Daily British Whig.

Onfer per Orbem Diem.

Close following the Liberal successes in France and Spain comes the cheering intelligence of large Liberal gains in Portugal. The cause of the people is marching on. Despotisms of every form are doomed and the liberty of the subject will assert itself in all lands until universal liberty shall prevail. One of the cheering features of recent indications is, that whatever Liberal principles have been on trial and have been put to the test they have been triumphantly endorsed at the polls and the Tory reactionaries have been routed and decimated. Liberalism of every form is in the ascendant, and is sure of ultimate and universal triumph.

The unopposed return of Dr. Kincaid as local member for West Peterboro is one sign at least of the slow coming political millenium. Both parties united upon a candidate as the successor of the late W. H. Scott, Conservative member for the riding, so that there is a slight Liberal advantage in having a neutral or independent member instead of a pronounced oppositionist. We may be sure that if the Conservative party had not feared the probability of the election of a straight Reformer they would not have consented to the compromise. As it was there was considerable talk of an out and out Conservative candidate but the blusterers concluded that prudence would be the better part of valour in the case and permitted the election to go by default. It is said that Dr. Kincaid is a politician of mild Conservative antecedents but he will give the Mowat Government a fair support. He is about the only member of Parliament in the Dominion who is the representative of both parties in his constituency.

THE INFERNAL MACHINISTS.

The infernal machines to be bought with skirmishing funds will have to be of very ingenious construction if O'Donavan Rossa's statement respecting them has anything in it. He declares that the sole purpose in employing these infernal machines is to blow up British ships but not to destroy human life. There is surely a grim view of humour in this announcement. British ships are perfect hives of life and these machines will be extremely discriminating if they can be so constructed as to blow up the vessels, without destroying the life they contain. Perhaps only empty crafts will be selected for explosion, but as most of these are superannuated and unseaworthy it is rather difficult to see how the blowing up of these old hulks is going to paralyse British commerce. O'Donovan Rossa's hint better be taken in time or the Charybdis? The forces [illegible] on more than one occasion [illegible] the liberation of Ireland by [illegible]an of Canada's soil and [illegible]d who knows but that [illegible]ncer [illegible] made on the venerable old nucleus of our future navy? Under the circumstances it is sad to think that there are many who would see the old tub blown up even by the dynamite of the skirmishers without a single paroxysm of regret, only they will hope that O'Donavan will have the polite consideration to give the crew due notice of the operation so that a fair chance may be afforded for a timely escape from the catastrophy in accordance with his own disclaimer in favour of human life.

SYNDICATE VS. GOVERNMENT.

The fact that the Pacific Railway is being rapidly pushed forward is just what might be expected from the known energy of the men who have hold of the enterprise. It must not be thought, however, that this will be accepted as condoning the outrageous terms on which they secured the contract. It is to their own interest to push on the work, for the faster they construct the road the sooner will they realize the enormous profits which the surrender contract secures to them. We may be sure, for example, that the prairie section will be constructed with all possible speed, so that the syndicate may realize the extravagant subsidies which are attached to the completion of this portion of the road. What the country will remember when the time of reckoning comes is that a company of perfectly responsible Canadian capitalists tendered the best possible security—a heavy cash deposit—that they would construct the line for millions in money and land less than the present syndicate were awarded for the self-same work, and that that bona fide offer was rejected to the public loss and detriment. No one blames the Pacific Railway syndicate either for securing the contract on their own terms in the first instance or for pushing on the work with all possible expedition. What they are doing is not only perfectly within their right; it is just what a cabal of capitalists bent upon improving their fortunes might naturally be expected to do. The sooner they build the prairie section the sooner will those fortunes be realized. It is the Government and not the syndicate that are responsible to the people for the perpetration of the swindle and the people will punish the Government for it at next election.

STEAM YACHT RACE.

The 'Lancet' Wins the Race—Great Enthusiasm—Heavy Bets Changed Hands.

