the Council. Had Capt. Horsey been supported, and had necessary improvements been supplied, he would have put the department on the basis of a paid one without an increase in the expense. We hope the new broom will sweep clean and that it will have some power given to it to sweep.

ACCIDENT AT WILMOR.—A carpenter named R. McLean, employed on one of the buildings now in course of erection at Wilmor, for the Bethlehem Iron Company, fell with a scaffold yesterday, and dropping some 20 feet, was badly hurt. He was believed to have both legs broken, but the injuries were not so serious as the mail conductor says he saw him this morning sitting in the house to which he was conducted in Harrowsmith. He looked to have been badly broken up, but he didn't think the legs were broken. George Pearson and George Burns were on the scaffold with him. Pearson had his thigh skinned and his right side bruised.

THE LION'S PATRIOT.—Mr. Patton's letter in reply to "Agent's" communication of yesterday was received to-day too late to appear in full. On behalf of the Ontario Mutual Insurance Company, however, he says that those that insured with the lion plan have received all the information they required, and any representations made to them can be clearly substantiated. The articles in the Journal of Commerce and Whig will be answered in due time and shown to be serious misrepresentations. In conclusion he says: "I would give 'Agent' a little advice, tendered by an old Quaker of Philadelphia to a very inquisitive neighbor, who asked the follower of Penn how it was he got so rich; the reply was: 'By minding his own business.' To 'Agent' I would say, go and do likewise."

SOME OF THE TEACHERS and scholars in the city schools would like to know—Whether the certificates for regular attendance will be ready for presentation to those entitled to receive them, by Christmas?

WHETHER THE TRUSTEES have forgotten that some $90 of a bonus was to be divided among the teachers doing extra work during the last half of 1891?

HOW MANY of their present scholars who play truant will be eligible for the Industrial School?

WHAT'S THE NEWS? The City Council will meet this evening. A meeting works is proposed in Kingston. "Paddy's eye water" is the latest name for it. All the summer hotels at Alexandria Bay have closed. Lecturers are getting ready to swoop down on defenseless communities. Bishop Lewis is making a warm appeal to the people of the diocese on behalf of a sick clergyman.

THE ELECTION OF HON. MR. MOUSSEAU is to be protested. The papers allege personal bribery against him. J. G. McDonald, of Winnipeg, is to get out 5,000 cords of wood for use in his brick factories next season. J. A. Bailey, of Syracuse, N.Y., who lately played cricket here, has had $10,000 left him by an uncle in England.

COTTELETT, accused of robbery, was very glad to escape from the clutches of the police, and paid $20 for his defence. This must be a hardy summer. Such a season cannot be located definitely, and may occur at any time from Oct. 1st to Dec. 1st.

MESSRS. DOWNEY & PRESTON, of Belleville, have commenced the reconstruction of their warehouses, destroyed by fire on Tuesday night. A number of the Ontario strikers visited the President to visit Oswego at the expiration of his thousand-day land vacation.

SHIP CARPENTERS are very dull. Few of the men engaged in this business have anything to do, and the outlook is not all encouraging. J. C. Jones, Civil Engineer, has ordered the drill shed to be in preparation for a plan and accurate record of ground travelled in the great walking machine.

D. CAMPBELL has shipped from Wellington this season two crops of barley, 7,000 bushels, to Oswego by ship. C. Gearing, and 15,000 bushels to Chicago by prop. Argyle.

MR. E. MALLORY who lives near Ferguson's cheese factory, Hollowell, had three horses, a colt, a buggy and harness stolen recently. He found them near Fish Lake, Sophiasburg.

THE CONTRACTORS have at work 30 teams and 75 men at the upper end of the Murray Canal. They have 40 men cutting down the bush on the line of the canal through Benj. Rowe's farm.

TWO DEMOCRATS dined with the President at Alexandria Bay. One of them was W. N. Thompson, a dry goods clerk in the village. He is now looking for a more dignified occupation.

PERSONAL MENTION. The Mayor of Belleville is very ill of typhoid fever. Thirlow Weed's condition is much improved this morning. General Butler has decided to accept nomination for Governor of Massachusetts.

JOSEPH TAYLOR PASSMORE, the reputed son of "Lord Rathburn," left the city this morning. He is a candidate for the Conservative party for the Local Council in Prince Edward County.

BONNARDER HITCHCOCK, of the London Field Battery, has entered upon a course at the School of Gunnery here. The three-year old son of James Darnford, Keith, O., first discovered the present sunrise clock, calling it "a pretty star."

