A BISHOP'S OPINION.

Bishop Cleary has deemed it incum bent upon him to speak with particular emphasis upon a subject whose discussion so far has been warm and exciting and led to a diversity of opinion inter cree is are not distinguished and subject by changing the attack from Mr. Mowat to different treatment, it is not unreat to Archbishop Lyuch. nonable to contend that there should be no cause for gratification on one hand nor caval on the other. Journalists of the ultra Tory stripe have manifested a Crooks, on the Marmion question, to proxy at the bottom of the business. not a puppet and a partizan, or who was an ovtramely narrow escape from death, not a fool and but minded and Mar. Some surprise has been expressed

When the warfare had been carried so far, when such vile and spiteful at. tacks had been made upon one whose object was not a party or personal one, the Archbishop saw fit to intimate that Mr. Crooks was discharging a public duty in the course he had pursued, that Marmion was offensive, and that he had drawn attention to the fact in the hope that it would be dropped as a text book. His Grace was thus mild in his criticism, and, we believe, gave his opinion free of all political prejudice. That it was calculated to thwart the Tories in their campaign was sufficient to draw down upon him, however, censure as severe as it was impious. His act was said to be a mad one; he was charge. with hav. ng participated in a political conspiracy, with talking politics from the pulpit, with issuing correspondence intended to help the Liberals in their election; and our contemporary, unsatis-Council of the Province. Well, Bishops Jamot and Cleary have spoken and both endorse the position of the Archbishop. No one has dared to insinuate that Cleary's political sympathies are ununknown. He has never expressed them, but he says he has entertained a profound respect for the Conservative party, appreciated their courtesy and kindness, and admired their character. He has been shocked by the utterances of their organ, and must hold am more especially as there has not . . . u repudiation of them with one or two exceptions.

suggestive minds, it is not such as the Church can commend for analytical with the Bishop, but they may not have lived as chartely as he, and they certainly have not had the same experience in judging of the best literature upon which to feed the young when the inte. lect is being cultivated and developed. The best years of his life have been spent in promoting the cause of educacation, he knows the weakness of youth and has a clear perception of his duty in protecting them, so far as his office demands and allows, from the immoral ties of the age. Of all the prelates who have emphasized their views Bishop Cleary has been best fitted to play the part of critic and counsellor. . The question is raised. Why should he dictate in matters affecting the govern public schools? Are they not Protes tants? No, they are not; they are not denominational; they are attended by all races, creeds and colours. Catholics have, however, separate schools and do not object to what is taught in those supported by general taxation. There Archbishop Lynch feels cal " nron to interfere, and Bishops Jamot and Cleary to endorse his position, is in the high schools and Provincial University, where the curriculum is the same for Catholics as for Protestants and should be non offensive. The leading Conservativein Ontario will admit that this is a fair contention, and the Montreal Gazette voices the opinion of the Province of Quebec to the same effect.

It is not improbable that Bishor Cleary would have preserved a dignified silence upon this subject had not Mes siears Smith and O'Donohoe issued their ill-advised and presumptious mani fasto, in the stame of the Catholics o Ontario, and for the purpose of provoking hostility to the Archbishop. Well. an appeal has been made by them to the House of Bishops, and three members of it have publicly put their opinion upon record, the majority, men whose learning and judgment have merited ! their elevation to honored and responeible positions in the Church. They have exposed themselves to bitter at tacks, to the application of unwholesome Billingsgate by the Conservative