The steam yacht race between the 'Lancet,' of Ogdensburg, owned by Dr. J. H. Brownlow, and the 'Sport,' of Alexandria Bay, owned by Mr. Robert Packer, of Sport Island, for a distance of twenty miles and a wager of $2,000, came off yesterday at Ogdensburg. The course taken was ten miles up the river and back. The boats got off at 3:15; and ran at a most exciting pace. After the first mile the 'Lancet' began to lead, and gradually increased it till the end of the race. The official time for the 20 miles was:

	H.	m.	s.
Lancet	1	30	00
Sport	1	32	20

The scene at the close beggars description. There were at least half a hundred of steam craft, many hundreds of row boats and other water craft. The lighthouse point at Ogdensburg was covered with people as thick as they could stand. The houses, shore and docks and the Canadian shore were also crowded. All the boats were filled and as the 'Lancet' came flying down to the stake boat at the end of the race with her flag flying, 20,000 voices rended the air, and all the whistles of the steamers sent back an echo. Bedlam for once was doubly discounted. All day long the river was as smooth as glass.

KINGSTONIANS ON HAND.

Quite a number of Kingstonians witnessed the race. The steamer 'Swan' with a large party was down and her passengers viewed the race with keen satisfaction. On the way up the river the 'Sport' took the Canadian side, and the 'Lancet' the American. The speed made was 16 miles an hour. At the Brockville turn the 'Lancet' led by one minute. Gentlemen who witnessed the race state that a blaze of fire poured out of both crafts' smoke stacks and extended away up into the air. Every time fresh coal was put in the firemen would pitch in lard and other greasy substances and thus produced the flame. It was perilous to be aboard the yachts. There was upwards of $20,000 staked on the race, and the bets were $1,500 to $1,000 on the 'Sport.' There was a great crowd witnessing the race, and when the Ogdensburg boat won intense enthusiasm prevailed. The owners of the 'Swan' are confident that only three boats on the river can outrun her, the two racers of yesterday and Dr. Holland's yacht.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BOATS.

The 'Sport' is a beautiful new side wheel craft, built this season at West Amboy, N.Y. Her length of keel is 91 feet, with 11 feet beam, projecting guards, length over all 100 feet, draught 3½ feet, tonnage 20. The 'Lancet' was built by Woods Bros., Ogdensburg; length of keel 66 feet, beam 11 feet, length over all 75 feet, draught 4½ feet, tonnage 16.

The 'Lancet' was run by Engineer J. Woods, of Ogdensburg, assisted by W. H. Brownlow, of the G.T.R. The 'Sport' was run by her builders, who were brought by Mr. Packer for the purpose. Dr. Holland's yacht 'Camilla,' the fastest and most beautiful boat on the river, carried the judges over the course, following the race from the beginning to the finish. The owners of the 'Sport' attribute her defeat to using resin, claiming that it choked her fire.

THE WETHERELL HOMICIDE.

The Murdered Man a Former Resident of Frontenac—Bad Record.

Interesting facts have been elicited of the previous history of James Wetherell, of Ottawa, who was murdered a short while ago at a charivari. His second wife, who lives in Racine, Wisconsin, writes to an Ottawa paper stating that she was divorced from him on account of his abuse. She once left him with a little child in her arms. They made up again, and while living in Racine the husband ran off with two children. He was gone eleven months before any trace of them could be secured. He was finally found in Olden, in this county, through the assistance of the authorities. Wetherell had taken possession of a small shanty unfit for habitation. The children were ragged, dirty and covered with vermin, while the youngest is still suffering and sick from the treatment it received. James Waterston, of Olden, gives the details of the matter: "The children were so badly cared for that their case was brought before the Township Council, which ordered them to be given up to the mother. Wetherall's daughter writes that the death of her father was a decree of Providence.

Racket About Fare.

Kingston has received a bad name in regard to its hackmen and their charges, but though there is once and a while a black sheep, the cabmen as a body demand only their lawful fare. Last evening there was quite a disturbance at the British American Hotel between a cabman and a member of the Syracuse Cricket Club. The cricketer's story was that he entered a cab at 7:15 o'clock and used it until nearly 8 o'clock, and when he disembarked was asked to pay $2 as a fare. This he thought extortionate, and tendered $1, refusing to give more. The cabman, on the other hand, averred that he had been hired at 6:30 o'clock, but Mr. Davis, jr., said he had handed the cricketer the keys of his room previous to his going out, which was at 7:15 p.m. The matter was referred to the police officials, and Sergt. Major Bell, advised the cabman, who seemed to be slightly intoxicated, to take $1. He refused and demanded $1.75. After words the cabman relented and asked that a policeman go with him and secure the money before the cricketer left. All serene now.

