CITY AND VICINITY.

POLICE COURT.—A drunk was discharged, John Fowler, for larceny, was remanded for a week. The perjury case was withdrawn.

GOVERNMENT AID.—Neither the K. & P. RR. nor the Napanee and Tamworth RR. is included in the list of roads which will receive Government aid. This is a disappointing circumstance.

PROBABILITIES.—Winds gradually shifting to north east or east, cloudy to fair colder weather, with light snow flurries to-day, followed by a fall of snow to-morrow, not much change in temperature.

GRAND CONCERT.—A grand concert will be given in St. George's Hall, Kingston, on Wednesday, March 9th, in aid of St. Mark's Church, Barriefield. The best Kingston talent will assist on the occasion.

POULTRY FANCIERS.—There is considerable rivalry in this city among poultry fanciers to have the best breeds. Yesterday Master Fred. Corbett received from Hamilton a trio of light cochins. They are beauties.

LIQUOR LAW.—Speaking on the License Act, in the Legislature, Mr. Calvin said it was useless to make a law if they did not intend to enforce it. It would be better if the complainants got half of the fines. There would then be more convictions and less breaking of the law.

TICKET COLLECTING.—Conductors of the Grand Trunk Railway are to be relieved of all responsibility so far as regards the sale, inspection and collecting of tickets. The ticket picker will have complete charge in future; the duty of the conductor being solely the safe working of the train.

MASTODON MINSTRELS.—Haverly's company, the mammoth organization, alleged to exceed all previous efforts in number and superiority, will be in Kingston about the 9th inst. They ought to receive a fine house. Kingston is one of the four places at which stoppages are made in Canada.

HOLIDAY.—The pupils of the Collegiate Institute were granted a holiday to-day, with the permission of the Chairman, and in accordance with a custom that has prevailed for years past of giving a holiday on Ash Wednesday. The Rector employed himself in visiting several of the public schools.

PRINCIPAL GRANT'S LECTURE.—Probably the most interesting lecture of the season will be delivered in Convocation Hall next Friday evening by Principal Grant on "A prophet in the nineteenth century." The proceeds will be in aid of the college gymnasium. Tickets can be obtained at Stacey & Walpole's book store.

PROFFERED ENTERTAINMENTS.—The regular monthly meeting of St. George's Society occurred last evening. The Kingston Dramatic Company tendered their services to the Society for a performance on St. George's Day. The company have likewise offered to perform for the benefit of St. Patrick's Society on the evening of the 17th of March.

TRUSTEE ELECTION.—On motion of Mr. Meredith a new clause has been added to the Government Bill, providing that in cities and towns, the two high school trustees now elected at the first meeting of the Council in January, shall be chosen at the last meeting in December. The Bill as amended was reported. What's the advantage?

SPECIAL AUDIT.—The special Auditors of the books of the late Treasurer have concluded their labors and handed in their report. Will the Warden allow its publication before June? is an important question. A number of Councillors have signified their willingness. They would thus have time to consider it before the next session of the Council.

MATINEE.—Yesterday afternoon the Kingston Dramatic Association gave a reproduction of "Black Eyed Susan" and "The Artful Dodger" at a matinee. The merits of the play need not now be expatiated upon. We believe all the performers excelled their former efforts, and this brief comment means a great deal. The audience was large and appreciative.

ORDERED DOWN.—In consequence of complaints made, the flags hung out at the shops of second hand goods dealers and other live merchants have been ordered down, under the by-law prohibiting projecting signs. The complainants alleged that the flags had frightened horses frequently of late and were an eyesore as well. The police have been quietly obeyed in the matter.

CHEESE MEETING.—The Forest cheese factory, near Murvale station, on the K. & P. R.R., was in operation last year quite successfully. This year the managers have decided to enlarge their operations. A meeting will be held shortly to ascertain how many farmers desire to patronize the factory for the coming season. Mr. R. Joyner is Chairman, and Mr. S. Guess, Secretary of the cheese company.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The reported illness of the Bishop of Montreal is unfounded.

Outcast no More!

