CITY AND VICINITY.

PRINCE, Winds mostly from the east and south, cloudy weather, with snow this evening. Slightly higher temperature.

DR. H. A. REEVE, of Toronto, can be consulted at the British American Hotel, Kingston, on Thursday, January 20th.

DR. C. H. LAVELL, of St. Paul, Minn., can be consulted with reference to diseases of the eye and ear at the office of Dr. Lavell, Wellington street.

AT KING'S drug store, market square, Allcock's porous plasters, Mathers' saddle plasters, Collins' voltaic plasters, Herrick's porous plaster and poor man's plaster.

VAGRANTS.—Three burly looking fellows were before the Court this morning, one a tonsorial artist, the others laborers. All were sent to pick oakum for a month in the county gool.

WARDENSHIP.—There is a grand struggle for the Wardenship of Lennox and Addington. There are four candidates in the field. Adolphustown, Napanee and Amherst Island furnish three of the ambitious individuals.

BENEFIT ASSOCIATION.—A movement is on foot in the city to form a branch of the Supreme Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association. Dr. Phalen is already examining candidates for membership.

PAY DAY.—This is pay day at the mines in the rear of this county and also along the route of the K. & P. RR., and over $6,000 will be distributed. The greater amount of this money eventually find its way to the city.

A LONG JAUNT.—We are invited to join the "Michoacan Syndicate" in a trip to the ancient state of Michoacan, in the interior of Mexico. The cost is $500 each person. We forbear unless we can sell off this year's ulster at a premium.

FOR A DRIVE.—Two large sleigh loads of male lunatics, from Rockwood Asylum, were driven around the city to-day. One of them made an address to the electors of Kingston, one of his most frantic cries being, "Hurrah for Metcalfe!"

PICTON ELECTION.—Mr. Stewart Wilson, jr., of Picton, was defeated in the late Mayoralty election by three votes. On Tuesday there will be a recount before the County Judge. The election was hotly contested. Mr. S. Wilson was in Kingston to-day.

SYNDICATE SIGNATURES.—The Globe says the Frontenac petition against the syndicate is signed by 66 names, that of Queen's College by 87, and that of the Medical College by 36. Additional signatures have been procured since the petitions were forwarded.

"A" BATTERY.—Col. Irwin denies the report that there are a number of cases of small pox in the Citadel, Quebec. The death of Trumpet Major Patterson, from this disease, occurred in a detached building, outside the walls, where he has been living with his family for the last two months.

A TOY FACTORY.—Kingston will in all probability have a new manufactory established in it. Plans and specifications are receiving the consideration of a prominent contractor. The goods to be manufactured will embrace boys' sleighs, velocipedes, baby carriages, and all manner of toys.

DEATH'S GRIP.—The old man, suffering from jaundice, who was reported in our Christmas visit to the General Hospital, died a day or two ago. His skin was of a very yellowish hue, in fact his was the most distinct case of the kind medical men have ever seen. The deceased suffered intensely.

SEVERE FALL.—Miss Jones, a young woman about 18 years of age, while walking up Queen Street last evening about five o'clock, slipped on a piece of ice and fell, fracturing her leg just above the knee. Dr. T. W. Fenwick set it to-day. She is suffering very much from the shock, but otherwise is doing as well as can be expected.

EXTENDING THE LINE.—At the annual meeting of the Montreal Telegraph Company, held yesterday, it was stated that since 1879 there were 186 miles of new line constructed, 1,561 miles of wire laid, and 240 new offices opened. Had the rate 25 cents, as formerly, been in operation during the past year instead of 7 per cent. dividend the Company would be paying 17, perhaps.

OUR MAGAZINE WRITERS.—Leonard Courtney, M.P., has a valuable article on Ireland, in the January number of the International Review of New York. A London correspondent reports that Mr. Courtney "is the most competent authority on such in the House, after Mr. Gladstone." The Government, in securing Mr. Courtney's acceptance of an Under Secretaryship silenced their most dangerous critic on South African affairs, and enrolled a most competent advocate of Land Reform.

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

Removal to Princess Street Canvassing the City for Financial Support.

A meeting was convened for the purpose of considering the advisability of removing the Mechanics' Institute from its present location, was held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The attendance was not so good as was desired.

The President, Mr. T. Adams, occupied the chair.