PERSONAL MENTION.

That fine old county councillor, Ebenezer Perry, of Sheffield, who was so promjnent in the United County Council in Kingston, is dead.

This morning Mr. A. P. Knight returned to the city and attended at the Collegiate Institute building to give successful candidates their certificates and unsuccessful ones their marks.

TWO LEGAL CASES.

Outside Opinions—Pearl Reed's Hair—The Course Justified—Sturdy's Case Considered.

Toronto Telegram.

In regard to the cutting of the hair of the young girl, Pearl Reed, who was detained in Kingston jail for a month awaiting transfer to the Mercer Reformatory for two years for dressing up in men's clothes, it seems that while in jail "prisoners sentenced to the Central Prison or Mercer Reformatory are subject to all the rules regarding prisoners sentenced to jail for any term with hard labor. The rules of the jail are that 'all prisoners are to have their hair cut on their admission to the jail.'" So that the governor of the Kingston jail is not blameworthy if the rules of the jail were carried out and the girl's hair was cut. The truth is that the girl's hair was cut by the matron in the usual course, no distinction being made between a prisoner sentenced to imprisonment in the gaol and a prisoner merely awaiting transfer. As we pointed out some days ago, it is not part of the discipline at the Mercer Reformatory to cut the girls' hair when they come in, except it be found necessary, to do so. It is therefore evident that a degradation not imposed by the rules of the institution where the girl is sentenced to be imprisoned should not be imposed in the institution to which she may be remanded while simply awaiting transfer.

THE GUELPH ABDUCTION.

The Sturdy case has been revived by the visit of Sir Hector Langevin to the Kingston Penitentiary, where he saw Sturdy, who was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment for abducting a young girl from Guelph, carrying her off to Hamilton, and marrying her against her will. The Warden of the prison says that Sturdy has behaved himself well and is deserving of liberty, and Sir Hector has promised to use his influence in his behalf. The case attracted a great deal of interest at the time and was marked by some very painful features. It was four years ago this month that the abduction took place. Sturdy having induced the girl, Mary Carr by name, whose company he had been keeping for some time before, to meet him on a lonely road by sending a forged letter purporting to come from her father. The girl went to the place as directed, where a cab was in waiting for her. She got into the cab and the driver drove off. He had not driven very far when Sturdy and his daughter appeared, one at each side of the cab, and got in. The cab was then driven off on the road to Hamilton, the driver was dismissed and Sturdy's daughter took the reins. They drove to Hamilton, the girl screaming on the way. At Hamilton Sturdy and the girl were married, the clergyman who officiated saying that there was no evidence of coercion, and that everything was regular and in order. Sturdy then took the girl to a vacant house which he had secured for the purpose and kept her there until he was arrested. He was tried and sentenced to ten years' imprisonment and his daughter to two. His daughter served one year and was released; Sturdy has served four. The judge who tried the case and the Crown prosecutor say there were no redeeming features in Sturdy's conduct, unless it be that he was madly in love with the girl and bound to marry her, although his treatment of her did not look like love. They also say that Miss Carr was the best witness they ever saw in the witness box. Mr. Cameron, now on the Bench, who defended Sturdy, said at the time that there were favorable features in the case that could not be brought out, as Sturdy loved the girl and wished to shield her. He said Sturdy was not so much to blame as people thought. Be this as it may, Sturdy is still in the penitentiary, although his friends have made repeated efforts to have him released. From what we can hear it is not probable that Sturdy will be released until half his term has expired, so that he will have to serve another year yet. The disposition of the matter is in the hands of the Minister of Justice, who will, no doubt, be guided largely by the views of the judge who tried the case.

