AFRICA'S BATTLES.

A Graphic Account of Colley's Unfortunate Fight with the Dutch Boers.

London, Eng., Standard.

At about seven o'clock the Boers opened fire, and bullets whistled thickly over the plateau. The men were all perfectly cool and confident. I do not think the possibility of the position being carried by storm occurred to any one. From seven to eleven o'clock the Boers, who were lying all around the hill, maintained a constant fire. Their shooting was wonderfully accurate. The stones behind which our men in the front line were lying were hit by almost every shot. Opposed to such shooting as this there was no need to impress upon the men to keep well under cover. They only showed themselves to take an occasional shot, and accurate as was the enemy's shooting up to eleven o'clock we had but five casualties. Commander Romilly was dangerously wounded as he was standing close to Gen. Colley. Twenty men of the 92nd Regiment under a Lieutenant held the point which was most threatened by the Boers. Nothing could exceed the steadiness of these Highlanders. They kept well under cover, and although they fired but seldom they killed eight or ten of the Boers who showed themselves from behind cover. So far our position

APPEARED PERFECTLY SAFE.

The Boers had indeed got between us and the camp, but we had three days provisions and could hold out until reinforcements came up. Our casualties were, with the exception of that of Commander Romilly, few and important, and all were perfectly confident of the result. From eleven to twelve the enemy's fire continued hot but harmless as before. Between twelve and one it slackened, and it seemed as if the Boers were drawing off. This, however, was not the case. The enemy had been, as was afterwards learned, very strongly reinforcing their fighting line

IN PREPARATION FOR AN ASSAULT.

Shortly after one a terrific fire suddenly broke forth from the right lower slopes of the hillside, on which the firing had all along been heaviest. A tremendous rush was simultaneously made by the enemy. Our advanced line was at once nearly all shot or driven back upon our main position. This position may be described as an oblong basin on the top of the hill. It was about 200 yards long by 50 broad. Our whole force now lined the rim of the basin, and fixed bayonets to repel the assault. The Boers, with shouts of triumph, swarmed up the sides of the hill, and made several desperate attempts to carry the position with a rush. Each time, however, they were driven back with the bayonet. After each charge the firing, which nearly ceased during the melee, broke out with renewed violence, and the air above us seemed full of bullets. The troops did their duty well and steadily, and trying as was the occasion fought with great coolness, encouraged by the officers.

THE FINAL ASSAULT.

At last the Boers, who had gathered near the edge of the slope, made a tremendous rush at a point beyond that at which they had before been attacking, and where the number of defenders was comparatively small. They burst through the defenders and poured in over the edge of the basin, and our position was lost. The main line of our defenders, their flank turned and taken in reverse, made a rush along the plateau and endeavored to re-form and rally, but it was useless. With fierce shouts and a storm of bullets the Boers poured in. There was a wild rush, with the Boers close behind. The roar of firing, the whistling of bullets, and the yells of the enemy made up a din which seemed infernal. All around men were falling. There was no resistance, no halt.

IT WAS FLIGHT FOR LIFE.

At this moment I was knocked down by the rush and trampled upon, and when I came to my senses the Boers were firing over me at the retreating troops moving down the hill. Trying to rise I was taken prisoner and led away. On the hill I found the body of General Colley, shot through the head. After a conversation with the Boer General I induced him to grant me a pass to come into our camp and bring out succor for the wounded. They were lying thickly both on the plateau and everywhere on the descent of the hill. The Boers were very civil. They took, it is true, the few articles I had about me, but no troops in the world could, on the whole, have behaved better as victors. Talking with me they ascribed their victories not to their arms or bravery, but to the righteousness of their cause. As to the there can be no question. They carried by sheer fighting a position which their General himself considered, defended by the force at his command, as impregnable. Even now I can hardly understand how it was done, so sudden was the rush, so instantaneous the change from what we considered as perfect safety to imminent peril. Up to the moment when the Boers made this rush they had effected no progress whatever. A few only of our men had been engaged, and the Boers' casualties were trifling in the extreme. A few minutes later they had the crest of the hill, and our men were defending the natural basin in which they had been lying in apparent security. It cannot be denied that the capture of the Majela Hill is an exploit of which any troops in the world might be proud.

A BAD SMASH.

The Collapse of a Large Iron Firm in Montreal.

Messrs. Currie & Co., the iron merchants who failed in Montreal a day or two since, are the principal owners of the Dominion paper mills at Kingsey Falls. Their paper business is reported to have been profitable, the amount said to have been realized out of it last year being set down at $30,000. The mill is understood to be heavily mortgaged to Glasgow capitalists. A good deal of feeling was displayed at Montreal yesterday against the firm by several creditors from others merchandise of various amounts. But all to large sums. There is one case of a poor second-hand dealer from whom they obtained $1,000 worth of scrap iron, for which they gave their note, which is not due. A very large amount of their indebtedness probably, $250,000 is in Canada, and especially in Montreal, and is spread over quite a number of houses, in sums running from $5,000 up to very considerable amounts. They get credit in Montreal among the trade for selling iron, &c., at ruinously low prices for a long time, and it is asserted that the firm has been in a shaky condition for years past. There are a good many comments on the Bank of Montreal "carrying" the house so long, to the detriment of the other firms in the trade whose dealings have been on principles conducive to the interests of their creditors as well as themselves. There is likely to be a great deal of litigation arising out of the failure, as all who sold the firm goods within a few days of their insolvency claim them back again. These disclosures are entirely unexpected, as the firm had a good standing up to the last.

THE ATTENTION of owners of Farm Property and Residences is invited to the above Pyramid, showing the uniform and sure growth, during the last seventeen of its 27 years of existence, of a fire insurance company whose charter limits its business to their class of property—the Agricultural Insurance Company, of Watertown, N. Y. The figures represent, the amount set apart at the dates given for the PROTECTION OF POLICY HOLDERS.

Twenty-seven years of patient toil has made this the strongest and largest Company doing an exclusive Dwelling Business in the United States, if not in the world. It now issues 45,000 policies a year. No other like Company can show such growth and increase.

The history of this Company proves that a LARGE business, well scattered, managed with prudence, can be done with a very small profit from each risk, and afford perfect security, which will grow stronger every year.

While nine-tenths of the "Mutual" fire insurance companies, and many of the Stock companies, have failed on account of reckless or extravagant management, or doing too small a business, the OLD AGRICULTURAL, by economy, energy and prudence, has every year added a substantial amount to its Assets, for the indemnity of its patrons, and it now occupies a position in the confidence of the public second to no other Company.

From year to year, it spreads the base of its Pyramid and gains strength.

EXTRACT FROM CHARTER.—"Article 2. This Company is formed for the purpose of insuring Farmers' Dwellings, Private Residences, Barns and Outbuildings, with their contents, and other property not more hazardous, and is strictly confined to this class of property.