Mr. C. Taylor, one of the most energetic members of the Institute, said that the meeting was called to debate the question whether by removal to Princess Street the Institute would be more popularly supported and the receipts increased. He deplored the apathy which allowed the Institute to dwindle into insignificance. A subscription list had been circulated and in a few hours the merchants on Princess Street had guaranteed $130 for three years to pay the rent of the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The rent was $240 per annum, but a clergyman had guaranteed for a year if allowed the use of the rooms on Sunday.

Mr. Irving gave the history of the Institute from its formation in 1808.

Mr. Chown also gave a review of its work.

Mr. Jos. Bawden advanced the idea that, Henderson's circulating library having been discontinued, by keeping the current reviews on the table they would attract many subscribers. After the books had done service in the Institute they could be disposed of at nominal rates.

Mr. W. Gardiner, Dr. Skinner and Mr. T. H. McGuire followed, advocating removal.

Mr. Walpole spoke of the room over his store, corner of Brock and Wellington Streets, as the best place for the Institute.

Prof. Wood made a striking address upon the financial aspect of the question. He showed that to remove the Institute would require an increased revenue of $650 if it remained.

A motion was prepared and carried favoring the removal.

A committee was formed, consisting of the following, to canvass the city for subscriptions: Messrs. Taylor, McIntyre, Gardiner, Redden, F. Chown, W. Power, Irving and Bawden.

The election of officers was deferred.

A Grave Case.

At the Court of Revision, held in Newburg on Monday, the case of McGill vs. Patterson was heard. Plaintiff and defendant are residents of Camden. On the farm of Mr. Patterson, says the Reporter, there is a small burying ground, where a number of persons have been buried, including the wife of Mr. McGill. To her memory was erected a plain white tomb stone, costing about $32. Last June the stone was broken. Mr. Patterson's horses having been seen in the cemetery, the plaintiff at once was led to believe that they had knocked it down. The defendant admitted that he had put his horses in the burying ground, but contended that they had not done any damage. This was the third time the case was tried. The first trial ended in a non-suit, the second trial, before Judge Wilkinson, in a verdict in favour of the defendant. The case the third time occupied the attention of the court the whole day. The jury returned a verdict of $25 and costs for plaintiff.

K. & P. RR. Extension.

Among other things said by the Lieut.-Governor at the opening of the Legislature yesterday was:

"It is obvious that the earliest possible construction of railway communication between the existing railway system of Ontario and the Canadian Pacific Road is of the very greatest importance to the interests of the Province, an appropriation having been made for this purpose by an Act of a former session of the Legislature, a measure will be submitted to you for carrying out the object of the Act with the least possible delay."

The K. & P. RR. is one of the lines whose ultimate object is a connection with the Canada Pacific RR.; so that it has a good change at receiving a subsidy for its extension. This road is first on the list of applicants for railway grants. In all probability a sufficient sum will be given to enable it to be pushed rapidly to its destination.

Election Cases.

The voters of Pittsburg are usually much interested in municipal politics but they seldom become so excited as one Thomas Kilduff appears to have been on polling day at one place where the ballots were being cast, near the Finger Board. He had wordy combats with J. Laverty and Henry Brown, both of whom had their coats fearfully torn. Kilduff was charged before Mr. A. Brown, J. P., with malicious injury to property. He was convicted, fined, and ordered to pay for the damage which he had inflicted. His bill altogether will amount to about $25. He will claim the coats, almost invaluable as they are.

Police Court.

John Baldock, who was charged with having robbed Patrick O'Brien, a pensioner, (case reported yesterday) was to-day committed for trial at a higher court.

A. McFaul, selling liquor within prohibited hours, was fined $20 and costs.

Several cases of persons having failed to comply with the provisions of the snow by-law were adjourned.

A carter, for soliciting public hire while yet unlicensed, was fined $2 and costs.

Services To-morrow.

The quarterly meeting of the Primitive Methodist Church will be held to-morrow; communion in the evening.

Mr. T. W. Jolliffe will preach a special sermon to-morrow evening on "Temperance from a bible stand point."

Rev. Mr. Rainsford preaches to-morrow morning in St. James' Church, in the afternoon in Queen's College, and in the evening at St. John's Church, Portsmouth, at the latter of which places a collection will be taken up on behalf of the Irish Church missions.

SOBRIETY VS. INSOBRIETY.

The Question of the Hour Ingeniously Discussed by McGrahham.

