Poem on the Governor-General's Visit to St. Thomas.

My Reverend friend, I have sent you The Times
And Home Journal, In them you will find
An account of the great Highland gathering held
At St. Thomas, as seen by the blind.
For the Marquis of Lorne has been here, as you know
And to make an excellent speech
But the Gaelic address read by Sheriff Munro
Was written by Dr. MacNish.
And as you are a Campbell yourself and well versed,
In the legends and lore of the clan,
You'll be happy to learn that my countrymen say
That Lord Lorne is a wonderful man.
They lavish all praise on the Marquis, him self
And his manly deportment, they say.
Was so humble and good. He has certainly made
A most brilliant, impressive display.
A display of his talents and powers, every word,
Every sentence, so much to the point
His impromptu reply to the Indian Chiefs,
So complete, not a word out of joint,
His diction was clear, and his language so choice,
So touching, expressive, and true,
Will be read and re-read, so I hope you'll preserve
The copies I forwarded you.
Though I could not and did not recite my address,
(For the blind are despised and kept down)
Still I greatly rejoice in my countryman's fame
In the country as well as the town
Let the fame of the Campbells, the House of Argyle,
The songs of the poets inspire
Let their chivalrous deeds that in history live,
Awaken the patriot's lyre.
Undaunted was he, when Queen Caroline thought
To make Scotland her great hunting grounds,
Who arose and exclaimed, well Madam, I'll go.
I'll go and make ready my hounds
And the famous that live and the saintly that died
Were the noble, the great, and the good.
For their country they stood, and as martyrs they fell
And the covenant sealed with their blood
Yea the name of Argyle, like a watch word shall roll,
The ages unborn to enthrall
In virtue and valor, in honor and truth
The highest; deny it who will;
And the Marquis of Lorne, the great Heir of Argyle,
Inherits historical fame,
And proves by his virtues in happier times,
How truly he honors the name.
It was at St. Thomas, as stated before,
That the Highlanders met to express
To the great Scottish Chieftain their "ceud mile failte"
Presenting a Gælic address.
Then the Marquis expressed in a spirited speech
Full of pathos and eloquence grand,
His great pleasure in meeting so many who came
From his father's estates to this land.
He saw much in common to interest all
In the deeds of the Chieftains of yore,
In the annals rehearsed by our cousins at home,
And repeated by us on this shore.
He said "while I work for the welfare of all
That come here from all races on earth,
Yet I certainly value the citizen most
Who feels pride in the land of his birth.
He dwelt with delight on the progress we made
In reclaiming and tilling the soil
And was glad to behold that so much of success
Was the ample reward of our toil.
He had travelled and seen with unmeasured delight
Where the cotter his cottage could claim,
Yet he did not approve of the ruinous plan
Of wasting the land on wild game.
He said that in Scotland the better informed
Would gladly come over the foam,
Where a man could possess a Canadian farm
Quite as large as an island at home.
Of the ancient and beautiful Gælic he said,
"Keep it up with an earnestness true;
It is well in one language to exercise thought,
But how great the advantage of two."
Now I say when a man like the Marquis of Lorne
For it's sake would dispense with his Greek,
What a pity and shame that so many have thought
It disgraceful the Gælic to speak!
There are families where all the eldest were taught
To speak it and also to read,
But the younger speak Gælic! no, never, not they—
It would be so vulgar indeed.
For their brothers and sisters return from the States
With the method of uttering slang
And become the instructors of those who acquire
The style of American twang.
Excuse this digression, philology rules
To make indignation supreme;
Let the ignorant, brainless, our language despise,
But I must return to my theme.
What the Governor said of the Isle of Killin
And Sir Allan McNabb, you have read;
Of the Orator, Soldier and Statesman as well
As the Poet, you know what he said.
With the greatest of nation's let Canada rank—
To that you are hastening now;
If your fathers were brave in the battle of swords
You have handled the axe and the plough
He spoke with much fervor, and pleasantly smiled
On the thousands assembled around,
He believed they were sure to get on very well
Wherever the Campbells were found.
On a day so delightful the weather was fine,
Neither stormy nor cold nor too hot,
We should have been glad had the Princess been there
But you are aware she was not.
Then they cheered for the Marquis, the Princess, the Queen,
Responsive to every call,
And so they departed well pleased with themselves
The Highlanders, Campbells and all.
In concluding my sketch of the Governor's speech
I must say that the half is not told,
But let us be true to the land of our fame
As our gallant forefathers of old.
I now send you th' original Gælic address,
Not the garbled one a sent you before.
O, I wish you had seen how the Marquis admired
The language and style of its lore.
To the Reverend author he said: "I am charmed
With your beautiful Gælic address,
To the great Celtic scholar all honor is due,
While others their weakness confess.
But how wrathy and sad are the sons of the Gael,
And this is not saying too much
That some vile ignoramus should dare to profane
The address by his blundering touch.
Whoever has done it is greatly to blame,
Let his infamy fetter him fast
Let his memory mingle with sorrow and shame
While the rules of orthography last.

