REMINDERS.

MONDAY.

CITY COUNCIL—Regular meeting at 8 p.m.

CITY AND VICINITY.

PROBS.—Lakes and St. Lawrence moderate northwesterly to northerly winds, fair and slightly cooler weather.

SWIMMERS OFFENDING.—Yesterday afternoon P. C. Jimmy Nesbitt "nabbed" four boys who were caught swimming at Murney's tower. They will probably be summoned before the Court.

ORDINATION.—An ordination service will be held in St. Mary's Cathedral next Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. This will be the first ordination held by Bishop Cleary since his appointment to the Episcopacy.

EXCURSION FROM BELLEVILLE.—On the 20th the Sons of St. Patrick, Belleville, will have an excursion to Channel Grove, where a junction will be formed with the sister societies of Kingston and Portsmouth.

PREPARING THE WAY.—This morning the workmen began preparations for a second track to be laid along the market esplanade. Crib work will be put in near the slip on the west side of Richardson & Sons' warehouse.

LACROSSE MATCH.—The Intelligencer says the Kingston club want to get on a match with the Belleville club, but has not issued a challenge yet. The Intelligencer man has not consulted the advertising columns of the WHIG.

ASSAULT.—This morning a Division Court bailiff had a citizen before the Police Court charged with obstructing him in his discharge of duty. Mr. Gardiner attempted to make a seizure, but was prevented by defendant. The charge was proven and a fine of $2 and costs inflicted. It was paid.

CAMPING OUT.—A camp of the members of St. George's Society is proposed for Saturday next on Gates' Point, Howe Island, to last for several days. The ferry steamer passes up every morning and down in the evening. A large camp of New Yorkers is located in the same place.

LAW RESPECTING BATHING.—It would be a good idea to publish an official notice of the hours at which public bathing can be done. The young people are ignorant of the law on the subject. As the holidays are about to begin there is no doubt that the boys will be frequent offenders unless they are made aware of the law.

A SAD SCENE.—The Tamworth Echo reports that a fearful row occurred recently between two men, originating in a difference of opinion as to who should bear the expenses of burying the corpse of the wife of one and the mother of the other. The statement of our contemporary displays an amount of meanness and depravity such as is seldom surpassed.

ART SCHOOL.—On Saturday a meeting of those favorable to the establishment of an art school was held at Halifax. His Excellency the Governor General attended. The Mayor said he thought the school would be largely attended, as was shown by the success of the Technological Institute, which was taught by Prof. Forshaw Day before he was captured by the wily people of the upper provinces and transferred to Kingston.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE BOYNE.—The Orangemen, Prentice Boys and others will observe the 12th of July by a parade which, in the city, however, will be only such as can be made from the place of meeting to the K. & P. RR. depot, as the demonstration proper takes place at Harrowsmith. A prominent feature of the day's proceedings will be the presentation of a set of silver to that much honoured leader of the Order, Mr. John Flanigan.

INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATION.—This afternoon the Intermediate examination began in the City Hall. There were forty-three candidates present. Of these only seven were males, some of them very young. The females present monopolized thirty six seats, the majority of them belonging to the city. They included many who had written in previous examinations and failed. After locating the various candidates Inspector Kidd addressed them, reading and explaining the rules by which they were to be governed.

WEATHER PROGNOSTICATIONS.—Moses Oates has been having a corner in the weather market for the past few days. His prognostications have been fulfilled during the past week. To-day he said that probably about the 15th or 16th there will be hurricanes, followed later by cooler weather, but during the last of this month another warm spell will set in and continue during August. About the 30th of August there will be rain. He asserts that it is hard to judge the weather for any length of time ahead.

Design in Nature.

Mr. Allen Pringle, of Selby, was severely criticized by the Christian Guardian and Christian Advocate upon his pamphlet in defence of his brother atheist, Robert Ingersoll, against Rev. Mr. Wendling. He has published in pamphlet form his reply to each of these religious criticisms, having quite properly been refused the use of their columns. The discussion has turned upon the subject of design in nature, and while we could never tolerate Mr. Pringle's views we cannot but admire his cool, argumentative mode of debate. It is unfortunate that one of the Christian disputants has shewn an opposite spirit by adding abuse to argument, giving Mr. Pringle an opportunity for reproof.

CHARCOAL WORKS.

A Description of the New Industry—What [illegible] Outlook.

