Daily British Whig.

Optifer per Orbem Dicor.

It was said of Capt. Boycott that he shabbily treated the Orangemen and others who, at considerable personal risk and inconvenience, sowed his crops for him. Had this been so it is not likely the favor would have been repeated this harvest. And yet a strong force of "emergency men," as they are called, are reaping his crops for him now. Boycott will long live in the world into which his name has been coined, but he need not care so much for the persecutions he endured if his fields are sown and reaped by his Orange volunteers. Many a man, even in Canada, would willingly consent to be Boycotted on the same terms.

The Garfield subscription, so enthusiastically started some time ago by the monied men of New York, is still alive and growing in amount. Of course, the completion of it up to the intended quarter of a million will be largely contingent upon the President's death. If he should recover it is not likely that even if it were tendered that it would be accepted for personal purposes. The object of it from the first was that of a memorial fund for the benefit of the family in the event of his death. The fund in question is not a bad barometer of the condition of the President. When his prospects of recovery darken the subscription is revived, and when they brightened very little is heard of it. This is quite consistent with the character of subscription as a memorial fund.

The Hon. Edward Blake has finished his tour in the Maritime provinces and will soon return to Toronto. His most inveterate enemies cannot deny the success of the political campaign he has just completed. It will be a vast advantage to the Liberal party at the next election that the leader of the Opposition has made himself personally and favorably known to so many thousands of electors at the sea board. The great guns of the Government, Tilley and Tupper, belong there anyway, and it was the more necessary on this account that the Liberal leader should visit the Maritime provinces. The results of that visit will be far-reaching, and will tell upon the political destiny of the country.

The revival of President Garfield's chances of life seems little short of a resurrection. The rally from the gates of the grave is more than marvellous, it would appear to be almost miraculous. The vitality of the man must be extraordinary to have so long survived the dreadful ordeal to which he has been subjected and still inspire hopes of ultimate recovery. To say that he is still in great danger of death is to very mildly describe his present low condition, but after the encouraging change of Sunday last the people, while still fearing the worst, will have some faith in the possibilities of his restoration. "While there is life there is hope," is an adage which will be tenaciously clung to in the present instance, and if Garfield should recover it will be to the astonishment and delight not only of the American people but of the whole civilized world.

The recent accidents on the Grand Trunk Railway, attended unfortunately with loss of life, has drawn public attention to the necessity of a double track, especially on those portions of the road which are crowded with traffic. Of course if absolute perfection in attention to duty on the part of train despatchers, switchmen and other employees could be assured then accidents would be reduced to a minimum even with a single track. But railway men, like other men are faltible, and in any case many accidents which are now every day a possibility may be entirely avoided by the laying of a double track. In addition to this we are sure such a stroke of enterprise would prove a profitable investment. It would pay, and this is always, with proverbially soulless corporations, a weightier argument than mere regard for human life. But whatever may be the motive the change would certainly inure to the greater safety of the travelling public, an all-sufficient reason for the public advocacy of the change.

Dillon is behaving with sensible moderation in regard to his personal relation to the Land Act. He does not believe in giving the Bill a trial, and yet he announces his intention of keeping out of the way and offering no factious opposition while the Act is being tested. He could not give the Bill a fairer trial than by this very means. He intends, he says, to retire from public life for a few months so as to give the advocates and apologists of the Act every chance to initiate its enforcement. It is too much to expect that he will be so open to conviction in this matter that when the measure has been sufficiently tried it should command his approval even if it should prove a success. On the contrary, his adverse criticism will have the greater weight for his interim silence and forbearance. Whatever course he may ultimately take his present determination to give the Land Act a fair chance will commend itself to the public approbation.

RE-OPENING OF SCHOOLS.

A Long Vacation Properly Appreciated Fresh and Cheerful for Study To-morrow's Programme.

