"CHALK YOUR OWN DOOR."

His proper name was Jonathan Marden, but he had not been in the village a week before everybody called him Jerry Marden, and within six months he was known as Jerry Muddler. But why Muddler? Who gave him that name, and why was it given? The giver is unknown, for whoever knows the given of nicknames?—but the reason for its being bestowed was that Jerry was always muddled with drink.

He was a very good shoemaker, but he stood no chance with George Stevens, a sober man, and so drifted into becoming our cobbler. Jerry's one idea was to get a job, and having done it, to invest the proceeds in drink at his favorite beer shop, "The Oram Arms." The consequence was that Jerry was seldom sober, and had he not possessed an iron constitution, two years of such a life must have killed him; but he dragged on, working to-day and idling to-morrow, and drinking whenever a drink could be got, and finally he drifted into debt.

Hi, sure at "The Oram Arms" was a large one, and the chalks stood up against him like files of soldiers, but Jerry ignored their existence, paying off a little now and then, and drinking more, each time increasing the army of debt against him, until one evening Mr. Richard Rewitt, the landlord of the aforesaid "Oram Arms," cried "halt."

"I can't go on any longer, Jerry," he said. "The last sum I had of you was three shillings, and you have paid nothing for a fortnight."

"Work is slack," murmured Jerry, "but the harvest is coming on, and then everybody will have their soling and heeling done, and I shall be able to pay you off."

"Perhaps so," returned Mr. Rewitt, "but you will have as much as you can do to square off what is up there. Look at them! Those chalks are a standing disgrace to any man. You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

Jerry looked at the accusing marks and really felt aghast at the long list against him. The inner door of the bar was a regular blackboard, and he trembled before it.

Now when Jerry first came to "The Oram Arms" the landlord was very polite, and spoke as softly as you please to him. No spider courteously entreating a fly to enter into his parlor could have been more oily tongued, or smiled a more persuasive smile.

"If you drink," he said, "you must expect to pay for it. My brewer would stand no nonsense from me, and I must have my money from you."

"Only one more pint," pleaded Jerry.

"Not half a pint," replied the landlord.

"Go home and work, and pay your debts like a man."

The entrance of a customer with ready money cut short the conversation, and Jerry stood back a pace or two while the other was being served. When that was done, and the beer drunk and the stranger gone, Jerry made a final appeal.

"I've been a good customer to you, Mr. Rewitt," he said. "Almost every penny I have earned has come into your till. I've nigh lived on beer, if living it can be called, and my wife and children have had to shift how they could for bread."

"That's nothing to me," said the landlord.

"Let me have one pint."

"Have you the impudence to ask for it with that shameful lot of chalks staring you in the face."

Jerry did not reply, but he took a long and earnest look at the recording files, and drawing his hand across his dry mouth, hurried out of "The Oram Arms."

"Who is that you have been talking to, Richard?" inquired Mrs. Rewitt, entering the bar from a room behind.

"Jerry Muddler," was the reply. "I've stopped his drink until he pays up."

"Then he will go to 'The Green Goose' and get his drinks there," said Mrs. Rewitt.

"They won't trust him a penny," returned her husband with a grin—"he's tried on it and failed, and so I've got him. If he doesn't pay up I'll make him."

"That's Jerry's look out," replied Mrs. Rewitt, coolly. "If he can't afford it he shouldn't drink."

The subject was dismissed, and Jerry forgotten in the noise and bustle of the usual evening business. About nine o'clock Jerry's wife, to the astonishment of both Mr. Rewitt and his wife, appeared in the bar; but not, as they supposed, for drink.

"My husband tells me," she said "that he has a heavy score here. How much is it?"

"I'm almost too busy to tell you," replied the landlord, "but if it is pressing I will reckon it up."

"It is pressing, and I shall be very thankful if you will let me know at once what it is," returned the poor woman, who was indeed wan and pale, and almost justified the title of skeleton, which Mrs. Rewitt had given her.

The landlord went through the chalks twice, and finally announced that Jerry was indebted to him to the amount of two pounds seventeen shillings and four pence halfpenny. Jerry's wife received the announcement with a look of quiet dismay, thanked the landlord, and left the house.

For a whole week nothing was seen or heard of Jerry, but at the end of that time his wife appeared and put down five shillings on the counter.

"Will you please take that off the account, sir," she said, "and give me a receipt?"

This was done with a gracious smile, and Jerry's wife departed. Mr. Rewitt announced his having hit the right nail on the head. The wife of the cobbler was making an effort to clear off her husband's debt.

