NEWS AND VIEWS

City Council this evening. The snow promised by Probe yesterday came to-day.

Bothwell said his full Saturday supply of Wines within ten minutes of their arrival.

Mrs. Andrews, a former resident of Kingston, died in Ottawa on Thursday, and was interred in Beachwood Cemetery.

The paper put on the billboards by Hyde & Bohman's agent is very attractive. The house will undoubtedly be crowded.

Farmer's view is to have a new carriage manufactory conducted by Mr. Abel Stevens, who formerly carried on business at Delta.

If all the men whose names are mentioned as probable candidates come out, the municipal election will be unusually lively.

Deseronto Lodge, No. 102, will shortly celebrate their anniversary by a concert, in which Napane, Toronto and Kingston brethren will participate.

Sir John's visit has been marked by a great festivity among the office-seekers. The ambitious of some leading politicians are gratified superannuations must follow.

Mr. W. Sawyer has on exhibition at Rothwell's a portrait of the late Rev. Father May of St. Andrew's. Those who have seen the portrait say it is very lifelike.

Few of those who went to Church yesterday were prepared for the rain. It kept in quietly during the service, and caused a commotion when the congregations were dismissed.

Two of the forty pounder guns recently received from the Old Country, at present in Quebec, are on route for Kingston, where it is understood they will be permanently located.

The News is at still another blunder when it speaks of what we will speak to. It forgets the exhibition which made every one in Court once feel a painful pity for a certain witness.

Iron mining is being actively prosecuted in the Township of Lavant and generally along the line of the Kingston and Poughkeag Railway.

There has been a great run on the beautiful serial "Love for a Day" at Rothwell's, but he has been disappointed in not receiving the full supply ordered.

More are coming, however, from New York. Blundering again! When the News speaks of eighteen carriages, it quite forgets its occasional reporter, whose duplicity was once exposed in a certain ward to his pretty serious discomfiture.

Sir John has been urged to give one of the vacant Senatorial seats to Dr. Sullivan. The very Premier blinks, knowingly, listens, but makes no promise.

Our contemporary states that "The Wain has turned itself into a card receiver. Yes, we have received some very artistic cards, but none like that hurriedly left by the editor of the local machine at a brown stone house in Ottawa during a recent visit."

The Advertiser's compliments to the Mail embody our sentiments to the News exactly: "When people become black-guardly it does not do to be too loudly mentioned in dealing with them. You have sometimes to handle such fellows without gloves. One does not put on a claw hammer coat to clean out a sewer."

SALE OF PRIZE STOCK.—Messrs. J. & J. E. Wall of Salem, got $350 for the bull calf, "H. P. Bull," sold to the Messrs. Book. The animal has taken nine first prizes and sweepstakes this fall, and beaten the record of the bull which took the medal at Toronto. Last week the same firm sold "Mac-duff," another of the herd of calves which took first prize at Kingston and Toronto to Messrs. Grant & Campbell, Woodville, Ont., for $350.

The Brockville Recorder says that on Friday evening last while the Premier and his wife were waiting at the depot lastly McDonald narrowly escaped being run over by a huge truck-load of bag-ropes, propelled by a sturdy baggage man. Sir John hurriedly grasped her by the arm and drew her away from the danger. She walked up and down the platform several times, closely reading a book and was noticed as being tall, rather dark and good natured looking.

There is one form of unusual Kingston gentleman whose melodious compositions made him a favorite here, but who has not visited us for nearly a score of years. However, R. S. Ambrose is frequently remembered through his new pieces. The latest received is a charming arrangement of the well known hymn, "Auld with Me," for organ and piano, dedicated to Miss Maggie Barr, the popular vocalist. T. Seckling & Sons, Toronto, are the publishers; Carey & Sons have received it here.

In St. Mary's Cathedral yesterday morning, at High Mass, the Rev. Father Tobery preached a very practical sermon from the gospel for the 24th Sunday after Pentecost. The singing was of a high order. Programme: Kyrie, Schmidt; Gloria, Mozart; Credo, Royal; Offertory, Ave Regina; Sanctus, Mercadante; Agnus Dei, Royale. In the evening Lambillotti's Magnificat was sung, followed by two solos by Mrs. O'Reilly and Miss Lily Walsh. The latter young lady sang with good taste and feeling. The attendance in the evening was very large.

TWO SIDES

In the course of his sermon on Providence, Rev. Mr. McCann last evening said: France one day laid a plot to murder her Protestant subjects and did murder many of them, but some of them escaped to other countries and went "preaching the word"—the very word of God—which, had France crushed it, would have saved her all the blood and all the successive revolutions that followed. He begged France's pardon. It was not France that did it but France's papal rulers. But this, he said, was a subject which it is illiberal to say anything about to our children. They are not, it seems, to be told anything about the massacre of St. Bartholomew and the gaspword plot, or the massacre of the Yandoois, or the 15,000 papal soldiers entered those valleys and burnt two and twenty Protestant villages, huddled aged men and women into houses and burnt them alive, impaled naked women, rushed mothers and children over precipices and dashed their brains out on the rocks below, beheaded one hundred and fifty women and used their heads in a game of bowls. We are not, it seems, to mention these things, but others are at full liberty to preach eloquent sermons on the present and past iniquity character of the Romish Church. We have no taste for this sort of thing, but it is well to remind some people that there are two sides to the question.

DELIVERY OF RAILWAY GOODS. This morning two huge trucks arrived from Montreal. They are to be used in the delivery of freight from the railway shed to the merchants. They are owned by the Sheddin Company, who have branches of the service in the leading cities of the Dominion and cooperate with the railways, their charges for cartage being included in the freight rates from point to point. For the present but the two trucks will be used, and when they cannot remove the goods or emergency requires the city carters can be employed. It is said that the Sheddin Company have been asked by business men to establish a branch of their business here. The tariff and revenue of handling goods by the carters gave dissatisfaction; the charges during the holding of the fair increased the feeling in favor of the action that has now been taken. The Sheddin vehicles will not only deliver but collect goods for shipment. The new departure is seriously agitating the city carters.

"If the trucks are used here, boys," said one, "I propose that they do all the city work. We can get their work and make a better living than we are now doing."

"It's pretty hard," said a second, "that we poor men are to be deprived of our living by the G. T. R. We pay taxes and we should be assisted." "Let us resist paying licenses, then we'll be on the same footing as the company and will make them hump. We should not be compelled to pay for licenses when the company gets off free," exclaimed a big fellow in an oilskin coat.

The carters went around in a body this afternoon, obtaining the signatures of business men who did not desire the work to be taken from them, and favouring the drawing of freight as the best. Those who sign this petition say in effect that the carters will secure their work. "Nearly every merchant in town is putting his name on the paper," said a carter who was interviewed on the question.

BLUNDERING AGAIN. A judge once said to the felon before him, "You carry the mark of Cain upon your brow." He meant that the felon's countenance branded him as a scoundrel. It would not be hard to find a successor to the man in Kingston—News.

When the guardians of the young man who wrote the above curbed his ambition to "run" the News alone and replaced a brotherly restraint over him they did wisely. But both seem at last to have lost their heads, or he would not be allowed to give himself away in the above style. He is entirely too reckless of personal consequences. Besides it is entirely unnecessary, as anyone who has seen his likeness will at once find an anatomy at nature for his cruel index. It would be a misfortune to be a stranger out west and appear before a vigilance jury with that countenance.

But still nature has a method in her way, since the foul abuse, everything that "a black heart" or the vilest associations can suggest, emanating from the News of late, are of his manufacture and do him infinite justice.

At the regular meeting of the Quarterly Official Board of the C.M. Church, Newburg, the following resolution was passed: Moved by Brother J. B. Aylsworth, seconded by Bro. C. H. Hillis, that the Church has been so fit to remove by death, during the past quarter, our late esteemed pastor, Rev. D. Connelly, this Quarterly Board desires to express its sorrow at the sad and unexpected event. While we bow in submission to the will of our Heavenly Father we cannot but feel keenly the loss our Church has sustained in the death of our brother, whose counsels were highly prized. We desire and family in their sympathy with the widow and fatherless." Resolved that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mrs. Connelly.

On Saturday evening the Quoit Club had another meeting, when several new members were admitted. The superior officers were also elected—Mr. D. Fraser President; and Mr. G. Thompson, Vice President. It was decided to have on Saturday afternoon a match between local teams, the men being selected for the various risks by ballot as provided for by-law. The game is increasing in popularity; the management of the Club has been attended, with a rare enthusiasm. Better results will be accomplished at future matches now that a regular organization has been formed.

A PRIEST'S DENISE

Lindsay, Nov. 12.—Father Stafford died suddenly at noon to-day. He had been ailing for some days, but made light of his indisposition, and it was not until yesterday that any danger was apprehended, and even up to a late hour last night it was thought he would recover in a few days. The immediate cause of death was angina pectoris, or neuralgia of the heart. He had felt some apprehension for some years from dis-ease of the heart. At an early hour this morning the symptoms became alarming, and after several hours of intense suffering he passed away at the hour named. Father Keating, Connelly and Fleming were in attendance most of the week. Bishop James was telegraphed on Saturday, and arranged to come to Lindsay, but as it was thought there was no immediate danger.