IS HE DEAD?

DEAR WHIG,—Not long since a letter appeared in a Russian Wire for Mr. D. D. Calvin, present member of the Provincial Parliament for Frontenac, advocating the amendment of our assessment law so as to more equalize the assessment of personal property with that of real estate. The letter had no sooner appeared that it was caught by a writer in the Globe of the 6th inst., who thought he had dealt Mr. Calvin a severe blow between the peepers, which would either obscure his vision or silence him on that subject for all time to come. But on the contrary the blow was so feeble that it only had the effect of arousing Mr. Calvin to action. He at once gave the writer a blow under the ribs with a letter dated the 13th, which had the effect of either stifling him from further utterance on the subject, or has killed him outright. Hence I enquire, "Is he dead?" as I have not since observed any utterance from him on that subject. Should he again speak I trust the journal favored with his manuscript will pass the article around.

The ratepayers should highly compliment Mr. Calvin for so constantly agitating this question of so great importance to their interests. He has not only boarded the lion in his den but challenged argument on this subject from all parts of the Province.

Yours, &c.,
RATEPAYER OF FRONTENAC.
August 22, 1881.

End of The World.

Leonardo Aretine, an Italian of the 14th century, predicted the end of the world for the 15th of November, 1881. Behold the exact programme of the catastrophe, which will happen in a few months:

Nov. 1—The ocean will overflow its shores.
Nov. 2—The earth will be soaked with water.
Nov. 3—The fish in the river will die.
Nov. 4—All the water fowl and fish will die.
Nov. 5—The birds in the air will die.
Nov. 6—The houses will fall down.
Nov. 7—The rocks will fall down.
Nov. 8—The earth will tremble.
Nov. 9—The mountains will fall.
Nov. 10—The men will become speechless.
Nov. 11—The tombs will open.
Nov. 12—The stars will fall.
Nov. 13—All the men and all the women will die.
Nov. 14—The heavens will disappear and the land will be no more.
Nov. 15—A general resurrection and the last judgment.

A Murderous Parallel.

The Buck Lake murder, in some of its leading incidents, has been soon paralleled: Alderian Pitts, wealthy and highly respected farmer, was, on Wednesday, instantly killed near Murfreesboro, Kentucky. He was in his melon patch when the fatal shot from a double barreled gun was fired. Six buckshot were taken from his head. An unknown person did the firing, but it is thought the killing originated from a divorce suit.

POOR GARFIELD!

THE DOCTORS GIVE UP HOPE THE CABINET AND MRS. GARFIELD WARNED.

The President Does Not Realize His Condition—His Suffering Still Great, However.

New York, Aug. 26.—Washington specials to the Herald says: "Last night the doctors informed the Cabinet that there was no longer good ground for hope. The complications in the President's case had gone so far that there was nothing to expect but a fatal ending, and that soon. Prepared, as the Cabinet were, for the news, it fell upon them with a terrible shock.

Secretary Lincoln, when questioned, said the doctors claimed that the swelling in the President's neck would, if it attacked a vital point, prove fatal in itself.

Attorney General MacVeigh said that there was but one source of consolation, one thing recognized as a great mercy, that is sparing the President's life till the first passion of excitement had time to subside. "This delay has been of inestimable benefit to the country," he said. "The Cabinet had not yet considered the matter of sending for Arthur, and had not yet mapped out any plan of action based upon the President's demise."

NOT GETTING GOOD ENOUGH.

Dr. Boynton said last night the wound was not in as good condition as before. He did not think that the President was getting enough food into his stomach to sustain life. The stomach might not be able to retain more.

GUITEAU'S FEAR.

The gaol officials state Guiteau has demanded that iron shutters be put up at the window and doors with bolts upon the inside of his cell. He seems to have got an inkling of the President's condition and is fearful that his life will be taken by some one shooting through the window. For two weeks he has tried very hard to impress the keepers that he is gradually becoming insane. Quiet preparations have been made to defeat any unlawful methods of punishing the wretch.

MRS. GARFIELD NOTIFIED.