This morning we were shown the plans of the new charcoal works to be erected at Sharbot Lake on the Garrett property, which lies between the mills of Messrs. Doran and Thompson. Sharbott Lake bounds the property on one side, and on the other side, between the land and the K. & P. RR., there is a shallow swamp with solid bottom which can be easily filled. The ground rises to an elevation of 45 feet. At the highest point will be located the saw mill, by which the wood will be cut into the desired lengths. A tramway will connect the mill with the retorts. The charcoal as it comes from the retorts, on a lower level, will be taken by tramway to the charcoal works, where it is proposed to smelt the iron ore. If it is found necessary to ship the charcoal by train, a tramway will be constructed to connect with the K. & P. RR. so that the charcoal can be dumped from the tram cars into the ordinary freight cars rapidly and with despatch. The arrangement of the works reflects credit upon the designer, Mr. S. D. Mills. Throughout the entire process of charcoal making there will be no hoisting necessary except in the case of the wood that arrives by scows from along Sharbott Lake. A tramway will run to the water edge and the wood will then be drawn to the highest level by an endless cable. If the saw mill cannot cut the wood as fast as it is delivered it can be taken out upon a tramway and conducted to the piling ground, which is in the rear of the mill. During the winter the wood delivered by sleighs will be taken immediately to the piling grounds. The property consists of twenty acres. It is admirably suited for the purpose for which it has been purchased.

A telegram from Oswego announces that the plates for the seven retorts ordered have been shipped on the schr. "Jessie Macdonald" and will arrive here probably this evening. The sample retort is already here, we believe. Messrs. D. McEwen & Son have the contract for setting up the retorts. The directors intend to go out on Wednesday to inspect the land. The foundation of the new works will be begun as soon as possible. The size of the buildings to be erected we cannot give at present as such is now under the consideration of the directors.

WIND WAFTS.

From Various Sources and on a Variety of Minor Themes.

—The Napanee Express will re appear this week.

—The police are greatly pleased with their new helmets.

—The camp ground is receiving all its old and many new visitors.

—Several small boys did considerable fighting in the cricket field yesterday.

—The Kingston cricketers play the Yorkville club on Wednesday. Wickets pitched at 11 a.m.

—Frog suppers are the great luxury at Belleville. By them the tastes of the people may be judged.

—Ice! Ice! exclaimed the citizen having been informed that the weather was becoming hotter.

—The wharf for the K. & P. RR., in Cataraqui Bay, looks substantial. Rails will be laid upon it before long.

—Two bibulists appeared at the police court this morning. One was discharged. The other paid $2 and costs.

—The thermometer yesterday registered 82° in the shade and 92° in the sun. And the people groaned and sweltered.

—Fifes and drums are being resurrected for to-morrow. Old Sam had a band performing at his house this morning.

—The public school examinations were continued to-day. In point of public interest they did not reach expectations.

—A good many made the hot weather an excuse for absenting themselves from church yesterday. Sermons were generally briefer than usual.

—This afternoon the second of the converted engines of the Northern and North-Wetern RR. was sent out from the Locomotive Works. The repairs have been thorough.

—Complaint is again made about the dilatoriness of the post office officials in distributing the American mail. The public is certainly not being accommodated.

—The Methodist Sabbath School scholars picnic on Friday afternoon at Channel Grove. The Congregational Sabbath School children have their outing on Thursday at the same place.

—The upper part of the city is frequently stirred with sensational stories. The latest to-day was that the President was delirious and fast sinking. The WHIG bulletin corrected the statement.

Narrow Escape.

Bishop Cleary had a very narrow escape from injury on Friday last at the Grand Trunk station, Brockville. The afternoon train was two hours and a half late, and the Bishop, says the Recorder, finding this to be the case, returned to town to wait its arrival. On returning to the depot, the train was just about to start, and by the time he reached the platform, the cars were actually in motion. The Bishop made a run to catch the iron rail, but did not succeed in securing a proper footing on the car, and his robe was nearly caught in the wheel. At this juncture, Mr. J. McGovern, road master, who stood near by, grasped the Bishop, and by the aid of some persons on the platform of the car the Bishop was drawn up from his perilous position, and his life and limbs saved from destruction.

Personal Mention.

Rev. Mr. Short, of Walkerton, and Rev. Mr. Poole, of the Anglican diocese, without appointment at present, are in the city.

On Saturday the Bishop of Ohio reached here, accompanied by his invalid wife, en route to the camp ground. He was asked to preach in St. George's Cathedral, and delivered an eloquent sermon, an outline of which we present on the first page.

HONOR TO CANADA.

A Kingstonian's Success in England—Promoted [illegible] Insurance Company.

We observe in a recent issue of the Spectator—a New York insurance journal—a reference to an old Kingstonian, Mr. S. F. Magurn, who has achieved success in England on the staff of the Royal Insurance Company; and we know his many friends in Canada will be glad to learn that he has won new laurels in Old England. Thus another of Canada's sons has come to the front and proves what enterprise and energy can accomplish, and a fresh example is furnished to those who have the genius to succeed if they dare but venture.

Mr. Magurn was born and educated in Kingston, and is the second son of our worthy and esteemed citizen, Mr. Alex. Magurn, who has recently, on his retirement from civil service, removed to Toronto. The father has gained an honorable reputation and won the esteem and respect of all who knew him by a long and faithful discharge of his duties as a civil servant of the Government, and the example thus set is being worthily followed by his sons.