To-morrow, after a vacation of nearly seven weeks, the public and private schools will be re-opened and teaching resumed. Both pupils and teachers have been invigorated and fully prepared for effective work. While the personnel of the city teaching staff will remain unchanged with one or two exceptions, there will be a general transfer of scholars from one room to another in pursuance of their promotion before the holidays. Many newspapers have been crying out in protest against long vacations. We do not join in that cry. The teachers in this city work hard and zealously and the scholars also do their level best toward winning high positions in the respective classes, a result of the competitive system. The boys and girls have behaved themselves during the holidays, and have deserved them in that way. Study is scarcely possible in hot weather, after a long seige of many months, and a midsummer vacation really advances learning by the fresh tone it gives for Fall work. Possibly for the rest of the week not a large amount of work will be done beyond classifying the pupils and getting out their duty, but on Monday hard study will commence.

The Collegiate Institute also opens to-morrow, and we hope with a large addition to the attendance, especially as the school has been declared free so far as the English course is concerned.

The private schools in the city are quite numerous, and all secure a goodly number of pupils. Reference to our advertising columns shows wide and excellent choice for private tuition. Miss E. G. Rose and Miss Burrows have established a high character as instructors, and the opening of their schools on Monday is attended with much interest.

Among academic announcements is that of the Congregation De Notre Dame. The Sisters having charge of the school at St. Mary of the Lake have won esteem for the excellence of the training which they impart. This school opens to-morrow.

For the training of boys a more zealous teacher than Mr. W. Spankie could not be secured. The Kingston Academy opens to-morrow with good prospects of lengthened success.

The Sterling House School will be resumed to-morrow. The lady manager has always had successful classes. For final preparation of young ladies for society a more capable and painstaking teacher could not be secured than Miss de St. Remy.

The other select and private schools opening to-morrow are those of Miss Bertha Yates, 65 William street, Mrs. Martin Welsh, 182 Barrie street, and Miss Martin, 168 King street. All these ladies will no doubt win the esteem of those committed to their charge.

MARINE NOTES.

The str. "Hero" took a large excursion party down the river this after noon.

A wheat charter is reported from Detroit to Kingston at 6½ cents. Chicago offers 7c, on the same class of grain.

The steamer Norseman had her wheel repaired this afternoon, and at 3:15 steamed up the lake for Port Hope.

The yacht Nautilus ran on a rock, just above Alexandria Bay, on Saturday, when going at full speed. At the time of the accident she was in the hands of pilot Thomson, of Brockville, who claims that the numerous lights in the vicinity led him astray. The Thorn also ran into the same place, through the false lights, but discovered her mistake in time to escape striking. The accident to the Nautilus cost about $200.

The Co-Operative Store Movement.

The English Co-operative Store Societies continue to flourish. According to the statistics presented at their recent annual congress in Leeds their aggregate capital is nearly $35,000,000, and their net profits about $8,000,000 a year. They have over 500,000 members, a large majority of whom are married men. Reckoning the co operators and their families, is is estimated that at least a million and a half of persons are directly interested in the stores, with their adjuncts of savings banks, reading rooms and wholesale purchasing agencies. They support a large wholesale establishment in Manchester, and have an agent in New York to buy for them American provisions of the best quality and at first-hand prices.

Worthy of Praise.

As a rule we do not recommend Patent Medicines, but when we know of one that really is a public benefactor, and does positively cure, then we consider it our duty to impart that information to all. Electric Bitters are truly a most valuable medicine, and will surely cure Biliousness, Fever and Ague, Stomach, Liver and Kidney Complaints, even when all other remedies fail. We know whereof we speak, and can freely recommend them to all.—Ex.—Sold at fifty cents a bottle, by all druggists.

Episode of Fast Life.

