The cheapest and best assortment of gaiters, scarfs, ties, handkerchiefs and underwear is at Hardy & Murray's.

The manager of Hugo's minstrels, Emmett, is a Canadian, and a man of wealth. He made $25,000 by backing Sullivan, the pugilist.

A FINE SHOW of topical plants and Christmas novelties is being made at Mrs. Anglin's store, Wellington Street. They are well worth a special visit to.

THE EVENING.—The Rev. Dr. Elliott will deliver a lecture this evening in St. Andrew's Hall under the auspices of the Y. M. C. Association of Queen's College. This will be a literary treat.

Lesson of HONOR.—This is a very fine play, the performance of which gave great satisfaction a year ago. We will be much mistaken if the attendance is not such as to play the play to-morrow night.

WRACK OF THE PRINCESS.—Five more bodies, from the wreck of the Princess, have drifted ashore at Salmon Point. They will be conveyed to Pictou. All now left of the schooner are her anchors and chains.

THE NEW WAREHOUSE.—The new warehouse for Richardson & Sons, at the foot of Princess street, is well advanced. It will be enclosed quickly so that work men can perform the inside work during the winter.

GARLIC SERVICE.—Mr. John McNeil, of Queen's College, will conduct a service in the Mission Hall on Sabbath afternoon, at a quarter past four o'clock. All who understand this most ancient language are cordially invited to attend.

FORGOTTEN HISTORY.—Last night the home of Mrs. Wandell was visited by 80 "infatuated" persons, who travelled for 60 miles in order to have their fortunes told. They were here at the time of the Fair but could not have their fortunes revealed owing to the crowds that had engagements preceding their trip.

A BRAT ARRESTED.—Today Mrs. Gee complained at the police station that a man named McDonald, a hard nut, was about to leave the city, owing her $16.50. Officer Jas. Nashit sallied out, encountered the runaway about to depart for Cape Vincent, and mesmerized him into paying the account.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS.—It has been decided to unite the evangelistic work, carried on in the Mission Hall every Sabbath, and the contemplated effort by Queen's College Y.M.C.A. in St. Andrew's Hall, in one grand effort. The Opera House has been secured for this purpose, and special meetings will be held in that place every Sabbath at a quarter past 8 o'clock. It is unnecessary to say we hope those meetings will be well attended and the effort put forth duly appreciated.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION.—In St. Mary's Cathedral this morning the feast of the Immaculate Conception was observed. Grand High Mass was celebrated, at the conclusion of which the Holy Sacrament was carried in procession and afterwards deposited on the altar where it remains till after Vespers this evening. The ceremony was grand and imposing. The music was excellent. The altar was beautifully decorated. The feast was observed in the different conventual institutions. Special services will take place to-morrow morning.

THE ATLAS LINE of Mail Steamers announce grand excursions to the favorite winter resorts of Jamaica, Havre, Porto Rico, Isthmus of Panama, etc., at the extreme low price of $5 per day, which includes passage and board, giving the tourist the privilege of staying over at any part of the route as seen at St. John's Company's steamers their hotel. This is a great inducement, and to tempt will be taken advantage of by invalids or those who have the time to spare. Full particulars can be obtained from the agents, 18 State Street, New York.

PRESENTS TO QUEEN'S.—A short time since the Rev. Dr. Williamson, Vice Principal, received from the Rev. Robt. Chambers, a graduate of Queen's College, a number of eastern curiosities, including a little slipper, Turkish horse shoe and bit, found at Ezerouron He, feeling that they were intended for the College museum, he had them placed under the care of Prof. Fowler. A letter received later on states that the gifts were intended for the popular Vice Principal in connection with the honors of present status lately bestowed upon him. However they will remain in the College museum. Rev. Mr. Chambers formerly ministered to a Canadian congregation but is now laboring in the East in connection with an American Missionary Society.

FATHER STAFFORD'S SUCCESSOR.—Bishop Janset has appointed Father Lynch, of Peterboro, successor to the late Father Stafford, in the parish of Lundy. The people of Peterboro have been grieved by the announcement. On Tuesday Father Lynch, with evident emotion, addressed his congregation. Father Lynch will be greatly missed in Peterboro. During the 15 years during which he has had charge of that parish, says the Review, he has been a most zealous and earnest minister. His successor has not been appointed.

HAGG'S ENGLISH MINSTRELS.

