Daily British Whig.

Ogilvie per Orbon Dear

The bestowal of fresh Imperial honors upon Sir John Macdonald, even if it be the Grand Cross of St. Michael and St. George, will neither enhance nor diminish his Canadian popularity. The old country ribbon and garter department should not stop at the above but finish the farce by the creation of a new order and the bestowment of its initial honors upon the Veteran Canadian corruptionist. G. J. of B. E.—the "Grandest Jobber of the British Empire" would appropriately terminate his string of titles and would be sure to command the approbation of the Tory journal to whose too candid avowal the appropriate brand would be so obviously tricksble.

The trade negotiation between France and England do not look quite so hopeless as they did a while ago. Then France assumed an arrogant attitude and took it for granted that the British Government would be glad to make a commercial treaty on any terms. In this matter the French negotiators have been thoroughly undeceived; they have discovered that Great Britain is not so dependent upon or in the power of her neighbor as they lately supposed. Having thus counted without her host, and now realizing the mistake, overtares are emanating from the French Government for a prolongation of negotiations and after all a Trade Treaty reasonably fair to both nations may be the upshot of the whole business.

Some very silly things are perpetrated by telegraph. The hosts of personal friends of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie will be glad of his safe return to Canada, and still more pleased to hear of his fully re-established health. But the telegram announcing these gratifying facts further states: "He looks well and has his beard cut close to the chin." Whether this latter intimation is given as an indication of his recovered health or of his improved appearance may be a query worth discussing, but we submit that even in a public man, and an ex-Premier at that, the cropping of the beard, however, "close to the chin," is a matter so purely personal to himself that it is not calculated to affect one way or the other the greeting that will welcome his return.

It is quite clear that the British Tories, by coquetting with the Fair Traders and employing their fair sounding cry as against Free Trade, are going to emulate their Canadian politicel actions in the hope of winning a party success similar to that which rewarded the duplicity of Canadian Tories in 1878. Precisely as Sir John Macdonald posed as a theoretical Free Trader, but at the same time a practical retaliationist, so some of the Tory leaders of England are poising themselves on the fence which separates Free Trade from Protection. By this means a few seats may here and there be won, but we do not for a moment believe that the British people in appreciable numbers will be caught by any Fair Trade chaff into the re-establishment of the corn laws and all the other trade tyrannies and monopolies from which the nation has once for all been thoroughly and forever emancipated.

FRENCH JINGOISM.

France is destined to pay dearly enough for her spirited foreign policy in North Africa. Better things were expected of the Republican French Government than thus to pursue a course worthy only of a Napoleon III or a Beaconsfield. It was quite in consonance with the short sighted and impotent ambition of the former to try and establish Imperialism in Mexico, and to have the huge blunder visited upon poor Maximilian, the figure head of the foreign conquest policy of the second empire. Neither was the world at all surprised when the late Lord Beaconsfield sought to imbue the British mind with the fallacy that the true glory of England consisted in conquest and dictation, and illustrated his theory in the Berlin Treaty, the scientific frontier in Afghanistan, and the South African wars upon the Zulus and the Boers. The disaster and dishonour which these blunders brought upon the British name will taint the fame of the Government which was responsible for their inception, and will not be laid at the door of those whose public duty it became to shut down upon a policy which was equally ambitious, aimless and ruinous. For a government of the people, however, such as that of France at present professes to be, to give not only sanction but direction to a policy of foreign conquest passes ordinary comprehension, and has created a world-wide surprise. There is only one apology for the anomaly of this Jingo Republicanism, and that is to be found in the proverbial French penchant for military glory. This traditional trait of of the French character is ineradicable and incurable, and recent events go to show that the men at present in power, Republican though they be, are susceptible to the love of glory equally with the peasantry as well as the army of France.

Disorder on Queen Street.

This morning a number of young men raised a disorder on Queen street, not only scuffling and using bad language but throwing stones to the imminent danger of the passers by, one of whom was injured. Police officer Hinde appeared on the scene, when some of the young men ran away. Hinde made for one Joyce who jumped into a waggon, but he did not escape as Hinde stopped the vehicle and attempted to take the offender out of it. A struggle ensued, during which Joyce got out and ran up street into the foundry, but was pursued through it and chased out into the residence of the foreman, Burton, who gave the officer assistance in taking him into custody, an act which does him credit. Joyce, whose clothes suffered in the melee, will appear before the Magistrate to-morrow.