At the end of another week a second five shillings was paid, and then harvest came on. All the little tradesmen in the city were busy, and even Jerry was reported to be full handed. But he did not come near "The Oram Arms" for drink.

On the third week Jerry's wife brought ten shillings, and on the fourth fifteen, to the great joy and satisfaction of Mr. Rewitt, whose joy, however, was alloyed by the fear that he had lost a good customer. He resolved to look up Jerry as soon as another instalment of his account was paid.

Nothing was brought for a fortnight, and the landlord congratulated himself upon not having hastily sought out his absent customer, who still owed him over a pound; but the appearance of Jerry's wife with the balance had the effect of making him think otherwise. There was no display in putting down the money—it was quietly done—but the happy light in the woman's eyes as she took the receipt spoke more than mere words or actions.

"I have been hasty with Jerry," said Mr. Rewitt, when another whole month had elapsed, without Jerry appearing; "he promised to pay at harvest time, and he did it; but I have offended him, and 'The Green Goose' has caught his custom."

"Go and see him," suggested his wife.

"I intend to do so. Here, give me our Tom's boots; they want a patch on the side, and it will be an excuse for my dropping in upon him."

"That isn't too much of a job for him, seeing that you give George Stevens the best of the work," said Mrs. Rewitt.

"That's true; but I've got a pair of boots that want new fronts, and I can wait a week or two. Take them."

"I'll take both," said Richard Rewitt, "nothing like baiting your hook well while you are about it."

Armed for the reconquest of Jerry, the landlord set forth in the morning—that being a slack time when he could be easily spared from home. Outside were a couple of loafers, with no money and no credit, who touched their hats to him. Mr. Rewitt favored them with a nod of lofty indifference.

Jerry's cottage was in the middle of the village, standing back about fifty feet from the road; and although the inside poverty had been well known, the outside, thanks to his wife, looked quite as well as its neighbors. Therefore Mr. Rewitt was not in the least surprised to see it look bright and gay on that beautiful autumn morning.

As he approached the door he heard the sound of Jerry's hammer on the lapstone, and to his utter amazement, the voice of Jerry carroling a cheerful ditty, as unlike the cracked efforts he used occasionally to come out with in the tap room as the song of the thrush is to the hoarse note of the raven. Raising the latch, the landlord of "The Oram Arms" peeped in.

"Good morning, Jerry," he said.

"Ah! is that you, Mr. Rewitt?" replied Jerry, looking up. "Come in."

Jerry looked wondrous clean, and had even been shaved that very morning. His blue shirt looked clean, too, and he actually had a collar on. Mr. Rewitt was struck dumb by the change that he stood still with the latch under his hand, forgetting that there formed part of his mission.

"You look very well, Jerry," he said at last.

"Never felt better in all my life," replied Jerry. "I wish, sir, I could say the same of you. You look whitish."

"I've got a bit of a cold," replied the other, "and I've been shut up a good deal with business lately. Trade's been rough, but how is it we have not seen you?"

"Well, the fact is, sir," said Jerry, thoughtfully, rubbing his chin, "I've been busy working off your score."

"But it is done, man," said Mr. Rewitt, cheerfully, "the door is quite clean as far as you are concerned."

"I am glad of that."

"Others have got their share," said the landlord facetiously. "Mr. I think we could make room for you, if you look up."

"No, thanks, sir," returned Jerry. "I've had enough of chalking on other people's doors, and now I chalks on my own."

"Chalks on your own?"

"Yes, sir, have the goodness to turn around and look behind you. There's my door half full."

"It's a wise thing to keep account your self," said the landlord who hardly knew what to make of it, "for mistakes will happen, but—"

"No mistake can happen, sir," interrupted Jerry, "for I am the only party as keeps that account."

"But who trusts you to do that?"

"Nobody—I trusts myself," replied Jerry. "The marks that were on your door showed what I did drink, and them marks on mine show what I don't drink."

A little light had got into the landlord's brain, and he had a pretty good idea of what was coming, but he said nothing.

"That night when you spoke to me about the chalks on the door being a standing disgrace to me, was the night of my waking," continued Jerry. "No man could have lectured me better than you did, and I thank you for it from the bottom of my heart. As I left your house I vowed never to touch drink no more, and I came home and told my wife so, and we both joined in earnest prayer that I might have strength to keep my vow. The next morning I went over to George Stevens and asked him how I could go about signing the pledge. He helped me like a man and it was done."