There was a good attendance at the Opera House last evening, and an excellent entertainment. The Company, although better than the average, was not so good as that under the same management a year ago. The singing was charming, particularly that of Messrs. O'Keefe, Bridges, Oakley, Reed and Hawkins, the latter a soprano of considerable compass. Of course the accompaniments were of a superior kind, and they are helpful to the vocal artists. The second part of the programme was very amusing, but was not better than Leavitt Company's, in fact not so good, the latter's burlesque on Patience being best of the season. However Richardson, the orator; Haley, Callen and the Girard Bros., in dance and grotesque characters; Keating and Sands, in their musical oddities; C. Wallace in his mocking bird imitations; and Fred Dart in vocal and terpsichorean exercises, were well received, and made things merry during the evening.

The manager during the evening made a little speech which does not seem to have been called for. Some one at the rear of the hall, a trifle mellow, jumped in the chorus, but so softly as not to be heard a half dozen seats away. The person so offending could have been removed without a bit of trouble had the foresaid manager been as anxious to prevent "an outrage" as he was to make a speech. The public did not catch his idea, but we violate no confidence by giving it away. He wanted to advertise a performer.

He was locked up in the room where often before he had received protection. In Court to-day he felt better and thought he could get work on the K. & P. R. R. His wife was at service and his children had an orphanage. The Magistrate gave him a chance to find employment.

SENTENCE COMMUTED.

Lee Sent to the Penitentiary—Medical Testimony—Difference of Opinions—Dr. Lavell's Report.

Michael Lee, who on the 29th of March killed Maggie Howie by striking her a brutal blow with an axe, has had his sentence of death changed to that of imprisonment for life. The execution was to have occurred on the 15th inst., but instead the imbecile (as the Cabinet considers him) will be placed in prison and there suffer for what he "was not responsible." We fully agree with Dr. Lavell that if the man is insane he should be placed under restraint, not punished. At the trial of the prisoner there was much debate as to his mental condition and the rambling incoherent address made by him made many believe that he was insane. Dr. Lavell clearly explains his oddities of speech. We give a few extracts:

"This county and town wanted to take her from me in order to make a public show of her. They would throw hints all quarters of them, I would catch a great many of them, a great many of them I would not mind, anything more than going through my head, sharp shooting. I went to the girl and talked to her about it and she told me she had connection with another man. A married one. I went and told this gentleman that there was a good deal of talk going around that I did not want anything more of it. I told him my myring was then, my engagement ring. They then took another course, throwing signs. I was a man without any education. I found it a great deal of study to answer them with their arrows in order to keep my girl in safe keeping. I found it a great deal of trouble with regard to answering them with their arrows they would put before me, to keep my girl from anybody in the house having connection with her. I went to get me a gun, that I was to go and tell them that she was a bad girl, and I did not think it was right and was not in a position for doing it, I intended to marry the girl, and I was to have a lot of presents that she did not want to do with them. I did not think the girl was anything like as bad as they represented her to be. For anything else, for thinking I was wrong that I had my mind made up to make my wife my girl, it is wrong in my mind. That is about all I have to say."

INTERVIEW WITH DR. LAVELL.

"Well, Doctor," said the reporter as he entered the office of the surgeon of the Penitentiary last evening, "I think I have the name that will succeed your lips." The reporter then told that Lee had had his sentence commuted to imprisonment for life and asked the Doctor for a synopsis of the opinion submitted by him to the Minister of Justice, relative to the mental condition of Lee. He, accompanied by Dr. Sullivan, it will be remembered, was taken to Napanea goal in October last, for this purpose.

"I reported that the man was sane when I visited him. This was my firm conviction and I stated it."

"In what condition was Lee when you saw him?"

"I found him hearty and well, and free to converse. He talked intelligently of his previous history, his early life and habits. He was not at all depressed, complained of nothing, and ate and slept well. He spoke at length of Maggie Howie, whom he murdered, his intercourse, attachment and intended marriage with her."

He entered into details as to his intimacy with her and spoke without reserve. He seemed to have thought a great deal of the girl. His language was not very good and he used frequent metaphors, or, as people will better understand it, slang phrases, peculiar to persons of his position and low mentality. These phrases generally indicated something and when examined Lee gave an excellent idea of his meanings. For instance he made use of the phrase, "they were throwing stones at me." By this he meant that people were talking about him and Maggie. The expressions made use of had a meaning familiar with people of his class, but to an ordinarily educated person they would lead to one conclusion—the use of them was not in his right mind. Lee could neither read nor write; he had no religious training whatever; he was of a roving disposition, having no particular object in view. He was totally ignorant. I think he loved the girl passionately and was desirous of marrying her. She led him, as it were, by a string."

HE WAS DESPERATELY JEALOUS, and his passions were aroused when he learned that the girl was intimate with one else in the house. He was bound to have the girl. This was his one consuming purpose, and when he refused him he made up his mind that no one else should have her. Hence the commission of the crime. When questioned about the murder Lee said he supposed he killed her but he knew nothing of the act.