Laying of corner stone of the new Methodist Church, Cataraqui, took place yesterday.

HANLAN SENSATION.

Champion Retires from Rowing

Unfit Condition to Row

He Has Studied Public Opinion

Liability to be Beaten—What People Say of Him—Indignation of Regatta Committee.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—A profound sensation was created this morning when the Mail announced Hanlan's retirement from rowing. In a long interview in the Telegram, Hanlan says:

"Is it true, Mr. Hanlan," asked the reporter, "that you intend accepting no more challenges, and are the rumors about you true?"

"They are true every word, and I have pulled my last race," replied the champion. "I have been studying over the matter and have come to the conclusion that I will never give or accept another challenge and never pull another race."

"Your decision will surprise a great many people."

"I suppose it will. The fact is I can't attend to my business and pull boat races. One or the other had to be sacrificed and I have determined to sacrifice the boat racing. I have won every challenge match I ever pulled, what I believe no other oarsman can say, and I think I have done my share. As I said I have studied this matter well. I thought over, when I first started out as a rower, what end I would like to attain. I have reached that and my ambition is satisfied. I can go no higher and have resolved to quit the business. Of course some people will call me a coward, but I don't think my record shows that. I have never showed the white feather. At any rate I have pulled my last race. My experience is that many men who have reached the top of the tree have tried to remain there. They have been beaten and then the public has had nothing but sneers. That was the mistake they made and I don't intend to repeat it. It is not to be supposed I could go on winning all the time. I have a business which requires great care and which will support me and my family for life if properly attended to, and I have resolved to attend to it."

"What about your race with Ross?"

"Well, I left my money in the Herald office, in Boston, for two weeks, and heard nothing about it. Yesterday morning I telegraphed to have it returned, not knowing at the time that Ross wanted to meet me at the Queen's Hotel last evening. If I had it might have been different."

"Am I to understand, then, that you would have met Ross had you known at the time you telegraphed yesterday that he wished to see you at the Queen's Hotel?"

"Had I known that yesterday the chances are that I should have pulled Ross."

"Who becomes champion now?"

"Oh they can fight it out among themselves."

"Do you intend to pull in any race in to-morrow's regatta, Mr. Hanlan?"

"I do not and shall take no part in it. The fact of the matter is I am entirely out of condition and unfit to row. If I entered to morrow I should in all probability be beaten, and then the people would say if I then retired I was afraid. I know what public opinion is when a rower meets with a reverse. Why, at the Providence regatta I pulled as well as I could; I was ill and hardly able to sit in my boat. I was beaten and those who used to talk and praise me the most were the very first to hiss me on the wharf because I lost some of their money."

There are rumors of a combination between certain oarsmen to pool the prizes, but the Referee has just informed your reporter that if he sees anything of the sort he will hold an investigation, and if the matter be brought home he will refuse to award the prizes.

The Regatta Committee are intensely indignant with Hanlan, and their only hope of a good row now lies in Trickett and Gaudier forcing the other men to do the utmost. Hanlan never gave a word of warning, but sprung the matter on the Committee.

General Hospital.

The monthly meeting of Directors was held yesterday. The House Surgeon reported 43 patients, an increase of 18 over a month previous. Mrs. Dunnon and her family were released on Monday morning as cured. One inmate, Mrs. Spooner, whose husband and son died in gaol as vagrants, was under consideration, she having been an inmate for a great length of time. No action was taken, but if the township of Kingston will not pay for her maintenance in a proper institution, she will be placed on their hands. There were four births and three deaths during the month.

The contract for the supplies of wood and coal was awarded to R. Crawford & Co.

A resolution of earnest regret at the death of Mr. Macnee, a citizen of high worth and an esteemed colleague at the Board, was passed unanimously, as also a resolution recommending for the vacancy created among the Governors the appointment of Mr. Duff, Police Magistrate.

Provincial Exhibition.

The public here is earnest in its desire to have the Provincial Exhibition located in Kingston in 1882. The Council is being well sustained in its movement to secure it. The $1,000 voted on condition of $500 being raised by citizens is but a guarantee fund, and it may not be necessary to draw it, since $500 was volunteered to Sheriff Ferguson and Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick within half an hour yesterday by the following gentlemen, and it is plain that the full $1,500 needed can be secured in the same way in a day or two:

A Gunn & Co	$100
Folger Bros	100
Davidson & Doran	25
C. F. Gildersleeve	50
Wm. Davis, British Amer. Hotel	50
J. B. Metcalf	25
G. A. Kirkpatrick	50
A. McFaul, City Hotel	50
O'Brien & Marsden, Windsor Hotel	50
W. Waggener, Frontenac Hotel	25

The City Council deputation will meet this evening to prepare for their canvass.