There was a full audience in the Victoria Music Hall last evening, when Mr. Graham, Secretary of the Church of England Temperance Society, delivered a vigorous and pungent address.

Ald. Pense occupied the chair, and on the platform were Rev. Messrs. Carey, Dobbs, Spencer, Kirkpatrick and Young. The Chairman opened the meeting with a few remarks in the course of which he referred to a notable fact that at the present time there are but two live temperance associations in the city, those in connection with St. James' Church and "B" Battery. He introduced

Mr. Graham, who set out by stating his experiences in and impressions of America so far as he had gone. Everywhere he had gone he had received a warm and cordial welcome and moving among a similar class of people, having the same language, the same prayers and the same ecclesiastical discussions, he had felt that the country on this side of the Atlantic was fair to eclipse the little island which had laid down the law to the world for many years and he hoped would continue to do so for many years to come. He disputed the idea that England had reached the zenith of her glory, and, pointing to the numerous colonies which went to constitute an empire upon which the sun never set he felt that when the power of the old land began to wane this and other new nations will rise and perpetuate her honour and greatness. (Applause.) The well being of a country does not necessarily depend upon the accumulated capital to be found in it. It is not a fact that the aristocracy are the famous in story and song not the men of middle class who retire with small fortunes, but the

and if these are sober and Christian then the prosperity of the nation has a stable foundation. He referred to the city of Manchester, of 600,000 population, in which wealth and poverty went side by side, a contemplation of which led him to ask himself, How are these such great divergences in the land? The only answer he could give—and he thought it a true one—for the great poverty which prevailed was that about 90 per cent. of it was the result of the drunkenness of the people. Some said that, considering the cost of maintaining the Queen and royal family, the army and navy and civil service, it was no wonder the people were poor. What are the facts? That the expense of the Queen's household and her defence—cost annually from $71,000,000 to $75,000,000, while the drink bill caused an expenditure of $145,000,000. If a people swallow liquor costing twice as much as the government of the whole country is it reasonable and legitimate to complain of poverty? (Applause.) Another illustration. In Lancashire for the past five years there has been an unexampled depression of the trade. He had entered large warehouses and asked the owners what they thought of the prospect? 'And they sigh, never so dark, never was such competition, never so many expensive prohibitory tariffs.' A cloud was hovering over the supremacy of the nation; it was only as England became the workshop of the world that it could hope to succeed. The workmen on the other hand said they were only employed half time, that they could scarcely make enough to buy bread and cheese for their families. Now what are the facts? Last year the cotton trade improved, and up to Christmas the exports were valued at $71,000,000, while reached $198,000,000, and it didn't seem to disagree with digestion either. (Laughter and applause.) Is such drunkenness consistent with the high ideal character which he had pictured? It is perfectly impossible. What is the cause of drunkenness in England at the present time? While it true men can not be made sober by act of Parliament the converse of the proposition is equally correct, that legislenactments has made men drunken. (Applause.) In the cities and towns in England nearly every corner is occupied as a public house; in his native place every thirty second house is a tavern, hence it really became a wonder that drunkenness has not greater instead of less. Twenty five years ago he had become cognizant of the miseries and sufferings caused by liquor, and he had then determined that so long as he lived his hands should not come in contact with the vile stuff. (Hear, hear.) He gloried in being a member of the Church the representatives of which on the one hand approached very near to the throne, and on the other found access to the lowest hovels in the land, and he had wondered if it should see fit in the providence of God to profit by its vantage and prestige and more than any other Church encounter this national evil and endeavour to remove it. A grander nobler temperance work has not been done for 50 years than that accomplished during the past seven or eight years by the society with which he was connected. (Applause.) It has reached which has not been reached before, a class who have heretofore looked upon temperance work as low and vulgar. There never was a time in English history when rich and poor, high and low were brought into the same relationship. He believed that drunkenness increased according as the facilities in its favour were increased. From his limited experience he judged that the drunkenness of this country is not one-half what it is in the old country. In Canada he had not seen the poverty which he had witnessed at home. This colony has a great future before it, but the people must see that the liquor traffic does not get a hold upon its vitals. He described the manner in which the Sabbaths were spent in England, in which a law closed every kind of business but that of the liquor dealer. He also referred to the petition which was in circulation in this city, asking that the Provincial Parliament should amend the Crooks Act so that the sale of liquor should be continued until 11 o'clock, on certain points. Such a step could be taken in the right direction. (Applause.) He hoped that petition would be met by a counter petition.

A CLASS OF HUMANITY

A COUNTER PETITION

and that the object of the latter would be attained. He sketched rapidly and in an interesting manner the methods adopted in England to correct the habits of the people, notably by establishing coffee taverns, rewarding faithful service by money payments instead of liquor, and by turning public opinion against the existing evils. He devoted a great deal of time to a semi-humorous criticism of the young men and women of the present day, by some of whom the questions upon which the happiness of life depends are entirely overlooked in their contemplations of matrimony. As a Christian who loves his country [illegible] to see every home [illegible] sober and Christian. He concluded by making an appeal to all present to do what they could to remove the causes of the great sorrows and afflictions which oppressed the people. His closing allusions were to the Queen and the late Prince Consort. He knew something of the life of the most exalted lady in the world. Noble and a pure and nobler life, and when the masses of her people were in sorrow she was the first to sympathise with them. As for Albert the Good, the words uttered by him and carved on the pedestal in his memory of England should be carried into practice. The noblest learning is to be wise, the greatest wisdom is to be good. We all can [illegible] position do not make the gentleman. Just as a little boy in a ragged school SAT said he is a gentleman who knows how to behave himself.

Rev. Mr. Carey moved the lecturer a vote of thanks, seconded by Mr. Young. The former hoped Mr. Graham would find it convenient to return in a few days when he hoped the audience would be larger.

Mr. Graham intimated that he would probably stop another day in Kingston when on route from Toronto to Montreal.

The meeting closed as it began with singing. Rev. M. Spencer pronounced the benediction.

Edition of Poems.

An "The Coming of the Princess" a volume of poems just issued by Mrs. Kate Seymour Maclean, of Kingston, we Toronto Telegram have an enduring contribution to that literature of Canada which is worth preserving. Clever in versification, pure in moral tone, lit up with the presence of noble character and inspired by the voice of nature, these poems speak to all and command attention. In not a few they awaken that responsive echo which is the highest and most valued tribute to genius. Valued and valuable as are these poems they awaken a hope, and in some measure already realized, that they are but the prelude to something more estimable. We cordially commend all who take an interest in native literature to procure and digest the book. In doing so it may not be out of place to give expression to a regret that the work is copyrighted in Canada, and indirectly on this account reach a large class of readers. A popular edition, whether profitable to the authoress or not, would be a genuine favour conferred upon the poor who are possessed of literary tastes.

Emigration Society.

An Association called the Women's Emigration Society has been formed in London, the object of which is to promote the emigration of women to the colonies. Several domestic servants have already been sent to Canada under its auspices, and it hopes soon to send out a larger number next season. The Association desires to know whether there are any philanthropic ladies in this city who feel disposed to act as a sub-committee, whose duty it would be to look after the young women from the time of their arrival until they get settled in suitable situations. It is not desirable that young girls should be sent to a strange country unless it is known that they will be received and properly cared for. The Secretary of the Association wishes to know if any person will undertake the service described. The communication has been sent to Mr. Macpherson, Immigration Agent, who has done what he can to make the communication effective. So far the ladies of the city have not formed the sub-committee as requested.

Next Year's Mayoralty.

In last evening's News it was announced as a certainty that Ald. Gaskin is a candidate for the Mayoralty of 1882. An effort is thus being made to forestall public opinion and obtain advance pledges of support from the electors. Ald. Gaskin is not the only man who is qualified for the post of civic magistrate, and whose popularity is such as to assure success. For the office we have heard ex-Alds. Harty and Walkem mentioned, both having in the Council shewn themselves to be worthy of elevation to a place in which they would reflect credit upon the city. We, of course, cannot say who will be Ald. Gaskin's opponent, but he must not fancy that he can, by an early start, achieve the object of his burning ambition without having his standing in the community tested by a vote at the polls. It is at least satisfactory to be informed that he is out for a certainty.

Called Meeting.

Monday evening has been set apart for the united commemoration of the Lord's Day Observance Society, the London Religious Tract Society and the Evangelical Alliance, and able speakers have been appointed to advocate their various and yet united interests. Let all churches give a cordial invitation to their congregations and the public to attend it, let all make an effort to be present, and thus encourage the officers in their desire to sustain and increase their usefulness, and let all remember the meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society to be held on Tuesday evening.