NOT AN "IMPORTED" ARTICLE.

In the reference to Mr. S. F. Magurn by the London correspondent of the Journal referred to, it is stated that Mr. M. was "imported" by the Royal, but we are in a position to contradict this, as we know the gentleman went to England entirely on his own account and without having so much as written a single line to any one in the old country on the subject of his enterprise. We learned, from his own lips at the time, three years ago, that he visited England for the purpose of introducing an insurance work which he had actively and successfully pushed throughout Canada and the United States, and one which was highly appreciated both there and here. Succeeding or failing in this project, he designed extending his insurance knowledge by forming a connection with some English company. We do not know how far, if at all, he succeeded in the former, but we knew he has gained an excellent position with the Royal Insurance Company, and we had the pleasure of a call from him last summer on his way through from Toronto where he had been visiting his family. We gather from the article alluded to that

HE HAS REMOVED TO LONDON.

We commend his judgment, and three years of service in such a large and powerful company will have served to enlarge his experience and increase his knowledge of the profession he has chosen. We hope, however, Mr. Magurn will not forget the land of his birth. Canada can ill afford to lose her sons, or such of them as worthily represent her, and who could materially add to her prosperity; and while we are willing to lend the mother country for a time the energy of our young blood, we cannot be content to spare them altogether, nor can we help expressing the hope that Mr. Magurn will one day return to his place amongst us. Meantime we are sure his numerous friends will join with us in wishing him continued prosperity.

The Poetic Craze.

All men and women are not poets. One must have natural endowments enriched by careful culture ere he can write his thoughts in graceful verse. We are convinced that some have mistaken their literary ability when they laboured to produce poetic effusions which have been wholly devoid of merit. Could such writers only see themselves as others see them they would spare us the frequent unpleasantness of having to reject their contributions. On Saturday we received two poems which we were requested to print, "having sympathy with a poor fellow creature's first attempt." We have sympathised with the author; and his sister will thank us for suppressing what was intended in one case to be a compliment to her, but which fearfully burlesques her characteristics, as will be perceived by the following stanzas:

She's her father's pet and her mother's darling,
While at me they're always snarling
She can manufacture pies, and tell in what clime it grows;
She can scrub, play the piano,
And sing soprano through her nose.

Take my warning, don't go near her, for with her pretty coquettish ways,
Your mind she would bewilder and your brain completely craze.
If you would offer hand and fortune her answer would be "No, sah
I appreciate your honor, but I cannot leave my pa."

Death of an Old Friend.

Captain Talbot, well known to many of the older citizens of Kingston, died a few days ago at Picton. He was at one time a captain in the service of the late Overton S. Gildersleeve, and was well known to the people along the bay. Mr. Talbot became a resident of Picton in the year 1836, and in 1837 saw service in the rebellion, taking rank as lieutenant in a company of volunteers. This company marched on foot to Toronto, were sworn in, and immediately thereafter were sent to Niagara, and during the entire winter were away in the western part of the province on duty. It was composed of volunteers from Picton and surrounding townships. Capt. Talbot subsequently removed to Chicago, where he lived some 16 or 17 years. About a month ago he returned to Picton, says the Gazette, but was soon taken ill, his ailment terminating fatally.

New Picnic Grounds.

The pic-nic committee of St. George's Society visited the grove of Mr. Gates, near the head of Howe Island, on Saturday, with a view to leasing or purchasing it. The party were carried down in the steam yacht "Stella." They found a good wharf already built and a fine section of bush well cleared. In a few days Mr. Gates will erect a dancing platform, booths, swings, &c., and then will have a beautiful pic-nic ground. There are thirty acres of grove, with high and ample foliage upon this point; so that there is plenty of room, with wide water front, for the largest pic-nic. A more beautiful spot, or a cooler one could not be found near Kingston for a mass gathering, and probably St. George's pic-nic will be located there this year. It can be reached within forty-five minutes by steamer.

KINGSTON COTTON MILL.

Meeting to Discuss the Bonus By-law—[illegible]—Lively Opposition.

On Saturday a meeting of the shareholders and friends of the cotton mill was announced to take place, and at 8 o'clock proceedings were commenced in the Council Chamber. Chief among those in attendance (the number being smaller than was reasonably to be expected) were Messrs. J. Richardson, J. Minnes, P. R. Henderson, B. M. Britton, J. B. Carruthers, P. Brown, J. H. Metcalfe, W. Nicol, W. Harty, J. L. Whiting, the Mayor, Ald. Smythe and others.

A NEED FOR ACTION.