—St. Thomas, Ont., Oct. 4, 1880.

*The Gaelic address was prepared by the Rev. Neil MacNish, LL.D., minister of St. John's Church, Cornwall, Ontario, who is widely known as a thorough and accomplished Celtic scholar, and as it left his hands was a splendid production in the ancient tongue. Some blunderer, however, under the impression that he could better it, made a few changes full of errors in construction and orthography, which went far to destroy its original symmetrical beauty.]

A Moral Power.

Stove pipes are supposed to move the deepest and most profound desire to swear that it is possible for man to experience. Be that as it may we venture the opinion that corns produce as many startling exclamations, and the introduction of PUTNAM'S PAINLESS CORN EXTRACTOR should be hailed as a moral influence in the world, independent of its power as a reliever of physical suffering. For sale everywhere. Sold in Kingston by J. Geo. King, Heath & Gunn, and by N. C. Polson & Co.'s agents for Ontario. Take only Putnam's Extractor.

RAILWAY BONUSING.

Advocating the Cause of the Napanee, Tamworth and Quebec Railway.

(Globe.)

A very promising undertaking is the project known as the Napanee and Tamworth Railway. This road is intended to run from Mill Point, an excellent deep-water harbor on the north east shore on the Bay of Quinte, said to be the best on the Bay, and three and a half miles from the Grand Trunk. Having reached the Grand Trunk, the new line would use that road for five or six miles to Napanee if proper arrangements could be made, and, leaving the Grand Trunk, would strike up the valley of the Napanee River to Yarker, 14 miles; thence to Enterprise, thence to Tamworth, in the township of Sheffield, 28 miles from Napanee. The main object of the line is to tap the rich stores of iron known to be lying in the Wagar and other mines. The quality of this ore has been tested and found to be of the best. The mineral exists in very large quantities, is easily obtained, and is found less than 35 miles from the lake. There is not a doubt that a great business can be built up in mining this ore, and perhaps in the future, when there is no coal tax, in smelting it at Millpoint. In addition to the mineral traffic, the new railway would serve a great number of factories on the Napanee River and elsewhere. Among the number of these factories already established are three paper mills, two foundries, two machine-shops, a large hub factory and six grist mills. The northern end of the line would be in connection with the Salmon River, and that connects with a long chain of lakes, thus affording the means of supplying the new road with a large traffic in the rough lumber with which the country abounds.

Aid from the Province to a very small amount would secure the building of this road and give a great impetus to the iron industry of Central Ontario. That interest is so important that some sacrifice may well be made to promote it. It is the only profitable kind of mining pursued in Ontario. It employs a large population, affords great quantities of freight to railways and vessels, and is bringing under settlement territory otherwise unattentive.

THE ATTENTION of owners of Farm Property and Residences is invited to the above Pyramid, showing the uniform and sure growth, during the last seventeen of its 27 years of existence, of a fire insurance company whose charter limits its business to that class of property—the Agricultural Insurance Company, of Watertown, N.Y. The figures represent the amount set apart at the dates given for the PROTECTION OF POLICY HOLDERS.

Twenty-seven years of patient toil has made this the strongest and largest Company doing an exclusive Dwelling Business in the United States, if not in the world. It now insures 45,000 policies a year. No other like Company can show such growth and increase.

The history of this Company proves that a LARGE business, well scattered, managed with prudence, can be done with a very small profit from each risk, and afford perfect security, which will grow stronger every year.

While nine-tenths of the "Mutual" fire insurance companies, and many of the Stock companies, have failed on account of reckless or extravagant management, or doing too small a business, the OLD AGRICULTURAL, by economy, energy and prudence, has every year added a substantial amount to its Assets, for the indemnity of its patrons, and is now occupies a position in the confidence of the public second to no other Company.

From four to four is spreads the base of its Pyramid and gains strength.

EXTRACT FROM CHARTER.—Article 5. This Company is formed for the purpose of insuring Farmers' Dwellings, Private Residences, Barns and Outbuildings, with their contents, and other property not more hazardous, and is strictly confined to this class of property.