DR. BARKER has been feeling so much better for two weeks past that he was able to visit the city to-day for the first time in many months. Chief of Police Fawcett, of St. Thomas, arrived last night, and today took a prisoner from the penitentiary to give evidence in a case at St. Thomas.

MR. G. R. WELCH, of Rochester, a prominent insurance man, having business with one of the Companies represented by Mr. Vandewater, is in the city. He is at the Burnett.

MRS. NELSON SWITZER, who left Loughboro last fall for the North West, returned with her family on Wednesday, because of the small pox raging in that section of the country they settled in. Her husband intends to return about Christmas.

MR. JOHN LAIDLAW, of Toronto, has been at Ottawa urging a representative for Ontario at the International Fishery Exhibition next year in London. Dr. Honeyman, Superintendent of the Nova Scotia Museum, represents that Province. Mr. Laidlaw arrived here to-day.

MR. AUBIN, Dominion Inspector of Gas, has been in the city for two days, altering the local testing apparatus here to conform to the action of the standard machines in Canada. The Kingston machine is an excellent one, but has been different to the others in operation.

MR. PATTON'S letter in reply to "Agent's" communication of yesterday was received to-day too late to appear in full. On behalf of the Ontario Mutual Insurance Company, however, he says that those that insured with the lion plan have received all the information they required, and any representations made to them can be clearly substantiated. PEDESTRIANISM. Nervous Competitor Edward Wren—A Little Recumbent of Confidence From—His Room to Win.

Norris is a great walker, and has given us numerous demonstrations of his speed and endurance. But it appears that there is an unknown of equal ability, a pedestrian who can skip by an ordinary walker with an alacrity scarcely credible. He was seen at practice last evening, and he certainly made a favorable impression. He came in King street dressed in tight—blue, we believe, but indistinguishable in so far as the color was concerned—wheeled into Brock up which he proceeded as far as Division street, then disappeared from the view of those who followed him some distance and critically watched his movements. He made great time. To-day we met one who answered the unknown's description, and stopped him. On enquiry we learned that he was a professional walker, but until he got through his match with Norris he would not divulge his name. He is a little Scotchman, who says he weighs 152 lbs., stands 5 ft. 4 in. high, and has beaten some very good records.

"Have you seen Norris?" we asked. "Yes, I have caught a glimpse of him, and believe I have been mentioned as an opponent of his. I think I can get away with him all right enough. Who is he anyway?"

"Who is he? Who don't know Norris? He is an Englishman of lively temperament, and given to the cultivation of his goatee and muscle.

"Ah, indeed! We're much alike in our proclivities," he laughed, pulling at a little fringe appendage on his chin with one hand and striking his thigh a vigorous blow with the other.

"Is he a man of business?" "You would think so if you knew of all the contracts he has undertaken about the city?"

"Will you say that the unknown is a man of business, too, and that he means to take that $500. In the first mile I'll beat him by five laps of the drill shed, and at the end of the tenth mile I'll be all up with him, and don't you forget it. Norris says he's going to make $500 in three days or die in the attempt. We'll probably have a funeral, and probably it may be just as interesting to the public as a race. I see that the band is going to be on hand. As an ex member of the British army my opponent will be entitled to military honours. I suppose he'll walk in uniform."

"Saying which the unknown left us, and rushed into 'The Jar,' a popular resort on sports.

COURT OF ANKLE. A Corrected Report of the Last Two Cases—Judge's Ruling.

In the case of Baker vs. Eccles the judge ruled as follows: The defendants have in their pleadings offered the sum of $50 in full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim. C. J. Wilson ruled that the plaintiff could not claim for any damage after the date of the interpleader order, but allowed the evidence as to the whole damage to be given so that if his opinion was overruled a further reference would be unnecessary. The damage to the date of the interpleader order being less than the $50 offered His Lordship said that he would, unless he could be convinced that the offer was erroneous, give a verdict for $50. But he would order the plaintiff to pay the whole costs of suit on both sides. If, however, authority could be shown that damages after the date of the interpleader order could be recovered he would allow the plaintiff such sum under $84 as he might be entitled to with costs on the proper scale. Mr. Britton, Q.C., and Mr. Rogers for plaintiff; Mr. Walkom, Q.C., and Mr. Mudie for the defendant.

In the case of McLaugherty vs. Slater, the statements made that the defendant said he would run the farm for all it was worth, were expressly denied by him. The Chief Justice allowed Mr. Walkom to supplement the defence by pleading acquiescence on the part of Mr. McLaugherty in the defendant's mode of working the farm, and a question was sent to the jury on that point. Mr. Britton, Q.C., and Dr. Smythe for plaintiffs; Mr. Walkom, Q.C., and Mr. Allison, Q.C., for defendant.