The poor outcast, Gideon Lane, to whose case we allluded yesterday, died in the county gaol about 8 o'clock last night, having remained in an epileptic fit until the last and recognized no person. One side of the poor fellow was partially paralyzed. An inquest was to be held this afternoon, and pending the inquiry it would be injudicious to make further comment upon the circumstances attending the removal of the man from the hospital in a dying condition. The inquest and evidence will bring out all the facts. The police man who took Lane away from the hospital has been upbraided for cruelty. It must be remembered that the police officer protested against the removal of the man, but in vain. He simply discharged his duty.

Hat Story.

It is related of a Kingston lady that in a Portland street she unconsciously carried off, on one of the tips of her sun umbrella, the bonnet of a passer-by, without either party being the wiser for some time; and of a Napanee lady that she sailed down King street, Toronto, without a bonnet, having dropped it unconsciously many blocks behind. But a similar case of insensibility to head covering occurred here on Sunday evening. A young lady fell at the corner of Brock and Wellington streets. When she had travelled towards home some minutes afterwards, she found that she had lost her fur cap by the tumble. It was this hat which the Whig reported yesterday as lost.

Swinburne Cheapened.

Belford & Co., the live Toronto publishers, are issuing Swinburne's complete poetical works in two volumes, at about one-twelfth the price of the edition published in England. This is truly the cheap age of literature, and Swinburne at $2 is as great a marvel as Knight's History of England (8 vols.) at $2.75 and Macaulay's History of England (3 vols.) at $1.80. Belford & Co. deserve the thanks of Canadians for their enterprise in rivalling the United States cheap publishers, and giving Canada to Canadians as freely in the book line as the most ardent admirer of the N.P. can desire.

Double Track.

The G.T.R. employees, resident in Belleville, are bitterly opposed to the laying of the double track between Toronto and Montreal as contemplated. As this would probably cause the removal to Kingston of the company's works it would mean that the employees would have to change, too, and many of them, says our contemporary, have too much at stake in the city to render a removal agreeable. Private reasons and speculations will scarcely curb the enterprise of an influential company, at least we hope not.

IMMIGRATION REPORT.

A Favorable Statement of Mr. R. Macpherson, Agent at Kingston.

The annual report of Mr. Macpherson, Immigration Agent in this city, is added to that of Hon. A. S. Hardy, recently laid before the Legislature. By this local statement we find that the number of arrivals at Kingston via the St. Lawrence and Halifax, during the year ending 31st December, 1880, was 1,795; the number via the United States 9, a total of 1,364. Of this number 539 were fed by the agent, 1,079 receiving free meals and 598 free passes thence to the end of their journey. It is shown that the number of settlers from the United States, as reported to the collectors of Customs at the different ports of entry within the district for the eleven months ending 30th of November last, was 569, of whom 184 were men, 180 women and 216 children. Their effects were valued at $18,850. Miss Bilbrough, Marchmont Home, Belleville, brought out 134 children last season, chiefly from Scotland, and averaging over 9 years of age. The immigrants placed within his agency were of a superior class, principally farm laborers with large supplies of luggage and having considerable sums of money. In fact Mr. Macpherson says he has not had as thrifty settlers since his connection with immigration. He found no difficulty in finding situations for the farm laborers and miners sent to him. Only two deaths occurred, one of typhoid fever and the other of sunstroke, supposed to have been caused by wearing too much clothing in the hot weather of June. In several cases the immigrants have done so well as to since send money to bring out their families. Stock raising continues to increase in this district, and more attention is being paid by farmers to the improvement of this important branch; also, the manufacture of cheese and butter, and the shipment of eggs and poultry. The mining interests are being developed to a large extent in the rear townships of the district, which contain an almost unlimited supply of iron ore, phosphate, and gold to some considerable degree. 8,000 tons of iron ore were carried over the Kingston and Pembroke Railway to this city during the year just closed, and there were upwards of 5,000 tons of phosphate shipped from this port during the year 1880.

The Prisons Escapes.

"An Old Soldier" writes in criticism of penitentiary management, in view of the facts disclosed by the recent escape of four men. We cannot publish the letter in full. "Old Soldier" contends that the prisoners should have been more closely searched before being committed to the cell; that prisoners and cells should have been examined daily by guards and blacksmith; that convicts should not be allowed to carry dinners to prisoners in close confinement even though accompanied by guards; and that there should be a more rigid enforcement of discipline and inspection than now exists. Our correspondent alleges that the prisoners are pampered and overtrusted, and that Mr. Moylan's inspections are superficial, like those of grand jurors who visit the gaol and other institutions for half an hour and write elaborate praises thereon as if they were thoroughly posted. What ground there may be for "Old Soldier's" criticism we cannot say, but it occurs to us that it would be well to change prisoners about in their solitary cells every few days. None would then be able, like Wright was, to work perseveringly for three weeks in cutting an iron door.