Dr. Boynton says he informed Mrs. Garfield that the President was very much worse. She bore it like a noble Christian woman. The physicians told the Cabinet that if there was not a radical change between 9 and 10 on Friday morning all hope might be abandoned. Dr. Bliss did not see how such change was possible.

THE "TIMES" SPECIAL.

Dr. Bliss said yesterday that two injections had been given and the wound had been healing. He was astonished at the amount of repair in the last 24 hours. The President does not realize the gravity of his situation; he has become less anxious and more indifferent about himself as he has become more enfeebled.

A GREAT SHOCK.

The Sun states that Mrs. Garfield didn't until yesterday afternoon realize that it was possible that the President would die. She was very much overcome when informed how low he was and that physicians feared the worst. It was decided last night that if the President was not considerably improved this morning, to notify the children and other members in the family of his serious condition.

A THROAT TROUBLE.

Mrs. Edison said last night the President's throat was troubling him again, and he was coughing to clear it of the phlegm at the cost of a good deal of pain. Another report says the pus is no longer healthy, but thin and watery, and the President's mind wanders for the greater part of the time. He himself believes he is well on the road to recovery, and the most pathetic incidents that occur in the sick room are those in which he gives expression to this opinion. On the day of the shooting the President said he was prepared to die; his affairs were in order, and there was nothing he wished particularly to do. It is therefore not thought necessary to communicate to him his true situation.

THE VICE-PRESIDENT NOTIFIED.

Arthur has been notified to be prepared at any time to receive the news of approaching dissolution.

AN ENGLISH OPINION.

London, Aug. 26.—The Lancet says that when it is borne in mind that in cases of starvation death supervenes when the loss of two fifths of the original weight occurred, the fact that Garfield has lost 80 pounds is alone sufficient to excite serious apprehension. It cannot but regard the parotid swelling or abscess as of serious import, although it would be an exaggeration to speak of his recovery as altogether beyond hope. A speedy improvement is necessary to avert the worst results.

A BETTER REPORT TO DAY.

Washington, Aug. 26, 10 a. m.—Dr Bliss at 9:30 this morning telephoned to his wife that the President was a little better than last night. The pulse is less frequent, and the parotid swelling had broken into the right ear and was discharging through that orifice. The patient's mind is clearer, and he conversed rationally with the surgeons about the condition of the inflamed gland. He partook of food, which seemed to be grateful to him, and his general condition appeared to be a little improved. The doctor expressed himself as hopeful that the swollen gland would be relieved by the discharge through the ear, and that the President would pull through the day without much change.

Toronto Regatta.

Toronto, Aug. 26.—The Regatta Committee are still about $600 short of the necessary $4,000. The following are positive entries: Single scull race—Hanlan, Ross, Courtney, Trickett, Gaudaur, Riley, Plaisted, Warren Smith, Nagle, Hosmer, Hamm, Conley, Fleming, McKay, Weisgerber, Boli, Macdonald, Wise, Lee, Ten Eyck, Berbank, William Bryceland. Total 22.

Courtney will certainly row. Hanlan will go to Barrie for a fortnight's hard work.

Sudden Death.

Elgin, Ont., Aug. 25.—Mr. Gershom Wing, one of the oldest residents of the township of South Crosby, dropped dead to-day in his field. The deceased was very much respected, and his sudden death is much regretted. He was the father-in-law of Mr. J. F. Earl, the present Reeve of the township.

When we reflect that a power of endurance can be imparted to the brain, and that weak minds have been restored to strength by Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites we cannot but conclude that the subtle power is really ponderable matter. Persons who study hard should preserve their balance of power by using the Syrup.

"A SOUND MIND IN A HEALTHY BODY"—The old Roman idea of the highest degree of happiness. The liver rules the roast, indigestion creates anarchy in the physical system. Costiveness, biliousness, dizziness and bad taste in the mouth, yellow skin and eyes, loss of appetite, loss of energy, and low spirits, pains in the back and side, wind and foul stomach, all these create bad blood. Regulate the bowels, stomach, liver, and kidneys with Zoress, (from Brazil) try a 10 cent sample, and ask Henry Wade or Heath & Gunn about it.