Following Mack Other. On Monday last the remains of the late Mrs. Joseph Fox, aged 79, were interred at Montreal. On Tuesday morning her husband, aged 91, lay down after breakfast to rest and suddenly expired. They were not long separated. They will be remembered by some of the older residents of this city, having been located here for some time in connection with the Commissariat service. Mr. Fox was born in Paris, north, Eng., in 1798. The first part of his life was eventful. At the age of 12 he went to sea on a trial voyage, but was taken prisoner in the Bay of Biscay, off the coast of Spain, and conveyed to France, where he spent nine years travelling from one prison station to another. When Napoleon was sent to Elba, Fox, with the rest of the English prisoners in France, was released, and on returning home received an appointment in the Storekeeper General's Department, and was sent out to Canada, being transferred after a time to the Commissariat department. After a service of forty five years he retired from the service with a very handsome allowance.

That Straggler Fox. Capt. McCormack complains that the published evidence in the case for abusive language, at yesterday's Police Court, does not do him justice. He was pretty noisy, he admits, but he declares that it transpired in Court that Mr. Dawson dared him to strike him, even offering to indemnify him against a fine, drawing out $40 for the purpose. This evidence, certainly, was not heard by the reporters. Captain McCormack also wants it stated that Captain Miller swore that Farlow called McCormack a liar two or three times, and was as noisy as the defendant. The boat, he also declares, was not turned back until Mr. Dawson requested it, though Farlow more than once asked for it to be done. He says action is to be taken upon this act of the managers of the boat.

POLICE COURT. Disposal of the Robbery Case—A Modification of the Complaint—The Case Dismissed.

James McGuire, a shoemaker, looked dreadful shabby, as was to be expected after a protracted carouse. He said he had been in Court for four or five years, and as he promised well he was dismissed. The Magistrate hoped it would be four or five years more, perhaps longer, before he again appeared. Charles Smith, drunk, pleaded guilty; but said if allowed to depart he would leave the city, and would not return, even to look at it for a year. He was taken at his word.

THE COTTELETT ROBBERY CASE. The Passmore Cotterell case next. James Passmore explained that the two men came to his mother's on Saturday night, and occupied the same room in the house. He didn't know whether Cotterell had any money, or that Passmore had so much until told that he had been robbed of $500 by his companion. He saw the two in their room on the night the money was supposed to have been lost. Witness was about to go to bed, at 11:30 o'clock. Before this he had encountered them and another, unknown, in the hall. All were drunk. The third party left the house, and the witness and Cotterell helped Passmore to bed; "he was terribly full." Subsequently McGowan entered the room to have the light extinguished and saw Cotterell fumbling about Passmore's head. Witness asked him what he was doing. (Afterwards it transpired that Passmore had a pocket watch on the inner side of his inside button shirt.) Cotterell said "It is all right, or something to that effect. McGowan, before retiring, visited his mother and remarked, "One of these young fellows may be going through the other." She said she thought not, that the young man had travelled together, and had been clumsy, and that what they did was of a friendly character. The witness did not see any money in Cotterell's hands. He heard nothing about the loss of funds until next day, when Cotterell was suspected of the theft and a search made for him.

STATEMENTS IN CROSS EXAMINATION. To Mr. McGuire the witness said Cotterell expressed or indicated no alarm when spoken to on Monday night. He didn't notice any bulge in the shirt front, as a roll of bills would make; nor did he see what witness was doing to Passmore. He might have been removing Passmore's collar and necktie, both of which were found on the trunk the next morning. A large sum of the money alleged to have been lost was found in Passmore's room, over $300 in his box and over $100 in his pants pocket. He heard the man say that they had become drunk in town and that they had been taking care of each other's belongings. Passmore admitted that he knew Cotterell had his money.

DEALING WITH THE POLICE. Officer McCormack said he arrested the prisoner on Wednesday afternoon at the railway depot, before the train arrived from the west. Cotterell was put into a cell, in which Passmore sat, and on the way to the city the prisoner asked "Joe" to forgive him if he returned the money or told him where it was. Passmore at this time thought he was in one dollar bills, and two passenger tickets, for which he paid $5.

MR. MCGUIRE objected to the police officer saying anything about the money after an indictment (forgiveness) had been held out.

OFFICER MCCORMACK stated that at the station house the prisoner gave up some more cash, enough to make the amount he had on his person total $87.