City Tax Collections.

The total amount of the taxes of 1880 collected to the first of March was $78,780.57. Of this amount Mr. Gordon has returned $41,012.24, and has probably $2,500 still to collect. Mr. Middleton has paid in $37,774.27. He has about $1,500 still to collect. The question was asked, "Are the poor those in arrears?" The answer was that a larger proportion of the poor than the rich had paid up long ago, before any percentage was imposed. Taking the rolls for Rideau and Victoria Wards for example the Collectors pointed out that nearly every poor man had paid his taxes. One of the Collectors remarked that the percentage imposed after the first of January was an incentive to the poor to pay up. It was a good measure which taxed the delinquents.

A Remarkable Case.

Great interest is attached to the case of Albert Arkaw, of Ompah, who was shot on the 10th of August, 1880, while paddling down the river in a canoe. The shot was fired about dusk, the slowly moving man and boat being taken for a deer. The bullet entered Arkaw's back, and although skillful search was made it could not be found and extracted. The sufferings of the young man have been terrible. At various times he was thought to be on the verge of death. But he has rallied and at the present time is improving. About a week ago the ball, which had caused all the pain, dropped out of the wound unexpectedly. Arkaw may now recover.

Our Charities.

Two old men, one 78 and the other 82, sought admission to the House of Industry yesterday. One of them was a citizen against whom fate has turned an unkindly hand; the other came from Lancaster, O., being sent to L'Hotel Dieu here by public subscription. Two weeks ago he was discharged and admitted to the General Hospital, from which he emerged yesterday. It must have been a day of exodus, judging from reports received. There are 43 inmates at the House of Industry, all old men or women, to whom so warm, cleanly and kindly a shelter is a great blessing. No one can visit the House without being touched by the helplessness of its beneficiaries and the noble relief it affords.

NOT GRANTED.—A petition sent from Kingston, influentially signed, praying for the release of a very worthy man's son from confinement, has been answered. His Excellency does not consider the case one for executive interference.

DARWINISM AND EVOLUTION.

Substance of the Thoughtful Lecture by a Boston Divine.

Rev. John Myers of Roxbo, lectured last evening in St. Andrew's Hall on "Science against Darwinism and Evolution." There was a fair attendance, and the audience consisted of some of the most intelligent of our citizens, who evidently enjoyed the lecture exceedingly. Mr. Moore speaks without notes, and seems to be thoroughly familiar with his subject, which he presents in a clear and forcible style. His second lecture will be given in the same place on next Thursday evening, which will be on the Geological history of the earth and man. The lecturer, after some general remarks on the relations existing between science and religion, said that Darwinism is in reality an old theory, having been held by some of the ancient philosophers centuries before Christ. In the last century in France there was much written about it, but it never attained to any great prominence. More than twenty years ago Mr. Darwin published his "Origin of Species," in which he claimed that all living beings descended from

into which the Creator breathed the principles of life. This plan of descent has been mainly carried out by the law of natural selection, or the survival of the fittest in the struggle for existence. This theory must stand or fall by the test of the facts of science. If this theory be true we ought to see a few proofs of it in the present order of things. We find many species and numerous varieties, but no species ever transcends itself. Darwin does not present a single fact showing that one species ever originated from any other. He says that all the numerous varieties of pigeons are descended from the wild rock pigeon. This is true, but they are all pigeons. During thousands of years we find no instance of a new species having appeared. Animals in Egypt are the same now that they were 4,000 years ago. Darwin meets this by saying that there has not been time enough for new species to originate since the beginning of the human period. Geology teaches us that there were distinct periods of formation before the present, each period having its own peculiar species. We have found the fossil remains of 30,000 animals which are extinct. Here is where Mr. Darwin should find his facts. If his theory be true,