Mr. Britton earnestly impressed upon those present the necessity of united and vigorous action in order to succeed. He pointed out that as the law now stood to carry a by-law like that of the cotton mill it would have to be supported by a majority of the qualified electors, which was an almost impossible thing. He stated that in all probability the case would have been more assuring had a commencement not been made upon the building; but the work was now in progress, an indication that the cotton mill would go on whether the by-law was carried or not. The by-law was viewed with apparent apathy or indifference, and under the circumstances its endorsement by the people seemed to be a hopeless contingency. The shareholders could not vote, but it would be a lawful transaction and commendable on their part to see that all the electors who favorably regarded the by-law recorded their votes. He commented (as in his letter in the WHIG of Saturday evening) upon the light burden which the by-law would impose in the shape of increased taxation. The sacrifice would be very light. The freeholders and long leaseholders—those entitled to vote—numbered, he understood, about 1,000. No abstract principle was at stake. The bonus system was generally in vogue, and Kingston could not repudiate it. He was satisfied that if the electors fully understood the matter they would vote for the by-law.

SHAREHOLDERS' VOTES NOT COUNTED.

In answer to the Chairman (Mr. Richardson) Mr. Britton said the shareholders could not vote, nor would they be counted as against the by-law when the number of unpolled votes were taken into account.

REMARKS OF THE MAYOR.

The Mayor, by request, made a few observations. He said that as soon as the company had secured its charter it had secured on its property exemption from taxation for ten years, and the bonus by-law was placed before the people. He was confident that if the ratepayers passed it the Council would give it a third reading. So far he had to act as an arbiter between those for the by-law and those against it. He was anxious that a fair vote upon the by-law should be recorded if possible. If the company desired to carry the by-law the members of it would have to work hard for it.

A POINT RAISED.

The Chairman—Has the Council power to refuse to pass the by-law a third time if the people pass it?

The Mayor—No Council, I presume, would go against the expressed will of the people.

Mr. Metcalfe thought the by-law could be carried, all the machinery usual in elections being put into operation.

REACHING PRACTICAL EFFECTS.

Mr. Britton said the members of the company should aim to have 100 votes polled in each ward. That would give a majority.

The outlook was discussed at further length, and then practical effects were reached in the appointment of a number of gentleman who were to interest themselves to-day in having the ballot used on behalf of the by-law.

PROGRESS OF THE BALLOTING.

The voting on the by-law began this morning sharp at 9 o'clock, and proceeded quietly throughout the entire day, in fact so quietly in some places that one would not perceive that any unusual occurrence was transpiring. It was the prevailing opinion that the by-law would be defeated. This became more apparent when at noon it was found that but a small proportion of the votes had been recorded. In St. Lawrence Ward at 12 o'clock only 19 votes were on record. The directors and stockholders of the cotton company worked industriously, but could not influence the voters to go to the polls. There were plenty of promises but few votes.

Prof. Watson's Book.

Prof. J. Clark Murray, of McGill University, (formerly of Queen's) writes most favourably to the Canadian Spectator, respecting Prof. Watson's new philosophical work. He says, that in a polemical aspect the book, is likely to become acceptable to a large number of readers. Many English students of Kant are greatly perplexed at first, by the attempt to construe the relation in which the great German stands to the school of thought represented most fully at the present day by Mr. Herbert Spencer. Prof. Watson's style exhibits generally an unusual skill in luminous statement as well as in driving an argument home.

The College of Ottawa.

The prospectus of this institution of the Oblate Fathers of Mary Immaculate has been sent to us. Though its graduates so far are few in number it is evidently destined to do a large college work, having full university powers for conferring the degrees of M.A., B.A., B.Sc., etc. The staff is one of the largest ever attached to a Canadian college, the fees are very moderate, the curriculum of a high standard and comprehensive, and the building and conveniences all that could be desired. Were Regiopolis College re-established under such favorable auspices its superior situation here would make it eminently attractive and successful.

MARINE NOTES.

[illegible]—Late Capt. Moore.

At Milwaukee the schr. Albacore has chartered for wheat to Kingston on through rates to Montreal.

This morning the prop. Dominion arrived here. She is engaged to distribute the usual lighthouse supplies. Inspector Harty is aboard, being on his tour to all the lighthouses under his jurisdiction. The propeller is heavily laden with freight. She will run up as far as Sault St. Marie.

Last evening the prop. California passed down the river, having on board the body of the first mate, Capt. Moore, who was killed on Monday last by falling into the hold over which he attempted to jump. His remains will be interred at Prescott, his late home. The propeller floated her flags at half mast.

Insurance Settled.

The suit brought by Arthur Clarkson, owner of the steamer Snowbird, against the Great Western Insurance Company, for the recovery of about $3,500 insurance on the vessel, which was almost totally wrecked last fall, was settled at Oswego recently. The insurance company will pay Mr Clarkson $2,000, and give him the wreck of the Snowbird, on which they will pay all bills.