THIS CLOSED THE PROSECUTION. OPINIONS OF COUNSELLORS. Mr. McGuire contended that there was no evidence to convict, that the result of the promise of forgiveness could not be taken into consideration at all, that pardon was used as an inducement to have the money returned. He claimed that where, as in this case, His Worship was trying the case summarily he should consider the matter as if occupying the position of judge and jury, not as one conducting a mere preliminary examination of a case to be sent to another and higher Court. Besides the prisoner thought he had lost $500 at first and forgot that he had given prisoner the $100.

MR. WHITING, acting for the Crown Attorney, thought the evidence was such as to create a strong suspicion against the prisoner and no more. There was a doubt about his guilt.

HIS WORSHIP had no doubt about the criminality of the prisoner, but as the evidence lacked in definiteness, and the complaint seemed to have reposed of having informed on prisoner, exhibiting doubt as to whether he had been robbed or given prisoner the money, shows great anxiety to have the prisoner released and ingeniously evading saying anything in his evidence which would lead to conviction, there was no alternative but to release the prisoner and dismiss the charge. The circumstances, he remarked, however, were very suspicious indeed.

THE COURT adjourned at 11:45 a.m.

REPAIRS AT THE ALBION HOTEL. The Albion Hotel is receiving a coat of paint. Robert Thompson has commenced the repairs on the C. M. Church here.

CHAS. BRADSHAW has the contract for building the new carriage works for the Bertram Bros.

THE REV. MR. SELLARS, Presbyterian, will be inducted into the charge of this circuit on Tuesday, the 17th inst.

THE REV. MR. PECK is holding a revival service in the C. M. Church at Harrowsmith. The meetings so far have been successful, quite a number having professed conversion.

THE ANNUAL fair for the township of Portland was held here on Thursday. A large number of cattle changed hands. A gentleman living near here has some very nice equines, some of which he values at $2,000.

PROGS.—Moderate to fresh, east to south winds; fair weather, with some local rains; higher temperature.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR. Spending His Time Enjoyably—Temperance to go into Canadian Waters—Good Fishing.

President Arthur is still rusticated at Alexandria Bay and enjoying himself very much. He spends his afternoons upon the water and in the evenings he sits in his parlour and reads and smokes, with few callers but with the constant attendance of his mutual friend, Mr. Dan, of the commercial agency of Dun, Wiman & Co. He has proven very agreeable to everybody, and the boatmen say that he has less style about him than many who are more assuming and less wealthy. He has received numerous invitations to cross to the Canadian side but declined them.

"The fact," says the New York Sun, that the President has warned the guides that he must not be by any chance allowed to get a line in Canadian waters awakens their commiseration. The fishing is best wherever it is least practised, and the Canadian side has ever been less frequented than this shore. There is hardly any telling what is Canadian and what is American water, so crooked is the border line. On the maps it runs in and out, keeping ingeniously to the south of Her Majesty's islands and to the north of ours with about as many curves to the mile as a telegraph line along Pearl street. A New Yorker who has been here sufficiently often to know all about it says that you can only tell which country you are in by

THE BRANDY AND CLAR along the river. In Canada you get real Martell and Hennessy for $1.50 a quart, while on this side it costs $3 and kills at close range. On the other hand, whenever you strike a vein of bad cigars you may safely wager you are in Canada.

The belief is common here that the President cannot cross the border without first notifying Congress, but others hold that there is nothing to prevent him but the tradition that no President ever left the United States during his own administration. In view of the impression that obtains here, however, it must only be acknowledged in a whisper that, unbeknowning to the Chief Magistrate, on Saturday last, after he had captured his only muskungee, and night had fallen and he was dozing on the cushioned lockers in the after cabin of the "Minnie," that vessel quit Federal territory and made her way through the Lost Channel, a small fraction of a mile in Canadian waters. The President had not then made known his wishes about the matter to the Captain, but it was observed that he dozed as quietly during that few minutes as he had before.

RESIDENCES OF HOTEL MEN. There is a great rivalry among the hotel men in regard to the President's favours and patronage. Through the influence of some local politicians he went to the Crossin House and quartered there, but, not to be outdone, Staples had the Stalwart visitors stop at the Thousand Island House, and prepared an elaborate dinner for a party of ten on Sunday covers were laid for ten people. Moss and autumn leaves were tacked over the entrance door, small silk flags hung from the chandeliers, and the aurifer and a pillow of green moss, having the initials C. A. A., worked in white moss, made up the decorations.

RECEIVED AT E. DELANEY'S, 288 PRINCESS STREET, a large importation of bonnets and hats, with a choice lot of ladies' and children's hosiery, gloves, &c. An inspection is invited.

TO NEW YORK. Recently Dr. M.