MULTITUDES OF ANIMALS PERISHED

while developing into new species. According to this we should find species of animals in a transition state. But we find nothing of the kind, not one connecting link. If man originated in this way we should find some proofs in geology. While the transition was going on from the monkey to man multitudes in that intermediate state perished, and therefore, we should look for connecting forms. But the oldest remains of man thus far found show him to have been in as high a state of bodily perfection as he is now. The fossil remains of apes show that they were apes and nothing else, and those of man that he was in a marked and distinctive sense man. Darwin does not confine the application of his theory to man as a mere physical being, but extends it to him as an intellectual and moral being. He labors hard to prove that what we style the soul in man is only the highest development of what we style instinct in animals. When we view man as a rational being we find a chasm between him and the monkey that cannot be bridged over. Man invents numerous instruments and complicated machines, but no ape ever made a sword, an arrow head, a stove, a hatchet, or wigwam. It requires a little reason to kindle a fire, and while savages have done this no ape ever did it. Man, in distinction from all other things, manifests

A MORAL AND RELIGIOUS NATURE.

Thus this theory fails in the light of the facts. Man has language, but no monkey ever spoke. Max Muller truly says: "Man speaks, and no brute ever uttered a word. Language is our Rubicon and no brute ever dared to cross it." Darwinism is sometimes called Evolution, but it is not such in an extreme form. That there is an evolution in nature, in an important sense, is most clearly evident. Varieties are evolved from species; the oak is evolved from the acorn, and the mature man is evolved from the infant. Extreme evolution such as that of Spencer, Huxley, Tyndall and Haeckle substitutes for the Creator thoughtless force that inheres in matter. Darwin recognizes the agency of God at the start in creating one form at least, but loses sight of the Creator in the subsequent progress of life, so that while he cannot be called an atheist his doctrine tends to atheism. But others recognize no God at all and see nothing but physical and mechanical force. They make spontaneous generation, or the origin of the living from the non-living, by the agency of atomic force as the basis. At the same time no man ever discovered a fact showing spontaneous generation. Evolution in this sense is atheism and materialism and is poisoning many minds. No God, no free agency, no distinction between right and wrong, no moral law! Let this prevail and society would be converted into a complete hell. Yet this is called by some modern thought and progress.

About Dead Men.

We find this in the Whig:

"Even dead men's votes were recorded in the syndicate big push vote. It has been pointed out to us that Mr. Ferris, member for East Northumberland, who died on the 21st January, is recorded in the Mail as having voted in the division on the 20th upon the railway bargain."

We did not know before that Mr. Ferris was dead. We thought he represented East Northumberland in the Ontario Legislature, and was doing good service in supporting Mr. Mowat and his colleagues. From what we know of him we doubt if he would vote for the syndicate, dead or alive. Our contemporary must have been thinking of Mr. Wheeler.—Belleville Ontario.

Wrong again! We meant the late Mr. Keeler, and by the slip of the pen wrote Ferris.

$400,000 have been subscribed as a capital for the Montreal Merchants Cotton Company.

MARDI GRAS.

An Attractive Gathering at the Tete de Pont Barracks Last Evening.

In response to the invitation of Lieut.-Col. Strange and the officers of "B" Battery Royal School of Gunnery a select company of ladies and gentlemen, in a great variety of costumes, attended the At Home at Tete de Pont barracks. The accommodation being limited—the buildings were not designed for the social events which have served to popularize the occupants for the time being—of course the number invited and present was not so large as would otherwise have been the case. The dining hall, the most spacious apartment, was converted into a ball room, while the billiard room was utilized for refreshment purposes; and as we passed, we may say that the catering was satisfactory to the most fastidious. The scene presented by the collection of such all displaying ingenuity and taste, was certainly very pleasing to the eye. Partaking of so much privacy, being merely intended for the personal gratification of a few friends, we are not inclined to indulge in much criticism. All the characters were good; those of Miss Rideout, Mrs. Rideout, Mrs. Kensington, Col. Strange, Dr. Mackenzie, Col. Oliver and Mr. Graham, being entitled to special mention. The appearance of the party when in the mazy dance, beneath the bright light, was indeed picturesque. The programme consisted of twenty-one items, which prolonged the festivities until 3 o'clock this morning. The music was, of course, supplied by the Battery Band. The following are some of the most noticeable characters:
