KINGSTON PRESBYTERY.

The Clergy and Elders in Session discussing Church Questions.

The Presbytery resumed at 3 o'clock. After prayer the subjects were subscribed for the students to give their trial discourses upon.

ANNUAL RESOLUTIONS.

Mr. Matthews, of Lansdowne and Fairfax, tendered his resignation on the grounds of inadequate support. Mr. Beatty, elder, presented a written statement from the congregation that they were not able to raise the amount promised. The clerk was ordered to cite the Kirk session of Lansdowne to meet on the 29th inst. at 3 o'clock.

A CALL REPORTED.

A circular was read from the Peterboro Presbytery, intimating that they intended asking the General Assembly to permit them to call Mr. Peter Fleming, of the M. E. Church, United States, to the Presbyterian ministry.

The Presbytery's trial was reviewed for the Synod.

PRESBYTERY'S LIABILITIES.

Rev. Dr. Smith, the Treasurer and clerk, were appointed to ascertain the Presbytery's liabilities, and strike a rate on the basis of families in the Presbytery, and large payment therefor.

SATISFACTORY TESTS.

Dr. Smith reported that D. McTavish, John Hay, — Macaulay, and A. McLeod had handed in discourses and were found satisfactory.

HOME MISSION REPORT.

Dr. Smith, Convener of the Home Mission, presented the report giving a detailed statement of the supply given to the supplemented congregations and mission stations during the past quarter, and recommending a plan for supply during the coming summer on the various mission fields. The report was received and taken up section.

Owing to the great amount of work that has devolved upon Rev. Dr. Smith, Convener of the Home Mission Committee, a joint Convener was appointed, Rev. M. W. Maclean, of Belleville. The work will be divided and a lighter burden placed upon the pastor of St. Andrew's Church.

COLLEGE MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Queen's College Missionary Association agreed to supply Hinchinbrooke, Bedford, Palmerston and Mississippi with student missionaries if the Home Mission could allow them $3 per Sabbath. This was agreed to. The Association will bear all the extra liabilities in keeping students on these fields during the summer.

Mr. Milber, of La Mabe, was changed to Minouth Mission. He has been on the hooks for a long time. The Presbytery is composed of sympathetic ministers who dislike dismissing a missionary but they determined that if his services were not satisfactory he would be removed.

The Treasurer presented his statement. Some of the congregations had not contributed to the Presbytery fund. The Presbytery adjourned at 10 p.m.

THURSDAY'S SEDERUNT.

The Presbytery resumed at 9:30 o'clock. Some of the members had left for their homes.

The request of Mr. Lee's for restoration to the ministry, was considered. After a discussion it was decided to transmit the request for favourable consideration to the General Assembly. This minister was deposed some eleven years ago for a serious offence. He desired to have the sentence withdrawn so that he could resume ministerial work in Scotland.

WORTHILY ACKNOWLEDGMENT.

The following motion was passed: That the kind acknowledgements of the court are due to the Students' Missionary Society of Queen's College for their self denying labors in the mission field within the bounds of the Presbytery during the past six months, which labors have been a great help to the Presbytery in carrying on its mission work.

The circular on temperance was discussed and the Presbytery advised less questions to be asked by the Assembly.

An overture anent the employment of students laid on the Assembly. Its object has been served and the overture was withdrawn.

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The report of the Women's Foreign Mission Society was read and adopted. The ladies were thanked for their efforts in the cause of foreign missions, and members of Presbytery were urged to establish auxiliaries wherever it was practicable to do so, thus concentrating the work done for women in heathen lands by the women of the Presbytery of Kingston.

CLOSING PROCEEDINGS.

A Committee was appointed to prepare a programme for a conference on the state of religion, to be held on the Wednesday evening of the Presbytery's meeting in Belleville.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell was appointed Moderator of the Kirks of St. Columba and St. Paul, and Rev. Mr. McCuaig for the parish of Glenvale, Harrowsmith and Wilton.

A few matters of routine having been gone through with the Presbytery adjourned, to meet in Belleville on Tuesday, July 5th, at 7:30 o'clock p.m.

Lightning Rods.

Mr. H. A. Bauslaugh, of the Globe Lightning Rod Company, London, has been prospecting around the city for a few days. The company he represents is a responsible one and has done extensive business throughout the country. The necessity of having good protectors from lightning on houses and barns, especially in the country, is well known. Mr. Bauslaugh intends to remain here for a considerable time in the interest of the company.

Anonymous Correspondence

"A Taxpayer in Kingston" should know that anonymous letters are not published by newspapers. If the writer does not want to be known to the editor it is proof positive that he has no faith in what he has written, and that the letter is one dangerous to publish. In this case we are not personally anxious for the writer's name. We want him to call for his money, as we do not conduct a brokerage business in correspondence.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY.

The Anniversary Quietly Observed in Kingston—Service in St. Mary's Cathedral—Quiet Day.

From my country, through sad and forsaken,
In exile I revisit thy sea-beaten shore,
But, alas, in a far foreign land I awaken,
And sigh for the friends who may meet me no more.

These words are expressive of the sentiments of Irishmen and their sympathizers, especially at a time when the old land, the anniversary of whose natal saint was so religiously observed to-day, is passing through a crisis in its history. The writer of them was not an Irishman, but the decendant of an old highland family, whose political works were more than usually appreciated when enumerated. It is related of him that after making a tour of the continent he was thought to be a spy, and a box containing some papers being carefully examined for proofs of his treason, "The Exile of Erin" and other poems were found.

The occurrence of the 17th was not marked, in this city, this year, by a display which has been customary on such occasions. The counsels against the procession prevailed this year, not only in Kingston, but in many other places in the province and Dominion. There were, however, not lacking evidences of the manner in which memories of the day have been cherished. The bit of green ribbon, the sprig of shamrock, and the usual exhibit of bunting were reminders of an event the interest in which will never die so long as the Irish race exist and continue to occupy a place in this world.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH.

Although as many countries arrogate the honour of having been the natal soil of St. Patrick as made a similar claim with respect of Homer,—Scotland, France and Wales, each furnish their respective pretensions, but what ever doubts may obscure his birth place all agree in stating that, as his name implies, he was of a patrician family. He was born about the year 372 and was carried of by pirates who sold him into slavery in Ireland, where his master employed him as a swineherd in the county Antrim. Preacher and patriot have frequently dwelt upon the saint's escape from captivity after seven years of menial servitude upon his arrival on the continent where he was successfully ordained deacon, priest and bishop, and then once more returning to preach the gospel to its heathen inhabitants. The opposition shewn to him by the Druids was so great that, in spite of his benevolent disposition, he was compelled to curse their fertile lands so that they became dreary bogs; to curse their rivers so that they produced no fish; to curse their very kettles so that with no amount of fire and patience could they be made to boil; and as a last resort to curse the Druids themselves so that the earth opened and swallowed them up. We are reminded of a remarkable fact—that the footsteps of St. Patrick can be traced almost from the cradle to his grave by the names of the places called after him. Thus, assuming his Scottish origin, he was born at Kilpatrick (the cell or church of St. Patrick) in Dumbartonshire. He resided for some time at Dalpatrick (the district or division of St. Patrick) in Lanarkshire; and visited Craig-phadrig (the rock of Patrick) near Inverness. He founded two churches, Kirkpatrick at Irongray, in Kircudbright, and Kirkpatrick at Fleming, in Dumfries; and ultimately sailed from Portpatrick, leaving behind him such an air of sanctity that among the most distinguished families of the Scottish aristocracy Patrick has been a favorite name to the present day. Arriving in England he preached in Patterdale in Westmoreland, and founded the church of Kirkpatrick in Durham. Visiting Wales he walked over Sarn-badrig, (Patrick's causeway) which, now covered by the sea, forms a dangerous shoal in Carnarvon Bay; and departing for the continent, sailed from Llanbadrig, (the church of Patrick) in the island of Anglesea. Undertaking his mission to convert the Irish, he first landed at Innis-patrick, (the island of Patrick) and next at Holmpatrick, in the county of Dublin. In the county Down he converted and baptized the Chieftain Dichu on his own threshing floor. The name of the parish of Saul, derived from Sabhal Patrick (the barn of Patrick) perpetuates the event. He then proceeded to Temple-patrick, in Antrim, and from thence to a lofty mountain in Mayo, ever since called Croaghpatrick. He founded an abbey in East Meath, called Domnach-Padraig (the house of Patrick) and built a church in Dublin on the spot where St. Patrick's Cathedral now stand. On an island of Lough Derg, county Donegal, there is St. Patrick's purgatory; in Leinster, St. Patrick's wood; at Cashel, St. Patrick's rock; the St. Patrick's wells, at which the holy man is said to have quenched his thirst, may be counted by dozens. He is commonly said to have died at Saul on the 17th of March, 493, aged 121. As the birthplace of St. Patrick has been disputed, so has that of his burial. But the general evidence indicates that he was buried at Down-patrick, and that the remains of St. Colomb and St. Bridget were laid beside him, according to the old monkish Leonine distich:

"On the hill of Down, buried in one tomb,
Were Bridget and Patricians, with Columba the pious."

The Shamrock is almost universally worn in the hat over all Ireland on St. Patrick's Day. The popular notion is that when St. Patrick was preaching the doctrine of the Trinity to the pagan Irish he used this plant, bearing three leaves upon one stem, as a symbol or illustration of the great mystery. And we may conclude, in the words of the poet, long may the Shamrock

"The plant that blooms for ever,
With the rose combined,
And the thistle twined,
Defy the foes of strength to sever.
Firm be the triple league they form,
Despite all change of weather,
In sunshine, darkness, calm or storm,
Still may they fondly grow together."

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

St. Mary's Cathedral was crowded at 10:30 o'clock when High Mass was commenced. Father McDonough, of Napanee, was the celebrant, Revs. Father Spratt and Hogan being Deacon and sub-Deacon. The sermon was preached by Rev. Father Walsh, of Kitley, who spoke fluently and with much eloquence from "Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain."—St. John, xv. 16.

These words were spoken by Jesus Christ in person to His apostles when He sent them forth to sow the seed of the holy religion among all nations, when He commissioned them to plant the divine faith in the souls of men. They had gathered around Him on the eve of His passion, drinking in the lessons of wisdom that fell from His sacred lips. The words of the text were intended to pencil out for them the characteristics of the true apostle. They were addressed to the twelve and through them to all who have been sent forth to do the work of Jesus Christ on earth, and to none certainly with more fitness than to the great apostle of Ireland whose memory the immortal church of God honoured to-day. He had gone forth and borne much fruit, which yet remained, after the lapse of many ages, with all the freshness of spring time. If the early history of the church be scanned, it will be found that in the fifth century heresy in various forms had obtained vast proportions throughout Christendom. Rome, so long the birth place of science, the home of learning, tottered and fell, the last remnant of civilization seemed destined to be torn asunder. Far above the destructive tide—in the midst of the dark cloud of heresy and infidelity which hung like a funeral pall over Christendom—the hand of Jesus Christ appeared, the finger of the right hand of God pointed to the little island in the west of Europe, and a voice through the representative of Rome commanded one to go there to establish religion and to sanctify the human heart. Saint Patrick obeyed the command, and Ireland became the depositary of the faith. God prefigured foreshadowed in the old law, the great events in the new. Thus we read in Genesis that when Abraham had grown old and wished to choose a spouse for his son Isaac, and there were none among the daughters of the neighboring country whom he considered worthy, he sent and commanded a faithful servant saying, "Go forth to the land of my chosen people and from among the daughters of my kinsmen choose a spouse worthy of my son Isaac; choose one pure and generous and faithful, for the Lord God hath sworn to bless my offspring." The faithful servant obeyed, an angel guiding his footsteps until he came to the peerless Rebecca, beautiful in the simplicity and innocence of her heart; she accepted his golden gifts and became the loving spouse of Isaac, and heaven's prediction was fulfilled. How striking the contrast with the mission of St. Patrick! Amidst the impurities and infidelity which overshadowed the land Almighty God called upon his servant St. Patrick, saying, "Go forth to the land of my chosen people, and there establish my church; choose thou a spouse pure and holy and generous and faithful and worthy of my only son Jesus Christ." Patrick obeyed the commission of God. Doubtless the angel guided his footsteps and he landed in Ireland. Like the peerless Rebecca Ireland accepted his golden gift of faith and became the spouse of Jesus Christ. St. Patrick was a true missionary; he christianized and sanctified the people, and the first steps towards the accomplishment of this wondrous work presented a picture of heroism unsurpassed in the annals of Christendom. The speaker dwelt at length upon the saint's early difficulties, but his zeal was great and he had the consolation of knowing that the great work for which he devoted his life was at last accomplished. Then followed what was termed the golden age, the 30 years of peace and happiness which his reign inaugurated, the age which challenged admiration and became the pride of the world. No wonder that the memory of those days should be dear to us, that every Irish heart swells with honest pride when the memory of other days is recalled. But the golden days of Ireland closed with the 8th century, and for 1,100 years the story of Ireland is one of unremitting conflict. But all the persecution and war has not weakened her love of nationality or adherence to the faith. Such was the loyalty of the people that Lord Macauley, the historian, said, war for centuries against the Catholic Irish has been tried, famine and extermination have been tried, and with what result? Neither to exterminate nor enfeeble them. He owned his inability to understand the reason. What to him seemed difficult we (Catholics) can read in the inscription on the dome of St. Peter's. "Thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church and the gates of hell will not prevail against it." With this light we can understand why the sons of St. Patrick cling to the old banner of their religion no matter where they are situated in life. It is well, from time to time, to reflect seriously upon the trials and struggles of our forefathers in defence of the faith. While thus we reflect we are filled with noble sentiments; and while we behold their heroism we feel that should occasion require it we would go forth to death for the same cause. Aye, the faith of the Irish remains and must remain as a monument which space cannot change, which persecution cannot alter, which rebellion cannot force, which stands out in indescribable grandeur notwithstanding the ruins which time and tyranny have scattered. In conclusion he said it became the sons and descendents of sainted men to follow their example, and to fully at all times to the defence of that faith which they all valued so much.

Rev. Fathers Twohey, McWilliams, O'Brien, and Higgins, occupied seats in the sanctuary.

The music was Millard's mass, which was creditably rendered. Several solos were excellently rendered.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. Goldwin Smith leaves for England in June. He will not return until next year.

Rev. A. Wilson was prevented from attending the sittings of the Presbyterians by illness.

Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Mackenzie passed westward yesterday afternoon. Friends in this city met them at the depot.

Lieut.-Col Villiers took charge of the Deputy Adjutant General's office yesterday. Col. Strachenzie will leave for his new charge, in New Brunswick, in a few days.

The death of Mr. W. H. Weller, of Cobourg, will be an uncommonly wide cause of regret, since he is the Most Worshipful the Immediate Past Grand Master of the Masons of Canada. He was very highly regarded in the craft, and made an excellent Grand Master, an office held in the greatest regard and considered equal in distinction to the highest offices of political favour in the province.

REVOKED HIS SENTENCE.

A Minister's Case Before the Presbytery—Movement for His Reinstatement.

Some fifteen months ago the members of the Kingston Presbytery tried the Rev. Joshua Fraser, a minister at Newburg and Clark's Mills, for drunkenness and other offences. After due consideration and a great deal of discussion the minister was deposed from the Presbyterian ministry. At nearly every meeting of the Presbytery since his case has been brought up by members, but until yesterday nothing was done. The matter was on this last occasion opened by the introduction of testimonials from Rev. Dr. Jenkins, Mr. H. Croil and other Montreal gentlemen, who gave Mr. Fraser a certificate that he was leading of late an exemplary life. Accompanying the testimonials was a letter breathing penitence. The Presbytery discussed the question all afternoon, and that the debate was an extremely warm one we can truthfully state. The various brethern talked and considered, and finally about five o'clock a vote was taken. Rev. Mr. McCuaig moved that the sentence of deposition continue in force. Rev. Mr. Gracey moved in amendment that the sentence of deposition be revoked and that Mr. Frazer be suspended for one year, at the expiration of which time the Presbytery may take steps, upon the forthcoming of evidence of his reformation and consistent life, to restore him to the position of a member of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. A show of hands was taken and the amendment carried by a majority of one. Three ministers entered their dissent, Rev. Mr. McCuaig with reasons and the other two without reasons. The vote was so close that the roll was ordered to be called but the withdrawal of several members of the Presbytery prevented such being done.

Holloway's Pills.

Health's Fountain.—It cannot surely be necessary to remind any intelligent reader that the purity of the blood determines every individual's health and vigour. Holloway's medicine searches out the slightest taint in the vital fluid, and neutralizes or expels it, so that the circulation supports the system in place of sowing the seeds of decay. When epidemics are advancing and disease is steadily on the increase, it behoves every one to have a restorative like these Pills ready to set right any irregularity in the stomach, liver, bowels, or Kidneys. Holloway's treatment is especially suitable for the young, delicate, and nervous, who are most susceptible of any prevailing sickness, and whom violent measures would endanger little less than the epidemic.