THE VISIT WAS DEFERRED. As soon as the fatal symptoms were manifested a special was despatched for Bishop Janot at Cobourg but he did not reach Lindsay until 8:30. The unexpected death of Father Stafford came as a great shock to his congregation, as well as to the community at large, and the expressions of sorrow and sympathy were profound and general. The scene in St. Mary's Church was most affecting. Father Keating said mass, and every member present of the large congregation, and their loved and revered pastor was passing away. All felt that a great calamity had befallen them, and unreservedly manifested their poignant sorrow. The body will be brought from the presbytery to the church on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and remain there until 10 o'clock on Wednesday morning next, when the funeral ceremonies will then take place.

Much surprise was felt and regret expressed this morning when a telegraphic message announced the death of Rev. Father Stafford, of Lindsay, who was known to very many in Kingston, having lived here for many years and since his removal hence manifesting a lively interest in all that concerned the progress of the city and the success of its institutions. The Irishman in Canada contains a concise and correct sketch of his life, which was full of activity and usefulness. It is said that when still in the flesh: "One of the most remarkable men in the Roman Catholic Church in Canada is the Rev. Father Stafford, of Lindsay, who in the best spot in the country has erected a convent which is a splendid piece of architecture. He was born on the 1st of March, 1823, in Perth. He went to school in Drummond until the age of 18, at Perth for the next three years, then to Chambly, whence he was removed to St. Theresa College, where he spent six years and finished his Arts exercise. He afterwards studied theology at Regopolis, Kingston, for four years under the late Vice General McDonnell. During those four years he attended the Penitentiary, where his attention was first called to the evils resulting from the use of intoxicants. He was ordained in the summer of 1853, and in the autumn was appointed Director of Regopolis and Professor of Logic and Philosophy. His health failing he was sent to Cuba, but finding the place too hot he spent the winter in South Carolina, where he was arrested for speaking against the independence practiced at that time. He was, however, released on bail, and immediately returned to the authorities that he was a British subject. He visited Ireland in 1859. The relations between the different classes in Ireland he found it hard to understand. The airs of the "squires" he could not easily tolerate. Two men assured him that he was a gentleman when they saw him speaking, with his hat on, to Mr. Derby. He came back to this country well pleased with his social condition. "The equality," he says, "in this country is better than

THE Y.M.C.A. throughout the world having arranged for a week of prayer for the College Association of this city held the first service of a series last evening in St. Andrew's Hall. SCHOOL BOARD.

Another Meeting this Year not Probable.—Action of the School Management Committee.—Discussion. In the course of a conversation, held with a member of the Board of Education, we were given to understand that another meeting of the Board of Education this year was exceedingly improbable. Dr. Fee ignores the resolution calling upon him to resign, and there is no law which can force him into compliance with it. On the other hand, those who express no confidence in him, the majority, do not feel like giving way and will not act while the Dr. presides. So at least we have been informed. "Is there any possibility of a reconciliation?" we asked. "Yes, certainly. Things have reached a crisis. Greek has met Greek, and now comes the tug of war."

"Will the schools not suffer in consequence of the dead lock?" "I think not. Of course we should advertise towards the end of November for the applications of those desiring engagements as city teachers during next year, and later on their appointments should be made."

"Well, what are you going to do?" "In the course of a few days the Committee on School Management will be summoned and it can order the advertisements for teachers; the rules of the Board already give it power to fill vacancies temporarily. The Committee cannot appoint, and in the absence of a meeting of the Board, and failure to follow precedent and custom, the terms of the teachers will expire on the 7th January. What next? is a question for consideration between new and them. The dilemma is not a pleasant one."

"What about the elections? Some arrangement must be made about them before long." "Not before December. A reconciliation may be effected before then. At any rate the Chairman can look after them; if he is indisposed to do so a special and emergent meeting of the Board can be held. It is only necessary now to say that the schools are not suffering and will not do so if their Chairmen do their duty, and the several Committees exercise the power possessed by them. There is business which ought to be attended to, but delay in disposing of it will in no way improve the efficiency of the schools."

This latter opinion is disputed by another Trustee, who says that the demoralization of the Board must extend to the schools, and that the little difficulty, if unchecked, become a great unpleasantness. The talk of running elections as tests of personal popularity is of no account. The elections, in their ordinary routine, will occur soon enough.

CHURCH NEWS. Rev. W. D. Brown, of Antville, will remain in Catechism Circuit as Superintendent, in the place of the late Rev. D. Connelly.

Rev. LeRoy Hooker, Chairman of the Ottawa District, C. M. Church, will preach the dedication sermon at Catechism next Sunday morning.

Last evening a memorial service occurred in the Queen Street Methodist Church, the membership having been reduced by the deaths of Mrs. Wm. Assestine and Mrs. J. W. Ansley. Rev. J. M. Hagar preached to a very large congregation. He pictured the better country to which the departed had gone, and concluded with eulogies upon their life work. The choir sang several an- themns.
