MRS. LANGTRY.

BEILTY AND ACTRESS - PROMINENT WOMEN OF THE HOUR-DAUGHTER

Mrs. Langtry, now creating a furore in New York theatrical circles, is a nu tive of the island of Jersey, the daugh ter of a Church of England clergy man. a woman of good antecedents and worthy of them, whose adoption of the stage as a profession augments the respect in which it is held by persons for its good repute. She is described as a dignified and graceful woman. whose carriage and manners indicate truly her familiarity with the best society in England. Her position as an actress, taken at a later period in life than is common, has not abated her dignified reserve. Mrs. Langtry is known as "the Jersey Lily," a compli ment to her very remarkable physical attractions, which are the subject of numerous pictures and descriptions. She adopted the histrionic profession as a matter of business, with the inten tion of making money. Her father is dependent, and Mrs. Langtry is under stood to have studied for the stage with how perfect and how long their separwears her reddish brown hair, not in the then meeting at last would be the meet. childhood, made so glad and bright drawn from her forehead, showing a Arthur believed that Rose's sweet, what a fairyland of delight Oak Lawn broad, beautiful brow.

> THERE are a great many in the city whe, dur-ing the cold and inclement season, would dispense with house-keeping if they could find a resort as pleasant as home. Such a place is THE WINDSOR HOTEL Whose location is central, and structure such as to afford good ventilation, good light, and a measure of comfort to be found in few tnestsytions of the kind. The capacity of the bouse is greater than most people imagine, and it has been fully tested during the summer season; but no s families who desire to live at easo and
