TEMPERANCE MEETING. the Rev. C. A. Cook Upon a Second Topic of Local Interest-References to the Liquer Trade.

Last evening, to an assemblage in the Baptist Church, the Rev. C. A. Cook spoke on temperance, a subject, next to the gospel, occupying the widest attention in the Christian world. And never has the subject been more before the public than to-day. In England Judge Price was yesterday taking a there never was a temperance revolution like the present. Abstinence pledges are being taken at the rate of 10,000 or The shifting team of the R.M. College | 15,000 a week, and eminent preachers are holding meetings night after night even secular papers in the great metropolis now deal with the subject, and of ficial reports show that in the face of better times and increased population the beer duty has fallen off $1,500,000 Since 1776 the national liquor bill had decreased mearly $100,000.00, according to Sir Wilfred Lawson. On this side Our local contemporary seems to have the Atlantic there is no great revival, but temperance is not an idle question. In the United States the agitation favor of a constitutional amendment, other words entire prohibition, is spreading very rapidly. Nor is Canada, this broad and fair land, the Kohinore Dia mond in Queen Victoria's crown, behind n the matter of total abstinence. To day we have laws

REGULATING THE TRAFFIC throughout the Dominion, not to be surpassed by any laws short of prohibi tion itself. The Scott Act being declared constitutional by the highest Court the people of every city and county are free to prohibit in their own communities. Parliament has placed prohibition in the hands of the people it is for them to say. In several counties the Act is in force. But in other places the rebel Arabi, if you close on him in one place he flies to another. But let us be like the gallant Sir Garnet, him self an abstainer, gather our forces and march to complete victory. Temperance people to win must work, with the aid of Christian ministers and Christian people, for they must win with God on their side. The lecturer eloquently by liquor to homes, bedies and sonls He then considered the means of coun teracting the evil and declared the best to be-stop the supply! Where the greatest supply is of liquor there the demand grows. This is the experience of commandities everywhere. Remove the temptation and you lessen the crime. tions of the Thieres-Necrestly Incremed Police Vigilance-Mouse Brenkung. Last night another case of robber and house breaking occurred on Division Street. Joseph Murdoch and family left their home about 6:30 o'clock last evening, and did not return until above 9 o'clock. In the meantime the prem ises, having apparently been spied out beforehand, were attacked. A window was smashed or raised and an entrance effected in much the same way as at the residence of Thomas Newton on Sunday evening. An exit was also made by it and to facilitate escape on the event of the thieves being disturbed. It was propped up by a limb broken off an ad joining lilac tree. Money was not obtain ed. It was not placed in a place to be conveniently found by the rascals; but they were bound to have some plunder and Mr. Murdock, on his return to the house, missed two good suits of clothing two overcoats, pillow covers and other articles. Now none of these things can be readily sold or utilized in the city and the inference is that they are being h andled by professional sneaks, whose methods of operation appear to be about the same in every case.