With his eyes wandering to and fro between Jerry and the chalks upon the door, the amazed landlord still remained silent. Jerry went on:

"My wife wanted to work herself to death to keep me," he said, "but I said, No. You do what you can to keep the children until my debts are paid, and then I'll keep you and the children, too." So I went to work, paying right and left, and when all was paid off, I began to do what I ought to have done years ago—feed my wife and children. I had enough and to spare, and I would have spent some with you. And many's the time I have been tempted to come—and I'm tempted still; but when the feeling comes over me I has a drink of water or a cup of tea, put twopence into a box I've got on purpose, and scores a chalk on the door. All of them chalks are so many temptations and so many twopences saved."

Mr. Rewitt was still unable to make any particular remark: but he murmured in a confused manner, "You've got a lot of 'em."

"Yes; there's a large family," replied Jerry, complacently, "and the more I looks at 'em the better I likes 'em. There's not much standing disgrace about that lot; credit, if anything."

"Oh! yes—yes," returned the landlord; "but—dear me—this cold in my head is quite distressing. You must have a large box for all your twopences."

"When I get six together I takes them off to the post-office," replied Jerry; "there's a bank there better than any till. Tills give nothing out, but banks like that returns more than you put in. Until I began to keep my own chalks I had no idea how much your till swallowed up. You would not trust me for a pint; but I can have my money out of a bank whenever I want it."

"That's something," said Mr. Rewitt, tartly.

"It is everything to a man who has a wife and children to keep," replied Jerry. "The best of us have sickness and trouble and rainy days, and then it's a great thing to have something to fall back upon. It is better to be able to keep yourself than to go to the parish. There's another thing, too, about these chalks of mine—yours went down before my wife and children were fed; mine go down after that's done; and I think that my chalks are the better of the two. So I says to all, 'Chalk your own door.'"

Mr. Rewitt had nothing to say; he could not deny and he would not admit it, but took refuge like other beaten men—in flight. With the boots under his arm he hastened home, and presented himself before his wife in a rather excited condition.

"What is the matter, Richard?" she asked.

"Nothing particular," he replied, except that Jerry Muddler has joined the temperance lot, and he seems so firm in it, that I don't believe he will ever touch a drop again."

Mr. Richard Rewitt, of "The Oram Arms," was right. And Jerry, who bears the name of Muddler no longer, but is called by that to which he is entitled by right of birth, viz., that of Marden, has not touched a drop of strong drink from the day of his reformation to this. His door has been filled again and again with the score which he records in his own favor and the beer he has not drank is everywhere around him in the form of a comfortable home, a respectable amount in the savings bank, and a goodly investment in a building society. Verbum sat sapienti, which being freely interpreted means, "A word to you, my reader, is sufficient"—"Chalk your own door."—British Workmen.

CITY HOTEL,

PRINCESS STREET,

Arch. McFaul, Proprietor,

LATE R. A. IRWIN.

THE House has been lately refitted and refurnished throughout, possesses superior accommodation for the travelling public. The management of the Proprietor whose experience has extended several years, will in no small degree add to the comfort and convenience of guests.

The commodious and well lighted Sample Rooms attached afford excellent accommodation for the requirements of Commercial men.

The Bar will at all times be supplied with choicest Liquors and Cigars. The central location of the city, together with the moderate rates charged, will, I trust, secure a large share of public patronage.

T. Rigney's Livery is in connection with the Hotel, where good horses and vehicles are always on hand at lowest rates.

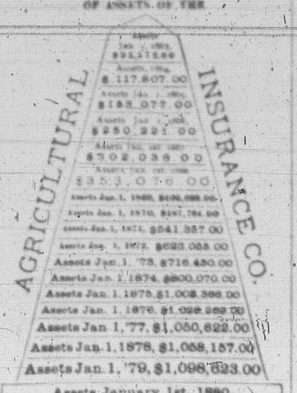
PYRAMID

OF ASSETS OF THE



Assets January 1st, 1880,

$1,137,549.00

Capital, $200,000. Net Surplus $230,185 81.

THE ATTENTION of owners of Farm Property and Residences is invited to the above Pyramid, showing the uniform and sure growth, during the last seventeen of its 27 years of existence, of a fire insurance company whose charter limits its business to their class of property—the Agricultural Insurance Company, of Watertown, N.Y. The figures represent the amount set apart at the dates given for the PROTECTION OF POLICY HOLDERS.

Twenty-seven years of patient toil has made this the strongest and largest Company doing an exclusive Dwelling Business in the United States, if not in the world. It now issues 45,000 policies a year. No other like Company can show such growth and increase.