"I asked him 'How do you know she was murdered?'"

He replied "the witnesses said so." He declared he knew nothing of the murder until going to the lock up. I asked him now he recougned his statement made, when first caught, how the girl was, with the views he now held. He was silent; he made no reply.

"We asked him, 'If you loved the girl so much why did you kill her?'"

In answering this he evinced great emotion, his breath came short and quick and he heaved great sighs. His eyes glared wildly as he passionately exclaimed: "I loved the girl and God told me to save her and I killed her."

"He said he had previously thought of taking her life."

"Would you like to have her back again?'"

"Yes," he said, "I would do anything in this world to have her back again. I must have been crazy when I did it. I would not do it now."

Lee admitted that murder was wrong, he did not know the Commandments, but thought there was something in them against such offences. He anticipated punishment for his offence, but did not think he would be hung; he would rather go to the Penitentiary. He thought he would not be hung because the people had sympathy with him.

"Would you like to be hung publicly or privately?'"

"Publicly, and I'll die game."

"IMPULSIVE INSANITY." The doctor said Lee was well developed, good looking, and not excitable. He was satisfied he could judge between right and wrong. He was certainly responsible when seen in the goal.

"Do you think he was insane when he did the deed?'" asked the reporter.

"That is a question I hesitate to answer. He gave details of occurrences the night before, but as to the murder he seemed to know nothing. He may have been in the state the New York lawyers term 'impulsive insanity.'"

"Could the mind be so absorbed in one thing as to think of nothing else?'"

"Yes," Lee was devoured by jealousy and, like a drunken man, might do things which, when sober, he could not remember. This may have been his condition. Insanity is a difficult question to decide in a case of murder. If Lee is insane then there are one hundred men in the Provincial Penitentiary in a similar condition. There are without doubt many weak minded men in prison."

LEE'S PROBABLE DISPOSITION.

"Will Lee be placed in the insane ward in the Penitentiary?'"

"That depends on two things, whether I receive special instructions from the Government regarding his disposition or am allowed to use my own discretion as Surgeon of the Penitentiary. If the man is insane I think that he should be restrained, not punished. For safe keeping the Lunatic Asylum is the place for him. If any doctor will say Lee is insane at the end of twelve months the Government should release him from a penal institution and place him in Rockwood Asylum."

UNREASONABLE TO DECISION.

Dr. Lavell was agreeable to the decision of the Cabinet Council. The preponderance of evidence proved Lee's insanity and he felt pleased that his opinions did not hang the poor wretch, but he gave the Government his conscientious convictions without fear of the consequences.

OTHER MEDICAL OPINIONS.

Dr. Rutman, of Napanea, believes that Lee is insane. In conversations with him the physician found that he constantly talked nonsense. To the doctor Lee said his motive for killing the girl was to save her from the people who were trying to destroy her character. Lee thought he did the right thing. On all subjects he talked very well except on the homicidal delusion; it was his inability to furnish a motive that made Dr. Rutman think he was insane. The doctor says he never knew a case of simulated insanity.

Drs. E. M. Clark and Dr. Metcalfe, both of the Insane Asylum here, were convinced that Lee was insane. Dr. Clark judged of the insanity from Lee's appearance, not from his talk.

Dr. Bristol, of Napanea, thought he was only setting a part.

OPINION OF DR. SULLIVAN.

Dr. Sullivan was seen this afternoon and he stated that Lee was insane, yet he thought the murderer not entirely free from responsibility. He should not be acquitted and allowed to enjoy his liberty. His crime, the Doctor thought, was the result of jealousy. It was committed while Lee was inflamed with passion. In his conversation with the doctors he manifested stolid indifference as to results. He said he knew nothing about the commission of the crime until he noticed, after his arrest, a quantity of blood on his shirt. His indifference, Dr. Sullivan believed, would permit him to go to the gallows without whimpering. He would have gone like a dog, not caring what became of him. His manners and acts, as stated by the attending physicians, gentler and turnkey were of a uniform character. He was undoubtedly not simulating insanity.

"Leaving out the commission of the crime," said the reporter, "would you have any hesitation in committing him to a Lunatic Asylum?'"

"No," said the doctor, "not if he showed no action like unto those I witnessed in the goal. Men with homicidal or suicidal intentions are often allowed at large. If all such characters were put into asylums our institutions would be crowded. But had I been asked to sign a certificate for his incarceration I would have done so."

The facts pointed to a condition of insanity at the time of the murder and when visited at the goal: For these reasons the doctor reported to the Government as he did.

HOW HE RECEIVED THE NEWS.

Yesterday morning Deputy Sheriff Prunty received the letter from the Under Secretary of State, informing him of the commutation of Michael Lee's sentence to imprisonment in the Penitentiary for life.