Montreal, Aug. 31.—Harry Fildman, a youth of 17, who absconded from Chicago last week, taking with him $2,500 belonging to the Merchants' Trust and Loan Company, in which establishment he was employed, was arrested last night. Fildman had come to Montreal in company with Charles Bailey, an actor, with whom he shared the spoils. Bailey had just married a variety actress named Sadie Johnson, and came here to spend the honeymoon. Fildman led a very fast life since his arrival here, and spent about $400 of the stolen money. Upon being arrested Fildman produced $700 and Bailey $386 of the $2,500, and said the balance had been spent. They expressed a willingness to go back to Chicago in charge of the detectives without the trouble of getting extradition papers, and they left accordingly.

A Conspiracy Checked.

St. Johns, Nfld., Aug. 31.—It is stated that the convicts at the French island of St. Pierre, at the entrance to Fortune Bay, conspired to murder the governor and other officers of the island, burn down the buildings and escape in a couple of vessels. An invalid soldier overheard two conspirators taking of the plot and exposed it. The gend'armes pounced on the conspirators, when they made terrific efforts to escape; they made a hard fight. Twenty conspirators are under sentence of death, and all the ringleaders will certainly be shot. The conspiracy was favored by the greater liberty recently allowed the prisoners.

A Report Denied.

Long Branch, N.J., Aug. 31.—Grant denies the report of frequent visits by him to Arthur and consultations with the Vice-President and other public men in reference to the political contingency at Washington. Grant says he has met no one who showed more profound, sincere sorrow for the President's condition than Arthur.

Southern Hurricanes.

Savannah, Aug. 31.—The estimated damage done by the hurricane in this vicinity is $1,500,000. Hundreds of plantations are flooded.

Charleston, S.C., Aug. 31.—It is estimated that the rice crop of this State has been damaged by the recent hurricane to the extent of $1,000,000.

Working Iron Mines.

Ottawa, Aug. 31.—A company of New York capalists have leased an iron mine, owned by J. P. Lawless, adjoining the Baldwin mine, now under operation for a term of years, will immediately commence its development. They pay a royalty of 40c per ton and will ship the ore to Pittsburg; $12,000 worth of machinery will arrive this week.

Pow-wow Prevented.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—A farewell dinner to the expelled Socialists, in which 50 persons intended to participate, was prevented by the arrest of all the guests, who were soon released.

A correspondent innocently writes us: "My almanac is all wrong on the weather." Did any one ever see an almanic to be all right on this subject?

CASE STILL HOPEFUL

President's Condition Improved.

ANOTHER OPERATION PERFORMED.

Cheerful in his Suffering.

His Address to the Doctors

"YOU ARE BOUND TO CARVE ME."

He will be Taken From White House when able to be Removed. Danger not yet Passed However.

New York, Aug. 30.—The Times says Col. Rockwell reports that the President's whiskers have grown grayer since the wounding. Bliss says the surgeons have several times tried to discontinue the enemata, but have been obliged to resume them. When discontinued the pulse rises.

The Tribune says: On Saturday, when nearly all hope of the President's recovery was gone, Dr. Hamilton discovered that the yolks of eggs, which formed part of the enemata administered for several days, were not assimilating thoroughly, if at all, and were poisoning the system. Without consulting his associates he rushed to a drug store, and purchased powdered charcoal. He soon after administered enema containing a large proportion of charcoal. The effect was apparent almost immediately. The incident in the President's condition. There is scarcely any doubt that the presence of an undigested mass was the cause of the glandular affection.

The descriptions of life in Garfield's sick room, telegraphed hence every day to some papers, are largely fictitious. Dr. Bliss says yesterday the intervals between the administration of the President's food were made a little longer, not because the stomach rebelled but because there were indications that he didn't take it with a relish, and it was deemed advisable to create relish by a little enforced abstinence, besides giving the stomach a little rest. Bliss states that the microscopic examination shows the pus from the gland and its seams to be pure. He thinks that at the present rate of improvement the patient can be removed in two or three weeks. He says the President ought to go away in September, which is the worst month of the year in Washington.