The history of this Company proves that A LARGE business, well scattered, managed with prudence, can be done with a very small profit from each risk, and afford perfect security, which will grow stronger every year.

While nine-tenths of the "Mutual" fire insurance companies, and many of the Stock companies, have failed on account of reckless or extravagant management, or doing too small a business, the OLD AGRICULTURAL, by economy, energy and prudence, has every year added a substantial amount to its Assets, for the indemnity of its patrons, and now occupies a position in the confidence of the public second to no other Company.

From year to year it spreads the base of its Pyramid, giving strength.

EXTRACT FROM CHARTER.—"Article 2. This Company is formed for the purpose of insuring Farmers' Dwellings, Private Residences, Barns and Outbuildings, with their contents, and other property not more hazardous," and is strictly confined to this class of property.

PEPPER'S REMEDIES.

PEPPER'S QUININE AND IRON TONIC contains an universal amount of quinine and iron. It possesses all the powers of those valuable tonics in banishing diseases and symptoms traceable to weakness, a low state of the nervous system, impoverished condition of the body, and derangement of the general health.

PEPPER'S QUININE AND IRON TONIC strengthens the nervous and muscular system, improves digestion, animates the spirits, recruits the health. For debilitated health from the effect of hot climates this tonic is invaluable.

PEPPER'S QUININE AND IRON TONIC rouses and develops the nervous energies, enriches the blood, promotes appetite, dispels languor and depression, fortifies the digestive organs. It is a specific remedy for neuralgia, ague, indigestion, fevers of every kind, chest affections, and in wasting diseases, scrofulous tendencies, &c. The whole frame is greatly invigorated by Pepper's Tonic, the mental faculties brightened, the constitution greatly strengthened, and a return to robust health certain. Bottles, 32 doses, 4s 6d; next size, 11s. Sold by chemists everywhere. The name of Dr. Pepper, Bedford Laboratory, London, must be on the label. There is no Tonic so certain in effect as Pepper's Quinine and Iron. It is strongly recommended to residents in India and the Colonies, and should always be kept ready for use in every case of fever or febrile condition.

PARAXACUM AND PODOPHYLLIN. Prepared only by J. Pepper, London. This Fluid combination, extracted from medicinal roots, is now used instead of blue pill and calomel for the cure of dyspepsia, biliousness, and all symptoms of congestion of the liver, which are generally pain beneath the shoulders, head-ache, drowsiness, no appetite, furred tongue, disagreeable taste in the morning, giddiness, disturbance of the stomach, and feeling of general depression. It sets the sluggish liver in motion, very slightly acts on the bowels, giving a sense of health and comfort within 24 hours. It is the safest medicine. Paraxacum and Podophyllin is a fluid made only by J. Pepper, Bedford Laboratory, London, whose name is on every label. Bottles, 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Sold by all chemists. A most valuable and essential medicine for India, Australia, the Cape and colonies generally.

LOCKYER'S SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER will darken gray hair, and in a few days completely bring back the natural colour. The effect is superior to that produced by an instantaneous dye, and does not injure the skin. Large bottles, 3s. 6d.—Lockyer's is equal to the most expensive hair restorer.

LOCKYER'S SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER is the best for restoring grey hair to its former colour. It produces a perfectly natural shade and is absolutely harmless. Recommended for destroying scurf and encouraging growth of new hair.

LOCKYER'S SULPHUR HAIR RESTORER. Sulphur being highly prized for its stimulant, cleansing, healthful action on the hair glands—LOCKYER'S RESTORER is strongly recommended. It is most agreeable in use, and never fails in its action on the colour glands, always restoring and maintaining that which has been lost. No other hair dressing is requisite. Large bottles, 3s. 6d. Sold by chemists, hairdressers and perfumers in London, the country, and throughout the year. Lockyer's is equal to any of the high priced preparations.

LIVER COMPLAINTS.

DR. KING'S DANDELION AND QUININE LIVER PILLS (without mercury) THE BEST REMEDY FOR BILIOUSNESS, STOMACH DERANGEMENT, FLATULENCE. Pains between the Shoulders, bad Appetite, Indigestion, Acidity, Headache, Heartburn, and all other symptoms of disordered Liver and Dyspepsia. Acknowledged by many eminent surgeons to be the safest and mildest Pills for every constitution. In boxes at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d. and 4s. 6d. Sold by all chemists and medicine vendors throughout the world. Prepared by Jas. Roike, London. Specially valuable Pills for residents abroad and travellers.
