HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

This standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

Dr. A. A. Hayes, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says of it: "I consider it the best preparation for its intended purposes."

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE,

For the Whiskers.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, as directed. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color which will neither rub nor wash off.

GREENFIELD AGAIN.

He is Once More Sentenced to Death A Remarkable Case.

On Tuesday the Court of Appeals of N. Y. State handed down a judgment in the Orlando Greenfield case. Every decision in the courts below has been affirmed, and the case has been remanded back to the General Term for re-sentence of the prisoner. The only loop hole now left for him is a commutation of his sentence by Governor Cornell and that the Governor will change the decision of the Court of Appeals is not at all probable. The murder for which Greenfield has been on trial and in the courts for the past five years was that of his wife, and was committed at Orwell, Oswego county, October 21, 1875. We give a list of the proceedings in this remarkable case:

Greenfield was indicted by the grand jury of Oswego in December, 1875.

The first trial began at Oswego, May 29, 1876, and was concluded June 30th in a disagreement of the jury.

Second trial at Oswego: Begun February 13th, 1877; ended March 5th. Greenfield was convicted and sentenced to be hanged May 11th following.

A stay was granted and an appeal taken to the general term which affirmed the conviction January 23rd, 1878.

Greenfield was re-sentenced; date of execution fixed March 22nd, 1878.

Appeal was taken to the court of appeals and the court September 26, 1878, granted a new trial.

In October 1878, Judge Merwin granted a change of venue to Onondaga county.

Third trial began September 15, 1879, and ended October 16th following. Greenfield was again convicted and sentenced to be hanged Dec. 12, 1879.

Through respites by Governors Robinson and Cornell the day of the execution was postponed, first until Jan. 30, 1880; 2nd until Feb. 27th, 1880; 3d until April 23d.

On April 20th, 1880, Judge Merwin granted a stay of proceedings and the case was again taken to the general term which handed down a decision on December 31st, 1880, affirming the conviction. Green was re-sentenced Jan. 10th, to hang Feb. 17th, 1881.

Jan. 18th, Judge Merwin granted a stay and the case was again taken to the court of appeals, which has reaffirmed the decisions.—Despatch.

A BUSINESS WOMAN.

A Faithful Record of Her Marriage Offers and Attending Circumstances.

Few men are willing to grant women the credit of having any business tact, or of doing business in a business way, but they must come down in the case of the Detroit widow whose personal effects are now being overhauled by an administrator. She made no will, but the private papers in her desk explained all that. The first paper in the bundle was endorsed:

"Offer of marriage from Mr. M——. Respectfully declined, on the ground of his stoop-shoulders and defective vision. Contents private."

The next paper was endorsed:

"Schedule B, showing that I have just enough to bury me."

A dainty looking epistle bore the endorsement in red ink:

"Number 'G'—Conditional offer of marriage from Mr. S——, declined with thanks."

A bill sent from a millinery house bore the following in pencil:

"Paid the within in presence of the cook the day Mr. G——called and offered me his hand and heart; parlor stove fell down same day."

A bill of $28.38, sent from a grocery house, was endorsed:

"Settled the within for $25, as I had never had the sardines as charged. Paid the money the day the cook fell down stairs. Rejected Mr. B's offer to wed him just before the bill came in."

An official envelope containing several papers was marked:

"Various epistles hinting at marriage; orthography generally poor; grammar terrible; construction very bad. Answered each one kindly but firmly."

A pink-coloured letter without envelope was marked:

"Gushing offer of marriage from young Mr. Y——. Ink very poor, and no pathos in his expressions. This in his second direct offer. Declined on the ground of his youth."

A bill for $7, balance due on a cloak, was filed:

"Paid this, after a sharp dispute, in the presence of Sarah, who hurt her nose the same day. Mr. L—— was in the parlor at the time. Proposed before he left; gently but firmly declined the offer on account of his deafness."

RACQUITTE DANCE.

Just too Lovely for Anything, and Awful Easy to Learn.