The Sun says: The President remains upon a dead level, where, one physician said last night, they hoped he would not remain many days. The situation is still one of uncertainty. In some quarters fears are entertained that the prospect of recovery is not as good as it seems to be. The President seldom sleeps much until after 2 a.m. When the bulletins state that he has had a comfortable night they generally mean from that hour. His sleep is comparatively undisturbed until daybreak.

APPEARANCE OF BED SORES.

The Herald says: The President's body begins to show signs of sick bed sores. As yet there are no decided signs of abcess in the right iliac, but its existence comes to be more than suspected. Before the incision yesterday the President said, "You are bound to carve me, and turned his head to receive the cut. The President again suffered from the heat yesterday. Three hot days and sultry nights are against the President's comfort, and Dr. Hamilton said they did him great harm. Dr. Bliss says there is nothing in the statement that if the President lives past the sixtieth day of his illness he will begin to mend rapidly. If he goes along without further complications and passes the period at which complications cannot possibly occur of course he becomes further removed from the danger of relapse. "I believe the President is now further removed from accidents than he ever was," he said.

NATURE OF THE OPERATION.

One of the Presidents physicians says the operation yesterday on the parotid gland was rendered more tedious for the reason that it was necessary to bind the artery severed in making the incision. There was a full flow of blood but it was soon checked. The President did not complain but afterwards remarked: "it was even liberty to me to be let alone."

The catheter can't now be inserted into the wound beyond 10 inches, 2½ inches less than two weeks ago, for which distance it has probably healed.

It is stated that the cause of the alarm on Friday last was the sudden darkening of the skin on the President's face. The doctors supposed this to be a sign of death. Curiously enough on Saturday when he was much worse the face regained its natural color. The public has erred in supposing that the President at the time of the shooting was physically in a first rate condition.

AN ENCOURAGING LETTER.

Cleveland, Aug. 31.—In a letter written to the President's mother Mrs. Garfield says: "I wonder what can happen next, and whether there is any lower note in the scale for him to touch; but if there is I shall not have any fear and you must not. His strong constitution and super-abundant vitality will, I believe, carry him thro'. I begin to see how little I know of the troubles attending such wounds. It has been a strange disappointing summer, but if we all come through alive and well we will not complain.

A HOPEFUL SIGN.

Washington, Aug. 31.—It is stated that in addition to the usual nourishment the President was given a small piece of carefully broiled beef steak this morning. He held it in his mouth, sucked it and swallowed the juice. He seemed to enjoy it.

AN ENCOURAGING REPORT.

Washington, 11 a.m. Aug. 31.—Surgeons regard the President's condition this morning with increased satisfaction and encouragement. He is having a quiet, comfortable day. Among the members of the Cabinet and the President's personal friends there is a growing feeling of encouragement and confidence, and it seems to be the general impression that by Saturday or Sunday, when the glandular swelling shall have ceased to be a hindrance, the patient will enter a stage of convalescence.

LATEST FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, Aug. 30.—Bliss says the President's condition is highly satisfactory and he is making very favourable progress in every way. The parotid gland has been reduced to two-thirds of its maximum and is steadily diminishing. The patient continues to take food well and made a slight gain in strength. The question of his removal from the Executive Mansion again being seriously considered. The President himself wishes to go to Mentor, but although he will doubtless be taken there eventually his first removal will be to a short distance as early as possible.

A Sound Mind in a Healthy Body.—The old Roman idea of the highest degree of happiness. The liver rules the roast, indigestion creates anarchy in the physical system. Costiveness, biliousness, dizziness and bad taste in the mouth, yellow skin and eyes, loss of appetite, loss of energy, and low spirits, pains in the back and sides, wind and foul stomach; all these create bad blood. Regulate the bowels, stomach, liver, and kidneys with Zopessa, (from Brazil) try a 10 cent sample, and ask Henry Wade or Heath & Gunn about it.