Wanting at Gambetta.

Paris, Sept. 6.—During a banquet to Gambetta's honour at Evreux, a madman tried to force his way into the room and was only, with difficulty, expelled. He declared that he wanted to get at Gambetta.

AN ABSCONDER ARRESTED.

An Englishman who Made Off With Considerable Money Tracked to Kingston and Arrested.

Yesterday a warrant was received from Scotland Yard, London, for the arrest of one Hamilton Maccarthy, alias Stewart alias Jenkins, who was wanted for absconding with the money (£80) drawn from a bank by a check given to him by his employer. He has been in Kingston for some time and seems to have been traced here by his having sent a letter to Mrs. Gray, informing her of an accident which had befallen Maccarthy, and signing himself Henderson. The police authorities of London forwarded to the officials of this city a description of the man and the papers empowering them to make an arrest if justifiable. Detective Macauley went to a certain place (at present unmentionable) and had Maccarthy sent to him. He answered the description, and Macauley at once announced that he was a prisoner, his residence being ascertained by watching the disposition of certain letters addressed to a particular post office box. The detective addressed him as Hamilton Maccarthy, which he admitted was his name. He was conveyed to the police station. There our reporter saw him. He was asked,

"How long have you been in this country?"

"I have crossed the ocean several times" he said, "the last time about a year ago."

"Are you the man they are looking for?"

He looked up and said, "Do you think so?"

We asked him if he had anything to say about the case. He said, "No nothing."

THE LETTER FROM KINGSTON.

Box 1085, Kingston, Ont.

MRS. GRAY,—Could you kindly give me any information regarding a Mr. Hamilton Maccarthy. He has been stopping for some time past here and lately met with a very serious accident while riding in a hunt. His horse fell while jumping and broke its neck, and nearly did the same for Hamilton. I was well acquainted with him in his young days and very much attached to him. His injuries rendered him delirious and I was unable to obtain any clue to the whereabouts of his friends on your side of the water, as he seldom spoke of them except to mention what a happy time he had and how he regretted leaving England.

However in looking about his trunk I found your address, and thought it best to write and inform you of his mishap.

He once spoke to me before his accident to the effect that should anything befall him I was to communicate to some one whose address he would give me, but he neglected to do so.

Hoping you will favor me at the earliest opportunity with a reply,

I am respectfully yours,
H. W. HENDERSON, M.D.

N.B.—Above address.

A letter was forwarded from the Director of Criminal Investigations, C. N. Vincent, enclosing a description and copies of deposition and warrant for arrest. Mr. Gray, the loser of the money, wished his arrest. In the event of his recovery an officer would be despatched to take Maccarthy home.

The prisoner is said to be about 40 years of age; though he looks older. He is 5 ft. 10 in. high, slim build, fresh complexion, dark hair, and brown whiskers.

MR. GRAY'S DEPOSITION.

George Gray, in his statement, said that on the 24th day of March, 1880, at 3 p.m., he sent his clerk, Hamilton Maccarthy, with a cheque for £80, to London County Bank, New Oxford street, to get cashed. Not returning he made enquiries and ascertained that Macarthy had received eight £10 Bank of England notes in payment of the cheque, and had not seen anything of him since, nor had he returned to his lodging. He had reason to believe that he had left London with the intention of going to America.

Accompanying the deposition is the warrant.

ENGAGING COUNSEL.

Mr. John McIntyre has been engaged by the prisoner, and states that the man cannot be detained. In 24 hours it is expected Macearthy will be out of the police cells.

A telegram has been sent to Scotland yard announcing Maccarthy's arrest.

Injured on the Railway

Mr. Jacob Wolliver, yardman and checker at the K. & P. RR. depot, was injured last evening in coupling the tenders of two engines which were backed against each other. The tenders were on a curved part of the track, and instead of being on the side where there was the greatest space in which to work he attempted to make the coupling where there was only six inches. As a result he was caught between the hips and severely crushed. Three years ago he was hurt while coupling cars. On this last occasion he was acting for his son, who is coupler, but who was not, he thought, equal to the duty in this particular instance.

Limerick Riots.