Mr. Prunty informed the prisoner of the fact. He was accompanied by Mr. H. M. Deroche, M.P.P., Cowan's counsel, Rev. S. Carr, Dr. Cowan, and a representative of the Express. Lee had just partaken of breakfast. He gave Mr. Deroche and the Sheriff a warm greeting, laughing cheerily. The Sheriff told him that he had received a letter from the Government.

"Well, what have they to say?'" asked the prisoner.

"They are going to send you to the Penitentiary for life. I suppose that will suit you better than hanging. Are you satisfied?'"

"I suppose I must be satisfied, though I don't deserve either," was Lee's response. "But I can be happy any place and make other people happy; that's more than a very person can do."

He did not evince any emotion. Shortly afterwards the prisoner broke forth into song of his own composition which had the Gipsy ring about it. There was no rhyme or reason in it, and each verse concluded with the following chorus:

"Micky mind your Maggie, and miled your Maggie well, But her dole you'll never forget, Buried away in the ground, But never you'll recall me, Until the day you die."

COLLEGE DIFFICULTY.

Remark of a Professor Causes the Female Students to Leave the Room—Resolutions.

A difficulty, which has been anticipated, occurred in the Medical College a few days ago. One of the Professors, in the course of his lecture, gave utterance to a natural fact. It appears to have been received as an insult by the ladies, and they arose and left the room. The Professor, whose character is above reproach, felt grieved at the proceedings. From our knowledge of his life we may say that a puer mind cannot be found, and his desire to see graduates well versed in medical science is his only excuse for using expressions that have been wrongly construed. The students (male) met and unanimously carried a series of resolutions, indicating their sympathy with the Professor and urging the Faculty to close the College against females. They now presented the resolutions to the Professor, who, in replying, said that hitherto he had expressed important information owing to the presence of the ladies; but in future he would not do so. The ladies had adopted the profession of medicine and should not feel aggrieved when any plain statements were made in its study. He would be the last person to say ought that would bring a blush to the cheek of the most virtuous. Another Professor seems also to have incurred the ladies' displeasure and they will not attend his lectures. This gentleman, whose reputation is widespread, holds the same opinion as the Professor first alluded to. He believed that if ladies desired to study medicine, to become specialists they would have to discuss every portion of the human system. Whether they became missionaries or otherwise they should view themselves in all the departments, so that when they graduated they would be an honour to the institution. The Professor declared that everything he said to the students in his lectures should be known of them in the interests of science; no utterances of his was made for any other purpose. The ladies have absented themselves from a number of lectures. This evening the Faculty meet and deliberate upon the question.

MAYOR GASKIN'S MANDATE.

Mayor Gaskin has through the Harbor Master given a notice to Messrs. A. Gons & Co. that they must not place any vessels in the slip at the foot of William street. His reason for doing so is not apparent. If the slip is to be kept open to allow the Islanders to land we would suggest that Mayor Gaskin issue an order to the outside manager of the Montreal Transportation Company to remove the barges and logs from the foot of Queen street. Let all be served alike. Mayor Gaskin in the matter displays all the fervency of a New Englander. In past years he has been the worst offender that the Mayors had to contend with in course of their duty in keeping obstructions out of the street and harbor.

AN ABSURD STATEMENT.

It is rumored that the C. P. R. Co. intend next Spring to build a railway from Sharnot Lake, near the junction of the Kingston & Pembroke and Ontario & Quebec Railways, via Newboro, Delta and Farmerville, to Brockville.

"It will be almost the identical line," says the rumor, "which was originally surveyed for the Grand Trunk, and was the route it should have taken instead of running along the line of water communication. If this line is built it will do a flourishing business." The statement seems very absurd as there is no necessity for such a line. The K. & P. R.R. and Rideau Canal can meet the requirements of the above places for the next fifty years.

ECCLES V. BAKER.

Chief Justice Wilson has given judgment in the above case in favor of the defendant Baker. The Court gives a verdict for $50, the amount offered by defendant to plaintiff before the trial. The plaintiff, however, has to pay her own costs and one half of the defendant's, the defendant being allowed to retain the $50 and apply it towards paying her costs.

DR. AUSTIN'S Phosphatine! Cures all Nervous Diseases.

NEWMARKET, AUGUST 21, 1872. Messrs. LOWDEN & CO., Toronto.

OPERA—I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, and I have received great benefit from it. I will give you a short history of my case. I was a weak and nervous man, and I had been so for many years. I had been treated by many doctors, but I had not received any benefit. I had been told that I should take Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, and I had taken it for many months. I had now received great benefit from it. I was now able to do my work, and