We saw the racquette the other night says a neighboring paper; it is a lovely dance. The attitudes and motions of the dancers are exercuciating. No, wonder it is such a favorite among the young ladies and gentlemen of high moral proclivities. It is just too lovely for anything and is easy to learn. And it is so appropriately named, although mispelled. It goes on in the following style: The lady and gentleman stand facing each other, quite close together. The gentleman's right arm is delicately placed around the lady's waist, his left hand clutching her right index finger, while her left hand is placed on his right shoulder. Finally the fiddles, after a few see saws, strike up: "A dog ate rye straw, rye straw; a dog ate rye straw, etc." At the sound of "dog" the dancers jump off to the gentleman's left two jumps, as though the "dog" were biting them from the rear, and they in their efforts to escape were trying to dodge past each other, but couldn't. After the two jumps to the lady's left and thus backward and forward, keeping their feet and knees rigidly in the above position all the time; but with limber knee and hip joints they make a graceful swinging motion up and down to the time of the music. When the music stops a moment the dancers stop, and then at the sound of "dog" they both swing off again, and repeat the manœuvre over and over until both become exhausted, the fiddles stop, and they sink into seats in a perfect perspiration of rapture. That's the racquette. Oh, it is just too jolly, but it cannot be appreciated until seen. Seeing is all that is required to make one enamored, and fall into hysterical ecstacies over it. "We tumble to the racquitte."

Holloway's Ointment and Pills.

Dropsical Swellings.—Whatever may be the remote cause of collections of water in the human body it must be prudent to disperse them as soon as possible. The readiest means of accomplishing this end are supplied by using Holloway's Ointment, to increase the activity of the absorbents. When this Ointment is well rubbed upon the skin it removes all venous congestion, overcomes all mechanical obstruction to the free return of the blood, and prevents the deposit of serum and water. Holloway's Pills likewise augment this absorbing power; they act powerfully on the capillaries through the circulation, while this Ointment acts directly through the skin. Both should be employed in dropsies and diseases of the kidney.

PEARMONT uses "TEABERRY," the new toilet gem to beautify the teeth—to sweeten the mouth and breath—delightfully refreshing. Emphatic testimony of its superior excellence—try it. Price 25c. Sample packages five cents.

FOR RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA, AFFECTIONS.—Bathe the parts affected freely with Perry Davis' Pain-Killer, well rubbed in, till the pain is relieved.

VANDERBILT'S PROJECT.

Ocean Steamers to Come Through the Welland Canal, Reid Says.

The Buffalo Telegraph contains an account of W. H. Vanderbilt's visit to that city on last Thursday, and his new transportation project. The origin of the latter dates back to the time when the Dominion Parliament passed the act for the Welland ship canal. Vanderbilt then, like Gould and many others, saw that there was to be a revolution in the eastern railway business on foreign bound freight. He watched the building of the Welland ship canal, and the attempts in Congress for the building of a Niagara ship canal on United States soil, with interest. The latter failed. The former was rapidly pushed on by the thrifty and far-sighted Canadians until now it is nearing completion. Vanderbilt reasoned like this: Through foreign freight is bound to go by this new water way without breaking bulk from the great lakes to European ports. The loss of this through freight to the railways will at once diminish their receipts beyond the profitable point. "I'll unload." Jay Gould saw the same inevitable result. From that day until this Gould and Vanderbilt, although fighting on minor things, have been working their vast interests in unison. They both have largely unloaded their railway stock, and both, but Gould especially has made immense railway purchases in the north and west. Last year W. H. Vanderbilt went to Europe to contract for the building of a line of inland lake-ocean steamers. Those steamers are now being constructed at the yard in Glasgow. They are of a size just small enough to permit them to pass through the Welland ship canal, and are being constructed principally for freight purposes, although each will be fitted to accommodate a fair number of passengers. They are to be of first-class build, fleet and seaworthy. At the time the boats were ordered it was generally understood that they should sail from Cleveland, but Buffalo is now proposed as the terminus.

Hanlan's Secret Discovered.

Horace J. Wilder, a member of the Lourion Rowing Club, makes known an accidental discovery by which he claims Hanlan has been enabled to defeat his many competitors. The arrangement consists in the use of four brass wheels about three inches in diameter which are attached to the keel of his boat. Mr. Wilder explains its working in this way: "The moment he slides down for the stroke the wheels commence to revolve with lightning rapidity and help him along wonderfully. The great gain, however, is in the recovery, for as he slides back for the stroke the wheels keep working and the boat retains her headway. In this way he gains probably a foot, or perhaps more, on each stroke, and it is easy to calculate how much more powerfully his antagonist must row to keep up with him. This explains why all the men Hanlan rows with are exhausted in the first mile.

That Summer Tour.

Tourists who wish to see one of the rarest shows in the world should sail for the Sandwich Islands this season. Manna Loa, the greatest of active volcanoes, has been in eruption since last October, and may continue its unique exhibition throughout the year. There are now six craters active. The chief one throws out occasionally a stupendous mass of flame 600 feet in altitude. Several of the rivers of lava are five or six miles wide, and these actually form cascades, and in some instances are so voluminous as to run up hill. The lava has also forced its way through subterranean outlets, and tumbles with a hissing, roaring sound into the sea.