Limerick, Sept. 6.—It is reported that twenty persons have been seriously, some fatally, injured in the recent riots. The town is still excited. A renewal of trouble is feared.

London, Sept. 6.—The accounts of the riots in Limerick show that the constable commanding the police ordered the men not to fire but they, exasperated by the showers of stones, refused to obey and fired freely into the crowd.

One hundred and seventy-five suspects are now imprisoned in Ireland.

There is reason to believe that the tenants in the north of Ireland and other parts of the country are preparing to give the Land Bill a fair trial.

A Sensational Report.

London, Sept. 6.—The Post publishes the following sensational paragraph: "We are assured that Roustan, French Minister to Tunis, has arrived in Paris to inform the Government that the Bey is undoubtedly supporting the rebels, that he received orders from Constantinople to encourage and aid, with all the means in his power, the general insurrection, and that unless Tunis is occupied and the Bey deposed it will be utterly impossible for the French to act with any probability of success. We receive this information from a most trustworthy source."

This morning at 4 a.m. the thermometer registered 80°. The highest point reached to-day was 92° in the shade. At 8 p.m. it was 91°.

PRESIDENT'S REMOVAL.

THE TRIP TO LONG BRANCH

ENJOYED BY THE PATIENT.

A Remarkably Quick Run—Anxiety Over—President Settled at the Summer's Resort.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The President and party reached the depot at 6.15 p.m. The President was at once transferred from the express waggon to the combination car. After a few minutes delay the train, at 6.30 o'clock, left the depot. No mishap occurred during the removal. The President, Col. Corbin said, seemed to enjoy the ride. Just as the conveyance was leaving the White House he waved his hand to the inmates of the mansion who were gathered on portico.

CAR'S SPEED AND FIXTURES.

Baltimore, Sept. 6.—The train passed this city at 8 a.m. The President has stood the fatigues of travel up to this hour with remarkable fortitude. His pulse is even less frequent than before leaving Washington. The bed upon which he is now lying is so carefully adjusted that the vibration is hardly noticable. The train ran from Washington to Baltimore at an average speed of 30 miles an hour. It is found that this speed causes less annoyance than if it was reduced to one half. At 7 o'clock the President took 8 ounces of beef tea with a relish.

MESSAGES DROPPED EN ROUTE.

The following are the dispatches thrown off the President's train:

"To Mrs. Eliza Garfield,
"Garrettville, O.,

"8.15 a.m.—All is well up to this hour and the President is standing the journey splendidly.
(Signed) "J. STANLEY BROWN."

"To Dr. J. H. Baxter,
"U.S. Army, Washington.

"Pulse, on leaving, 114; now 106. The President has slept and is doing splendidly.
(Signed.) "S. A. BOYNTON."

"To Wayne MacVeigh,
"Elberon Hotel, New Jersey.

"All goes well up to this hour. At this speed will reach Elberon between 1 and 2 o'clock. Pulse 106. Arrangements full; discomforts of travel reduced to a minimum.
(Signed.) "BROWN."

ENJOYING THE JOURNEY.

Philadelphia, Sept. 6.—The Presidential train passed Harve de Grace, 86 miles this side of Baltimore, at 8.59. A private despatch says the President is really enjoying the journey and doing well.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Dr. Boynton is reported as saying that the President will stay at Long Branch only until he has grown strong enough to be moved to Mentor.

A GENEROUS OFFER.

It is stated that the President on bidding his sons farewell yesterday bestowed upon them a father's kiss and advised them to improve their time at school and strive to make a creditable impression upon their schoolmates. The parting between Mrs. Garfield and her sons was very touching. The President of the Baltimore and Ohio RR. tendered the parlor car, Maryland, said to be the finest in the country, to the President in the event of his being able to go from Long Branch to Mentor at some future day. He also offers the use of his road and all facilities at Mount Claire works, as well as the exclusive use of Deer Park Hotel.

A LAST HOPEFUL REPORT.

Long Branch, Sept. 6.—MacVeigh is reported as saying that the removal of the President was the only hope of saving his life. At Washington he was gradually, surely, sinking. The prospect is that there will be a continued rush of visitors or sight seers during the President's sojourn here. General Grant last night manifested a deep interest in the removal of the President, and had strong hopes of his ultimate recovery.

ARTHUR GOES TO WASHINGTON.

New York, Sept. 6.—It is reported that last night Arthur would be called upon to assume the duties of President soon after Garfield was removed to Long Branch. Arthur's friend, said he would probably to the capital within a day or two.

ANXIETY TO SEE GARFIELD.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The entire route was kept clear of vehicles by policemen stationed at every intersecting street. A number of people remained up all night outside the gate in front of the mansion, and when the President passed through the gates a hundred and fifty persons had assembled. At the depot 2,000 gathered. The crowd very quiet and orderly. The transfer of the President from the waggon to the car was watched in silence, and with apparent solicitude. The President appeared to be greatly emaciated, but his face, though careworn, seemed to be natural. After the President had been placed upon a couch in the car Swaine said that the President had not been disturbed nor disquieted in the least by the journey, but, on the contrary seemed to enjoy the ride. The President was carried to the waggon by Bliss, Reyburn, Boynton, Swain, Col. Rockwell, Corbeu, C.O. Rockwell and Warren Young, who remained with the patient during the journey to the depot. The President reclined in an easy position on the bed, his right hand laid upon his breast, his left arm stretching full length upon the coverlid, his forehead covered by a linen cloth. The features had a resigned look. A platform had been erected from the portico to the waggon and across this the President was tenderly, carefully carried. There was no mishap in the transit, and when the horses started at 5:30 o'clock for the depot a feeling of relief took possession of the bystanders, for in the opinion of many the most perilous portion of the journey had been accomplished.

PARTY ON THE TOUR.

Washington, Sept. 6.—The party who accompanied the President, consist of Mrs. Garfield and daughter; Drs. Bliss, Agnew, Barnes, Woodward, Reyburn; Col. Rockwell and daughter; Swaim, Corbin, Brown, Boynton, Mrs. Edson, C. O. Rockwell, Warran S. Young and three coloured servants. At Baltimore perfect quietness prevailed. The train passed slowly, making no stop. A brief stop was made at Bay View, Pa., and the wound successfully dressed. The speed was increased to 30 miles an hour with no discomfort to the President. Pulse, 106.

ARRIVAL AT LONG BRANCH.

Long Branch, Sept. 6, 2 p.m.—The President is now in his room at the Franklyn Cottage and being bathed. He arrived all right and without the least unfavorable symptoms. The weather at Long Branch is clear. There is a very light breeze from the land. Thermometer 84.

TRIP OF THE CABINET.

Washington, Sept. 6.—Blaine, Hunt, Lincoln, Windom, Kirkwood, and James have left for Long Branch.

HEAR BOTH SIDES.

To the Editor of the British Whig.

Dear Sir:—I wish to explain the circumstances of my being suspected of robbery and searched by Mr. Fralick, of the Anglo American Hotel. On Saturday Mr Fralick left me to mind the place and set Henry Murray, whom he had previously accused, to watch me. While waiting upon a gentleman in the bar I lit and smoked a cigar, which act was reported by Murray. Detective Macauley was brought in, and, when he came, he searched me, finding nothing, however. Mr. Fralick appears failed to implicate me, because I was innocent, but perhaps if, suspicions pointing in another direction were followed out the result would be different.

As for my character I can get abundant testimonials from everyone with whom I have worked. Even Mr. Fralick gave the best of recommendations to Mr. Blewett, of the Windsor Hotel, Campbellford, and pressed me to stay with himself after I had been searched. This, I hope, will clear me from the cloud cast upon my character by the ambiguous language of the Whig.

Yours truly,
PATRICK ARUNDEL.

A Wheat Transaction

The case of the Molson's Bank against the St. Lawrence & Chicago Forwarding Company came up this morning in the Second Division of the Superior Court before the Hon. Mr. Justice Papineau. The action is brought to recover $16,250, the price paid by the plaintiff for a bill of lading of 15,500 bushels of wheat. The money was paid to one Beddall, and the Bank alleges that when the wheat was demanded from the defendants, they claimed that it had been transferred by them to Beddall. The Company claims, too, that even supposing the Bank did not receive either money or wheat, about which there seems to be no doubt, it is entirely a matter between it and Beddall. The matter is very much complicated by the fact that Beddall has died since the occurrence of these events, and the parties are consequently deprived of his explanations.—Witness.

Success!

The large sales that our

Teas & Coffees!

Command in Montreal and Ottawa warrant us in looking forward to such in Kingston. Our

Best Black Tea

is only 60c. per lb. and will compare favorably with what other dealers sell at 70c and 80c. How is this? Simply because we import our goods and save the middle man's profit.
